At the home, where several hundred people had called to pay their respects to the late Mr. Muir and to express their profound sympathy with the members of the bereaved family in their great loss, the private service was carried out with members of the family, members of the staff of the Kingston Whig-Standard and prominent newspapermen from various parts of Canada present. The casket lay in a profusion of beautiful floral tributes sent by organizations and individuals as expressions of deep sympathy and regret. The simple service over—the remains were borne from the home and the funeral cortege proceeded to the church.

Guard of Honor

Members of the staff of the Whig-Standard formed a guard of honor and walked in procession from the residence to the church, forming upon each side of the entrance to the church as the casket was carried in. Several hundred people stood in silent tribute as the casket was taken to the front of the church where Rev. Dr. George A. Brown, assisted by Rev. Dr. H. A. Kent, principal of Queen's Theological College, conducted the service.

Members of the Whig-Standard staff occupied a place in the centre of the church behind the members of the family and honorary and active pallbearers. Members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club also attended in a body. The remainder of the church was occupied by representatives of various organizations, friends and acquaintances. In attendance also were Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, Hon. T. A. Kidd, M.L.A., and Principal Wallace, principal of Queen's University.

During the service the hymns "O God Our Help in Ages Past" and "Abide With Me" were sung. The church choir assisting.

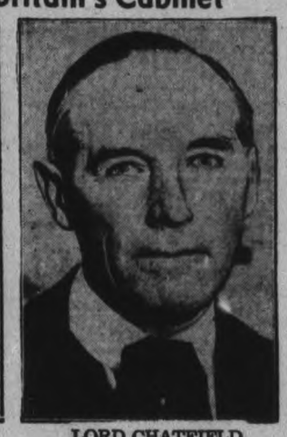
Will Tolerate No Attempts At Interference In Purely German Matters; Claims No Outside Nations Threatened

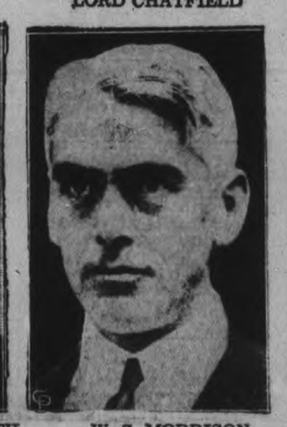
Changes In Great Britain's Cabinet

SIR THOMAS INSKIP



LORD CHATFIELD

SIR R. DORMAN-SMITH



W. S. MORRISON

Admiral Lord Chatfield, former head of the British Navy, will replace Sir Thomas Inskip in the British Cabinet as Minister for Co-ordination of Defence, in the most recent Cabinet shuffle made by Prime Minister Chamberlain. Sir Thomas has been appointed Secretary of State for the Dominions. W. S. Morrison, Minister of Agriculture, is being replaced by Sir Reginald Dorman-Smith.

Self-Determination Is Curbed On Colonies Lauds Franco's Victory

By Louis Lochner
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

BERLIN, Jan. 30 (AP). — Chancellor Hitler, addressing the German Reichstag on the sixth anniversary of his rise to power, today warned the Western powers against interfering "in matters concerning us alone with the purpose of preventing natural and sensible solutions."

He declared that Germany in establishing the right of self-determination in Austria and Czecho-Slovakia had "only defended itself against the attempts of interfering third parties" and said:—

"I need not assure you that in future also we shall tolerate no attempts at interference in matters concerning us alone with the purpose of preventing natural and sensible solutions."

Hitler started speaking promptly at 8:03 p.m. (2:03 p.m. EST) in an address to the Greater German Reichstag.

"With Mussolini the salvation of Europe began at one end," Hitler said. 'National socialism continued this work of salvation at the other end and in these days we are witnessing in another country the same spectacle: the valiant defeat of the newest universal attempt to destroy the European cultured world."

Refernce To Spain

This was a reference to Spain.

"On Jan. 30, 1933, I entered the Wilhelmstrasse filled with the deepest anxiety about the future of my country," he continued

"Today, six years later, I am able to speak to the first Reichstag of Greater Germany.

"Indeed, we—more perhaps than another generation—may gauge the devotional sense of pronouncement —'what a change by God's dispensation'—six years to fulfil the dream of centuries, one year to give our people the joy of that unity which many generations longed for in vain..."

Hitler, standing as usual in the front seat of his car, drove at moderate speed between cheering thousands standing behind the Nazi Party formations to the Kroll Opera House where the Reichstag met.

Goering Is President

Brown shirt storm troopers and black shirt elite guardsmen lined his way. He arrived promptly at 7:55 p.m. (1:55 p.m. EST) and began speaking eight minutes later. The intervening time sufficed for Field Marshal Goering to be elected president of the Reichstag.

Hitler then began reviewing his momentous foreign successes of last year which brought Austria and the Sudetenland of Czecho-Slovakia into greater Germany and thus increased the size of this Reichstag.

Referring to Woodrow Wilson's 14 points, Hitler said, "among them was the elementary sentence about the self-determination of nations.

Return of Colonies.

"As a matter of fact the Allies of that time (the Great War) during the period which followed applied this principle when it could be taken advantage of for their egoistic purposes.

"Thus the return of her colonial possessions is denied to Germany on the assertion that one cannot simply return the natives there—about whom, of course, nobody had cared in 1918—to Germany against their will.

"However, while thus posing as protectors of primitive Negro tribes in the name of self-determination, the highly cultivated German people in 1918 were denied the general human right solemnly promised to them.

Father Of 14 Is Shot, Dies Of Wound, Brother Held Facing Murder

NEW MARKET, Ont., Jan. 30 (CP)—Held in Don jail at Toronto, 58-year-old William Foster will be brought to Newmarket Tuesday to face a charge of murdering his brother, Alex, 51, in the darkness of a woodshed behind their home near here.

No one was with them in the tiny building early Sunday when a shotgun charge ripped into the younger brother's abdomen. He died less than than five hours later after making a statement to police which they said had revealed little of the circumstances of the shooting.

The men's father and mother with whom they lived, Mr and Mrs. Albert Foster, insisted they believed the shooting accidental.

Neighbors had been visiting at the Foster home, among them Mr. and Mrs. Chesley Sweet of Holland Landing, to whose home William Foster had been invited for the night. William, the parents explained, planned to walk home from Holland Landing on Sunday, visiting his trap-lines. Hoping to shoot a rabbit on the way, he had gone to the woodshed to get his shotgun before accompanying the Sweets.

The party heard a gun discharge and when a lamp was brought to the shed door both men were lying on the floor, Mrs. Foster related. She quoted the elder son as crying to his father: "Oh, dad. I don't know what happened."

The arrest was made by County Constables J. E Jardine of nearby Queensville and Robert Watt of Newmarket.

The brothers had lived with their parents since the deaths of their wives several years ago. Alex had two adult daughters and William has 14 children, all of whom are married or working on farms. The parents have been married 59 years.

Vicar Leads Squad To Tie Tongues Of Village Gossips

IPSWICH, England, Jan. 30 (CP) — A crusade against scandalmongering has been launched by Rev. W. Grainge White, vicar of Haughley, near here.

Following public denunciation of the village gossip, Mr. White has now organized an "anti-gossip squad," of volunteers who will undertake to "hound" the offenders by making them prove their words or to withdraw them.

"Warnings from the pulpit are not enough for they do not always reach the guilty," the vicar said.

Trucker To Be Tried

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Jan. 30 — (C. P.). — After being committed for trial on a charge of criminal negligence Kenneth Flindall, Wooler truck driver, elected trial by judge and jury, when he appeared before Judge E. Maddens at a special session of the Country Court here today. The charge arose out of a motor accident in which Mrs. Mary McDonald of Toronto was killed. Charles A. Payne, K.C., appearing for Flindall, requested bail which was set at $4,000 and accepted. He will appear at the Fall Assize of the Supreme Court.

U.S. Fighting Plane Plant Almost At War Capacity

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 30 (AP)—Production in this military pursuit airplane building centre reached its highest level today since the Great War when thousands of "Jennies" and Bristol fighters were produced here.

Army orders from the United States as well as other countries during the past few weeks sent production skyrocketing toward a "wartime" basis with nearly 4,500 designers, engineers and skilled workmen being employed in two huge, closely guarded plants.

Curtiss aeroplane division of the Curtiss Wright Corporation, recipient of two large orders from France and a major builder of pursuit ships for the United States army and navy, is producing four new types of planes simultaneously. More than 3,500 men were employed.

Besides the Airacuda, Bell aircraft has entered the Curtiss-Seversky dominated pursuit field by submitting a radically designed pursuit ship to the army for approval.

Toronto, Jan. 30 (CP)

FIVE PERSONS were slightly injured when a one-man street car, its brakes failing to hold while going down a hill in the west-central section of the city, crashed into a line of standing automobiles here today. Four cars were damaged in the collision as their drivers waited for a traffic light to change at the foot of a hill on Bathurst street.

Unfit For Trial

MONTREAL, Jan. 30 (CP).—Antonio Godon, 28-year-old dishwasher whose testimony once convicted a school friar of murder, was found today to be mentally unfit for trial on a charge of criminally assaulting a seven-year-old girl, stabbing her to death and then jamming her body in a potato sack in the basement of nearby Roussin Academy.

The trial of the dishwasher and kitchen handyman was brought to an abrupt close following the testimony of alienists, who found the man to have a mentality of a 10-year-old child.

7,000 Japanese Die In 10 Days Guerilla Victims

Shanghai, Jan. 30 (AP)

CHINESE sources said today that persistent guerrilla attacks, launched from mountain bases in south Shansi Province, had caused 7,000 Japanese casualties in the last 10 days.

(A dispatch from Hankow said Japanese military authorities reported their forces killed 1,190 Chinese irregulars in 65 engagements in the Hankow area the first 10 days of this month. Japanese losses were said to be 41 killed and 92 wounded.)

Some Fast Pacing

IVRY NORD, Que., Jan 30 (CP) —A horse owned by H. Koffman of this Laurentian mountain village did a neat job of "pacing" a train during the week-end. Frightened by the headlight of a Canadian Pacific Railway locomotive here the horse dashed up the tracks dragging a light sleigh. Followed by the train the horse covered nine and a half miles in 35 minutes before being stopped at St. Faustin.

Ottawa Feels Quake

OTTAWA, Jan. 30 — (C.P.) — A severe earthquake was registered on the seismograph of the Dominion Observatory here last night. The record continued for five hours and the distance to the origin was calculated at 8,500 miles.

The first preliminary tremors started at 9.37 p.m. EST, and the time at the origin was 8.18 p.m.

Britain Assures Russia Fullest Cooperation On World Affairs, To Block German Move

LONDON, Jan. 30 (CP Cable) — The British Government has given Soviet Russia fresh assurances of its willingness to co-operate in international affairs.

When presenting his credentials as His Majesty's new ambassador at Moscow, Sir William Seeds assured Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff of the readiness of the British Government "to exchange views on all international problems."

In view of the present European situation and charges made in this country by the left-wing parties that Russia was "cold shouldered" at Munich, this assurance has been interpreted as extremely significant.

It is believed in some quarters that Sir William Seeds' overture was an attempt to block any move by Germany to talk Russia into neutrality in the event of any western pentration by Germany this year.

Lone Gunman Stages 5 Windsor Jobs

Shoots 1 Man In Leg Eludes Police In 2-Hour Spree

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 30—(CP)—Windsor's crime record hit a new high during the week-end, paced by a young bandit who staged a one-man crime wave. The bandit shot Moses Cohen, 51, in the leg in one of five hold-ups during a brief two hours.

Police said the hold-up man obviously was inexperienced and he was so quick on the trigger that all seven victims had been in grave danger as he flourished his .22 revolver at them.

The thief should be caught soon if he continues his career, police declared, because he took extraordinary chances. They thought he might be a man on a one-night crime spree, but checked the rifling marks on the bullet recovered from Cohen to determine if they came from the gun used by a thief who held up a gas station here Friday night, stole $72.95 and shot near the attendant, Mark MacKay.

Cohen, recovering satisfactorily but still in hospital, told police he went to his parked truck about 11.30 o'clock Saturday night and a man demanded he hand over his money. The cattle dealer, frightened by the gun in his side, suddenly bolted toward his house, determined to keep the $55 he had with him.

Discovers Shot in Leg.

The thief grabbed at him and clutched his collar, but Cohen broke loose and scurried into his house. Not until an hour later as he cruised with police seeking the bandit did Cohen realize the sharp pain in his leg was from a bullet wound suffered as he fled into the house.

The bandit earlier held up Frank Tinning and got 70 cents and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bellaire and got 10 cents when he snatched her purse. He threatened and cursed his victims.

After the Cohen attempt, the young man, described as about 26, slim, dark, tall, waved his revolver at Mrs. Earl Shannon and Mrs. Albert Goyeau. He snatched Mrs. Goyeau's purse and ran away as Mrs. Shannon, clutching her purse containing $35, fled.

All the man's robberies were within a 10-block area and, while police sought him frantically, he moved only a short distance away and threatened Everest Gasparini. Gasparini thought at first it was a friend who ordered him to stick up his hands.

Gasparini, grinning, looked back and saw the masked, gun-toting bandit snarling curses. Gasparini was so startled he screamed until his son ran out of his nearby home and the thief fled.

Training Farmers

EAST LANSING, Mich., Jan. 30 (CP).—The nation's largest farm training program started here today at Michigan State College with farmers and farmer's wives from all parts of the state gathered to hear reports on recent research in livestock breeding, crop production, soil conservation and rural homemaking.

More than 50,000 are expected to attend during the week-long courses. Every building on the campus will hold open house to demonstrate home and farm appliances developed in recent months.

Germany, Japan And Italy To Bolster Ties

TOKYO, Jan. 30.—(AP).—Questions in the Japanese Diet whether the German-Italian-Japanese anti-Communism pact be converted into a military alliance brought replies to-day from Premier Kiichiro Hiranuma and Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita that the pact would be strengthened.

The officials added that "it is impossible at present to disclose what steps are contemplated."

(A project for a Japanese-German-Italian alliance was reported in Paris to have been shelved temporarily at the recommendation of a Paris conference of Japanese envoys to London, Rome, Brussels, insurgent Spain, Berne and Berlin. The diplomats were said to have differed over the advisability of concluding immediately such an alliance, on which Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini were represented as pressing for action).

A foreign office spokesman said the six diplomats "may have discussed strengthening the anti-comintern pact" at the Paris meeting, which he said was originally called to enable Toshiro Shiratorri, ambassador to Rome, to inform the others concerning recent developments in China and Japan.

(The anti-comintern pact binds the signatoiries to defence against communism. Japan and Germany former it Nov. 25, 1936. Italy joined Nov. 6, 1937. Hungary accepted an invitation to become a partner last Jan. 13.

Peace Or War Hinges On Hitler

Anxious World Waits Clue In Berlin Speech

By Edwin Shanke
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

BERLIN, Jan. 30 — (AP). — An anxious and feverishly rearming world looked to Chancellor Hitler to-day for an indication in his Reichstag speech of how next he intends to use his power.

In the quiet of his vast new chancellery, a symbol of the might of the enlarged Nazi Empire of 80,000,000 people, Hitler worked until late afternoon on the speech for to-night to crown the sixth anniversary of his rise.

The subject matter of Hitler's talk, as usual, was a closely-guarded secret, but many wondered whether he would raise Germany's colonial claims more strongly than ever or back Premier Mussolini in a demand upon France for colonial adjustment in Africa.

Outside the heavily-draped windows of his study, the capital assumed a holiday air to celebrate the Reich's new position as a dominating continental power.

The population was astir from early morning when Nazi Party music formations sounded reveille.

The city was colorful with swastika flags whipping in the breeze. Brown-shirted storm troopers and black-garbed elite guards thronged the streets.

A Wall of Banners.

The entire route from the Chancellery to the opera house was virtually walled with swastika banners —along the Wilhelmstresse past the government buildings, into the historic Unter der Linden, under the Brandenburger Gate, across the broad Hindenburg Platz and up Friedensallee.

Flags, banners, and green fir trimmings decorated the opera house. A polished vast gilded eagle and swastika formed the background for the speaker.

his remarks during the service said in part: "We live amid the uncertainties of a changing world. How unexpectedly and with what suddenness these changes come. How few are the days since we met here under similar circumstances. Truly in this world we have no continuing city. But we look for one to come. We are the pilgrims of time. But God hath set eternity within our heart. There is no security here but there is safety and fulness of the life in the keeping of God.

"Of him whom we shall see henceforth only by the eye of the spirit we do not permit ourselves to speak. So deep is our feeling of respect and affection so completely did his life demonstrate the imperishable values of noble purpose, persistent industry, inviolate integrity, warm and vital friendship, loyal Christian devotion and the sacred and tender ties of home life, that to eulogize would be to attempt to gild the sunlight. It would cast a shadow on that which glows with its own radiance."

Buried at Cataraqui Cemetery

Following the service in the church, the funeral cortege of cars which extended for several blocks proceeded to Cataraqui cemetery where at the grave side the last prayers were said by Rev. Dr. Brown and Rev. Dr. Kent as the casket was lowered into its resting place.

The honorary pallbearers were Roy Travers, W. M. Nickle, R. Fraser Armstrong of Kingston; Richard Kemp, of Hamilton; W. R. Davies, of Kingston; H. L. Garner, of Peterborough; W. B. Preston, Brantford; Arthur Partridge, Toronto; Hugh Brewer, Montreal; Glen Bannerman, Toronto; Charles Wilson, Hamilton, and R. G. H. Travers, Kingston.

The active pallbearers were A. L. Davies, W. J. Coyle, H. L. McCrum, J. Gibson, representing the staff of the Whig-Standard, and A. R. Kennedy, T. L. Ashton, J. H. McCauley and R. Mills, representing the staff of the Peterborough Examiner.

OUT ON PAROLE

Released on parole from Guelph, a twenty-year-old Peterborough youth arrived home on Saturday night and was arrested at the C.N.R. station on a drunk charge. This morning he pleaded for another chance but Chief Constable Newhall asked for a remand to hold the accused for the Parole Board officials. The accused, who pleaded not guilty, will be kept in custody on remand until Wednesday.

Will Tolerate

"In January, 1938, I took the final decision to obtain one way or another the right of self-determination for 6,500,000 Germans in Austria."

The Fuehrer recalled in this connection his conversations with former Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg of Austria at Berchtesgaden, his Reichstag speech of February 20, Von Schuschnigg's decision to commit a "flagrant breach' of the understanding achieved at Berchtesgaden, and Hitler's order to certain army sections on Saturday, March 12, to proceed forthwith to cross the frontier for the "liberation of Austria."

Rising Of Austrians.

He went on to describe what he called the rising of the people in Austria, the withdrawal of Von Schuschnigg, the request addressed to him to give the order for the entry of the German troops into Austria to avoid unforeseeable internal disorder, and then the final incorporation of Austria into the Reich.

All this, Hitler explained, "happened at a truly breathless speed.

"The faith in the rapidity and preparedness of the new German army was not disappointed; it was even exceeded.

"The trust in the superior quality of this excellent instrument was confirmed in but a few days.

"The first election for the greater german Reichstag on April 10 resulted in overwhelming endorsement of the whole German nation."

The solution of the Czecho-Slovak problem a few months later, Hitler continued, "began under the influence of the international inflammatory campaign of certain newspapers and certain politicians and in Czecho-Slovakia with increased oppression of the German elements.

"The responsible person for that development which would have made of Czechoslovakia gradually the exponent of all intentions hostils to the Reich was Dr. Benes (former Czechoslovak President).

"At the instigation and with cooperation of certain foreign circles in May of last year he carried through a Czech mobilization with intention first to provoke the Reich, second to inflict upon the Reich a defeat in its international prestige."

Hitler denied anew that Germany had mobilized "because of this unbearable provocation" and said that "aggravated by a truly infamous persecution an dterrorization of our German nationals in that country I decided to settle the Sudeten German question radically.

"Again the military preparations, including the SS and SA (storm troop and elite guard)—and in Austria the police also—were an outstanding success.

"If the rest of the world is inclined to draw the conclusion that Germany, under military pressure, menaced others it is a gross distortion of facts," Hitler declared.

"Germany has, in territory where neither British nor any other western nation has any business, established self-determination for 10,000,000 German co-nationals.

"It has threatened no one by doing so—it has only defended itself against the attempts of interfering third parties and I need not assure you that in the futuer also we shall tolerate no attempts at interference in matters concerning us alone with the purpose of preventing natural and sensible solutions.

"We were all happy, therefore, that thanks to the initiative of our friend, Benito Mussolini, and thanks to the equally gratifying readiness of Chamberlain and Daladier, the elements of agreement were found which not only permitted a peaceful solution of an unpostponable situation, but could also be regarded as an example of the possibility of a general sensible statement and settlement of definite important problems.

"Without a determination to settle this problem one way or another no such agreement among European great powers could have been achieved."

Hitler said Sudetenlanders gave "their approval for incorporation in the greater German Reich with the same overwhelming majority as was shown in the elections to the first greater German Reichstag.

Turning to internal politics, Hitler said that since the people had been taught discipline and obedience it has become possible to mobolize forces that served the interests of all.

"National Socialism," Hitler said, "aims at the establishment of a true community of the people—a seemingly remote ideal."

But, he assured, "this is no misfortune. On the contrary, the beauty of this ideal is that it necessitates continuous labor and incessant pursuance."

"There are people whom even the greatest and most staggering events leave cold and unmoved. They make no history and one can make no history with them. In their stupidity or in their blase decadence they are the useless refuse of nature.

"The idealists, the believers, the affirmers are the only useful elements of a community.

"One can forgive them a thousand faults if they possess the one positive point, to give their last ounce of strength, if needed, to an ideal."

Swing To Peace Chamberlain Invites Hitler

LONDON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain, facing opposition in a foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons with a reshuffled cabinet, was represented as being much more concerned about the speech Chancellor Hitler is to make tonight in Berlin.

So vital is Hitler's address that Mr. Chamberlain delayed writing his parliamentary speech until after Hitler has spoken. The Prime Minister is expected to confer with close cabinet advisers immediately upon the conclusion of the fuehrer's remarks.

In a conciliatory speech in Birmingham Saturday Mr. Chamberlain invited Hitler to make some peace gesture. Observers here, however, were skeptical about results.

Mr. Chamberlain stressed Great Britain's growing strength for defence in the speech before an audience of businessmen, and told of international misgivings over the future.

He made a declaration of inevitable resistance to efforts to rule by force, and linked the stand to that of President Roosevelt.

"We have so often defined our attitude that there can be no misunderstanding about it and I feel that it is time now that others should make their contribution to a result which would overflow with benefits to all," the prime minister declared.

"Today the air is full of rumors and suspicions which ought not be allowed to persist.

Means Democracies To Fight.

"For peace could only be endangered by such a challenge as was envisaged by the President of the United States in his New Year message, namely, a demand to dominate the world by force.

"That would be a demand which, as the President indicated and I myself have already declared, the democracies must inevitably resist.

"But I cannot believe that any such challenge is intended, for the consequences of war for the peoples on either side would be so grave that no government which has their interests at heart would lightly embark upon them."

There have been fears in some quarters that Hitler would voice before the Reichstag colonial or other demands which, in connection with Italian clamor for French territory and Spanish insurgent successes, would heighten European tension. Hitler often has used the Reichstag as a sounding board for announcements of his ambitions.

Mr. Chamberlain said he believed that the French, German, Italian

OBITUARY

MRS. GEORGE H. HEWITT

The death of Mrs. George H. Hewitt, 612 Homewood avenue, wife of the vice-president of the Martin-Hewitt Containers company, occurred at Nicholls hospital at 12.15 o'clock Sunday morning.

Mrs. Hewitt had been ill in hospital for about four months. She was in her 63rd year.

She was born at Markham, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Bowers and later moved with her parents to Stouffville where she received her education. She had lived in Peterborough for the past nine years, coming to this city from Toronto.

A woman of refinement, Mrs. Hewitt made her entire life revolve around her home, her family, and her flowers. She was a member of the Horticultural society and had an intense interest in the raising of beautiful flowers. She was a member of the Baptist church, and attended Murray street church since residing in Peterborough.

The funeral service will be on Monday evening at 8 o'clock, at the family residence, with the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray street Baptist church officiating. The remains will be forwarded by train the following morning to Stouffville, Ontario, where the funeral will take place the same afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of the late George Bowers. Interment will be at Stouffville cemetery.

PURCHASE MORRIS BOOKLET.

A booklet on wild flower preservation, largely prepared during the past summer by F. J. A. Morris, widley known Peterborough naturalist, has been purchased by the Ontario Department of Education, and 3,000 copies will be distributed in secondary schools and 1,500 in public schools. Announcement of this action was made at the seventh annual business meeting of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists, held at the Royal Ontario Museum on Saturday. Mr. Morris is a director of the Federation.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Jan. 30. — (CP). — Cattle prices were too few to establish prices in the early afternoon session of the Toronto Livestock Market to-day, but prices on steers, heifers and cows were 15 to 20 cents higher. The calf and sheep markets were steady, while no hog price was established.

Receipts reported by Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 2,650; calves, 460; hogs, 1,300; sheep and lambs, 1,720.

Choice weighty steers sold at $7.25 to $7.50, with a few heavies up to $8. Good butchers brought $6.50 to $7, with common downward to $5.50. Butcher cows brought $3.50 to $4.75, and canners downward to $5.50. Butcher cows brought $3.50 to $4.75 and canners and cutters $2.50 to $3. Good butcher bulls sold at $5 to $5.25 with bolognas at $4.25 to $4.75. Fed calves were weak with choice selling at $8.50 to $9.

Choice veal calves traded at $10.50 to $11 with common heavies down to $5.

The lamb supply included 1,360 Western, but none were sold at mid-session. A few good Ontario lambs brought $8.50 to $8.50.

The sheep marekt was steady at $2.50 to $5.50.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Jan. 30 — (C.P.). — Most of the early losses suffered by Winnipeg wheat futures to-day were regained near the close of the session when prices at Chicago staged a brisk late rally. Final quotation were ¾ to ⅞ cent lower, May at 63⅝, July 64¼, and October 64⅝.

To-day's trading was featureless and it required only relatively small buying to lift prices as dealers appeared to be waiting reactions from Chancellor Hitler's speech.

Trading in cash wheat and coarse grains was featureless with the price trend of the latter following that of the major commodity.

Saturday's Quotations.

We Noticed

....A glimpse of the new hats now making their debut to the spring that's just around the corner is an exhilarating experience, and on that fosters a longing for a new livening hat to rouse one from a state of mid-winter doldrums.

✧ ✧ ✧

....No one has, as yet, properly analysed the psychological effect a new hat has upon women. The disproportionate exhilaration from a bit of well-cut felt. The unaccountable rise in self-esteem from a twist of color. The sudden strength, born of a fuchsia feather, to vanquish wildcats.

....Accordingly then, the new hats deck themselves with an accessory for every mood—veils for seduction ostrich for flattery; flowers for sentiment. There are turbans for every day, dynamic shapes for fun, and sailors forever!

✧ ✧ ✧

....Actually, you choose any hat shape you have a fancy for, this spring, and you'll be right. Every shap is good. There are a hundred variations of the above mentioned sailors—wide or narrow-brimmed ones, low or high crowned ones, sailors of veiling, lace, straw, felt, taffeta, or even lacquered silk. Off-face hats, if you can wear them, are also excellent for spring, but remember, they take an unfurrowed brow and a completion that stands up under broad daylight.

Kawartha Club Party Honors Miss Merton Colon

About one hundred and twenty-five friends and neighbors assembled at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club to bid farewell to Miss Merton Colon of Port Hope Highway prior to her departure to assume new duties in the Maritimes. Wife Visiting As Husband Does Baking

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 30.—"Co-operation is the most important thing in the home," replied a Seymour West woman answering the roll-call, "Little things that make home life beautiful." The fact that her husband had remained at home during the afternoon to do the baking truly exemplified what she meant by this spirit of co-operation, she pointed out. Members met for their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Robert McCulloch, with the Institute president, Mrs. Fred McCulloch presiding. Mrs. Bert Stephens assisted at the piano during the singing of the Institute Ode. An oyster supper, followed by dancing and cards, was planned by members who have arranged to hold a banquet in the Parish Hall on February 3. Mrs. Fred McCulloch was placed in charge of making arrangements, and a committee, composed of Mrs. Ray McCulloch, Mrs. D. Durran, Mrs. Reg. McCulloch, Mrs. D. Rutherford, and Mrs. Fred Rutherford.

Continuing her series of talks on "Buymanship" which has placed much really valuable information before members for the first time, Mrs. Howard Clarke dealt with the judging of quality of linen, woollens, cottons, towelling, and damask.

All Thoughts To The Contrary Families Do Have a Good Or Bad Influence On Newly Married Couples, So It Is Well To Consider Them Before Going To The Altar.

A YOUNG woman wants to know "what part relatives play in the problems of marriage?" Well offhand, I'd say that the husband's people and the wife's kin are just about the determining factor in the success or failure of any marriage, though, curiously enough, the average couple never give these guardian angels or jinxes a thought when selecting their mates.

Nothing is more common than to hear a boy say: "I'm not marrying Mary's family," or a girl thank her lucky stars that she is not marrying John's mother and father; but, little as they suspect it, they are. Every man and woman who get married commits bigamy, or trigamy, or whatever it is, and are united—until death, or the divorce courts, do them part—to their husbands' and wives' mothers and fathers, sisters and brothers, cousins and aunts.

There is nothing in the marriage ceremony that is an antidote for heredity. Marriage does not automatically break the habits and manners and customs in which one has been brought up. And so every man and woman are pretty much what their families made them and make the kind of husbands and wives their families taught them to be.

Of course, the obvious part that relatives play in the problems of marriage is not so conspicuous in this country as it is in many foreign ones. Fathers and mothers do not pick out the husbands and wives for their children with us, as they do among many other peoples. But, for all of that, the tears of many a possessive mother, who could not bear to give up her darling son, are responsible for many a man being an old bachelor. And many a gentle girl whose ambitious parents had only her good at heart, as they told her, has found herself separated from the poor lad she loved and sold to a rich old roue.

It is, however, after marriage that the influence of the family does its perfect work. Every young bridal couple gets a shock from which it never fully recovers when it discovers that each of them is bound hand and foot by the influence of their parents; that John expects Mary to cook like his mother, and Mary expects John to make as much money as her father.

According to statistics mothers-in-law break up more homes and are responsible for more divorces than drunkenness and infidelity combined. There are several good reasons for this. One is jealousy. Many mothers cannot endure the thought that their adored sons and daughters love some one else more than they do them. And practically all young husbands and wives grow green-eyed when their wives or husbands defer to Mother's judgment and quote Mother's opinions. "Mother said we should do so-and-so" are the fighting words in many a bridal bungalow.

Then, innumerable mothers disrupt homes and set their children and their mates on their ears by meddling. They cannot keep their fingers out of Mary's and John's pies. They feel that they have a right to supervise their daughters-in-law's housekeeping and expenditures and to regulate their sons-in-law's habits and morals, and when the poor badgered in-laws protest, there are ructions.

Still other women get a sadistic pleasure in making their children dissatisfied with the men and women to whom they are married. They are always picking on their in-laws and pointing out their faults and foibles and weaknesses. Many a husband never would have found out that his wife went to too many bridge parties, spent too much money and neglected her housekeeping if his mother hadn't kept harping on how many dresses Sally had, her belonging to two bridge clubs and how she let the servants waste. Many a wife would never have been disillusioned with her husband except for her mother's criticisms, or gotten jealous of his new secretary if her mother hadn't planted the seeds of suspicion in her mind.

But if there are in-laws who wreck marriages, there are others who brace them up and keep them a going concern. There are mothers who turn the spotlight on the virtues of their children's mates and keep John and Mary thinking what paragons they married. There are mothers who keep the peace between their sons and daughters and their husbands and wives and who, when Mary and John talk of divorce, send them back to their duty and stand by their bargains.

All of which goes to show that a wise young couple should pick out their in-laws with great discretion. For you can't escape from the influence of John's people or Mary's folks. They will make or mar your marriage.

W.M.S. Sponsors Successful Tea

Mrs. D. T. Diplock opened her home at 4 Kirk street on Friday afternoon for a delightful tea under the auspices of St. Paul's W.M.S. The guests were welcomed by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. T. J. Carley and Mrs. A. T. Barr. Assisting in he drawing room, which was bright with iris and daffodils, were Mrs. D. W. Clark, Mrs. Johns and Mrs. N. Chenhall. Mrs. H. Marsh ushered the guests to the dining room.

The tea table was lovely with spring flowers, and tea was poured by Mrs. J. Dutton, Mrs. A. Jack, Mrs. W. C. Steinkrauss, Mrs. R. Ross, Mrs. W. H. Hill and Mrs. R. H. Fortye. The conveners were Mrs. Burrell and Mrs. J. Pulkinghorn, and assistants included Mrs. E. Howson, Mrs. O. Steer and Mrs. A. Barrie.

The table of homemade cooking, presided over by Mrs G. Hancock and Mrs William Lyburn, proved a very popular feature of the afternoon.

DINNERS OF THE WEEK

By MARY MOORE

SUNDAY

Swiss Steak with Parched Rice
(See below)
Shredded Green Beans in Drawn Butter
Sliced Head Lettuce with French Dressing
Washington Pie (or 3-Decker Cocoanut Laker Cake)
Coffee

Note. — Prepare Swiss steak by flouring a one-inche slice of round steak and sauteing it in butter until golder on both sides—over high heat—about 3 minutes. Then remove meat, add 2 tablespoons flour and 2 tablespoons butter, stir until blended, add two cups boiling water and still until blended. Replace steak, slice onion and carrots on top (enough for flavoring or enough for vegetables—just as you wish), cover and simmer very slowly for 2½ hours. Then add salt and pepper and a little paprika and continue cooking ½ hour longer. To Parch Rice, saute it in butter or olive oil, stirring constantly until it is golden, then add ½ cup water and stir until it takes it up, continue doing this until rice is tender and golden. Sprinkle with salt and more butter and serve with steaks or chops.

MONDAY (Economy Dinner)

Kidney Stew (see note)
Boiled Cabbage quarters with butter
Steamed Apple Dumplings
Lemon Sauce. Hot Tea

Note.—Wash 1½ cups dried kidney beans, and soak overnight in cold water. Cook for about one hour until tender. To them add ½ cup washed rice, 1 chopped onion, 2 cups canned tomato. Cook all slowly together until the rice is tender. Mix 2 tablespoons flour with ¼ cup cold water and stir into the finished bean stew, stirring until it thickens. This requires from 1½ to 2 teaspoons salt—a small piece of salt pork cut into cubes makes a delicious addition. These amounts will serve 6.

TUESDAY

Sauerkraut Baked Under Spareribs
Baked Potatoes

WEDNESDAY (Hasty).

Broiled Baby Beef Liver
Succotash (mixed canned corn and canned Limas)
Shredded Lettuce and Tomato Salad—Mayonnaise.
Orange, Banana and Canned Peach Fruit Cup, Cookies, Coffee

THURSDAY (Oven Dinner)

Scalloped Potatoes with Minced Ham Crust
Chopped Buttered Spinach
Celery Hearts
Apple Tapioca Pudding, Cream Coffee

FRIDAY

Crab Meat (or lobster) Patties
Sauted Parboiled Parsnips
Tomato Jelly and Asparagus Salad on Lettuce
Hot Apple Sauce Cake with Unsweetened Whipped Cream
Coffee

SATURDAY

Fluffy Omelette with Mushrooms
Mashed Carrots with Chopped Parsley
Chocolate Meringue Pie Coffee

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP
If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.
BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.
So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.
You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

Public Service Families

The visit to Peterborough of T. Frank Matthews, father of Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the local Utilities Commission serves to bring to mind how much this city owes to some of its old-established families in the matter of public service.

Mr. Matthews, Sr., pioneered the position that is being so worthily filled by his son at the present time; he was chairman for years of the original Water Commission when the water system was taken over as a public concern and he continued to head the Utilities Commission that followed the acquiring of the electric light and power system.

The Matthews tradition of service is repeated in a number of families whose roots have taken a firm hold in Peterborough's history. There is Roland Denne, former mayor and member of the Board of Education, and now serving the public as a member of the Utilities Commission. He followed into public life a brother, T. H. G. Denne, who also served the city as mayor and in other capacities and back of them was a father, the late Henry Denne, who in his day and generation contributed more than his share of community service.

Mayor James Hamilton is the son of a worthy sire, the late Peter Hamilton, who made his contribution as a member of and chairman of the Board of Education for many years. Ald. Herbert Bradburn, one of the young men of the present council, has taken over the burden of public service that was for so long carried by his father, W. H. Bradburn, who as alderman, mayor, member of the Utilities Commission and representative of this riding in the Legislature, added his quota of useful work in the interest of the community.

Those Adjourned Cases

With the desire of Victoria County Council to cut down the high cost of justice there will be general sympathy, especially among those who resent the manner in which cases drag on on and on, but it is doubtful whether the suggestion that legislation should be introduced to permit only one adjournment in each case is a practicable solution of the problem.

Granted there are adjournments asked for and granted for trivial reasons and some plan of reducing the number of these delays would be appreciated, nevertheless it seems that there is little chance of the Legislature approving of a hard and fast, one-adjournment-per-case regulation.

Obviously there are times when adjournments, perhaps three or four of them in a row, cannot be avoided. The defendant, we will say, is a motorist who is charged with reckless driving following an accident. His case is called in police court and it is discovered that he is in hospital suffering from injuries and it is impossible for him to appear.

An adjournment must be granted and next week and possibly for several weeks the process must be continued.

Then there is the case in which for some reason or other there is an amendment in the indictment necessary and it is made after one adjournment. Once that is done the defendant is legally entitled to ask for another adjournment, on the ground that the charge against him has been changed.

In short it would be impossible to limit these postponements to one, much as such a regulation would reduce delays and cut down expenses. Whether the cost of law enforcement could be cut down by a change in the schedule of fees allowed so that adjournments would not be so costly as at present is another matter and might offer possibilities for consideration.

What! Another Menace?

"A danger and a menace to society." We found that phrase used in a bill introduced at Ottawa dealing with cosmetics and beauty preparations in general. Some of the preparations which are being made and placed on the market today are not what they seem to be. The ladies who use them to hold back the hand of time and the younger folk who dab such material on the face may be in a bit of danger so a kindly government is going into action to see what can be done about it.

We gather it means in the end we shall have to engage more analysts—and pay for them—so that this so-called "danger and menace to society" shall be defeated, laid low or treated in some such manner. Ottawa gets in a habit of seeing a danger and a menace in so many things that we are not the least surprised it finds another new danger and menace in cosmetics and beauty preparations.

It may seem a harmless and a simple thing to have the lady dabbing powder on her nose or laying a color scheme upon the jaw or making the lips look the color of red cherries. But Ottawa breaks in to say it is a danger and a menace. So more and new analysts, their names added to the public payroll, scamper off to the attack. The land must be made safe for democracy and color.

That Feeling Of Importance

The business of being important is an old one and each year it secure sufficient new recruits to keep it from going out of date. If the business of being important were threatened with extinction in Toronto then Mayor Day took occasion to put some new life in the thing recently.

Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs decided it was necessary to secure information about the relief department in Toronto because the provincial government has to pay a portion of it. E. A. Horton, provincial unemployment relief director, was deputed to visit Toronto Board of Control and secure certain information and the answers to questions which he had prepared in advance.

When the meeting was called to order the thing did not go well; in fact it did not go at all. Mayor Day wanted to know why Hon. Mr. Cross had not appeared in person before the Board of Control. He was not going to be knocked about by office boys and others sent from Queen's Park. Not a bit of it. Mr. Day did not say so in as many words but he gave the impression that he considered the Mayor of Toronto was indeed some pumpkins. Moreover he walked out.

Ho hum—but that is an old one. Even Biblical history records the carrying on of just such people in the same way. There was the man Naaman the Syrian, of whom it is recorded that he stood high with the king, but he was a leper. Finally he made his way down toward the place where Elisha the prophet dwelt, and we read as follows:

"And Elisha sent a messenger unto him saying: Go and wash in Jordan seven times and thy flesh shall come again to thee and thou shalt be clean.

"But Naaman was wroth and went away, and said: Behold I thought he will surely come out to me, and stand, and call on the name of the Lord his God, and strike his hand over the place and recover the leper.... So he turned and went away in a rage."

Of course common sense finally prevailed in the case of Naaman, and it looks as though something of the same order were due to emerge in Toronto, where Mayor Day has finally consented to give all desired information even unto a servant from Queen's Park.

Men And Their Ways

This business of dealing with advancing years is approached in different ways and in this generation we are not making such an excellent job of it. In this automobile age there are plenty of men who begin to lose the use of their legs before they are forty years of age. On a recent morning we met one gentleman who had to walk about half a mile to work. It had been 18 below zero in the night and his car declined to operate. He referred to the car in uncomplimentary terms; the thing was a softie (or softy) and he was going to tell the man from whom he bought it just what he thought. Having to walk to work on a cold morning was nonsense and even worse.

And that of course makes it interesting to read about the capers of J. W. Aiken of Orangeville, who is 80 years of age. He likes to have the winter come along because it gives him opportunity to get out and skate. He could not wait for the rink to get in shape so several weeks ago he went off to try a nearby lake and succeeded in getting ducked in the water as the price of his experiment.

Now the rink is open and Mr. Aiken was the first to purchase a season ticket because he intends to get his money's worth out of it.

Mr. Aiken is 80 years of age and the local gentleman who was so irritated because his car would not carry him half a mile to work has just turned the forty mark.

Not Telling The People

Hon. Dr. Manion made a request that Prime Minister King should place before the House of Commons all correspondence dealing with the international situation prior to the Munich conference. Mr. King asked the British authorities for permission to table such material and the reply was that it should not be done. It was considered confidential at the time it was despatched and it is still so regarded.

There are always a number of important matters regarding which the general public is not fully informed, and even members of parliament are included in that class. At the time when negotiations were going on which culminated in the abdication of King Edward VIII. there was no verbatim report of the conversations which took place between the King and Premier Baldwin. From time to time a general statement was issued and finally there was a statement in the House of Commons from Premier Baldwin and the published statement of abdication from the King. But the general public and the members of parliament do not know to this day all that was said at that time and probably they never will.

During the time of the World War there were no references in the papers to many things which were taking place. Those who were handling cable copy at that time know there was no story telling of the repeated raids of Zeppelins in the heart of London, and there was nothing telling of the damage which was being done. We recall standing in Regent Street in London with a number of Canadian newspaper men and hearing the story of the manner in which that district was raided during the war. But it never came over on the cable despatches.

It was the same in Paris when shells from Big Bertha began landing in that city. The damage in certain sections was terrific and our information is that only one French paper in Paris made mention of the shelling and that paper was immediately suspended.

We do not know that any good purpose would be served now by having all the secret information regarding Munich made public. Apparently this country was committed to nothing at all during the negotiations, and if there had been any declaration of war our own parliament would have reserved the right to say what the Canadian people intended to do about it.

In a general way it seems we have not yet outlived what is known as secret diplomacy, and it may be that so long as nations desire to do their business on that basis it would be difficult enough for any one of them or any group to break away and do business in the open where people would be fully informed of all that was being done and promised in their name. Whether people like it or not the situation is before them. Prime Minister King says the British authorities will not agree to any publicity in regard to correspondence and secret messages passing between London and Ottawa prior to the Munich conference and that settles it.

NOTE AND COMMENT

When Hon. R. B. Bennett was taking a liner for England he was a few moments late and the boat held up waiting for him. That indeed would be our idea of amounting to something.

It is claimed that foreign investors have a $500,000,000 stake in war-torn Spain, and as such things go we suppose the investments may be in the same condition as the country.

The Boys' Athletic League of New York took a 50,000 vote and decided that Hitler was the most hated man in the world, and that spinach was the best vegetable. With at least one of those decisions we find it possible to agree.

Joseph Doherty, 69, of Chicago, is preparing to go college after finishing his high school course. For years he was a mail carrier, and when he retired he started his schooling. He may have found he was handicapped when he tried to read the postcards.

In the Quebec Legislature Premier Duplessis spoke for an hour and the leader of the Opposition went ahead for two hours. It took the premier an hour to tell how good his government was, and the other chap needed twice as long to tell how bad it was.

Toronto Telegram said Hon. H. C. Nixon was in favor of disbanding our legislators, and afterward apologized for having misquoted him. It generally runs that way—people in legislatures want the thing to continue and those who are not in think otherwise. And the latter class can do nothing about it.

Liu Yu-Wan, executive secretary of Chinese Pacific Relations Commission, says the Chinese will have won the war with Japan inside of two years. The same claim has been made many times before, but so far the evidence of its truth has not been clearly demonstrated.

DOING CHORES

(By A.R.K.)

¶ When I was but a little lad and lived upon Concession Ten, it seems I had more chores to do than all the present little men.

¶ There was the wood box by the stove, I had to fill that thing each day, there was a saw horse in the shed, a bucksaw too all red and gay.

¶ There was some kindling wood to get, the meanest job I've ever seen, I'd dry it in the oven too because at times 'twas rather green.

¶ We kept the ashes, too, I mind, I put them in a barrel I know, and they became soft soap, I think, but that was many years ago.

¶ The parlor had a stove as well, it was a goodly thing to see, and it was shined with black lead then before the preacher came to tea.

¶ Upon the top there stood a man, a fighting person far from frail, within his hand he held a spear, upon him was a coat of mail.

¶ The pump that stood outside the house, why it would freeze in winter time, and then I had to thaw it out and put new life into its spine.

¶ Yes there were many chores to do, I had to bed the brindle cow, I don't think I could do them now, I'm sure I have forgotten how.

Speaks Well Of City and County

(From Parliamentary Reports)

Mr. J. J. Duffus (Peterborough West):

I believe I can give the house a concrete example of how a judicious management of public affairs can bring about happiness, economy and increasing confidence. During and subsequently to the war, the city of Peterborough looked to the future with a determination to reduce debt. For several years past the city has not issued any debentures. It has, moreover, paid out of current revenue all relief costs, and in addition has gradually reduced the mill rate.

The net debt of the city of Peterborough at the end of 1933 was $3,145,900. In the intervening years this amount was reduced by approximately $1,205,900, leaving at the present time a net debt of approximately $1,940,000. I am proud to say that, at this ratio, within a few years the debt will be entirely wiped out.

The county of Peterborough also is in an enviable position financially, with a debenture debt of only $85,000, which is rapidly being reduced. I am sure hon. members will agree with me when I say that the favourable financial condition of the city and county of Peterborough is tangible proof that when spending bodies deliberately plan to balance their budgets, they can do so. It is marvellous what economies can be effected in public administration without impairment of its efficiency, when once a governing body sets its mind seriously to the task of bringing it about.

Peterborough is a Mecca of home-seeking citizens and manufacturing concerns looking for favourable locations. Peterborough is blessed with low taxation, cheap electrical power, unsurpassed labour conditions and attractive living surroundings. There are many winter and summer resorts in the immediate vicinity, and skiing, boating, fishing and hunting facilities are right at her door. Obviously the house is aware of the fact that the attractiveness of a community is enhanced by the character of its people and institutions.

The constituency of Peterborough West has a population of approximately 45,000 people, among the best citizens of the Dominion of Canada. Her industries and institutions are unsurpassed. In Peterborough there are eighty-one industries, large and small, of greatly diversified character. The customs receipts for the year just closed soared to a total of $2,085,840, the second highest in the history of the city. This is ample proof of the extent of the business enjoyed by our manufacturing concerns and business institutions. The city and county of Peterborough is the gateway of that great recreation area known as the Kawartha lakes, which with the Trent are said to constitute the most beautiful waterway in the world. The district enjoys an average annual tourist revenue of approximately $500,000. Obviously the expenditure of this sum of money is of great value to our business people, our hotels and restaurants, our summer resorts as well as our farmers and gardeners. These people are provided with a substantial ready cash market for their products.

Importance of Farming

Farmers are the founders of civilization. More and more agriculture is honoured with a place among the sciences. It is a science of necessity, a science which has stood the test of ages. Our country's weal or woe depends absolutely upon agriculture and the farmer. Empires have risen and crumbled into dust; various arts have been learned and forgotten; but agriculture still survives. Many nations owe their life and progressive advancement to the character of their agriculturists. Amidst all the mechanical skill that has characterized nations, agriculture has held a distinguished position. The happiest days of ancient Rome were marked by agriculture prosperity. When Italy was in danger, consequent upon the evil of civil wars, every effort was made to restore that noble art in order to rescue her from ruin. In the primeval ages agriculture was the commodity parent of traffic. Today it is still essential for the promotion of trade in general. If all our mines of gold and silver became exhausted, our commerce with all nations prohibited; if all art were abolished, the fertility of the land alone would supply sustenance for the people of the earth.

May I express the confident hope that the hon. Minister of Agriculture (Mr. Gardiner) and his colleagues will continue their efforts toward bettering the lot of those without whom it would be impossible to find a means of sustaining the teeming millions of the world. In this connection I suggest that the government give consideration to the advisability of bringing down, at this session, legislation, such as exists in some of the provinces, with a view to controlling the orderly marketing of all farm products.

ACCURACY.

AGAINST the ancient and widely accepted slander that "it's only a newspaper story" and "you can't believe a word you see in the papers", it is pleasant to read the opposite in this well-turned sentence by Frank Kent of the Baltimore Sun:

"In no other business and in no other profession, save that of the pure scientist, is the premium on accuracy so high, the penalty of inaccuracy so prompt, and the proportion of accuracy so great."

No other business or profession, Mr. Kent might have added, has the same number of chances for error in every day's performance. No other agency does its job so continually under the public eye, with so little chance to cover its mistakes. No other business or profession has to live on with its mistakes, certain that they will be rediscovered at the most embarrassing moment long after the circumstances that created them are forgotten. — Editor and Publisher (New York).

BAD SPOT

"It's a bungalow town, dear. Nobody's got a ladder!"

• What The South Means By "You-All"

AGAIN THE SOUTH is swept by discussions of the eternally puzzling (to Northerners) problem of the "singular you-all." The present rash of discussion started when announcement was made that a Miss Myrick, of Macon, Ga, had been hired by Hollywood to keep an ear cocked on the nuances of the Southern dialect in the forthcoming production of "Gone With the Wind." Miss Myrick announced that one of her acts would be to cut out the use of "you-all" in the singular.

Immediately a flaming and eloquent editorial was printed in the Macon "Telegraph" in which it is declared that "no such locution as 'you-all' (as applied in the singular) is now or ever has been, heard among the people of Southern ancestry." "On the other hand," says this paper, "nothing could be more correct than the use of 'you-all' in the plural." Next comes Mr. W. J. Cash, writing in the Charlotte, N. C., "News," with the statement that on the streets of Macon itself bewildered Yankees may see all about them singular persons addressing other singular persons with "You-all come to see us" and getting the reply, "We will. And you-all come to see us." Mr. Cash says, and rightly, that "you-all" is the Southern family plural, in absentia, so to speak. Mr. Cash, after pointing out that the family sense is strongly developed in Dixie, elucidates further:

"When he (the Southerner) says 'you-all' to another individual, what he is really saying, is not merely old Bill himself but his wife, Sue, their seven daughters and five sons, and quite possibly their parents, uncles, aunts and cousins."

Into the fray next jumps the learned and sprightly "Evening Sun" of Baltimore with this statement: "Further to elucidate, if Mr. Cash were to run into old pal Bill and merely say, 'H'ya, Bill, why don't you drop in to see us some time?' Bill would think: 'So W. J. likes me all right, but he doesn't seem to think much of my folks, eh? What does W. J. mean by slighting my folks like that? They're my folks, and if they ain't good enough to be asked to come and see him and his folks, then the heck with W. J.!' After that, if not dueling pistols at dawn, there would certainly be manifest a marked coolness on the part of Bill. towards his old pal."

The foregoing discussion should make the situation perfectly clear. Unfortunately, the notion that Southerners do use "you-all" in the singular is one that dies hard; Yankee observers will continue to swear that they have heard it, and all the patient explanations cannot convince them otherwise. Good luck to Miss Myrick in her brave task in Hollywood!

• Victory For Chinese In Two Years

THAT THE JAPANESE are now on the defensive and are suffering ever-increasing losses in their invasion of China was the opinion expressed by Liu Yu-Wan, distinguished Chinese Government official, who came to London Thursday to address the local branch of the Canadian Institute of International affairs.

Admitting that things were in "a terrible mess," the chubby, jovial Chinese said China's vast hinterland, into which she is retreating, would, in the long run be the deciding factor. Already China's munitions plants have been moved 2,000 miles in from the coast, where they will be invulnerable for many months to come.

"The Japanese invaders have had a fairly easy time of it so far," Mr. Yu-Wan added, "because of our highways and railways near the coast. But now that they have to push farther inland, their highly-mechanized army machine is almost useless. The farther they go, the weaker they become and now are on the defensive all the time."

"Japan's financial position is steadily becoming worse. They can't even make use of what territory they have conquered because they simply haven't the money to do it with. In 18 months of warfare Japan's gold reserve has been cut in half. In another two years at the outside, Japan will simply have to withdraw because her resources will have become exhausted."

Mr. Yu-Wan said China's finances were still adequate. They have shipped more than $1,000,000,000 in silver to New York and London as a credit against which they buy supplies. Russia, now China's principal source of aid, accepts in payment one-quarter in barter goods such as wool, tea, bristles and tung oil, and is granting unlimited credit for the other three-fourths.

"This is Russia's war too," he continued. "For her sake, China must win. Russia would take a more active part if she were not afraid that Germany might attack from the other side. As it is now, Russia is content to watch and wait, and I do not think the Soviet Government will take acuve steps unless Japan should reach as far as Outer Mongolia."

There is no internal strife in China now, he said. All its people are united for the common good, and the one-time rebellion Red army of 100,000 is fighting side by side with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's troops. The Chinese are pooling their resources as best they can, tightening their belts for a long, hard wait. The Japanese, despite their apparent widespread victories, still hold only communication lines and walled cities while vast surrounding areas are still unconquered. Deadly guerrilla warfare has succeeded in evening the casualty ratio which at one time was 10 to one against the Chinese.

"We in China know that we still have a long struggle ahead of us, but we know, too, that we will win," "Every young man is in military training, and though we have lost more than a million men thus far, we have millions more who are willing to sacrifice their lives for their native land. Another two years, I think, will bring us victory."

SKUNK'S PLACE.

Those who are calling so consistently for the voice of youth in the direction of our national affairs have received a fairly substantial contribution from a student of Toronto's Wycliffe college. This student, in process of debate, put the onus of Canada's defence on the skunk. "Line the coast with trained skunks," he urged, "and Canada would not require any other defence. Her safety from attack would be assured."

In point of military strategy no one could quarrel with this measure. But as is often the case with youth, it cannot see the trees for the forest. The difficulties in the way of proceeding with this plan would, nevertheless, be plain to seasoned campaigners. In the first place the provision of skunks would be aired by a royal commission, to find out if it was true that they were recruited from a skunk farm belonging to the second cousin of a cabinet minister, or from some friends of a member of parliament who should have known better. Next would be the alleged interference by the skunk with the freedom of breathing, requiring further investigation and further debate in the Commons. By the time this was over the skunks would have no doubt become so dispersed that the internal menace from them would be far greater than the threat of a foreign invader. And a national skunk problem would be the only tangible result.—(Hamilton Spectator)

NIGHT OF BIG WIND.

MANY AMERICANS whose grandparents were born in Ireland have heard these elders speak of the Night of the Big Wind. As some of the ancestors referred to it as the date of their birth the youngsters may have regarded it as a bit of frivolous avoidance of fact. But there was such a night; this is the centenary of it. It began about 11 o'clock on the night of January 6, 1839, and continued until after daylight the next morning. Limerick and the Dublin neighborhood suffered heavily. Two hundred houses were blown down and as many more were burned. Twenty persons were killed in these catastrophes and 100 were drowned. The coasts of Ireland and western England were lined with wrecks. The Big Wind in its general effect but on a smaller scale, resembled our own hurricane of September last.

As Ireland did not keep vital statistics until 1860, the Night of the Big Wind was used as the base of many claims made under the old-age pension act thirty years ago. —(New York Times)

PUSH AND PULL.

A sad story comes from Victoria, British Columbia—the story of the two-tailed goldfish which was found splashing aimlessly in a park pool, never getting anywhere because one tail tried to propel him forward and the other tried to drive him backward. We have a fellow-feeling for that goldfish. This world, it seems to us, is full of people who, between the pull of progress and the push of longing to retreat to what seemed simpler times and ways, are getting nowhere in their little pools.—(Pittsburgh Press)

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love. . . .

Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins. . . . And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dewelleth in God, and God in him.—I John iv, 7, 8, 10, 16.

And after these things I heard a great voice of much people in heaven, saying, Alleluia; Salvation, and glory, and honour, and power, unto the Lord our God: for true and righteous are his judgments . . .

And a voice came out of the throne, saying, Praise our God, all ye his servants, and ye that fear him, both small and great. . . . And I fell at his feet to worship. And he said unto me, See thou do it not: I am thy fellowservant, and of thy brethren that have the testimony of Jesus: worship God: for the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy.—Rev. xix, 1, 2, 5, 10.

COURT LAUGHS.

(London Dispatch)

Husband: "I am not the only one who can't put up with my wife's temper. My eldest son joined the Army to get some peace."

Father: "My son is a good boy—but he will be master in my own house."

Court Clerk: "You are summoned for driving at an excessive speed in a built-up area."

Motorist: "With my wife in the car I hardly knew what I was doing."

Husband: "My wife frequently starts scenes and quarrels in public. She doesn't know what home is for."

Wife: "Although my husband's manners are perfect, when friends visit me he drinks out of his saucer, just to show me up."

Solicitor: "Why did you not give your wife her week's money as usual?" — "She was in such a temper that I dare not."

Wife: "My husband never gets home until midnight, unless we have had a quarrel earlier in the day. Then he gets home early to finish it off."

Woman (to another woman witness): "Beg your pardon, but I wish to call you a liar."

ABOUT MR. FERGUSON.

The Hon. G. Howard Ferguson may have re-entered politics in Ontario but he certainly has abandoned farming, having just sold his old homestead in Kitley Township, Ont., to a neighbor. His father, Dr. C. F. Ferguson, settled on this farm when he came to Canada from the North of Ireland over a century ago. The Hon. G. Howard realizes it takes personal supervision and a degree of concentration to make farming successful, and nowadays he has not the time or the inclination for either.—(Charlottetown Guardian)

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

READ THIS FIRST:

Elsie Ritter, a beauty shop operator, taking the place of a friend for a week in the private salon of Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Sr., finds herself involved in a mystery when the eccentric old lady is found dead under one of the hair driers after Elsie had left the room for a few moments. She is further humiliated when she learns that one of the servants in the Manor's household suspects her of taking Mrs. Witherspoon's emeralds, which are missing. Certain members of the Witherspoon family and some of the house guests strike Elsie as queer, and she is surprised when the old lady's son, Horace Witherspoon, advises her to say nothing of the missing jewels for fear of publicity and the police. The coroner arrives for his investigation. Phil Benson, Elsie's friend and a reporter, comes for an obituary for his paper and Elsie shows him around the mansion.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

"I WAS LOOKING for you, sir," I explained in some confusion. "I knocked and no one answered, so I looked inside. I didn't mean to spy on anyone; I didn't know anyone was there."

"Someone is there?" He appeared surprised. I moved aside and he peered into the room.

"Ah!" he cried sharply, and I glanced quickly at his face. One side was strangely twisted as if he had experienced sudden pain, and as I watched him, I noticed his hand clutching the doorknob turned white at the knuckles.

"Are you ill, Mr. Witherspoon?" I asked, beginning to feel alarmed.

"Ill?" Tis hands fell to his sides and his face settled into its normal lines. "A touch of arthritis," he said shortly. "The pain often attacks me without warning."

Phil pushed his way forward. "I'm Benson of the Times, Mr. Witherspoon—"

"Yes?" said Mr. Horace, and his eyes held that faraway expression that was so disconcerting and so seemingly habitual with the little man.

"I should like to get a few facts relating to your mother's life and death."

"Ah, yes. Perhaps you will come with me into the drawing room."

"Thank you," Phil said, and followed Mr. Horace across the hall. "See you later, Elsie." He blew me a kiss.

I returned to my own quarters.

The rest of the day passed without event. In the afternoon I told Mrs. Greely about the broken driers and she promised to send immediately for an electrician. He had not arrived by dinner time, but, perhaps, I thought, he was one man who preferred to rest on Sundays. Anyway, I was not much worried. I did not look for many customers in the salon the day of the funeral.

Phil and I took in the early show at the Palace and a double chocolate sundae at the drug store and by 10 o'clock I was in bed and fast asleep. In the morning I opened the salon promptly at nine and sat around waiting for business. It was fully an hour before anyone appeared, and then it was only Miss Henrietta, who stuck her head in the doorway.

"Good morning," she said, and I had one of my sudden shivering spells. Miss Henrietta, had she possessed a broomstick, could have passed for the twin sister of the old witch in the Mother Goose tales! Her hair stood on end and her eyes were bloodshot and filled with a wildness that struck at my heart.

"I came to see the death chamber," she cackled. Her long, yellowed hands parted the silver curtains of the anteroom and she disappeared inside. It was a good ten minutes until she reappeared—ten minutes of utter silence! And if she had resembled a witch when she went in, she looked like a maniac when she came out. Her complexion was a mottled gray and her lower lip hung slackly, exposing her pale, pink gums.

"The wages of sin is death," she whispered. "The Lord is revenged!"

Something warned me not to speak. I sat motionless, hypnotized by her mad, gleaming eyes, eyes like the hands of a crazy clock. I could not have lifted my little finger had my life depended upon it.

"'Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord'." Her voice died to a whisper. "Death! And it isn't finished! It isn't finished!"

Her laughter rang in my ears for hours.

When she had gone I staggered weakly to the basin in the manicure booth and held my hands in cold water for a long, long time.

Toward noon I had another visitor. This time it was my old friend Toots. I was surprised to see her, recalling the conversation I had overheard on the landing; but I might have known it takes more than one threat to get rid of a parasite like she turned out to be.

"Hello," she said, and from the tone of her voice I gathered she was not feeling especially cheery. "I'm out of face powder. Thought maybe you'd have an extra box around somewhere."

"I'll see." Her nose did not look shiny to me, but from past experience I knew that girls like Toots are not powdered unless they resembled circus clowns. There was a stack of powder boxes on the shelf in the second anteroom and I selected one at ramdom and gave it to her. She took it without so much as a thanks.

"Going to the funeral?"

I shook my head. "I'm not expected to attend."

"Lucky! Me, I'm getting out of here as soon as it's over."

"Where are you from?"

She gave me a hard look: "From New York, dearie," she said shortly.

"Oh!" I was staring at her hands. She had lovely hands, soft and white and covered with rings! Four on each hand! Two diamonds and three rubies and a queer bluish stone that I did not know and a pearl the size of a pea!

"Admiring my jewelry?" she asked, spreading her hands. "Look almost real, don't they? Sure wish they were, and I'd not kidding."

"You're fond of Jewels?" Some thing prompted me to ask her this.

"Who ain't—isn't? Money in the bank, dearie, money in the bank. That's what diamonds are!"

"I don't care for diamonds." I turned and faced the mirror patting my hair into place. "My favorites are emeralds; I'm crazy about them."

"That so?" Toots flicked an imaginary speck of dust from her dress. "Funny, I never cared a whole lot for emeralds. I'll take diamonds every time."

"Well, tastes differ," I quit fussing with my hair.

"Sure. Say, have they found out who swiped the old lady's stuff?"

"N—o!" I could hardly make my mouth work. "I—don't believe they have."

"Too bad." she shrugged. "So long."

"So long," I returned, and collapsed into a chair. How did Toots Lemoine know that the emeralds were missing? How did she know? I stared stupidly into space. How had Toots discovered their loss unless—unless she were the thief?

And then a second thought struck me. Suppose—suppose it had been Mr. Horace who had stolen the emeralds, and who had given them to Toots!

"No," I said aloud. "No." It was a good idea, but it would not work. Mr. Horace was not that kind—to get mixed up with a girl like Toots.

I dismissed the thought, but back in my mind a voice kept whispering:

"It was Mr. Horace who insisted upon delaying the inquiry! It was Mr. Horace who was in no hurry to broadcast the disappearance of the jewels!"

The funeral took place that afternoon. At three o'clock a long line of cars preceded by a flower-banked hearse wound down the drive on the journey to the cemetery. From my bedroom window I watched the procession depart and return an hour or so later. In the meantime I tried to call Phil at the Times office—I wanted to tell him abouts Toots and the emeralds—but he was out, so I settled down with a movie magazine and killed time reading a star's recipe for a happy married life.

At seven I dined in my room. At eight I received a visitor. It was Mrs. Horace. She was dressed in black, which made her sallow skin seem even yellower. She appeared nervous and ill at ease.

"I've decided, Miss Ritter," she announced abruptly, "to have a permanent wave."

"A spiral wave?" Her awkward manner was contagious; I found myself fumbling for words

"Spiral?" She smiled slightly and the tension was somewhat relieved. "I'm afraid a permanent is just a permanent to me. I shall leave the details to you."

"Very well. When do you wish to have the wave?"

"In the moring." She frowned momentarily as if I had reminded her of something unpleasant. "Does it take long?".

"Several hours. Would you care to come in early? At nine o'clock?"

"Yes." She nodded. "Nine will do nicely. I should like to be finished by luncheon."

'Then I'll put you down for nine," I said.

"Thank you. Good night."

"Good night," I returned, and went into the salon and entered her name in the appointment book. Then I came back to my room and read awhile and went to bed. The last thing I thought of was that Mrs. Greely's electrician had not showed up.

Braithwaite, Miss Elaine Argue and Miss Nan Fallis.

Old Kentucky CIGARETTES

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

Mother sent the two children to the grocer's with a list of things to buy. Knarf and Hanid, of course, went right along with them. Shadows always go with the children they belong to. It's a rule.

"Ah, good-morning, children!" said the grocer as they stepped up to the counter. "What can I get you this morning?"

"We would like a dozen eggs," said Hanid's little mistress.

"White or brown?" asked the grocer.

Here Knarf, who was standing behind his master, cried out in a loud voice: "Blue eggs!—we'd like blue eggs!"

No Such Thing.

"Hush!" said Hanid quickly. "There aren't any such things as blue eggs."

"There are too!" said Knarf. "I saw them last Easter."

Hanid had to smile. "Those weren't regular eggs. They were painted. Most Easter eggs are painted. But it isn't Easter now So the only kind of eggs we can get are white eggs or brown eggs."

Paid No Attention.

While Knarf and Hanid were talking the grocer got a dozen eggs. Knarf couldn't tell whether they were brown or white. The grocer nor the children heard their shadows talking. They paid no attention to them whatever.

"Ah-choo!" he went, "Ah-choo!"

"And what else does your mother want?" the grocer asked again.

"A pound of salt, please."

What—No Pepper?

But the grocer didn't get the pepper. He just got the salt. He put both the eggs and the package of salt into a big bag. The children started walking out with them.

But Knarf didn't want to go. "Pepper—we want pepper!" he kept saying.

And what do you suppose he did? He slipped behind the counter and tried to get at the box of pepper on the shelf. But as he came near it—ah-choo! he went. Ah-choo!

MILLBROOK

(Examiner Correspondence.)

Reeve W. E. Ball, J. N. McGill, R. H. Edmunds, and T. H. Collins motored to Peterborough and took part in the curling bonspiel, winning one game, and losing out in two. The lack of a rink of any kind, leaves the local curlers badly out of practice.

Miss Bernice Smith, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, this week, is making good progress toward recovery, and expects shortly to resume her studies at Toronto University. Dr. H. A. Turner and Dr. M. E. Hobbs were the attending physicians from Millbrook.

The service in Grace Presbyterian church on Sunday, January 29, was the final one in the pastorate of Rev. H. W. Williams, B.A., who is removing to a new charge near Stratford, Ont. The service in St. Andrew's church was withdrawn in honor of the farewell service in the sister congregation.

The "Country Store" which the local branch of the Women's Institute was holding in the Community Waiting Room on Saturday, January 28, at 3 p.m. was withdrawn owing to the death of the president, Mrs. R. J. McKnight.

Grace Presbyterian church withdrew its regular Ladies' Aid meeting scheduled for Wednesday owing to the loss of such an efficient membtr as the later Mrs. McKnight had been.

Dawson Richardson of Winnipeg, visited his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Dawson, over the week-end.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, Jan. 30 — The Junior Y.P.S. met Friday night at 7.30 at the church. Rev. A. McLauchlin led in prayer.

Lesson from John 6 was read by Glenna Brown; reading, "Where Will You Eat," Helen Hay; Rev. A. McLauchlin gave a reading, "The Seventh Jewell," after which the senior meeting was held, with Mrs. Harry Mann in charge.

The members decided to observe Valentine Day by holding a social Friday night, February 10, in the church dining hall.

The Scripture lesson was read by Miss Jean Brown. Mrs. Mann read the lesson translation of the Scripture Psalm; recitation, Billie Pollock; Miss Evelyn Brown gave a paper taken from the program of the school of training which she attended at Belleville. Miss Hazel Watters, who also attended, gave an interesting account of the routine of the weeks training at which there were 108 students with 15 teachers. The school of training proved most beneficial; creative work, gave a different view of Christian living.

Reading, "The Unexpected," Kenny Chaplin; the Misses Hazel Waters, Evelyn and Jean Brown, gave a short skit on "The Girl who couldn't whistle," as given at the Belleville school of training.

Sides were chosen for a Bible contest, "True or False" in charge of Mrs. Mann. Rev. A. McLauchlin and Thomas W. Brown were chosen leaders, Mr. McLauchlin's side were the winners. The Mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

The Ladies' Aid meeting will be held Wednesday afternoon at the church.

The crokinole party planned for Friday night at the home of Mrs. Thomas J. Brown was cancelled and will be held at a later date.

Miss Rena Chaplin expects to leave this week for Toronto where she will take a course in the Government Household Training School.

Trent River lined up with Westwood Friday night at Havelock rink, resulting in a score of 7-4 in favor of Westwood.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday January 31

THE EXCELLENT planetary configurations bearing rule on the affairs of this day unite to give very auspicious opportunities for reaching cherished objectives. These should come, not only by industry and practical details, but as well by the endorsement and substantial cooperation of elders, superiors and those in power or influential position. There may be bequests, insurance or increased values in old investments, but in any perplexities use strategem and tact.

Those whose birthday it is should find themselves confronted by a year of opportunity for attaining gratifying fulfillments. These may come through individual effort, good judgment and persistent application, and also by the benefices of elders superiors and those in position to proffer them. Investments or old property interests may have substantial expansion. There are some hidden dangers to be wisely handled by tact and diplomacy with strategem rather than open hostility.

A child born on this day may be hardworking, progressive, studious and dependable, attracting recognition from elders and superiors who will assist in its cherished ambitions.

Keene Sunday School Elects Officers

Bailieboro Djstrict Roads Blocked Traffic Takes To Ice Of Rice Lake

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILBORO, Jan. 30. — Motor traffic is once again finding Rice Lake a sure means of reaching Provincial Highway 28, when Tuesday's snow, accompanied by Wednesday's high winds, blocked township roads with snow and held up not only motor traffic but navigation for horses and sleighs as well. Thursday found numerous motorists crossing the ice surface from various angles and to witness the speed of the cars, it indicated the ice was in good condition for motoring.

Many residents at the head of the lake claim the ice is from 11 to 14 inches in depth and plenty safe for motor traffic, while more conservative estimates are that the ice this season varies greatly, and although in some sheltered parts the ice is of a considerable depth, while other sections contain only a very thin ice surface and owing to the fact that the cold waves have been short and the ice for the greater part of the winter covered with snow, the frost has been unable to make the ice thick enough for safe traffic.

If fine weather prevails, it will take the remainder of the week to open out township roads. Mail men in the district were forced to turn back and leave their routes unattended on Wednesday. The high winds and sub-zero weather made it impossible for residents of the district to make the roads passable for traffic.

Looking Back On This Date

Seventy years ago today (Jan 30, 1869) an event of the highest importance in Canadian development took place. Hon. Joseph Howe, the "tribune of Nova Scotia," was sworn as president of the council in the dominion cabinet, and the secession agitation in his province was given its death blow.

Thus ended a crisis as to Confederation. Thus began a new era in our story. Howe, although one of the first proponents of a union of the British provinces, opposed the negotiations which led up to the conferences and the passage of the British North America Act. After Confederation he displayed open hostility, saying:

"The people of Nova Scotia are determined to oppose this idea of creating a new dominion in British America. They are determined that not a pound of their capital shall go to paying the debts of Canada, that not an acre of their province shall be under Canadian rule and that not a man in their militia shall be liable to be marched up to the backwoods of Canada to fight the battles of section or to prevent Canada from burning parliament buildings or insulting governors in the public streets."

In 1868 Mr. Howe and others went to London, bearing petitions with thousands of signatures asking for the release of Nova Scotia from the union. The imperial government refused the appeal and the House of Commons, by 181 to 87, refused to appoint a royal commission.

Dr. Charles Tupper, who had taken Nova Scotia into the Dominion, was sent to London to represent the Dominion government (although not a member, having sacrificed his claim for party unity). He met Howe; the two sank their personal differences after each had manifested a display of the tempers for which he was noted. There were long conversations and there were many adjournments without results. Eventually the Duke of Buckingham then colonial secretary, invited Dr. and Mrs. Tupper and Mr. and Mrs. Howe to spend a week-end at his country home at Stowe Park. There the difficulties were smoothed out; better terms were promised for Nova Scotia; and Mr Howe agreed to become the Nova Scotian minister in the dominion cabinet.

Howe and Tupper joined hands in sweeping Nova Scotia for Confederation in 1872; but the former was in poor health and died June 1, 1873, just a month after his appointment as lieutenant-governor of the province he loved so well.

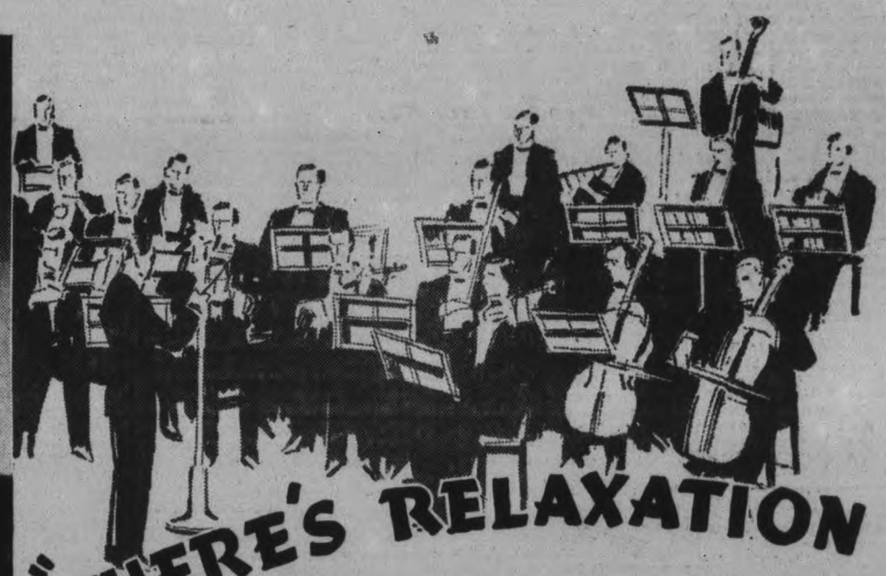
BARMOUTH, Wales—(CP).—Announcement has been made that the Royal National Lifeboat Institution will provide a new motor-lifeboat at Barmouth, replacing the present pulling and sailing boat.



"THERE'S RELAXATION IN A BUCKINGHAM" says Percy Faith

Percy Faith, talented conductor and composer, whose inspired arrangements of modern swing music are one of the most eagerly acclaimed features on the air, says: "Building a radio program in keeping with today's fast tempo is a pretty tense business, but I find relaxation in a Buckingham. I like its distinctive taste and its smooth "Throat Easy" mildness. To me a Buckingham is as soothing as good rhythm."

IN praising Buckinghams, Percy Faith is in line with the preference of thousands of smokers who find in Buckinghams complete enjoyment and relaxation. For Buckinghams, made from 62 varieties and classifications of riper leaf—scientifically blended and matured for taste and mildness—bring you the peak of smoking pleasure. Prove it. Try a package.

WHAT IS Mildness IN A CIGARETTE?

Many smokers confuse taste with strength. Actually, taste depends on the ripeness of the tobacco—and a fully-ripened tobacco must be milder. Natural ripening removes harshness that causes irritation. That's why Buckinghams, blended from 62 varieties and classifications of riper tobaccos, taste so much better—are definitely milder.

Norwood Bids For "Black And White" Day

An unofficial bid for a "black and white" day for the Norwood Fair was made by two of its directors, G. A. Brethen and G. J. Elmhurst of Birdsall's at the annual meeting of the county Holstein-Friesian Association here Saturday afternoon.

Stanley Wood was re-elected president; James Sweeney, vice-president, and Joseph Tully, secretary treasurer. The members reduced the number of their directors to ten, following in that detail the advice of Robert Holtby of Port Perry. A sample constitution which he submitted was also adopted with a few minor changes.

The directors for this year are: Charles E. Moore, Carman Seymour, Joseph Mann, James Sweney, Gilbert J. Elmhurst, Stewart Nelson, Gordon Stalker, Gordon McGregor, Gordon McIntosh and James Sargent. Two others members are Stabley Wood as the immediate past president, succeeding himself, and Joseph Tully, representative on the Dominion Association's directorate.

Successful Features.

Mr. Holtby briefly reviewed the success of the first two "black and white" days, which were held last fall at the Port Perry and Roseneath fairs. This fact is generally known. "What we did was to take out a lot of the commercial spirit in the Holstein classes at those two fairs. That is what is killing fairs all over. We left it competitive, and it was practically assured that every exhibitor would make at least expense money.

I was here at Peterborough last year. They had about 15 people watching the Holstein judging and about ten around the Jersey ring. And most of those watching the Jerseys were from out of this district. There wasn't one local man looking on, and no one can tell me that is a healthy spirit for a fair."

On the other hand Mr. Holtby told of the hundreds who watched the judging at Roseneath and Port Perry. At the Northumberland show 110 Holsteins were entered by county breeders.

"The Lanark breeders are arranging for a day at the Almonte Fair, and York county men will have one at Markham," he continued. "What you are going to see are regional fairs at London, Peterborough, Ottawa, and so on, and above them the C.N.E. and the Royal."

In renewing his contention for some form of regional accommodation at the Peterborough Exhibition, Arthur Brethen said: "You don't enter trotting horses that have a time of 2.23 or 2.27 in the same class with those that have marks of 2.07 or 2.05. And in hockey you have Senior A and B groups, Intermediates, and so on; and that is what we should have with our fairs.

I am completely sold on Peterborough as the Central Ontario District Fair. I think that is what the directors should be aiming at. Of course it is necessarily all settled to carry on this year as last year. If Peterborough wants to take on a "black and white day" during their fair, no one else wants to ask for it. I believe the 'black and white" (Holstein cattle) day is a real good thing, and if you want to put it on in this county I think the Norwood Fair directors would be glad to support it, but I have not been authorized to ask for it."

Mr. Elmhurst endorsed Mr. Brethen's suggestion which will be considered by the directors.

C. E. Moore said that probably thirty or more of the members were going up to the Dominion convention in Toronto on Wednesday, February 8, and arrangements were being made to travel by bus.

A "Pedestrian"

GALT, Ont., Jan. 30—(CP).—An advertisement in a Galt directory of 1880 lists D. A. Woods, as a "pedestrian." Woods was a famous runner more than a half a century ago. Apparently a "pedestrian" was one who dealt in running shoes, tights and other parts of runners' outfits.

Their Majesties May Be Guarded By R.C.M.P.

When the King and Queen visit Ontario in May, 108 volunteer R.C.M.P. reserves may be doing special duty at various ceremonies attended by Their Majesties, clad in the khaki "patrol jacket" of the R.C.M.P. These men are volunteer members of a reserve force of the famous "Mounties" which has been in existence for a month and is at present being operated in Toronto and Winnipeg. Picked from thousands of applicants these men represent various fields of endeavor in civilian life. The men receive no pay and carry no badge of authority, but are subject to call in national emergencies. They then receive the pay and authority of regular R.C.M.P. constables. All members of the volunteer reserves must undergo a strenuous program of physical drill as part of their training. Sergt. E. F. Robinson, LEFT, and Constable W. G. Lloyd are pictured here with two of the young recruits.

Mrs. H. W. W. Bromwich returned home on Monday after spending two week with Kingston relatives and friends.

The Y. P. S. met on Tuesday night, when a social session was held, with Miss Roberta Webb as convener. Miss Jean Ivatt has charge of the Citizenship night on January 31.

Quite a number are sick in the village, sufering from colds. There is also a cose of scarlet fever.

Havelock Institute Enjoys Euchre

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 30—The Havelock Branch Women's Institute held a social evening in the town hall on Friday evening, when the members and their friends, numbering over seventy-five, spent an enjoyable time playing euchre and crokinole.

The guests were greeted by the president, Mrs. John Armstrong, and the rest of the executive. Entertainment was provided by the committee under the direction of Mrs. Robert McCutcheon, while Mrs. Joseph Hoffman was convener of the refreshment committte.

There were fourteen tables of euchre, prizes being won by Mrs. T. P. Lancaster, ladies' first; Miss Minnie Williams, ladies' scond; T. P. Lancaster, men's first; and Donald Anderson, men's second. Prize-winners in crokinole were Mrs. Arthur Russell, ladies; and Mr. Robrt McCutcheon for the men.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 30. — An enthusiastic meeting of the Belmont Municipal Telephone System was held on Saturday afternoon in the Council Chamber in Havelock, when the ofifcers for 1939 were elected. W. J. Peoples occupied the chair for the meeting which was largely attended by members of the association. W. G. Barrie and W. J. Peoples were re-elected as commissioners for the ensuing term, while Walter Steenburgh, Jr., was named as the third member of the board. Auditors appointed were Messrs. Grant Dafoe and John Ruttan, at the same salary, $5.00 apiece.

The financial statement of the past year's activities presented by secretary-treasurer, W. G. Barrie, shows the system to be in a remarkably sound position.

Operating account — Revenue: Subscribers' levies in 1938 for principal, interest, and for maintenance collected, $1,188.76; subscribers' levies in 1938 for principal, interest, and for maintenance uncollected, $89.41; non-subscribers' rentals for 1938 collected, $32; non-subscribers' for 1938 collected $11.40; miscellaneous receipts, nil; total revenues, $1,321.57.

Expenses—Annual switching fees paid to Bell system, $652.66; maintenance, wages, $520.03; maintenance, supplies, $133.97; commissioners' salaries, $30; secretary's salary, $90; other salaries, $15; rent, heat, light, $3; stationery, printing, postage, $71.90; workmen's compensation, $5; sundries, insurance, $51.85; total operating expenses, $1,483.41.

Balance sheet for year ending December 31, 1938—Assets: Plant and equipment, tools, $13,007.03; subscribers' levies uncollected in previous year and up to December 31, 1938, $89.41; rentals uncollected up to December 31, 1938, $11.40; tolls uncollected up to December 31, 1938; material on hand, $59.50; cash in bank, $366.17; total, $13,713.23.

Liabilities: Debenture principal unpaid, December 31, 1938, nil; cash payments in lieu of annual levy, $3,096.00; debenture principal paid to December 31, 1938, $9,460.00; temporary loans outstanding, nil; advances by municipality unpaid, nil; accounts payable, nil; interest due, nil; surplus, $1,157.23; total, $13,713.23.

Treasure Hunt

LEBANNON, Pa., Jan. 30—(AP).—Hems were ripped and the voluminous folds of old gowns searched minutely for buried treasure after purchase of the personal property of Amanda Light, 93-year-old spinster, had found $30 in a secret pocket of one of the 1,000 garments sold. Does your Back Ache?

IF your back aches and your sleep is disturbed by the desire for frequent urination, you may need Dr. Pierce's A-nuric Tablets. Mrs. Ida Ebert, 365 Ferguson Ave. N., Hamilton, Ont., says: "I had to get up five or six times at night. A pain in the small of my back sometimes was so bad that I could hardly get up or down or turn in bed. Dr. Pierce's A-nuric Tablets helped me greatly. After taking three bottles, my kidneys acted in a normal way and I felt ever so much better." Ask your druggist for Dr. Pierce's A-nuric today. See how much better you feel after using it awhile.

MICHAEL GALLAGHER.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 30. — The death occurred in St. Michael's Hospital on Wednesday of Michael Gallagher, beloved husband of Mary K. Fitzgerald, in his sixty-fourth year.

He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gallagher of Marmora Township, but had resided for several years in Toronto. He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Marguerite and Angela.

WALTER J. TWIGG

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 30.—In failing health for the past two years Walter John Twigg passed away in the Lockwood clinic in Toronto on Wednesday morning. In his twenty-fifth year he had spent all his life in this town where he was born, the only son of Mr. Steve Twigg and the late Elsie John Twigg. He had been in poor health and it was only an operation which it was thought might prolong his life.

Surviving him are his widow, the former Lorraine McQuigg of Havelock to whom he was married nearly four years ago, and his father. Mr. Steve Twigg, Centre street.

The funeral was held from the residence of his father on Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Harold B. Neal of St. John's United church with interment in Burn Brae cemetery.

The 855 brown-shirted deputies forming the Reichstag membership provided a double inspiration for the chancellor: A sympathetic audience and a personification of his greatest achievement—the annexation of Austria, his homeland, and Czechoslovak Sudetenland.

For the first time since 1848, seventy-three Austrian and 41 Sudeten deputies, were allotted seats beside Prussian colleagues in the Reichstag, membership in which today is the largest numerically in the history of the German people.

Whatever the course Hitler had outlined for th seventh year of the "National Socialist rising," whether principally internal or another broad step along the trail of his dynamic foreign policy, his followers sang one tune to-day: "The route of the Fuehrer is the route of the people."

Henry W. Kerr Drops Dead On Way To Car

Henry Weir Kerr, 659 Water street, a rural mail carrier for the past sixteen years collapsed on Hunter street opposite Dr. J. Green's office and died almost instantly shortly before one o'clock on Saturday.

Mr. Kerr had left his car on Hunter street and walked to the Post Office where he picked up the mail to be delivered on Rural route No. 8 down the Keene road to Mather's Corners. He was almost to his car when he took the spell and collapsed. Dr. Green who was returning from lunch and walking behind Mr. Kerr saw him fall and with the aid of employees from the Quaker Oats Company who were also passing carried him into the office. Dr. H. M. Yelland was called but life was extinct. Dr. Herbert Young, coroner, investigated and said death was due to heart failure. There will be no inquest. Police Sgt. William Wigg, also investigated the death.

Born Near Kincardine

The late Mr. Kerr was born near Kincardine and was in his 57th year. When a boy he moved to South Monaghan with his grandparents and later lived in Millbrook. He came to Peterborough from Millbrook, 20 years ago. He formerly drew the mail on R.R. 7, and also R.R. 4 and on Saturday Clarence Crough, another carrier did No. 8 route along with his own.

The deceased was a member of George Street United Church and a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters in South Monaghan. He is survived by his sorrowing wife Mary Lily Taylor, two daughters, Barbara Margaret and Jean Mary and one sister-in-law, Miss E. N. Taylor all of this city. Two brothers, William of Edmonton, John of Willmar, Sask., and two sisters, Mrs. J. R. K. Graham of Edmonton and Miss Margaret Kerr of Boston, Mass. also survive. He has also many relatives in the Canadian West.

The funeral will be held from the family residence at two in the afternoon on Tuesday, January 31st with the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church officiating in the absence of Rev. M. C. Parr. Interment will be in Dawson's Cemetery, South Monaghan.

Bonarlaw W.I. Plans Valentine Tea

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Jan 30.—The Rev. Mr. Hardinge gave a splendid talk on the League of Nations at the regular meeting of Springbrook Women's Institute on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. W. A. Bateman. Although the weather was very cold there was an attendance of 34 members and seven visitors. It was moved by Mrs. George Eastwood and seconded by Mrs. A. V. Brown that stockings be purchased for a needy family for two little children having a long way to go to attend school. It was also decided that a meeting be held at the home of the president, Mrs. J. F. Baker for the purpose of helping some needy families in this community.

Moved by Mrs. Roy Brown and seconded by Mrs. M. Neal that a valentine tea be held in the Orange Hall, Springbrook on February 14. Mrs. Roy Brown, convener for Canadianization and legislation took charge of the program. The motto, "If you sow a seed of kindness you will reap a sheaf of joy" was well given by Mrs. A. Reid. The next number on the program was the singing of Annie Laurie with Mrs. Swayne, pianist.

Mrs. J. F. Baker gave an interesting talk on buymanship and explained the manufacture of linen. A solo by Mrs. Carmen Sine with Mrs. W. A. Bateman as pianist; Mrs. A. V. Brown gave a splendid paper on patriotism.

The meeting was closed with the National Anthem. Lunch was served and a social half hour spent. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Morley Barlow and each member is asked to answer the roll call with a quilt block 18 by 18 inches.

and British people wished to live on terms of friendship and understanding with each other and settle their differences, if they have any, by discussion and not by force.

He added, however:

"I do not exclude the possibility that these feelings of the peoples may not always be shared by their governments and I recognize that it is with governments and not peoples that we have to deal."

Lauds Mussolini.

He paid tribute to Mussolini's aid in bringing peace out of the September war scare, said that without his co-operation "I do not believe peace could have been saved," and answered critics of his Rome journeys.

He used the word "allies" to describe Frenchment, saying that critics had suggested 'we were going to Rome to surrender British interests, that we were going to grant belligerent rights to General Franco, that we were going to betray our friends and allies in France, and when we came back without having done any of these things, they changed their complaint and they said it was not worthwhile to have made the visit at all because nothing had come of it."

Mr. Chamberlain denied nothing had come of the visit.

"We did not go to Rome to make bargains but to get to know Italian statesmen better, to ascertain by personal disoussion what was their point of view and make sure that they understood ourselves. We accomplished all that. I can say we came away better friends than we were when we went there."

Mr. Chamberlain took up point by point Britain's re-armament program and described the progress made by the army, the navy and the airforce, which he said was more rapid every day.

He explained that in the year ending March 31, Britain will have added 60 new ships to the navy. The Royal Air Force, he said, "is going ahead at an equally remarkable rate."

Re-assembling after the Christmas recess, the House of Commons will lose no time in going into debate on foreign affairs. The members are particularly eager to hear Mr. Chamberlain's report on his talks with Premier Mussolini in Rome Jan. 11-14.

The flight of the Spanish government and Great Britain's attitude toward Italy's colonial demands upon France are among the many foreign questions to be debated.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 30.—About fifty-five years of shantying experiences form a background for interesting talks to-day by James Stephen Sopha of Cordova, familiarly known over a wide area as Jim Sopha.

"I'll be 76 if I live until March 31st," said the veteran teamster, "and I am the oldest of 13 children born to my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sopha, who moved to a log shanty in Methuen township from Codrington when I was barely a year old." This sturdy septuagenarian paved the way for an interesting interview as he chanced to speak of teaming dynamite from its place of manufacture a mile and a quarter from Tweed to Cordova in the early days of gold mining operations. when Mr. Kerr, of Scotch birth, addicted to saying "Aye Jim," superintended operations. "I drew dynamite also when Bill Hughes and Dr. Mackechnie were in charge of affairs there," he continued. "I never drew more than a ton at a time. "The load was 40 boxes with 50 pounds in each. I started teaming for the Gilmour Company whe I was almost 15 years old and did skidding back at Jack's Lake. I drove the river under T. C. Callaghan and I have worked for the Rathbun Company and the late T. P. Pearce. I was working for Mr. Pearce when the C.O.R. (Central Ontario Railway) went through.

The First Buggy.

I can remember when the first buggy came into our part of the country. It belonged to Ira Cook, who lived where Frank Clemenger does now and he paid $140 for it. I guess I had about the best team that ever went through Marmora to Stirling when I was a young man. It was a team of blacks that I bought from Alex Atkinson of Crow Bay. After I had them a year I sold them with only halters on and no harness for $525 and this was quite a bit more than I paid for them," said Mr. Sopha, who prides himself on having made some good horse deals in his life.

Three of his ten brothers are deceased, namely, Robert, Phillip and George. Four of the surviving brothers followed the occupation of mining. Bert and Willard reside at Cobalt, Wellington settled down at Port Arthur and Harry with a sister, Mrs. Robert Cole, lives at Timmins. Completing this generation of the Sophas are Charles of Methuen township and Frank of Belmont township, agriculturists, and Mrs. Robert Simpson, who lives in Hastings.

M. Sopha has been a widower for about thirty-five years. He is the father of five children, who live at scattered points—Olive, Vancouver; Earl, Sudbury; Bruce, Northern Quebec; Mrs. Susan Smith and Mrs. Edith Acker, Toronto.

He related that his paternal grandfather was of French-Canadian stock while his grandmother was English. He has smoked since he was sixteen, but unlike the majority of shanty men, never developed the habit of chewing tobacco.

About two years ago his home at Cordova was burned down. He resides now in a new dwelling erected on the site, but enjoys frequent visits to Marmora to converse with old acquaintances on those shanty experiences which he deems must be unconceivable to the rising generation. Because of his friendly, cheery, manner he has little trouble in getting transportation as he jaunts into Marmora.

V.C.'s To Meet King

OTTAWA, Jan. 30—(CP)—The 37 Canadian holders of the Victoria Cross now believed resident in Canada will be presented to the King and Queen when they visit the Dominion in May, it was announced here Sunday. Recipients of the coveted decoration for extraordinary valor have been urged to communicate with their local military authorities so that arrangements can be completed for their presentation to Their Magesties while in that district.

Agonizing Eczema (Salt Rheum)

No rest, day or night, for those afflicted with that awful skin disease, eczema, or salt rheum as it is commonly called.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night, or when the affected part is exposed to strong heat, or hot water, are almost unbearable, and relief is gladly welcomed.

To get rid of eczema it is necessary to have the blood cleansed by the use of a thoroughly reliable blood medicine such as Burdock Blood Bitters which during the past 60 years has met with great success in relieving such diseases by its blood cleansing and purifying properties.

RABBITS SHY.

Jack Shaughnessy and four of his fellow-workers at the C.G.E. plant went on a jack rabbit hunt on Saturday but had little luck. They shot three of the big fellows and only saw a couple more. They plan to get about 20 hunters together soon and hold another Saturday afternoon jack rabbit drive.

FOOT IS BRUISED.

Cecil Scott, 235 George street, had his left foot bruised in an unusual accident. He was walking in the laneway of Fanning's laundry on King street when a C.P.R. express truck moved slowly into the lane enroute to the garage at the rear. Scott in walking between the truck and the laundry slipped and the rear wheel of the vehicle passed over his foot.

$3,000 IN THE BANK.

Roseneath Agricultural Society organized for its 1939 fair by retaining its veteran officers who have directed its success to more than $3,000 in the bank, and an extensive new plan that represent a comparatively big investment. The officers are: Fred Slade, president; A. J. Campbell, 1st vice-president; Harry Mouncey, second vice-president; Clarence Varcoe, secretary, and Andrew Brown, treasurer.

NEW STAMP VENDORS

Postage stamp vending machines have made their first appearance in several stores throughout the city. The machines are popular in the States, and appeal to many because the stamps are sanitary being handled only once while being placed in the machine in a roll. Stamps can only be purchased in units, such as three three-cent stamps cost a dime, while four ones or two twos cost a nickel.

NEED SHOCK ABSORBERS

A spectator at the ski meet near Bethany on Sunday reported today, that in a very short time the skiers need have no fear of hitting any of the trees.' He relates that some of the brawny skiers, smashed into small trees, demolished them and kept right on going, and in the spectator's opinion it will be only a matter of time before they have the hillside nicely cleared. Upwards of 500 people are said to have attended the events.

NO PANHANDLERS

Residents in the west end of the city report that transients visit the Homewood avenue and Gilmour street sections almost daily, and some get quite ugly if their demands are refused. Ashburnham residents claim they are rarely bothered, particularly the section north of Hunter street and one west end resident when remarking on this condition suggested that the Hunter street bridge is at least doing one good thing. It is so cold crossing it, the transients stay on this side.

ROVERS MAY SEND DELEGATE

Possibility of sending a delegate from this city to the World Rover Moot in Scotland next summer, is being mooted in Peterborough scouting circles these days Cost of such a trip would be around $300. At a recent scout meeting Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson told officials he thought it would not be difficult to raise that amount of money. Two names currently mentioned as possible representatives of Peterborough scouts are George Brooks of All Saints' and Ken Brown of St. John's, both of whom rank high in scouting.

RETAIL MERCHANDISING.

Evolution of retail merchandising from the days of early trading posts in Canada down to this decade which saw the formation of country-wide chain store organizations was described in an interesting and entertaining manner Sunday afternoon by R. J. Goring, who addressed the members of Mark Street United Church Brotherhood. In his first remarks, Mr. Goring said a speaker should confine his talk to a subject which he is thoroughly familiar with, and as a retail merchant he chose to talk about this business, and the changes that have come with the passing of the years.

APPOINTED CHAIRMAN

SPRINKLER ALARM.

A leak in a sprinkler system, resulting in an alarm being rung at the fire department, sent firemen hurrying on their only call on Sunday. The leak was at the Maple Leaf Milling Company.

CAR RANSACKED.

Sneak thieves ransacked a car parked on the market square Saturday night and a satin dress and some toilet articles belonging to Miss Ruby Monteith of Port Hope and a quantity of groceries, the property of Mrs. Adams of Wallace's Point were stolen.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS.

Three committees of the city council will make up their estimates of expenditures this year tonight. They are the Board of Works, Relief Committee and Manufacturers' Committee. It is expected that all three of them will complete their survey tonight, bringing to an advanced stage the preparation of the council's budget a month or more earlier than last year.

SPORTS CASUALTIES.

Winter sports continue to furnish their casualties. The other night Jean McElwain, of the Y.W.C.A., a member of the office staff of National Grocers fractured her left wrist when she fell while making her way from the dressing room to the open air rink at Jackson Park. Saturday afternoon Dolly Sproat, member of the Bell Telephone staff badly injured her kneecap in a skiing accident.

NEED MORE ACCOMMODATION

Directors of the Winter Sports Committee are convinced that larger dressing rooms will be needed for Jackson Park skating rink next year. At present the building is totally inadequate to handle the crowds now using the large rink, but funds will not permit any extension to the building this year. On Saturday and Sunday there was a steady stream of skaters arriving at the rink.

CHIMNEY FIRES NUMEROUS.

A wind whose velocity has been steadily increasing since early morning, is deemed responsible for a recurrence of chimney fires today. Three had been reported before two o'clock in the afternoon. Fire Chief George Gimblett asked co-operation of householders in reporting such fires. They should be telephoned to the department—call 100—and not placed by ringing fire alarm boxes, which are reserved for more serious outbreaks.

FRIENDLY HOUR SERVICE

One of the best attendances in the entire series was on hand at the Friendly Hour Song Service at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday night, when Mark Street United church choir under leadership of Harry Northrop, was featured. The choir sang two spirituals, "Deep River," and "Going Home," that were outstanding, and the ladies' quartette sang one selection that was acclaimed. Rev. E. W. Rowland spoke briefly, congratulating the Y.M.C.A. on providing the opportunity for young people to congregate for such high purpose. Cameron Gorrie led the singing and Elmer Trethewey was chairman. Refreshments were served after the service.

"LOVE."

"Love" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon for First Church of Christ Scientist, Peterborough, on Sunday. The Golden Text was "How excellent is thy loving-kindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings." Selections from the Bible include the following from I. John 4: 7, 8, "Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following: "People go into ecstasies over the sense of a corporeal Jehovah, though with scarcely a spark of love in their hearts; yet God is Love, and without Love; God, immortality cannot appear."

High Traditions Of Family Must Be Kept

There are many in the world today who are seeking to have us sell out the greatest traditions of our forefathers but we must be like Nabob as related in the Book of Kings, we must say no even though it costs us much, Rev. E. W. Brearley, M.A., of Pilgrim United Church, Hamilton, told the congregation at the evening service in George Street United church on Sunday.

Mr. Brearley was guest speaker at George Street church for all services on Sunday as the Sunday school observed its anniversary. Rev. M. C. Parr, the minister, exchanged pulpits with his colleague for the day. In the afternoon all Sunday school classes with teachers and church officials took part in a special service held in the main body of the church, and special music was provided by the Sunday school orchestra.

At the evening service the speaker took as his topic, "Holding High Great Traditions" and first related the story of the powerful and greedy king who sought to purchase the vineyard of Nabob, only to have the latter refuse, and later be stoned to death as a result when the King's wife Jezebel interfered. The story was taken from Chapter 21 of the Book of Kings.

There can be no great traditions in a nation whose leaders have not the courage to say no. We smile sometimes at conservatism as indicated by the statesmanship of England, but it is the hallmark of real progress. Nabob was stoned to death because he refused to sell what was his heritage but carried with him an imperishable tradition.

Everything that is worth while in our lives is firmly rooted in tradition, and often when folk do not hold high traditions and ideals in their family, they are visited by a messenger from God. One tradition that should be held high is that of the family but unfortunately there were many to-day who hold family tradition lightly. They are too prone to believe that if married life does not go along smoothly, a divorce can be obtained. I must stress the point that along this line everything including polygamy, polyandry and common-law marriage has been tried but none have survived as being equal to marriage as we know it.

Warns Young People.

The young people in particular should have sense enough to see the worth of marriage and true family life and hold high that tradition. We must have patience with those who wreck their lives and then seek solace in the divorce courts. It is a refreshing thing to see how deeply rooted the tradition of family life is in the souls of the older generation.

There is also the tradition of a good name, this is another invaluable tradition.

When the Titanic was sinking the captain of the ship spoke to each member of the crew and urged them to "Be British." There was nine centuries of the traditions of British seamanship behind those two words. Tradition has also been a protection for many systems, down through the years and many individuals when faced with peril or crises have been able to come out on top because of the strength that tradition gave them.

When Florence Nightingale started in the nursing profession it had a decidedly low rating, but during a war she became a world figure and brought the profession to a high level. Even to this day every nurse repeats the Florence Nightingale pledge as she graduates and the special tradition of service, sacrifce and high ideals is maintained.

Christian Tradition Highest.

Christian tradition promotes strength of character more than anything else, and is highest of all. God will give you the strength in times of stress to do the right thing, if you live a Christian life, exemplifying his teachings.

Good Swimmers

Outstanding in the swimming meet with Toronto West End "Y" here on Saturday night, was Stan. McBride (LEFT), who placed second in two events, losing by a touch in the 40 yards free style in the fast time of 19.1-5 seconds. Allan Marshall (RIGHT) forced Jim Prentice, Canadian breast stroke champion, to break his own Canadian record in the 440-yard event. Marshall's time was also faster than the record of 6 minutes, 29 seconds.

February Is Looked Upon As Month Of Conventions

A Quebec Hook-Up

MONTREAL, Jan. 30 — (CP). — Formation of the Quebec private stations association, composed of 11 privately-owned radio stations, was announced last night. President Phil Lalonde of Montreal made the announcement, declaring the association's chief purpose was to acquaint the public with the value of private stations.

Peterborough County Holstein Breeders appointed delegates Saturday to the Dominion convention of their association in Toronto next Month. Similar groups of dairy farmers all over the province have done the same thing, and all those delegates will come together in a Toronto hotel early in February, and discuss their common interests as viewed from the end of the chapter where the old year is being closed and the new one begun.

What the Holstein breeders have done, many other groups are also doing, and from the middle of January until on in March they will hold their annual deliberations, most of them in Toronto, with February as the peak month. The farmers who raise sheep and swine and horses, the different breeds of cattle, the men who specialize in grain, the directors of agricultural societies, the plowmen, the school trustees, the good roads crowd, and so on down a long list, convene in separate assemblies, compare notes on the progress of their branches of agriculture, and decide on plans for the months ahead.

The total effect of all these conventions must extend to all parts of the province and beyond its boundaries to farther areas of the Dominion. They are not confined only to delegates. Progressive farmers go along to keep abreast of the trends and movements in their respective associations.

The refreshing aspect of these meetings is their normal place in accustomed affairs, looking ahead and planning as in other years when the world was not so distracted by the continuous menace of war. Other branches of industry may slow down their operations because the path is uncertain but these winter sessions bring some heartening assurance of faith from rural Ontario. The press head lines tell of destruction and suffering, but men gather from all parts of the province planning for the cheese factories to open next spring, for the growing of grain and the breeding of cattle, for community flower programs, plowing contests, and the continuance on sounder and better lines of the normal affairs and activities of our people.

Warsaw W.A. Meets

WARSAW, Jan. 30.— The United Church Women's Association held its meeting with a fair attendance on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. G. G. Taylor gave a piano selection and Mrs. McIlvena sang a delightful song.

Training School For Judges Sought For Fairs

W. J. Duncan of Seymour township, a representative of the Campbellford Fair, was elected second Vice-President of the Central Ontario Fairs Association in Belleville Friday. F. Wessels of Wooler is president; Lewis Hay, Campbellford is secretary, and C. W. Varcoe, Roseneath, is one of the auditors. The Association asked the Department of Agriculture to establish in the district a school for the training of judges.

J. A. Carroll, Director of Fairs, advised directors to allot prizes only for the classes of produce and manufacture that would advance the cause of agriculture.

Prize lists should be revised annually and out-moded classes should be thrown out. "I have been surprised at some of the ancient classes that are still on the books. Why, for example, should any society give prizes for the best Chester White hogs when we want to and must develop the bacon hog in this country for our British market. The Chester will not help our export business one bit. We also have classes of black oats on some of the fairs, yet I haven't seen a stand of black oats in all my travels through the province. If there is a good reason for giving prizes in this class, I'd like to know it."

In his message to the women on the societies, the Fairs Superintendent urged that they use their influence to make the home craft booths more up-to-date.

"Take down those wire fences and let the people see what is being displayed. Try and provide nice showcases if you can, but if you can't then bring the exhibits out into the open, not have them in the shadow and behind the wire fences. Its the same thing on the grounds. If shows and judging of livestock is held on schedule and out in the open, then people will go and see them; if not, then you might as well take the livestock behind the barn for all the interest that will be shown.

Among the delegates were Mrs. M. J. McAlpine, Mrs. Gustave Shannick, J. D. Deyell and Harry M. Price, Bancroft; W. J. Hill and James Miller, Madoc; C. S. Grigg, Stewart Thackeray and C. W. Varcoe, Roseneath; H. W. Sabine and W. A. Sanderson, Marmora; S. R. Curry and Harry Coulter, Tweed.

LISTENING TO HITLER.

Every store and restaurant downtown that boasted a radio was a popular spot to-day as business men, out-of-workers, clerks, waiters, all stopped activity to listen anxiously to Adolph Hitler scream colony demands to the Reichstag.

James Chalmers Faces Count Reckless Driving

As an aftermath of the accident on Hunter street on January 6 in which two members of a city snow shovelling gang were injured when knocked down by a motor car, the driver of the machine, James P. Chalmers faced a charge of reckless driving before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court this morning.

Bert Deck, trucker, the first witness said that on the morning of the accident his truck, hauling snow away from the street was stationed on the south side of Hunter street opposite the end of Driscoll Terrace. He told of seeing a bus stop at Driscoll Terrace and then start to pull out as Chalmers' car was passing it. Chalmers' automobile came in among the four men who were shovelling snow into Deck's truck and came to a stop about four paces behind it. Witness said he saw William Steele, one of the workers, on his hands and knees but did not see the car hit him. Deck explained there were two windrows of snow left by the grader nine feet out from each curb and that the road surface was 42 feet wide. He said that Chalmers' speed as he approached was between 10 and 15 miles an hour.

Deck's evidence was interrupted to allow a plan of the street drawn by Constable Archie Menzies to be put in as an exhibit.

"I didn't know anything about the accident until I found myself on my hands and knees," said William Steele, the next witness. Steele, an elderly man who said his back was hurt was allowed to sit down while he gave his evidence. He said that he was shovelling snow and did not see or hear the car approaching. He thought it was the bumper of the car that had hit him, but could not be sure. Witness testified that David Fenn was also knocked down and hurt.

John Louckes, another member of the snow shovelling gang, swore that Chalmers did not blow his horn as he drew near the men at work and that it was the frotn part of accused's car that had struck the two men. His machine did not slew until after it had hit them, witness stated. He placed the speed of the car at the time of the impact at 10 to 12 miles an hour.

Chief Constable Newhall told of a conversation he had with Chalmers the day after the accident in which he had told the accused that he should have stopped his car and there would have been no one hurt.

Cross-examined by Mr. Balfour, Chief Newhall declared that in his opinion Chalmers should have stopped his machine in a distance of 10 to 12 feet. The road was not icy but there had been wet snow on it.

Louis Hubbell, who is a fellow employee of Chalmers at the Ollateria and who boards with him was the first defence witness and swore that the road was slippery on the morning of the accident. He said that he had left home that morning in his own car just ahead of Chalmers and had passed safely between the men at work and the bus, although he said there was only six or seven feet of a gap.

Court adjourned for luncheon at this stage.

Drunken Driving Charge Withdrawn

Pleading guilty to a charge of reckless driving, arising out of an accident on McDonnel street in which the car of Cyril Agnew, River Road was damaged, Gil Sanders of Lindsay was fined $15 and $6.75 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning. His driving license was suspended for two months.

On a charge of drunken driving on the same occasion, Sanders who was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C., was dismissed when no evidence was offered by the crown.

"Lack of evidence," was the laconic explanation offered the court by Chief Constable Samuel Newhall.

Sanders had been arrested on the Lindsay highway after the accident by Sergeant John Thompson and Constable Archie Menzies.

A companion who pleaded guilty to being drunk was fined $10 and $4.50 costs.

Quick Action Of P.C. McGillen Results In Solving Of Several Break-ins In City

Alertness and quick action on the part of Constable C. J. McGillen, newest member of the Peterborough police force, early Sunday morning, resulted in the arrest of two men who had been attempting to break and enter the Standard Medical Clinic and cleared up a number of break-ins and atempts.

This morning Bruce Shane, 25, and Patrick Jordan, 21, both of Peterborough pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the butcher shop of Alex. Watson, Charlotte street, and committing theft and breaking and entering the work shop of Leslie Groombridge, Aylmer street with intent to committ an indictable offence. At the request of the crown they were remanded until Monday of next week for sentence.

"I was drunk, your worship," Shane said this morning, "I don't remember anything about it.'

Constable McGillen was patrolling his beat on Charlotte street at 1.25 o'clock Sunday morning when he heard a door of the Clinic building open and saw two men run across Reid street. He gave chase and at King street overhauled Shane and Jordan and placed them under arrest. As the trio were walking back toward Charlotte street both prisoners were seen to throw something away. A search afterward disclosed the fact that they had tossed away a sum of Money, presumably the cash taken from Watson's butcher shop which had been entered by forcing the back door.

Constable McGillen commandeered the services of W. Beatty's motor car and conveyed his prisoners to the police station.

During Saturday night in addition to the break-ins at Watson's and Groombridge's there had been attempts to force open the doors of Oke's warehouse and Strano's grocery, footprints in the snow indicating the attempt.

Arthur Ringer Laid To Rest

An impressive funeral service on Saturday afternoon bore testimony to the popularity of Arthur Ringer of the city's assessment department, when Mayor James Hamilton and members of the city council, nearly the entire city hall staff, war comrades, brother Masons, and Oddfellows, as well as scores of other personal friends were in attendance.

The funeral service was conducted at his late residence at 261 Sherbrooke street, by Rev. R. T F. Brain of St. John's Anglican Church and Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Knox Street United Church. A Masonic service was also conducted.

Mayor Hamilton and Aldermen McCannan, Bradburn and Dutton represented the city, and both the Canadian Legion, and the Red Patch club had large delegations.

At the graveside the last Post and Reveille were sounded for Mr. Ringer, who had suffered grievous wounds in France after he had gone to fight with the 93rd Peterborough Battalion, and who had suffered greatly as a result since his return. Comrades in arms dropped poppies on his open grave.

Dr. Simon West Veterinarian Laid To Rest

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 30. — A Mason for over forty years, Simon West, V.S., died on Thursday afternoon following a lengthy illness. In his seventy-ninth year, Mr. West was well known not only in Campbellford where he has resided for the past thirty-five years, but also in Madoc. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William West, and was born near Madoc where he received his early education, later attending college in Toronto. His widow, whose maiden name was Elizabeth Best, was also a native of Madoc, where the couple resided for several years following their marriage.

Besides being a life member of the Masons and Royal Arch, he was also a memebr of the L.O.L., an organization in which he held various offices. Mr. West had been confined to his bed for the past five months preceding his death, and he leaves to mourn his loss, besides his wife, two sons, Charles of Percy Township, Stewart in the Wilson Settlement, and one daughter, Mrs. Harry Bedford of Percy Township.

The funeral was held under Masonic auspices on Saturday afternoon, with Rev. B. Simpson Black of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church assisting. Interment was at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Police Pull Raid On Poker Game

An unexpected raid by Constables W. A. Clark and eLo Murphy on a room situated above the Service Cigar, 337 George street at 9 o'clock Saturday night, brought a poker game to a sudden end and resulted in the arrest of Edward Alberico on a charge of maintaining a gaming house.

Seven other persons will on Saturday face a charge of being "found-in."

Alberico appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this morning and pleaded not guilty.

This case was adjourned until Saturday morning.

The swoop by the two officers, who made their way through the cigar store and upstairs without any inkling of their presence being given the persons involved in the game was completely successful.

DIES IN PETERBOROUGH

The local police department received word from the Toronto police that Joseph Gravelle had died at 74 Seaton street, Toronto. A brother of the deceased, Charles Gravelle, was located on Western avenue and notified of his brother's death.

Sheffield Defeats Chester Team 2-0

LONDON, Jan. 30.—(CP Cable)—Sheffield Wednesday will play Chelsea at Stamford Bridge in the next stage of the English football cup competition. In the second replay of their fourth-round match with Chester the Wednesday won 2-0 today at Maine Road, Manchester.

At Tottenham, West Ham United and Tottenham Hotspurs drew 1-1 in another replayed fourth-round game. The first tussle on the Hammers' ground ended in a 3-3 stalemate. Chester and Sheffield Wednesday drew 1-1 in each of their previous meetings.

Tests Made On Shaving Brush Reveal Bristles Not Affected

Completion of the tests on a Japanese-made shaving brush to determine if the bristles were infected with anthrax bacilli reveals a negative result. The tests were completed and the report sent by Dr. C. B. Waite, pathologist to Dr. J. A. Morgan, medical officer of health for North Monaghan.

The brush was the same as those reported by the Department of Health at Buffalo as being possible anthrax germ carriers. One man died in the States following a shave in which he used a brush of Japanese make, which was infected with anthrax germs and the disease which results usually causes death.

When Canadian health authorities were warned that some of the brushes may have found their way into Canada, an appeal was issued to everyone, particularly those living in rural districts where this type of brush is likely to have been sold by peddlers.

Bought In Orillia

John Barnes, of Cottesmore avenue, discovered that he had a brush marked with the numbers 332, which he had purchased last summer in Orilla but had never been used, and this was the brush turned in to Dr. Waite for examination. Fortunately it was found to be free of germs.

Dr. G. Murray Fraser, M.O.H. for the city visited fifteen shops and stores in the city and examined the stocks of shaving brushes in all of them. He failed to find any resembling the 332 variety, and very few which had been manufactured in Japan. He believes there is little likelihood of any such brushes being in stock in this section of the country.

Anthrax is a disease which breaks out on the hides of animals and the hair on the hide carry the germ which is very hardy and will live for years in its spore state. Due to rigid regulations there has been few cases of anthrax in Canada and the United States and it is rated as a deadly and dangerous disease. Persons buying hair brushes or even tooth brushes should take every precaution to see that the product is sterilized and preferably manufactured in Canada.

Gym Classes Sponsor Membership Contest

Each class has chosen a bright colored airplane and a poster depicts a swirling sky of sunset hues across which the airplanes travel as new members are recorded. The Senior gym class leads to date with 43 new members. The standing of the other classes is as follows:

The campaign continues until February. The winning class will be guests at a party provided by the losing teams.

NEEDS BODYGUARD.

One of the George Street wags suggested this morning that the window cleaners who are using a high percentage of alcohol in the water for cleaning windows on the cold days should have bodyguards. He said the heavy flavor of alcohol which permeated the air as the windows were being washed was an inducement to the dyed in the wool "rubby-dub" drinker to grab the pail and consume the contents.

Stork Pays Two Sisters Visit At Marmora In Same Home Within 21 Hours

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 30.—Children were born to two sisters in the same room of a dwelling in Marmora Village on Friday within 21 hours.

At 12.05 a.m., Mrs. T. A. Neal of Marmora Township who was visiting her sister, Mrs. Stanley Jackson gave birth to a daughter while at 9 p.m. that same day, a son was born to Mrs. Jackson.

Both mothers and children are doing well. The event is thought to be without precedent in the village.

K. Duffus Wins Skiing Events Over Weekend

One again snow conditions prevented the holding of the ski jumping event scheduled for last Saturday afternoon at Nassau. Th club jumping champion is therefore unknown. However, this event will be held at the first opportunity.

All other events of the club championship were run quite successfully and here are the results:

Downhill— 1 Karl Duffus, 100 points; 2 George Cook, 91.47 points; 3, Andy Rutter, 86.02 points; 4 Jack Holland 85.55 points; 5, Eric Shiner, 84.45 points; 6 Gerry Dawson, 64.34 points; 7, Russell Huggins, 59.23 points.

Slalom—1 Karl Dufus, 100 points; 2, Andy Rutter, 99.61 points; 3, Jack Holland, 93.15 points; 4, Eric Shiner, 83.30 points; 5, Alec McIntosh, 79.80 points; 6, George Cook, 77.38 points.

Combined Downhill and Slalom—1, Karl Duffus, 100 points; 2, Andy Rutter, 92.81 points; 3, Jack Holland, 89.35 points; 4, George Cook, 84.43 points; 5, Eric Shiner, 83.88 points.

Some Notes.

Congratulations to the new 'champ.—Karl Duffus. He was skiing beautifully and it was a treat to watch. He was pretty closely pressed, however, especially in the slalom as the results show. Our boys will certainly make outside competitors step at the provincial championships next month.

The regular instruction classes will be held Tuesday and Thursday evenings at Victoria Park and we urge everybody to take advantage of the perfect snow conditions while they last. After the Thursday night class there will be the usual club run from the Jackson Park cabin.

Port Hope Here To Play Locals

Port Hope Juniors and the Peterborough Monarchs clash here tomorrow (Tuesday) evening at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink in a scheduled O.H.A. game. The contest was postponed from last week when a full Port Hope squad was unable to make the trip, but the Lakeshore lads will be at top strength tomorrow night. The Monarchs, too, will have all their players available, and a fine puck fixture between two young, well-matched outfits, is in prospect. The game should draw a nice crowd of fans, there being no other puck tilt here till late in the week.

Coach Pete Vitarelli's bunch are battling desperately now to stay in the running for a playoff berth. They must finish ahead of both Cobourg and Port Hope to cop a money spot, top three teams in the group making playoffs. The Monarchs dish up a snappy, pleasing brand of hockey but have had poor luck in several recent starts—their strength is shown by the fact they held the classy Lindsay Midgets to a tie here at the start of the season. The game will be fast, full of excitement and quite tight.

Drafting Dept. Gains Verdict

Drafting Dept. took a 1-0 win over Tool Room last Saturday afternoon at the Brock St. rink in an exciting C.G.E. Shop Hockey League match before a fair crowd of fans. It was a clean, hard-fought rugged tilt between well-matched outfits, with the only goal of the game coming in the middle chukker. Hough counted it, ne, Rooke and Allen turning in a fine effort for the winners; while Wade, Williams and Earle looked best for the other side. The teams:

Drafting—Goal, Mason; defence, Pakenham, Condon; centre, Hough; wings, Rooke, Allen; subs, Ellis, Preston, Cadd.

Referee—Red Creighton.

Troop Committees.

One of the best meetings for some time past was held in the Paragon Hall on Thursday night, when members of troop committees, the local association, out-of-town guests, and Peterborough scouter met to discuss the purposes of the troop committee. Many good items were brought forward. Mr. Ottowell spoke on formation and use; Mr. English on running meetings; Mr. Paterson on aims and objects; Mr. Hope on the relationship of the mothers' auxiliary to the troop committee.

Dr. Murray Fraser gave a summary of the whole after all the discussion had taken place. Mrs. Langhorne served refreshments.

There were among those present: Judge O'Connor, Mr. Craig and D. McCausland of Cobourg; Assistant District Commissioner Whitaker of Lindsay; the District Commissioner, J. T. Hornsby, and his assistants, A.D.C.'s Wolfe and Grant, and Dis Cub Leader G. Clegg; Local Association Officers Wm. C. English, B. Ottowell, A. Hope, Dr. G. Murray Fraser, 1st Group: Rev. Canon Robertson, Messrs. G. Groombridge, J. Collis, F. Forde. 3rd: Mesdames Langhorne, Curtis and Littlefair, Messrs. Moscrop and Titterington; 4th, Miss Killbrick, Messrs. S. Boque, W. Grady, N. Demars, O. Hallihan, P. Dominic; 5th: Messrs. G. Brooks, G. Cutmore, G. Webb, O. Kidd; 6th: Messrs. B. Baldwin, Cairns, White; 7th, Messrs. W. Lyburn, J. Anderson; 8th: Rev. Dr. Young and Miss Whalon; 11th: Messrs. W. A. Brown, N. Paterson, A. Chivas; 13th: C. English.

No 13 is the newest group attached to Mark Street Church and we given them a real welcome to the scouting brotherhood.

Congratulations and Good Luck.

We are real glad to hear that Scouter Sturrock of the St. Paul's South End group has received promotion and wish him all the best of luck in his new position. We are sorry to know that it will necessitate his leaving the troop and city, but know that our loss will be another's gain. Scouter Sturrock was in charge of the last Scout Apple Day, and put much time and energy into the job, bringing about its success. We understand that he may take up residence in Orono. They have just started up in scouting there and may feel the benefit of Scouter Sturrock's experience in the work. Every cub, scout and rover with all Peterborough officers wish Mr. Sturrock happy hunting and good scouting.

Real Scout Welcome.

While St. Paul's lose a leader we are happy to welcome into scouting Scout Campbell Beaton of the 1st Mount Royal Troop of Montreal. Scout Beaton has joined the Beaver patrol and we know he is in for a good time. The Beaver patrol is just one-half point behind the Bulldogs in the competition. First-aid and signalling were the principal instruction at the last meeting. St. team and no doubt will see some fun before the ice flows out.

All Saints'

Some 21 boys turned out at the last meeting, but owing to a concert going on in the hall about the most noise possible was a mouse dance. First aid and signalling instruction were given.

A highlight of the evening being that scouter and akela were put through their paces in commemoration of birthdays. Afterwards scouter was presented with a wrist compass as a gift from the boys. The A.S.M. showed one boy the art of fencing. The seconds of the Beavers and Eagles acted as ushers for the concert party. The scouter and patrol leaders urge that all boys turn out in full numbers next week and as early as possible.

The All Saints' rover crew held their first annual banquet in the central rover headquarters, Simcoe street, on Saturday evening. One of the topics of conversation was the possibility of sending someone to the world rover moot at Monsie Castle, Scotland, July 15 to 28 next. This matter had been placed before the local association by Skipper Groombridge of St. John's, but it was thought impossible to raise sufficient funds for the occasion. The sum needed is $300.00.

Canon Paterson suggested that this sum could be raised without too much trouble, and everyone thought it would be fine to send someone over as Peterborough representative. Rovers George Brooks of All Saints' and Ken Brown of St. John's have been two names placed forward, both these boys having been through every phase of scouting up to date and keen on the movement.

Special guests at the banquet were Crew Chaplain Canon Paterson, District Commissioner J. T. Hornsby, Mr. G. R. Langley, Mr. A. Hope, and Skipper George Groombridge.

Art Rose welcomed the guests and Skipper Cutmore asked each one to say a few words. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Mrs. Dobbin for her contribution in cooking the meal.

St. John's.

A few more tests were passed during the week; among them being compass work by J. Paterson, A. Harte-Maxwell and A. Hooper; signalling by Leslie Groombridge; firelightning by J. Paterson.

T.L. Brown took the boys through a vigorous P.T. period.

The pack and troop had several visitors during the evening including Rev. Canon Robertson and Rev. R. T. F. Brain, group chaplain; A.D.C. Lew Grant, and District Cub Leader Gordon Clegg.

The bean bay relay and hot potato were games played in the pack jungle. Instruction in signalling, first aid, knotting and skipping was given while several boys passed tests.

Akela gave a short pow-wow on the monthly six competition which is to commence next Friday night. The winning six will hold the honor pennant for one month.

It was announced that the old Wolves have planned for a pack ski and toboggan party to take place one Friday in February.

Broom-ball will officially make its Peterborough dayboo at the Brock tonight at the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club's ice gathering. Some of the S. & A. athletes in this unusual and highly amusing sport are I. F. McRae, H. A. Cranfield, E. G. Hardie, N. E. Crowe, W. Bennett, A Weir, Bill Hurrle and Alf Day. And the H.C. hopefuls include Cy Whatley Bill Jones, B. Ashmore, E. Spencely, Curly Krug, E. Williams and B Primeau. With C. A. Salmonsen as referee—and there'll be no back talk! Public of Peter's borough are invited and warned they come at their own risk—broom-ball being a very odd affair at best. Added feature is a gals' puck match betwixt Meter Dept. puckettes and an All-Star squad from the entire plant. Moccasin dawnce and other entertainment.

Four C.G.E. Shop Hockey League tussles at the Brock St. arena last Saturday after luncheon, with much merriment, mayhem and some hockey. Drafting defeated Tool Room, 1-0, in a nice number; Wire and Test fought it out to a dandy 1-1 draw; Switchgears shocked Cabinets with an 11-4 voltage charge; and Porcelains whitewashed the Dips and Buffs (one team with two monickers) with a 2-0 coat. A fairish crowd on deck.

Ski Club Winners

In the local Ski Club championships held at Bethany—where conditions were fine—over the week-end, Karl Duffus captured the slalom (the zig-zag business through poles) and the downhill events, Andy Rutter was second and Jack Holland third. Otto Laderach won the nine-mile cross-country race, Holland coming in second. Jumping competitions were called off at Nassau, more snow being required. The slalom was keenly fought out between Duffus and Rutter. Other ski dope probably in elsewhere tonight on the club championships. The skiers may stage their floodlight night jumping near the end of the week at Nassau — and of course, the big provincial ski meet here will be the following week-end, Feb. 11th and 12th. Come, on you snow!

And tonight the Petes are off to Belleville to wind up their schedule away against the Fliers—though they meet 'em back here on Friday. In two clashes this season, the locals broke even with the Airmen, winning here and losing on Quinte ice. They hope to cop the one tonight to remove any possible doubt of a playoff berth. Petes are after the top rung as the schedule winds up, since it'll give 'em first choice on ice for the money serial. Brock will get the scores this eve.

"The Bruising Petes"

Another squib from the Quinte columnist: "Friday's loss hurt the Redmen's chances considerably, as a win would have elevated them into a tie for first place. However, by winning over the Air Force in their next two games the scarlet-clad pucksters can finish no worse than a tie for second, while the bruising Petes have practically a cinch to hold onto the top rung. We just can't understand why the Petes continually and illegally rough the two Jacksons in Peterborough. Last game Bill was cross-checked, result an injured shoulder, and Friday Clayt had three teeth knocked out, the result of a deliberate cross-check." But our scribbling pal, who covers games here by proxy, fails to mention Archie Weir getting a gash in the head. Of course the Jacksons were not injured deliberately—that's so much nonsense.

Whitby Red Wings play in Lakefield this e'en at 8.15 in an O.H.A. intermediate "B" fixture—and this one ought to pack in the paying guests Whitby chopped Lakefield up plenty last time, and it won't be forgotten! The smooth Wings trimmed the Legionnaires a week ago, but a car collision shook the Lakefield lads' teeth and morale ere the fray commenced —and the Legros' gang claim it'll be different tonight. With the schedule getting set for a windup, the Legionnaires are fighting to keep up there in a playoff position, back of Whitby and Sutton, whilst the Oakwoods and Lindsays snap at their heels. Whitby will know they've been in a rousing scrap this e'en, we imagine.

A Big Splash Meet

There was an interesting swim meet at the Y.M.C.A. pool on Saturday night, a fair turnout of aquatic followers seeing some swell competition. And Gord Minty's crew of local foam-fighters made a right good showing. Al Marshall put the fear of the solar eclipse into Jim Prentice of Toronto in the 440 breast-stroke event. Canadian record for this is 6.29, and Prentice had to do 6.12—unofficially, of course—to beat Al, who also cracked the record with a 6.22 mark! So it kinda looks like Marshall might replace Prentice yet for that trip to Hawaii next summer. Stan McBride also did okay in his event and, in fact, the meet showed Peterborough swim talent up well.

Port Hope Juniors play the local Monarchs here on the morrow in an O.H.A. junior joust—and the Monarchs will have to get in there and cop the duke, or their chances of a playoff berth are quite a bit less than a snowball's on a pavement in July. The locals play a wide-open, classy and exciting kind of hockey, but they've been robbed as often as Toronto shops lately—and should surely get a decent break here Tuesday twilight. It'll be a good game all through, we'll bet a sizeable slice of lettuce, but we won't gamble much on the result. A tossup, but one worth seeing.

* * * * * *

Picking 'em off the Grapevine: Belleville won't have Referee D. A. Houston of Toronto any more—think they "wuz robbed" here. . .What! again, Mister Thomas?. . . .In the "Y" swim meet here Sat'day eve, a Prentice was no apprentice—oh, oh. . . .Our Colts play their first "B" junior joust in Oshawa late tomorrow night (in a doubleheader) and return here Feb. 7th. . . .Millbrook and local Aces clash in Omemee this e'en. . . . Westclox gals and "Y" Gym have a cage clash at 6.30 Tuesday p.m. in the P.C.I. gym. . . .Bowmanville and Lindsay juniors mix it again tonight, as Lindsay intermediates go to Beaverton and Sutton is at Newmarket. . . . Lou LeBarr referees the Lakefield home tilt tonight, and Army Armstrong toots the tooter at Belleville. . . .Redmen and Fliers are slated to tangle day after tomorrow. . . .And the juvenile Lakefield lads meet the Lindsay puckists on Scugog ice come Tuesday in the gloaming. . . .Winter is about half in, and puck playoffs will be commencing shortly to the right and left of us again. . . .Tank records at the "Y" pool Sat'day e'en were blown higher than a socialite's nose on a slumming tour!

Porcelains Win Beat Dip and Buff

In the windup game of the four-tilt C.G.E. Shop Hockey League program Saturday afternoon in the Brock St. rink, Porcelains pulled out a 2-0 decision over Dip and Buff. Play was exciting and marked by close-checking, with the winners scoring once each in the second and third chapters. Young and Bucknell got the counters, the other side battling hard but in vain to sew it up. There were no individual stars on either squad. The teams:

Porcelain—Goal, Maher; defence, M. Collins, English; centre, Young; wings, Murphy, J. Collins; subs, Richmond, Bucknell, Johnston

Referee—Red Creighton.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

Bob Wylli's 729 in The Examiner League nosed out three other 700 men for the top place in Friday's bowling. Walter Firth of the Brinton Carpet Company was on the warpath again for the third successive week and finished second with 727. Rolling in the City Hall group Sergeant Bill Wiggs' 715 was third, while Gordon Anderson, another Brinton sharp-shooter, counted 703. During the evening three big singles were knocked off—C. Corbett and G. Caird of the Brintons, 338 and 300, while George Kennedy of the Outboard Marine crew carded a 301.

The high score for ladies went to Miss Donoghue of the Examiner 546 (206); Miss B. Castle of the Johnson Motors was a close second with 545.

In the afternoon ladies' league Mrs. Noel Rishor and Mrs. J. Green reeled off 530 and 505 each, Mrs. Rishor's last game going for 203. Mrs. A. G. Howson chalked up 452; Mrs. Basil Hall 446; Mrs. Scott 442; Mrs. Munro 429; Mrs. Fitzgerald 429; Mrs. Cruthers 409; Mrs. Herb. Young 405, and Mrs. Blaiklock 406.

Besides Wyllie's big score in the Examiner group, Bob Baker's 619 was next; Pete McLean 609; A. Stanley 609; Miss Donoghue 546; Miss Rodney 481; Miss Spriggs 468; Miss Wyllie 434, and Miss Scott 403.

The results in the City Hall league showed Miss Thompson 515; Mrs. Beatty 490; Miss Long 444; Miss Vincent 420, and Mr. Wigg 715.

Pete McArthur's 668 headed the packed Johnson Motors group. George Kennedy had 639; E. McKinstry 632; J. Boyle Sr. 628; J. Boyle, Jr. 626; Bob Patridge 620; Stan Kerneghan 618; G. Webb 610; Miss Castle 543; Miss G. O'Brien 500 and Miss D. Moscrop 420.

Heavy hitting was shown by all the Brinton trundlers. Miss M. McFarlane 540; Miss Langfield 537 (240); Miss B. Fitzgerald 505 (207); Miss E. Hodson 504; Miss M. Hall 493; Miss P. Paterson 447; Miss L. Glaum 445; Mrs. D. Fuller 443; Miss M. Leether 442; Miss D. Ridyard 426; Miss Madge McFarlen 424; Walter Firth 727; G. Anderson 703; C. Corrbett 697; T. Maudsley 661; V. Rose 658; Stu Laing 627; J. Basciano 615; Leo Marty 613 and H. Jones 612.

When Saturday's A.Y.P.A. league was over Miss R. Reid had put in a 3-game string of 200, 216, 219 for 635; Miss Edna Millard's 620 included 254 and 208 singles; Miss C. Long 561 (219); Miss E Biddle 507; Miss Olive Cookman 466, and Miss Edith Spencely a 214 single game. Ralph Mason was in fine form to chalk up 711, Tom Maudsley 693, R. Worsencroft 660; Bill Hill 639; Fred Ford 634 and J. Adamson 627.

The following are the averages of bowlers rolling 200 or over in the C.G.E. Shop Bowling League. Joe Marsden, veteran trundler, heads the list of around 300 pin-spillers with 238 for his 30 games:

HASTINGS, Jan. 30—Campbellford Midgets copped a 12 to 3 decision from Hastings Midgets in a hockey tilt here Saturday afternoon before a good attendance. Displaying lack of practice and outweighed by the Campbellford crew, the locals went into the game battling all the time. Bob West, in the Hastings nets probably stopped more pucks than any goal tender here this year but despite the fact, an odd one slipped past. He was the outstanding player on the ice for the locals.

Campbellford lads displayed good combination and were a little faster on skates than Hastings. Lambert and Storey were standouts with three and four goals respectively to their credit.

Campbellford netted three in the first, three in the second and six in the third. Goal getters were, Dunk 3, Storey 4, Lambert 3, Fraser 1, Hendricks 1. Hastings counted one in the first and two in the third with credit to Turner for 2 and Herrington 1. The teams:

Elect Officers

Henry Scriver, rink manager indicated at the meeting that he was deeply interested in the youth of the village and by his efforts a bantam and juvenile hockey team will be organized this year. He pointed out that if the midgets fail to get anywhere this year, the foundation has been laid for a better team next season. "We have sufficient hockey talent here and there is no reason why we shouldn't have good teams in the matter of this year and next," he said.

"Y" Volleyballers Lose To Toronto

Central Y.M.C.A. playing a smashing attack pounded their way to victory over the Peterborough Y.M.C.A., in the Senior Volleyball tournament at the Y.M.C.A. Peterborough played a strong offensive game but lacked the necessary strength on the defensive.

First game—Central went into an early lead gaining nearly 8 points before the local team got going. Peterborough snapped into life and gave Central a good run. Final score Central 15, Peterborough 10.

Second game — The local team, playing an air tight game came through with a splendid victory. The spiking of Stan Payne and Cliff Cadd was the outstanding feature of this game. The Central team were powerless to stop the smashing drives of these two boys whenever they came near the net. Final score Peterborough 15, Central 11.

Feature One

Third game—The third game was the feature exhibition of the evening. The victory in the proceeding game gave the local boys added enthusiasm. Neither team gained more than 1 or 2 points in any one run, making a very close game. Central finally pulled ahead to win the game 15 to 13. McVicar, White and West were best for Central while Eric Vincent, Nels Stanger and Art Rhodes were best for the losers.

Fourth Game.—A packed gallery in the fourth game added plenty of life to the last game, with everyone pulling for Peterborough to even up the series. The game was nip and tuck with the final outcome in doubt all the way. Jim Gillespie, playing away above his head, nearly made the game single handed for his team mates. Many long and hard fought volleys pleased the crowd. Final score: Central 15, Peterborough 13.

Lineup:

Central — Wes McVicar, Doug White, Fred Warren, Frank Robin, John West, Doug Roddy, Jack Scott.

Referee—Claude; Elliott umpire—W. Ferris.

We regret to say that the Toronto Y.M.C.A. found it necessary to withdraw the very last moment.

Allan Marshall Cracks 440 Canadian Mark

In a keenly-contested aquatic meet between Toronto West End "Y" swimmers and local performers in the Peterborough "Y" pool on Saturday evening, the Canadian 440-yard breast stroke record of 6 mi[illegible] 29 secs. was broken—though unofficially—by Jim Prentice of Toronto and Al Marshall of Peterborough. Prentice did the course in 6.12 while Marshall's mark was 6.22. A fair-sized crowd witnessed the races.

Several Y.M.C.A. tank records here went by the boards as the local talent forced the starry visiting aggregation to the utmost to win the meet. It was a return competition between the two clubs, and Coach Gord Minty's Peterborough swimmers impressed with their improved ability. Marshall will be trying in the spring to better Prentice's mark again to earn a trip to Hawaii, where three countries compete in water events. Stan McBride broke the tank record in the 40-yard free style, losing by a touch to Bill Marshall in 19 seconds. He was also second to Art Owens in the 40 backstroke in the new time of 25 2-5 seconds.

Results:

440 yds. Breast Stroke—1, Jim Prentice, W.E.Y.; 2, Allan Marshall, Peterborough. Time 6 mins. 12 secs., unofficial Canadian Record. Old record 6 mins. 29 secs.

Brantford To Honor Ion And Northcott

BRANTFORD, Ont., Jan. 30 (C[illegible] —Hockey enthusiasts from Brantford will make a presentation to—of all people—a referee at a Toronto hockey game March 4.

Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League, has ruled that Mickey Ion will referee the Chicago-Toronto game that night so that 500 Brantford fans may give the veteran official a silver telephone set between periods. Baldy Northcott of the Chicago team will receive an identical gift.

Ion is a native of Brantford and Northcott lived here for several years. The telephone sets are symbolic of the fact that Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone here.

Leafs Blank Wings 6-0, Tie Them 2-2 While Bruins Nick Amerks 3-2; Lowly Canadiens Lick Hawks 1-0

By Jack Calder
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Florida's peace and quiet must seem good to Bill Stewart, the baseball umpire who put in a winter and a half as manager of hockey's most unpredictable team. Stewart happens to be the luckiest man of the many who have been fired by Major Frederic McLaughlin, the explosive owner of the Chicago Black Hawks.

When Stewart was let out a month ago ,the Hawks were in fourth place in the National Hockey League. Bill and some other people were pretty bitter about his ousting and didn't realize the Hawks were on the verge of a complete collapse. It turns out that Stewart, who received his salary for the rest of the season, was fortunate that he got out while people remembered that the Hawks won the Stanley Cup under his guidance.

Montreal Canadiens licked the Black Hawks 1-0 last night at Chicago in the Hawks' ninth game since Paul Thompson and Carl Voss became co-leaders of the club, replacing Stewart. In the nine games, they have collected a total of six goals and not more than one in a single contest. They are in sixth place, only three points above the last-place Canadiens.

So life can't seem too hard to Stewart as he holidays in Florida. Bask. Bill, bask.

Break For Wings

Chicago's defeat was a break for Detroit Red Wings, who picked up only one point in two games with Toronto. The Maple Leafs trimmed the Wings 6-0 Saturday night at Toronto and earned a 2-2 tie last night at Detroit, but the Detroiters gained a point in their struggle to hold fifth position.

The league-leading Boston Bruins made their advantage the longest of the season, eight points, by winning 3-2 over the Americans last night at New York. Co-holders of second position with the Americans, New York Rangers were idle all weekend in preparation for a program of four games in six nights, opening Tuesday.

Defenceman Walter Buswell notched the late goal that gave Canadiens their Chicago triumph, inaugurating the regime of Jules Dugal as manager and Babe Siebert as assitant manager of the Habitants—they went in when Cecil Hart went out last week. With less than three minutes to play Bushwell whacked a close-in shot past Goalie Mike Karakas after a relay from Toe Blake and Johnny Gagnon.

Six Toronto players got the six goals Saturday night and one of them went to Gus Marker, just back in the lineup after a two-months layoff necessitated by a leg injury. The other scorers, some of whom got aid from Detroit's accordion defence, were Gordon Drillon, Sylvanus Apps, Murphy Chamberlain, Pep Kelly and Harvey Jackson. Goalie Turk Broda of the Leafs scored his seventh shutout of the season, tying Frank Brimsek of Boston for league leadership in that respect.

Show More Fight

There was more fight in the Wings Sunday and they came back twice to tie the score. Bucko McDonald, playing back on Detroit ice against his old teammates, sent the Leafs ahead in the first period but Herb Lewis tied the score in the second. George Parsons renewed the Toronto advantage before that period ended but Syd Howe levelled the score in the third.

There were a fist-fight, a disputed goal and rugged play galore for the 14,848 spectators at New York. Bill Hollett of the Bruins and Nels Stewart of the Americans provided the fight in the second period, Eddie Shore the disputed goal in the first. Cooney Weiland of the Bruins and Eddie Wiseman of the Americans split early goals, then Shore bagged one which provoked hot argument before it was decided.

Roy Conacher sent Boston farther ahead in the third and it was not until only four minutes remained that Hooley Smith scored for Americans. By assisting in both the losers' goals, Tommy Anderson took a two-point lead in the league's individual scoring totals.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

Six mixed rinks from Lakefield motored down Saturday evening and enjoyed a friendly game with six mixed rinks from our club. A 10-end game was played and at the conclusion of the game light refreshments were served at the club.

The Peterborough curlers were successful in winning the games but it was close, five points being the margin. A return game will be played in Lakefield sometime within the next two weeks.

On Wednesday morning, in Toronto, at the Victoria club play will commence for the ladies' tankard competition. Our club will be represented by a rink skipped by Mrs. D. Clark, Miss H. Fanning, vice, Mrs. F. Bruce, second, and Miss M. Patterson leading. We notice Bobcaygeon will have two entries, one skipped by Mrs. Pardy and the other by Mrs. McIntosh.

Our crowd was not so large on Saturday afternoon. Maybe the double headers and the bonspiel on Wednesday were responsible. However those that did come out seemed to be enjoying themselves.

H. Dulmage's rink won the hams, J. Sedgewick's rink came second and each member received a half pound of tobacco while the third prize of 50 cigarettes each went to H. Clegg's rink.

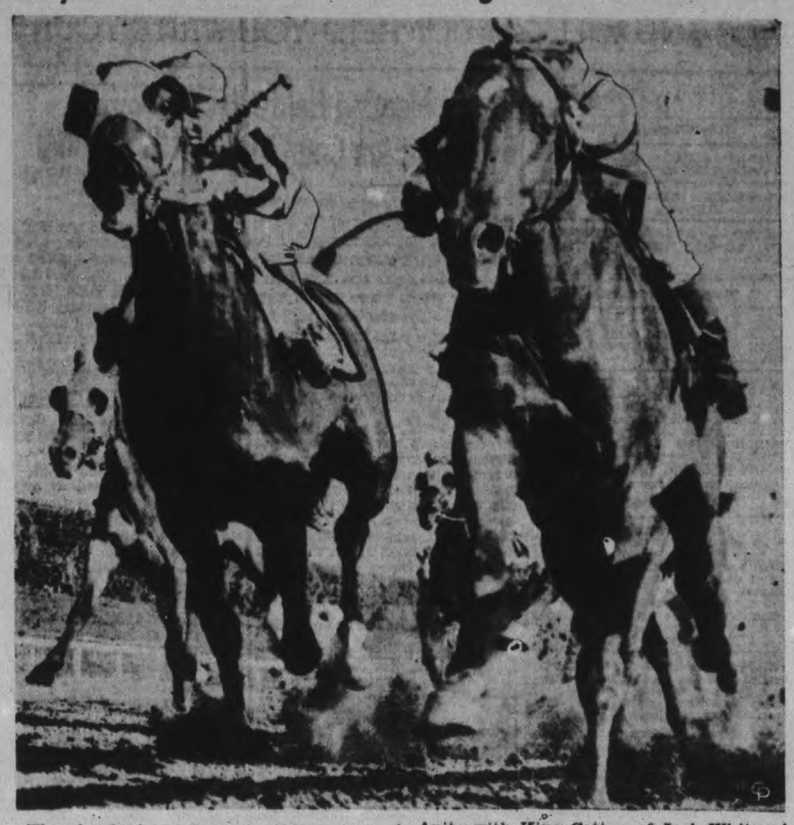
Plenty Of Horse and All Of It Moving Fast



There's plenty of horse in this picture and easily seen, too. Seabread, Charles S. Howard's second Seabiscuit (maybe) was battling it out in the back stretch at Santa Anita with King Cotton of Jock Whitney's stable. Jockey Ralph Neves was up on the Howard horse and booted him home with his first victory. That's Seabread on the RIGHT.

5-Man Hockey Now Offered To Sport Fans

By GORDON HEADLEY
Central Press Canadian Correspondent

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—Latest move in the streamlining development that has affected everything from motor cars to kiddy cars has been introduced here in hockey. An intermediate city league has been formed, but instead of the six men on the ice that fans have been accustomed to, the teams will operate with five players! One defenceman has been removed and life is even tougher for goal-minders.

Cecil Duncan, former president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and one of the pioneers in the development of the game, advocated cutting down the number of players and the idea has been adopted and put into effect by the league. The objective is faster hockey and improved stickhandling.

Hockey is still a fast spectacle, but stickhandling is rapidly becoming a lost art. Back in the days of the quilted jackets, seven-man hockey, Ottawa's famed Silver Seven and Montreal's redoubtable Wanderers, stickhandling was an art in itself, but the game has changed tremendously.

Forward Pass Started It

The forward pass did more than any other single innovation to destroy the fancy manoeuvres with a stick that for a long period in the game delighted hockey audiences. When coaches and players discovered that a puck driven across a zone could travel a lot faster than a man on skates, stickhandling went by the boards. A single defenceman in this new style of five-man hockey has helped to revive it.

As far back as the records go, nine men have played on one starting team, but it's the dawn of a new era! Five men will start out as the first string and, in the event of two players from the same team drawing successive penalties, the delayed penalty rule will be put into effect so that no less than four men will still be on the ice. The teams are using 12 signed players, with only 10 allowed to be dressed for a game.

Commenting on his idea, Duncan said:

"I know it's something new and perhaps a lot of people have ridiculed the plan, but they haven't seen the teams play. People who follow hockey and have watched the clubs perform with only five players to a side are firm in their belief that the idea is here to stay. I agree with them. Amateur players will be given a much-needed chance to do more skating, more stickhandling and the goalie will be given three times the work he would receive in a game with six men on a team.

Gridiron Example

"Six-man football is sweeping parts of Canada and I have seen them play it. The players provided the public with a lot more action than a regulation 12-man squad and fans are solidly behind the plan. Why not have hockey along the same lines? Each player is required to do twice the work he would in a match with six players to a side. I firmly believe the plan, following the success attained when the idea was on trial, will remain in Canadian hockey and eventually reach the professional game."

The first time five-man hockey was put on trial here people flocked to the Auditorium, where some of hockey's greatest stars used to ply their wares in the N.H.L., and were astounded with the added speed, stickhandling ability and work of the rivalg oalies. Forwards played their own positions and only on a few occasions did they remember that only one defenceman was backing them up behind the blue line. Goalies never stopped so many pucks in their lives. Defencemen never had to block and skate more at any time in their careers. Forwards found the going comparatively easy once in possession of the puck, but on the defence it was an entirely different picture. At the finish when they drapped tired bodies off the ice, they honestly believed and felt they had never received a more thorough test since they started playing the game.

Beauty and the Hockey Player

There's always somebody somewhere being caught taking what has come to be known as a "busman's holiday" and in this instance Lynn Patrick, left wing with his father's Rangers in the N.H.L., was the party. You could hardly blame Lynn for taking in the American-Maple Leaf game in New York when his team had an off night and he had a chance to watch some other guys work, while he sat with Miss Dorothy Davis of Winnipeg, and looked on... or at.

Wilson And Winnipeg Lass Of 16 Win Skating Championships

TORONTO, Jan. 30 (CP) — A figure skater to be a champion must master the tough, intricate school of compulsory figures, the less colorful but more exacting half of the routine used to decide singles championships. Montgomery (Bud) Wilson's superiority at the figures has kept him ahead of Canadian blade artists since 1929.

There are more athletic skaters than Wilson, in the sense of their daring turns and jumps, but none is so complete a master of the sport's fundamentals. It was as much this ability as his grace and timing on the free skating that won Wilson his ninth Canadian singles championship Saturday night.

From Ralph McCreath, runner-up for the championship, came the tribute after the compulsory figures Saturday afternoon that Wilson "is at least a point better than the rest of us at figures." Wilson still was at least a point ahead of McCreath and three others after a typical, smooth performance in the night's free skating.

O'Meara Places Third

Sixteen - year - old Mary Rose Thacker of Winnipeg, who started figure-skating when she was three, led the women's division at figures and went on in the free skating to succeed Eleanor O'Meara of Toronto as senior champion. Miss O'Meara finished third behind Norah McCarthy of Toronto.

Miss McCarthy, junior singles champion in 1938, skated with McCreath to win the senior pairs championship from Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cruickshank of Ottawa. McCreath, who combined to such perfection with his new partner that veteran observers said they were the best team developed at the Toronto Skating Club in years, won the event last year with Mrs. Humphrey Bonnycastle, the former Veronica Clarke.

The fours championship went to the only entry, the Toronto Skating Club's Gillian Watson, Ruth Hall, Sandy McKechnie and Donald Gilchrist . A leg injury to Robert Surtees forced the withdrawal of an Ottawa Minto Club quartet. The Cruickshanks won the waltzing championship and placed second in the 10-step competition to Janet Sweatman and her brother, Fraser, of Winnipeg.

Ramblers Take Stars By 4-2

(By the Canadian Press.)

It can't be said of the section-leading Philadelphia Ramblers in the International-American Hockey League that they attempt in any fashion to play defensive hockey. One look at their record for the season is enough to show that the Ramblers play as wide open hockey as possible.

That they pay little attention to defensive tactics is shown by the fact that although they lead all teams in both sections, they have had more goals scored against them than any other team. But it's also true that they have compiled a remarkable goal total with 137 tallies in 36 games. Against them they have 114.

The Ramblers came out best of any Int.-Am. team which saw action twice during the week-end by trimming Syracuse Stars 4-2 last night after drawing 2-2 with Pittsburgh Hornets the previous night. They are now 13 points ahead of the second place Providence Reds in the eastern group.

Cleveland Barons, leaders of the western section, trounced the Reds 5-2 last night after dropping a 3-1 overtime decision to the Providence team Saturday.

The third Sunday contest found Pittsburgh trouncing New Haven Eagles 5-3 for the second setback of the week-end for the Eagles. They dropped a 6-4 decision Saturday to Springfield Indians. Hershey won their only start, topping Syracuse 3-2 Saturday night.

Hugh Gustafson got two, Bill Carse and Lloyd Roubell one each in Philadelphia's victory over Syracuse. The Stars were held to tallies by Bummer Doran and Jack Church. Gustafson also tallied once in the tie game with the Hornets while Kilby Macdonald got the other Philadphia goal. Pittsburgh markers went to Dave Trottier and Johnny Sherf.

Cunningham paced Barons to their victory over the Reds with two goals, while Patterson, Lorne Duguid and Paul Runge had one each. De Marco and Wilson scored the Reds' goals. Pat McReavy and Phil Hergesheimer scored for Cleveland in the Saturday contest, while Starr and De Marco tallied for the Reds.

Remember When—

Max Schmeling, No. 1 heavyweight challenger at the time, defeated South Africa's Ben Foord by a decision at Hamburg, Germany, a year ago tonight in a 12-round fight. The bout, a tune-up for Schmeling's title meeting with Joe Louis in June, provided the German with unexpectedly stiff opposition; considering his preceding knockout victories over Louis and Harry Thomas.

Switchgears Win From Cabinets

Paced by Honey Tompkins, the Switchgears on Saturday proved too tough for the Cabinets in a C.G.E. puck match at the Brock and romped home with an 11-4 smirk. They got five in the first and three each the next two innings. Cabinets made it a scrap the last half with three counters in the second and one in the third. The score was not a good indication of play in a fast, clean tussle. Flint dug a lot of rubber out of his net, goal scorers being Leggitt and Tompkins with four, Jobe and Earle with two each, and MacDonald, MacDougall and Heard with one each. Leggitt, Tompkins, Jobe, Earl MacDougall and Nicholls were game stars. The teams:

Referee—Red Creighton.

Indian River Heads Rural League

HAVELOCK, Jan. 30. — In the matter of total points, Indian River is heading the seven teams in the East Peterborough Rural Hockey League so far, with five wins in six games played, Elgin, however, is in a position to push ahead, not having suffered a loss in their first four matches. Havelock Albions and Westwood are tied for third position with three wins apiece, with Hastings and Donegal next in line and Trent River occupying the cellar, not having won a start yet.

The league will follow a fairly heavy schedule during the next month. Elgin takes on Westwood in the latter place to-night and on Tuesday there will be a double-header at the Havelock rink with the Indian River squad playing Trent River, and the Albions versus Elgin.

The standing to date is as follows:

	P	W	L	T	Pt
Indian River	6	5	1	0	10
Elgin	4	4	0	0	8
Westwood	6	3	3	0	6
Havelock	6	3	3	0	6
Hastings	4	2	2	0	4
Donegal	6	1	5	0	2
Trent River	4	0	4	0	0

WASTED NO TIME

MELBOURNE—(CP)—A 17-year-old Australian cricketer, M. Archer, scored 125 in 35 minutes, including nine 6s and fourteen 4s.

IN MEMORIAM

CHATTEN.—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who departed from us Saturday, January 28, six years ago.

Every day brings sweet memories,
Every memory brings a tear,
Deep within our hearts we cherish
Thoughts of one we love so dear.
Though the world is full of sunshine,
Full of sorrow and of pain,
Still to us it would be heaven
If you were only here again.

—Ever remembered by Wife and daughter, Mrs. George McCurrach and grandson Stanley.

HUGHES, Samuel.—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, who passed away January 30.

You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be;
As long as life and memory last
We will remember.

—Ever remembered by Mother, Dad, Sisters and Brothers.

PRESTON.—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, William Preston, who departed this life January 30, 1934.

January brings sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest,
Who will always be remembered
By those who loved him best.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears in silence often flow,
Memory keeps you ever near us
Though it is five year ago.

—Sadly missed by his Wife and Family.

CARDS OF THANKS

Vestry Meeting Held By Haliburton Church

HALIBURTON, Jan. 30. — The annual vestry meeting of St. George's Church, Haliburton was held on Monday with the Rev. Canon Battersby in the chair and Miss Clark as vestry clerk. There was a good attendance. The churchwarden's report showed a large increase in finances over several years. Splendid reports were given by both senior and junior auxiliaries and the Sunday School is in good financial standing. Both church wardens were re-elected, Clayton Hodgson as clergyman's warden and Robert Borden as People's Warden. Mr. Carruthers was elected lay delegate to the synod with Robert Borden as substitute. A very hearty vote of thanks was tendered the wardens for the very efficient way they have managed the finances. In the early summer, the church basement had extensive repairs done and the whole basement painted.

Armed With Cannon

It was learned the new Bell plane is armed with a one pound demolition cannon for use against heavy bombing planes and two machine guns. All of the guns are fired from the pilot's cockpit which is placed in front of the motor. The motor operates a gear-driven propeller.

Among the four types of pursuit ships made by Curtiss is the Hawk 75A, an adaption of another type which recently was said to have achieved 575 miles an hour in a free power dive.

France ordered 100 Hawks and was recently reported as ordering another 100.

Increased orders from the army and navy soon may send payrolls far past the 5,000 mark, a spokesman said, although production at the Curtiss plant could be doubled by placing idle machinery into operation.

Test And Wiremen Battle To 1-1 Tie

In the most keenly fought C.G.E. Shop hockey game played at the Brock St. rink Saturday, Test and Wiremen went to a 1-1 tie. Wire scored in the first and the Test crew evened it up in the third. Pammett counted the initial goal and just before the last bell, Krug's corner shot went in off Harding's stick. It was a clean, fast and tight scrap, with the two goalies starring to hold down the score. Mason, Krug and Blanchard got the only penalties. Pammett went good for the Wire, with both sides having no standouts. The teams:

Wire—Goal, Harding; defence, Broadley, Hawks; centre, Heal; wings, Pammett, Millard; subs, White, Mason, Akers, Hatton

Referee—Red Creighton.

MORE ABOUT—

times borrowed cigarette money from the officer. In Campbell's letter to his sister he asked her to tell the officer the money would be repaid.

'At no time did I see Wilson in Windsor," witness said. "I did not know where he was and had no communication from him."

A letter written by Howard Campbell Nov. 20, 1938, to Chief Inspector Boyd of the Provincial Police, was read by Mr. Hope. It labelled Campbell's story of $350 asked for police as a "bunch of lies."

Witness said his sister (Miss Campbell) told him that Inspector E. D. L. Hammond of the provincial police had "made a bargain" with Melville Campbell. Melville was anxious "to get Wilson." "Favors were offered" Melville if "he would help frame Wilson." The reward was to be a light sentence.

Witness said Inspector Hammond gave false information to Melville Campbell.

Howard said he had made no effort to get a reward for Melville's arrest.

Police Reporter Involved.

Athol Gow, Toronto Star police reporter, in Windsor Oct. 14, 15 and 16, said he met Constable Wilson in the Prince Edward Hotel there at 9 p.m., October 14, as Wilson registered. Gow "challenged" Wilson when the constable said he was in Windsor on "labor trouble." Gow was with Wilson from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m.

"I was anxious to keep near him," said Gow. "I was looking for some sory though I didn't know just what it was about." Wilson had no other visitors but Gow that evening.

Gow, "still a little dubious" about Wilson, telephoned Wilson's room at 4.30 a.m. "to make sure he was still around."

Counsel Hope read part of a letter to the editor of the Toronto Telegram from Melville Campbell saying Gow could prove Wilson was in Windsor with Howard Campbell the night of the bank robbery. Gow said it couldn't be true. It was the day after the robbery that he, Gow, reached Windsor.

Gow said that in London, Melville Campbell in police court told him that "his brother, Howard, and Mary Rogers put the finger on me." Gow decided not to write the story after consulting Inspector Hammond. He thought "Mary Rogers" was "Mary Donnelly."

Gow also quoted Melville Campbell as saying "Oscar got me in all this trouble." There was no mention of money paid Wilson.

"I'm astounded at this whole thing," Gow said.

Mortgage Money.

Miss Olive Campbell, Toronto, said she visited her brother Melville in London jail. She had received a message Melville wanted to see her about mortgage money given Howard for their mother. Witness knew this wasn't true."

When Miss Campbell saw Melville, he told her Inspector Hammond had told him she and Howard gave the information leading to his arrest.

Witness said Melvilel asked her to ask Wilson to come and see him and he would get information concerning bonds stolen from Richmond, Ont., banks. Melville thought this might make his sentence lighter. Miss Campbell didn't see Wilson. She saw Inspector Boyd and was told no promises would be made.

Melville was disappointed because Wilson didn't come to see him and his sister quoted him as follows: "That S—— Wilson, if it's the last thing I do, I'll frame him."

Miss Campbell denied evidence given by Melville concerning a promise she was supposed to have made to see Wilson.

"It was Howard, Mel was really sore at," she said. "He thought it was through his visit to Windsor police got the information that led to his arrest." In London Melville admitted he never gave Howard $350. "But he figured Howard had put him in jail and he was going to put him there," she said.

Just Liquor Money

Kathleen Byrne, formerly of Ottawa, who was with Melville Campbell and Moore in the Windsor apartment, told the commission the only money she saw pass was that given to Howard by Melville to buy liquor. Nor had Melville Campbell mentioned the $350 payment to her.

Earl Campbell, Melville's 18-year-old son, said his father asked him to visit Constable Wilson and get $150 Wilson owed him. Earl added that when he visited Wilson at his Toronto home to ask for the money the constable said "things were pretty tough," but that he would pay it before Christmas.

At this point counsel Hope reminded the youth he was on oath.

Earl said he visited Chief Inspector Boyd but on the promise by Wilson to pay the $150 he told the inspector nothing of any "transaction." Earl said he never saw General Williams regarding the case. Wilson was a frequent visitor at Melville Campbell's house "before all this happened," Earl added.

Mrs. Roy Pierce of Owen Sound, also a sister of Melville, said she knew Provincial Constable Noble but she had never discussed with him or any other provincial officer the charge by her brother against Wilson.

Campbell's Story.

According to the story which Campbell told, he was at his Windsor "hide out" apartment with Kathleen Burns on the day following his robbery of the Mount Brydges bank. His brother Howard had been sent up to the apartment by Constable Wilson who was at the Prince Edward Hotel, he said.

"Howard had been sent up to the apartment by Wilson," Campbell said. "He knew who had taken the bank."

That was on October 13, 1938. He said that in about 35 or 40 minutes Howard returned to say he had given the money to Wilson.

"And he wanted me to go down to Orangeville," Campbell added. "Wilson sent a message that he wanted me, on the following Saturday, or week from the following Saturday, to go down to Orangeville to take a payroll—not a payroll—money that was going out of the bank in Orangeville down to a smaller bank in the country a few miles. The information he gave me was that they come there each Saturday morning to get it and take it from there down to this other town."

In addition to the $350 intended for Wilson, Melville said he gave his brother $25 for himself to buy a few clothes.

Campbell, continuing his story, said that on the Monday night prior to the hold-up he had telephoned Wilson at his house in Toronto.

"I had come down to Toronto by a letter that he sent me, wanting me to take a bank down at Toronto —near Toronto."

A Bank Tip-off

The letter from Wilson, he said, he had received in Windsor and had torn up. "He told me that if I'd come to Toronto that he'd tell me where there was a bank which he a good scoop. He signed his name Alec—I knew where the letter was from."

As as result of that letter he had come to Toronto to phone Wilson, he said. Wilson wanted him to rob a bank at Aurora, Campbell's, testimony read.

"I told him I had a bank near London that I was going to take, either one near London, or in the city of London. And he said that he would come up and see me after the bank was taken—in Windsor."

Campbell declared that "he (Wilson) was supposed to send me back two 38 automatics from Toronto."

"You say that this sum of $350 involved an undertaking on the part of Wilson to provide you with two .38 automatics?" Hope asked.

"Yes," Campbell said.

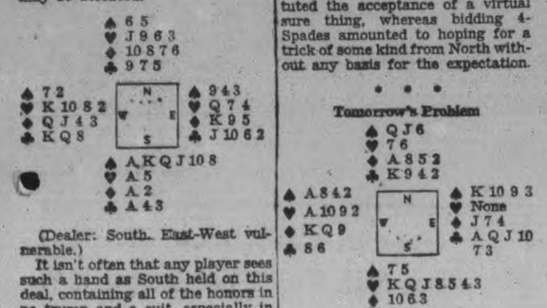
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

A FEW SURE THINGS

NOT MANY ABSOLUTE "sure thing" propositions are offered to bridge players. But there are a few which can be grasped, and which should be grasped, when the alternative involves any risk which is not commensurate with the possible gain. Among these may be included the cashing of the crucial trick which makes the contract for the declarer, or which defeats it for the defense. The same principle applies to bidding, in the selection of a contract which can not possibly be beaten, in preference to one which may be defeated.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

It isn't often that any player sees such a hand as South held on this deal, containing all of the honors in no trump and a suit, especially in the ranking suit of spades. The particular rubber player who had this one let it go to his head.

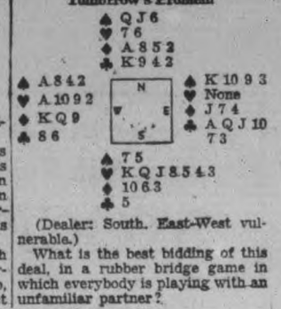
After starting the bidding with 2-Spades and hearing North's correct strength denial of 2-No trump, South made the perfectly correct rebid of 3-Spades and North the obviously proper bid of 3-No trump.

Right there is where South went wrong. He bid 4-Spades, which everybody passed. No possible development, outside of a revoke by the opposition, could enable him to make that contract, which was set one trick.

The simplest of counting would have shown South that at no trump he could run six spade tricks, barring a most freakish distribution of the outstanding ones, and could add on three more tricks for the side aces. Passing the 3-No trump call by North would have constituted the acceptance of a virtual sure thing, whereas bidding 4-Spades amounted to hoping for a trick of some kind from North without any basis for the expectation.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

What is the best bidding of this deal, in a rubber bridge game in which everybody is playing with an unfamiliar partner?

Collegiate Addition

COBOURG, Ont., Jan. 28 — (CP) —The Ontario Municipal Board has approved of the issue of $50,000 debentures to build an addition to the Collegiate Institute in this Eastern Ontario town.

The ratepayers authorized the expenditure in January, 1938, the Municipal Board refused to sanction the borrowing because the vote was representative. Put to the ratepayers again this month, there was a much larger vote. The by-law carried again, but the majority was smaller.

Eggs were plentiful again and the price was weak and unsteady. At that, most of the offerings sold around 20 to 22 cents a dozen, but shortly after the noon hour buyers could take their pick for 18 cents. The earlier range was from 20 to 25 cents, and the bulk of the business was done at those quotations. About two months ago eggs were selling around 35 to 40 cents.

The average price of chickens was from 20 to 25 cents, but as the morning neared the noon hour producers were willing to shade the price. Here and there eighteen cents a pound was mentioned. There were a few turkeys at 24 and 25 cents, and stray ducks at 20 cents.

Butter was steady at 23 and 22 cents.

Fresh Meat Prices

The supply of meat outdoors seemed ampler than usual, the quality was attractive, and apparently demand was brisk. George Mullen quoted 14 and 16 cents for pork and 11 and 13 cents for beef.

H. R. Gill's prices were 18 and 20 cents for lamb, 12 and 14 cents for mutton, 14 and 16 cents for pork, and 10 and 12 cents for beef.

Potatoes were about the same prices as a week ago, but there was no mention of $1.50 a bag. Fred McMahon of Millbrook asked $1.40 for Wee McGregors, and A. Olan $1.35 for Dooleys. G. Patten of North Monaghan also quoted $1.35 for Dooleys.

Harold Doig's vegetable quotations were parsnips and carrots 15c for six quart basket quantity; onions 25 cents for the same measure; turnips three for ten cents and cabbage 5c each. Incidentally he reported a trip to Haliburton during the week. An order was telephoned to him early in the evening and the next morning he was in Haliburton at 10 o'clock with an assortment of vegetables.

Norman Moncrief's apple list Saturday was as follows: Snows 40c, Spies, 25, 35 and 40c; McIntosh Reds 45c; Talmans and Delicious 40c; Russets 35c.

B. Isaacs of Norham was selling Spies at $1.50 to $1.75 the hamper.

Springbrook Lodge Enjoys "At Home"

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Ont., Jan. 28.—On Wednesday evening Springbrook Orangemen were hosts to members and their families in the district at an "at home" given in the Orange Hall. Despite the bitterly cold weather over one hundred persons were present to enjoy a program followed by round and square dancing and a bountitful lunch.

The program was as follows:

Instrumental numbers by Bert Kouri; reading by Miss Mary Johnson; duets by Gordon and Don Bateman; solos by Norma Mason; address by Canon W. G. Swayne; solos by J. F. Baker; duets by Miss Jeffrey and Miss McKee; solo by Mrs. B. Woodbeck. County Warden Geo. E. Thompson and Orange County Master John Morrison gave short addresses.

District Master Orrie Barton acted as chairman.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 103

Millbrook School Honors H. Williams

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 30.—The Literary Society of the Millbrook Continuation School met in regular session on Friday from 3 to 4 p.m., with the president, Ken Kidd, in the chair, and the whole audience joining in "O Canada," as an opening chorus; Robina Tate presided at the piano, and Esther Might acted as sceretary pro tem.

Bea McDowell's group was responsible for the program, which was of an impromptu character, with the chair emphasizing that anyone called upon must respond readily, doing whatever was requested toward the entertainment.

A piano solo by Robina Tate was heartily encored, and the matter of electing a new treasurer, to replace the present officer, Hugh Williams, who is shortly leaving Millbrook for a new home, took up some time, Billy Deyell receiving the office.

Beatrice and Nan Fallis asng, "Gold Mine in the Sky" and Audrey Wood gave a piano solo, followed by a clever impersonation of Robert Burns, by Ken Kidd.

After a recitation by Leatha Rowland, Hugh Williams was invited to the front of the room, when he president smoke appreciatively of his fine contribution to the general school life and voiced the regret felt at losing a popular pupil from the school, and the community. On behalf of the pupils and staff, Hugh was presented with a gold signet ring, Billy Deyell offering the gift, which had engraved on its inner side, "From the M. C. S." Suitable reply was made by the recipient, and the school principal, Miss Flora E. Morgan, also spoke, mentioning her persona regret at the loss of a capable and diligent scholar.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Rev. H. R. Williams and his family, after eight years' residence in the community, leave next week for their new home in Avonton, near Stratford.

This appointment is the privilege of the Warden.

Oats Win 4th Prize.

Doreen Nichol has been notified from Ottawa that an entry of oats at the school fair which won first prize has been awarded fourth prize by the agricultural department.

Doreen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Nichol, Roseneath, and a pupil of Lorne Anderson, principal of Roseneath Public school.

Fair Board Meets.

At the annual meeting of the Roseneath Agricultural Society, the financial report presented by Andrew Brown, treasurer, showed a balance of $3,000 on hand.

It was decided to add to the plant and equipment by building more entrances and additional cattle sheds. Extra parking space will be provided also.

The officers of 1938 were re-elected: President, F. J. Slade; 1st Vice-President, A. J. Campbell; 2nd Vice-President, H. Mouncey; Secretary, C. W. Varcoe; Treasurer, Andrew Brown.

Meat Dishes.

Upward of fifty were in attendance at the home of Mrs. George Mouncey, where she and Mrs. L. Tucker, delegates to the meat cookery project sponsored by the department of Women's Institutes, put on a demonstration. Four meat dishes were demonstrated, the actors prefacing their work by outlining the rules of meat cookery, and passing out the information regarding the body building material contained in meat and milk. The problem of the home maker said Mrs. Tucker, is wise, careful buying and skillful preparation of meats.

From three to five o'clock progressive euchre was played, Miss Ruby Blodgett winning the prize, a dainty glass dish.

The meat dishes were served at five, when dinner was enjoyed by the company.

It was the first time that the wolf team, the only one in Canada, had left Gogoma, where Joe has been patiently training them since last summer.

Centreville Congregation Honors Pastor On Eve Of Departure

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CENTREVILLI, Jan. 30. — A large gathering of the members and adherents of Centreville Presbyterian Church met in the Sunday School Hall on Thursday night for the purpose of honoring Rev. H. R. and Mrs. Williams, and of showing their appreciation of his ministry and presentin gthem with a well-filled purse of money.

Rev. D. A. McKenzie was chairman for an interesting program of vocal and instrumental music.

Following the singing of "O Canada" the chairman spoke of the successful and faithful ministry of Mr. Williams not only in his splendid messages from the pulpit, but also as a faithful pastor in visiting the homes.. As a citizen he manifested a very friendly spirit to all people in the community. Expressing the thoughts of the congregation, the chairman wished Mr. and Mrs. Williams good health, happiness, and success in their new pastoral charge.

Following two fine violin selections by Allan Brown, Ray Rivers led in community singing. Miss Jean Holden gave two much enjoyed readings. Messrs McIntosh Bradshaw and Ray Rivers gave two splendid songs in fine style, after which Allan Brown gave two violin selections.

The chairman called Rev. and Mrs. Williams to the platform, where an address was read by Clifford Hall and William Bradshaw made the presentation of a gift of money.

Mr. Williams thanked the congregation for their kindness and generosity. He referred to the happy years spent at Centreville, and will always remember the many kind friends for their sympathy and help in the work of the church.

Short speeches were made by Messrs. J. C. McRoberts, William Bradshaw, Harold Tate, Roy Greer, and O. B. Johnson., Following a fine piano duet by Misses Grace Johnson and Gwen Hutchison, Ray Rivers led in community singing, closing with "Blest be the tie that binds," and the National Anthem.

Refreshments were served, and all enjoyed a social hour.

CAMPBELLFORD

W.A. Hears Address Upon Two Hymns

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 30.—An informative address which dealt with two very popular hymns used in the United Church was presented as a feature of the annual rally and meeting of the St. John's Women's Association on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Harold Kitney, organist and choirmaster of the church was the speaker and the hymns he chose for discussion were Joseph Scriven's "What A Friend We Have In Jesus" and "Unto The Hills Around Do I Lift Up My Longing Eyes" by the Duke of Argyle. At the conclusion of his address Mr. Kitney provided a brief piano interlude.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Walter Henson and Mrs. R. Fox. The business portion of the meeting was devoted to the presentation of the annual reports of the secretary and treasurer and these were heartily endorsed by the meeting. During the year it was stated the society had spent a considerable sum in redecorating and furnishing the parsonage.

Preceeding the lunch a contest arranged by Mrs. Fox was held and Mrs. William Runnie's group was announced the winners.

Mrs. J. A. Irwin and Mrs. J. B. Ferris presided at the tea table which was beautifully decorated with flowers for the occasion. The president, Mrs. S. K. Stephen presided for the meeting.

Fascism, Naziism Discussed By Y.P.L.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 30—St. Andrew's Young People's Union met on Tuesday at 8 p.m., for its initial meeting of the new year, with Beatrice McDowell, the new recreational convener, leading in the games, etc., for the opening period. The devotional period was in charge of Marjorie McDowell, her assistants being Eleanor Bigelow, Bea McDowell, Lorne Foster, with Jack Kidd and Teddy Stinson contributing a duet.

Earl Edworthy, the new president, took the chair for the business period, announcement being made that Springville and Millbrook will debate on January 31 on "Resolved that state medical care should be established in Canada."

Fascism and Nazism were discussed, under the leadership of Marjorie McDowell, William Ridge assisting, taking up conditions in Germany; also Esther Might, whose theme was conditions in Italy. Dorothy Sisco read from the scriptures what God intended should be conditions in the world today. An interesting and profitable discussion closed this period.

Miss Margaret Smith, delegate to the Winter School recently held at Lindsay, gave a comprehensive outline of the course of study followed, the teachers, and other features.

A hymn and the benediction closed the service.

Campbellford Scrap Judgment Reserved

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan 30.—Four witnesses testified against the accused Sanford Chard, 37, of Belmont township who appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court here Friday. Chard was taken into custody on November 14 last by local police and was booked on a charge of creating a disturbance in a west side billiard parlor. Messrs. M. Rome, Nazi Colony Demands To Dominate History Shortly, Fascists Boast

ROME, Jan. 31 (AP).—Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler exchanged telegrams reaffirming Italian-German friendship today while an authoritative Fascist editor declared colonial demands of the two nations "will dominate a large part of European history in the near future."

A statement from official quarters, meanwhile, said the "unshakeability of bonds between Italy and Germany" was confirmed by Hitler's Reichstag speech yesterday, when the Fuehrer promised support if Italy were attacked.

Italy appeared to have gained new support for colonial bargaining with France from the address.

The Rome-Berlin Axis.

For the sixth anniversary yesterday of the Nazi assumption of power, Mussolini sent Hitler a congratulatory telegram which he said was inspired by the "loyal and profound friendship which unites our two peoples through the (Berlin-Rome) axis in the present and the future."

Hitler replied that he considered Il Duce's message a "new sign of the sentiments of attachment and the friendship entertained by our peoples."

Virginio Gayda, an editor whose views often reflect those of Italian officials, emphasized in his newspaper Il Giornale d'Italia the "similar substance" of Italian and German colonial claims.

"They move together,' he wrote. "Naturally they are associated one with another. They will dominate a large part of European history in the near future."

City Teachers Are Restored Cut In Salary

Board of Education voted to restore the five per cent cut to the teachers at a special meeting held Monday night to consider the estimates for 1939, and the total figure for the year shows an increase of $12,500 which is exactly the equivalent of the five per cent cut in salary.

Restoration of the salary cuts was recommended in the report from the Committee on Appointments, and this would bring the salaries back to the level existing before the cut was put into effect some years ago. The report also recommended that K. S. Wightman, B.A. Inspector of Public Schools be given an increase in salary of $200 a year effective from the first of January 1939 until a maximum of $4,500 is reached. The report was tendered by Mrs. W. R. Morris in the absence of Dr. Moir, chairman of the committee.

In the estimates for the Public Schools, there was shown an increase in revenue amounting to $2,590.00 although the fees from non-resident pupils showed a decrease of $1,299.52 because school section No. 3 at the north end of the city in Smith township had built Queen Elizabeth School. The estimated expenditures showed an increase of $15,394.00 which with the increase in revenue subtracted left a net increase over last year of $12,800.

An amendment to the High School Act brought about a substantial increase in the fees, and is effective January 1st, 1938 and the total revenue from the Collegiate and Vocational School showed an increase of $11,290.00 over 1938. There was a net increase in expenditures of $10,-

Pastor To Greet Mac-Pap Band

TORONTO, Jan. 31 — (C.P.). — Rev. R. H. Thomas, chairman of the National Committee named by the friends of the Mackenzie-Papineau Battalion to welcome Canadians returning from fighting with the Spanish government forces, to-day was on his way to Halifax to greet a group due to reach Halifax on Friday. They will be scattered to many parts of Canada. They are listed by cities as follows: Victoria 53, Calgary 15, Edmonton 19, Regina two, Saskatoon nine, Winnipeg 29, Fort William and Port Arthur 27, Timmins 16, Sudbury 10, Montreal 15, Toronto 49, Windsor nine, Hamilton five, Ottawa three.

At Halifax the men will be given their immediate needs in clothing and other necessities. Most of the contingent will come to Toronto for a reception either Saturday or Sunday night to be followed by a Massey Hall welcome meeting on Monday night.

Montreal Amateurs Start Off Wireless Hunt For Canadians Missing In Chile Quake

MONTREAL, Jan. 31 (CP)—By short wave radio, several Montreal amateurs will resume tonight their attempt to learn the fate of Ralph Sadlier and his Montreal-born wife, understood to have been in the vicinity of Concepcion, Chile, at the time of the recent devastating earthquake there.

For several hours last night a small group of amateurs here sent out calls seeking news of the Sadliers, missionaries of the Anglican Church at Temuco. Amateurs in Costa Rica, Venezuela, Brazil, Cuba Porto Rico and British Guiana were contacted. No information concerning the missionaries was obtained.

Those who participated here were Robert H. Prissick, treasurer of the Montreal Amateur Radio Club, Stan Comach, Alex Reid, and Tommy Letts. At Prissick's side as he bridged the distance with his 150-watt transmitting set was Colin E. Norris, stepfather of Mrs. Sadlier.

Comach notified Prissick that he had heard a British Guiana station relaying Mr. Norris' plea for word about the Sadliers to Venezuela and volunteered the information that the Venezuela operator who picked up the message was in almost constant touch with certain Chilean stations.

Abandoned Cars Dot Roads East

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Jan. 31—(CP)—Transport and bus service started to move in this district today but only at a snail's pace due to blocking of highways by the worst storm in several years. Another heavy fall of snow descended today on the district and the roads were rapidly filling up again. Everywhere one could see stalled cars, many of them left by their owners until the weather cleared. Snow plows in the city were busy all night trying to keep the main roads open for ordinary business but their task was a difficult one as the roads filled as rapidly as they were cleared.

Bus services to Madoc, Marmora, Tweed and Bancroft from this city were disrupted and it was hard to say when they would get through as the north and south roads of the county bore the brunt of the storm. The bus to Picton did not attempt to make the run last night or today. Transports in Cobourg and Kingston were told to remain at their stations and not attempt the run either west or east. Those caught between the two points were snowbound. Train service has been interrupted to some extent and snowplows were used on the Belleville-Lindsay route by the north way for the first time this season.

School children at the front of Hastings county were able to make their classes but in the northern part schools have been discontinued til lauthorities can plough out the roads. There is no shortage of food in the district.

Kingston Digs Out

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 31—(CP).—Kingston and district this morning was trying to dig out of one of the worst snowstorms and blizzards in years. From yesterday afternoon until to-day the wind howled and whipped heavy snow until there were immense drifts in many places. This morning snow was falling heavier, though the prevailing northeast wind had abated somewhat.

Olive Campbell Asks Guard After Evidence

TORONTO, Jan. 31 (CP)—Police took special precautions today to guard Olive Campbell after her testimony at the inquiry into charges levelled by her brother, Melville, against a provincial police officer.

Miss Campbell testified as the inquiry closed yesterday that she believed her brother, now serving a nine-year sentence in Kingston Penitentiary for bank robbery, was trying to "frame" Constable Alexander Wilson, who has been suspended pending the outcome of the hearing. Then, as the session closed, she was overheard telling John Hicks, sergeant of detectives at city headquarters, that she wanted added police protection given her. The girl was understood to have received threatening letters since her brother was sentenced at London last fall for the robbery of the Mount Bridges branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

It was announced as yesterday's session closed the inquiry would not be resumed unless new witnesses volunteer evidence. During the day's testimoney, Constable Wilson denied directly Campbell's charge. Olive Campbell and Howard Campbell declared they believe their brother was trying deliberately to frame the officer.

Wilson's Case Up To Conant

Campbell made his allegations when Major-General Victor Williams, provincial police said, acting as commissioner, visited the penitentiary. On its substances the witnesses were examined yesterday.

On the report to be prepared by General Williams and commission counsel Hope—perhaps on a preliminary one—will depend Attorney-General Gordon Conant's decision on the reinstatement of Wilson.

Wilson was accused by Campbell, whom he met in 1936 when he in-

Rome-Berlin Axis Seen Strengthened

ROME, Jan. 31 (AP)—Italy appeared today to have gained new support for colonial bargaining with France from the speech of Chancellor Hitler of Germany.

Foreign observers and Italians alike believed the Reichstag speech, in which Hitler promised support to Italy if she were warred against, would be an important factor in deliberations if there is a showdown on the Italian agitation for an adjustment of the balance of power in the Mediterranean.

Fascists said the German chancellor's words showed the Rome-Berlin axis was more solid than ever and that it promised "justice" for Italy as well as Germany. Italian newspapers interpreted his declaration of support for Italy as tantamount to a military alliance.

The newspaper Il Messaggero said of the war pledge: "It may be reflected that no conflict could fail to assume ideological characteristics and aspects since it is well known and a matter of daily experience that all the difficulties and all the incomprehensions which Italy and Germany meet on their way up find their origin in ideological prejudices."

Says Great Britain Ready To Contribute In Return For Arms Limitations And General Appeasement In Europe

Dictator Indicates No Strife Likely On Colonies

By Louis Lochner
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

BERLIN, Jan. 31.—(AP).—Diplomats saw hope to-day for European peace in the assurance of Chancellor Hitler that there would be no cause for war in his pursuit of the great Nazi objective, return of war lost colonies.

They were not sure, however, of the full meaning of the Chancellor's firm promise of aid to Italy if she were attacked in an ideological war and his declaration:

"National Socialist Germany and Fascist Italy are strong enough to safeguard peace against everyone; and to end resolutely and successfully any conflict which irresponsible elements lightly start."

Charting the course of Nazidom for 1939 in a two hour and 17-minute speech before the Reichstag last night, the Chancellor declared his own belief in a "long peace."

He set increasing world trade, to include Latin American countries, as a pressing need to bolster German economy while the campaign for colonies is carried on, and advised other countries not to interfere.

Colonies By Negotiation.

Devoting much of the address starting his seventh year in power to the economic need for Germany's 80,000,000 people, the Chancellor hinted that the colonial issue would be handled by negotiation.

"Germany has no territorial demands against England and France apart from that for the return of our colonies," he said.

"While the solution of this question would contribute greatly to the pacification of the world, it is in no sense a problem which would cause a war."

He did not mention the Italian agitation for colonial concessions from France.

But he insisted that Italian-German friendship "can only serve the cause of peace if it is quite clearly understood that a war of rival ideologies wages against the Italy of today will, once it is launched, and regardless of its motive call Germany to the side of her friend."

Hitler blamed Jews, Bolshevists, and unfriendly political and financial interests in other countries for war propaganda. He criticized among others secretary Ickes of the United States.

Press Skeptical Of Hitler's Peace Hints

By Pat Ussher
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Jan. 31 (CP Cable) — British newspapers today found a note of reassurance in Chancellor Hitler's Reichstag speech although some papers complained at the ommission of any response to Prime Minister Chamberlain's plea for lessened tension.

The Times (Independent) said the fuehrer belied the more nervous prophets. "By common consent, peace must be the work of deeds, not words," it said, "but the words heard last night contain no such invocation to war as some of them had predicted."

The Times also said: "Economic co-operation upon equal terms has been a consistent aim of British policy as surely as the determination to maintain economic competition upon equal term: is one of its leading features today. Approach to a colonial settlement is barred unless it is to be the means of a sure contribution to general peace."

Premier Convinced Germany Not Contemplating War

LONDON, Jan. 31.—(CP Cable). — Prime Minister Chamberlain threw out a broad hint in the House of Commons to-day that Great Britain would be willing to make concessions in return for limitation of armaments and general appeasement in Europe.

The Prime Minister referred to the possibility of a general conference to discuss questions agitating the nations of Europe. He said he was convinced there was no use in attending a conference of that kind unless in a spirit of mutual trust.

What he wanted to see, Mr. Chamberlain continued, was something more than mere words. He desired concrete evidence of willingness to enter negotiations in a spirit of mutal trust "for an arrangement, if not disarmament, at least for limitation of armament."

Then he added these significant word: "If that time comes and we can find a spirit elsewhere corresponding to our own, this country will not be unsympathetic and we will be ready to make our contribution to appeasement."

Not a Speech of War.

Mr. Chamberlain said he was still convinced there were no questions which could not be solved by negotiation and consultation. He had not examined minutely Chancellor Hitler's Reichstag speech but he was convinced it was not the speech of a man who contemplated plunging Europe into an immediate war.

He also noted the Fuehrer's references to economic and social problems and the need for peace for Germany. No country, he predicted, would appear unsympathetic to any concrete proposal to focus attention on problems of this sort.

The Prime Minister's speech came as a reply to an attack on the Government's Spanish policy by Clement Attlee, Leader of the Opposition ,who insisted the time had come to shelve "the hypocritical farce" of non-intervention and permit the Spanish government to buy arms.

No Time to Switch Policy.

Mr. Chamberlain replied this was no time to reverse the policy of non-intervention in Spain, which had the objective of localizing the Spanish conflict. He did not consider the Spanish situation a menace to European peace, but if non-intervention were abandoned the whole peace of Europe would be threatened.

"In my view a reversal of the policy of non-intervention must inevitably lead to an expansion of the conflict in Spain," Mr. Chamberlain said.

He referred to assurances from Premier Mussolini that Italy had no territorial ambitions in Spain and would withdraw its troops at the conclusion of the conflict. He suggested that these assurances must be taken at their face value.

The Government's general policy of appeasement "is steadily succeeding," the Prime Minister declared, and this was no time to change it.

He said the British Government and people fully share Chancellor Hitler's expressed desire for "mutual confidence and co-operation between our peoples."

Exposure, Hunger Take High Toll As Refugees Flee Over Border

PERPIGNAN, France, Jan. 31—(AP).—Death from exposure and hunger was reported to-day to be taking a heavy toll among the thousands of refugees gathered on the Spanish side of the border seeking admission into France.

Officials of various relief organizations said at least 50 had died in the past few days, while some sources estimated at least 100 had died.

Spanish government officials were busy trying to restore order in the refugee-crowded border area and at the same time endeavoring to reorganize the Catalonian war fronts.

At least 1,000 deserters had crossed the mountains into France, but the success of the government was demonstrated by the fact that hundreds of soldiers who had reached the frontier followed food trucks back into Catalonia.

French authorities did their best with the help of troops to cut down the flow of refugees across the border and limit it to noncombatants.

At regular border posts—Cerbere, Le Perthus and Bourg-Madame—about 5,000 women, children, old men and wounded were admitted to France yesterday.

The check in the flow, however, (about 50,000 had crossed into France previously) did not mean that the refugee flood was diminishing, but rather that control on both sides of the border had been tightened.

Sengalese troops on the French side stood guard with fixed bayonets over farmyards and buildings where able-bodied Spaniards who had crossed the border were concentrated. At various points along the Spanish side, Carabineros sent shots whistling after deserters who walked through the woods toward France.

The Spanish government at Figueras, principal seat of the republican regime, was reported to be planning eventually to transport the nucleus of its Catalonian army to Valencia. (Presumbably this was considered a move to be made when and if the insurgents rendered Catalonian defence lines untenable.)

29 Reported Dead In U.S. Storms

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 — (AP). — Furious winds whipped snow and sleet over the north-eastern section of the United States to-day while the Great Lakes region tried to shake off the paralyzing effects of the worst blizzard in years.

A traffic crippling snowstorm moved eastward across New York State accompanied by zero temperatures. At the same time a northeast blizzard riding a 42-mile-an-hous gale roared into New England.

Mariners reported 60-mile winds in Boston Harbor. Ships cast anchor rather than hazard mooring at piers. A driving snow lashed New York City. In upstate New York the snowfall ranged up to 18 inches and many roads were blocked by 18-foot drifts.

At least 29 deaths were attributed to the storm in the northern tier of states east of the mississippi. Three others were caused by rain and wind storms in the South. Eleven deaths, most of them caused by over-exertion, were reported in Chicago and suburbs. Five died in Indiana, three in Michigan, two in New England, four in Ohio, three in New York, and one in Wisconsin.

Planes between New York and Chicago were grounded. Huge snowdrifts were a common sight on scores of Chicago residential streets. The second largest city in the United States experienced its most intensive snowfall on record yesterday when 18.9 inches virtually paralyzed activity.

Blizzard Plugs Most Roads Blows Self Out

TORONTO, Jan. 31 — (C.P.). — The wind's intensity lessened across Ontario to-day as snowploughs of the Provincial Highways Department turned out to begin the long task of clearing roads after the winter's third and worst storm. Snow still fell in many sections, but it was believed the blizzard, which had its roots in the Gulf of Mexico, had tailed off into the North.

Officials estimated it would be five days before traffic conditions could be restored to winter normal. Snow was nine feet deep in some places and ploughs couldn't break through many drifts late yesterday.

Bus service was terminated in many parts of Western and Central Ontario late yesterday as drifts piled over the roads. Trains ran far behind schedule. With traffic communications cut off, scores of small rural communities depended on telephone and telegraph to keep in touch with the outside world. Sleighs could get through to most villages, however, and most places had stocked up with provisions after the experiences of storms just after Christmas and earlier this month.

Schools Closed.

Police court sessions and school classes were abandoned in many sections yesterday. Funerals had to be postponed. Hockey teams could not get over the roads to keep scheduled engagements.

Snow fell at Toronto for the 19th straight day. Farther east the full effect of the heavy weather was not felt until nightfall, when temperatures dropped quickly to the zero mark. At Kingston pedestrians could see only a few feet ahead through the swirling snow; while traffic was at a virtual standstill. Ottawa, on the other hand, experienced only a light snowfall and a temperature several degrees above zero.

Thirty-five motorists were stormbound at Caledon alone last night. Many villages in the Brampton district were cut off completely from motor traffic and Mount Brydges and Norfolk, further west, were in the same plight. Public and High Schools at Ridgetown remained closed all day yesterday.

Hundreds of automobiles had to be abandoned in drifts. In St. Catharines, Hamilton and Brantford street car service was stopped for several hours.

Fight Milk Bill

DETROIT, Jan. 31—(CP).—Formation of a Consumers' Protective Committee to fight passage of a proposed Milk Marketing Bill was announced here to-day.

The bill, similar to the Milk Control Act governing Ontario's milk industry, would result in higher prices for consumers, according to the committee. Detroiters pay 6½ cents for a quart of milk and Windsor residents, just across the international border, pay six cents a pint.

Peru has decreased its shipments of cotton to Germany.

Naistorville Marooned Out Of Food

Lost Toronto Man Reaches Town In 5-Hour Fight

NAISTORVILLE, Ont., Jan. 31 (CP)—The 150 inhabitants of this village 22 miles southeast of Hamilton, cut off from supplies as a result of yesterday's blizzard which isolated the village, faced a serious food shortage today.

Snow 10 feet in depth made it impossible to anyone to travel more than a half-mile from the town in any direction. Two snowploughs sent to clear roads in the district became snowbound and their whereabouts was unknown.

"I managed to get about six loaves of bread in here Saturday," Edward Pettigrew, village storekeeper, said. "They were snapped up and we have had no bread in the village since then. We have no milk going through at all. A lot of the women here make their own bread but the village needs milk.

Pettigrew, who reported the situation to Toronto by telephone, said other food supplies in the village were holding out.

Cover 8 Miles in 5 Hocrs.

ORANGEVILLE, Ont., Jan. 31.—(CP).—Stumbling on numbed feet, his ears frozen and nis nose nipped, Edgar Allen, 31, of Toronto, fought his way over eight miles of snow-piled highway last night to warmth and safety here.

For five hours after he left the shelter of John Warnock's farm kitchen, at Waldemar Bridge, Allen pushed on through mountainy snow drifts, his feet and hands growing colder as the freezing wind and blinding snow swirled around him Except for swollen ears and tingling nose, he was none the worse to-day.

Allen left Bond Head by car at noon yesterday with his aunt, Mrs. W. J. Maclean. They were on their way to Fergus. After leaving Orangeville they decided to start back. About 10 miles out of Orangeville, they were stuck in a drift when Harold Edwards of Bradford came along.

With Edwards' assistance, the Allen car was released, and Mrs. Maclean was placed in the Edwards car, which had a heater. Allan attempted to follow the first car into Orangeville, but was able to keep up only for a mile or two. At the Waldemar Bridge, his car gave up.

"I was part way up a hill," Allen said. "I backed down to the bottom and left the car on the side of the road. Then I started out walking to Orangeville.'" He made it five hours later.

Hitler's Address Ignored In Russia

MOSCOW, Jan. 31 (AP). — The Russian press today ignored Chancellor Hitler's reichstag address but one Moscow newspaper significantly republished a London warning that Russia and Germany, despite ideological differences, might reach an understanding.

Pravda, Communist party organ, quoted without comment the suggestion in the London News Chronicle that it would be "extremely unwise to suppose that the existing disaccord between Moscow and Berlin will necessarily remain an unchangeable factor of international policy."

The fact Pravda failed to reject indignantly the suggestion of a possible Soviet-German rapprochement increased its significance to foreign observers.

Radio Gagster Burns' Jewelry Smuggling Costs $8,000, Year's Suspended Sentence

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP) — George Burns, radio comedian, was fined $8,000 and given a suspended sentence of one year and one day and placed on probation for one year by Federal Judge William Bondy today on his plea of guilty to two indictments charging the smuggling of jewelry into this country.

Joseph Delaney, assistant United States attorney, had recommended a $12,000 fine and the suspended sentence.

Burns pleaded guilty several weeks ago to the indictments in which he was named with Albert Chaperau, self-styled Nicaraguan consular official, and Mrs. Elma Lauer, wife of Justice Edgar Lauer of the New York State Supreme Court.

Both Chaperau and Mrs. Lauer have pleaded guilty, also.

Other indictments in the case named Jack Benny, radio comedian, who has pleaded not guilty. Benny's trial has been set for Feb. 14.

Russian Slays Woman On Street

Fires 2 Shots In Self As Climax To Lovers' Quarrel

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—(CP).—Police to-day guarded the hospital room of William Petrukowich, charged with the murder of Mrs. Annie Gerzanic, 29, on Bathurst street last night. Petrukowich was reported in critical condition from two bullet wounds, said to be self-inflicted.

Petrukowich, a 29-year-old Russian, was taken to hospital a few minutes after Mrs. Gerzanic died. He was picked up from the sidewalk in front of a boarding house with two bullets near his heart, which witnesses said he pumped into himself.

Both he and Mrs. Gerzanic came here from Tofield, Alta., several months ago. They were said by John Kubicka, Toronto truckman, to have quarrelled as Mrs. Gerzanic prepared to move her belongings from the boarding house to another. Kubicka was moving a trunk when the affray took place.

"I had just put her trunk on the truck," Kubicka was quoted as saying, "and I was standing right beside Mrs. Gerzanic when I turned around to see him putting the rifle against her head.

Yells Threat, Fires.

'Here you get it, Annie,' he yelled, "and then he fired the shot," Kubicka said. 'I ran as fast as I could to a store, then called police." Two men removing snow from the opposite sidewalk called an ambulance, but Mrs. Gerzanic was dead when she was placed in it.

Victor Sherlock, 20, a passer-by, said he saw a man holding what he thought was a snow shovel. As he came closer, he saw it was a rifle. He said he thought the man was removing snow from the street, and the woman had fallen there.

"He put the gun to his chest and fired," Sherlock said. "Then he fell to the pavement, and then I saw him raise up, take another cartridge from his hip pocket, load the gun and fire at himself again after he put the butt of the gun down on the pavement."

Mrs. Beatrice Campbell, proprietress of a boarding-house where Mrs. Gerzanic had stayed for several weeks, said the woman and Petrukowich had been friends until early in December, when a series of quarrels, sometimes violent, began.

Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson said an autopsy would be performed on the Yugoslav woman. Her husband, John Gerzanic, and two children, Mary, six, and Frank, eight, live in Tofield.

Church Wardens Are Reappointed

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 31.—The annual vestry meeting of St. George's Anglican Church was held in the Sunday School room on Saturday afternoon with the Rev. Wm. Stocks presiding. Mrs. Roy King was appointed Vestry clerk following the opening prayers.

Rev. Stocks expressed his thanks to the warden's officers and members of the congregation for their support and faithfulness during the past year. He urged everyone to assume his responsibilities, be loyal to his church by attending regularly and to seek the spirit of working together with enthusiasm, gladness, faith and hope.

The incumbent reappointed Thomas Curel as his warden and C. B. Plant was reelected people's warden. G. Marryot was reelected lay delegate to the Synod.

Sidesmen Wm. Chamberlain, Roy King, Rae Pulfer, Eric Pulfer, E. Radford and James Calberry were re-elected. Members of the Parochial Council for the ensuing year will comprise the rector, the church wardens, S. Beamish, Roy King, Wm. Gillespie, Wm. Pulfer, James Puifer, Jas. Calberry and G. Marryat who will act as an advisory board to arrange matters pertaining to the church.

The report of the Junior Auxiliary was submitted by Doreen Hazelwood; the Senior Auxiliary and the Sunday School by Miss D. Plant. Before the vestry adjourned, votes of thanks were accorded those who freely gave of their time in cleaning and painting the basement of the church.

Hungry and stiff suffering from their trudge through the blizzard, William Stewart, 19, and his brother, Harry, 16, of nearby Dundas, and Alfred Green, 17, West Hamilton, were brought here today.

Doctors Go Through

TORONTO, Jan. 31.— (CP)— "Road closed" is a warning that means little to doctors. Through the blizzard that has shackled Ontario, medical men and their willing helpers have carried on.

A dramatic example was enacted over 35 miles of "impassable" roads between Woodham and London last night, when 10-year-old Harry Stephen of Woodham was taken to Victoria Hospital in London for an emergency appendicitis operation.

While the boy was made comfortable in the car of Dr. R. Morley, of Woodham, relays of men cut down the huge drifts blocking the highway. As the volunteer workers tired at Elginfield, Whalen's Corners and Lucan, fresh volunteers were obtained, bringing the car into Victoria Hospital two hours after it had left Woodham.

The last party of volunteers were served hot drinks by the hospital staff as young Stephen was being prepared for the operation.

At Erieau, Western Ontario village cut off from the rest of the world by huge snowdrifts, a baby was to arrive at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Brown, and no one knew how the doctor could get there in time. But a coal train puffed into the station and out of its caboose clambered Dr. A. S. Huffman of Blenheim—in time by a matter of minutes.

Blocked roads and the impending confinement of Mrs. J. Darling at Mount Hamilton, provided Hamilton police with a problem last night. Ambulance or taxis could not negotiate the blocked roads leading up the Mountain, but the police radio sent Constable Stanley Edge, in a cruiser stationed at Mount Hamilton, to the rescue. The officer succeeded in getting through and transferred the patient to the maternity ward of St. Joseph's Hospital without mishap.

County snow ploughs broke a 12-mile trail for Dr. Q. Bliss of Kingsville to get him to the bedside of an injured farm boy.

Max Brazil, 16, suffered a serious concussion in a fall from a haymow, and the doctor, setting out in the blizzard had to turn back. The second call came—insistent, and he tried again. Failing, he appealed to county authorities and they assigned two ploughs to smash through. Dogging along in his car behind the sweeping monsters, the doctor got to the boy in time. Brazil's condition was reported as good. Delay would have been serious, the doctor said.

distinguished from the manner was comparatively mild and not lacking in a note of reassurance. On the whole it is perhaps not too over-optimistic to read into Herr Hitler's latest utterance a promise of better things to come."

What Does He Mean?

The Daily Herald (Labor):

"The world which has learned caution from unhappy experience cannot forget that there have been peaceful speeches from the fuehrer before, and that subsequent actions hardly squared with the professions. We have heard what he says. The question remains — what does he mean?"

The News-Chronicle (Liberal): "The real test of his (Hitler's) sincerity will come in the next few weeks when we will see to what extent he is prepared to back Italian ambitions and advance new claims of his own."

The Daily Express (Ind.): "We must examine all circumstances in which Germany lost her colonies. The British people must go about their affairs accepting in good spirit and on fair terms the challenge to our export trade which Herr Hitler delivered. Over everything, we must increase our defences at home and in the Empire as rapidly as possible."

The Glasgow Herald (Ind.): "It must be admitted that as yet there are very few signs of reversal of the economic policy that must in Germany's case accompany any genuine acceptance of the idea of appeasement."

The Edinburgh Scotsman (Cons.) found the speech reassuring in a negative way. "He uttered no threats, he put form no new territorial claims, and his reference to the former German colonies, though strongly expressed, carried no immediate menace."

The Birmingham Gazette (Liberal) asked: "If appeasement really lies in the direction of an international conference to include all the big colonial powers like the Netherlands and France as well as ourselves, who is better suited than Mr. Chamberlain to take the initiative on the road back from the self-contained British Empire policy of Ottawa?"

The Belfast Northern Whig (Cons.) complained: "The speech will be searched in vain for any response to Mr. Chamberlain's plea for a contribution to the easing of European tension and the promotion of stable peace."

with increasing energy a place in world trade to meet the "uttermost need a nation can meet, namely, the need for its daily bread."

Emphasizing that business relations with South and Central American "concern nobody but them and ourselves" he charged that relations with the United States are "suffering from a campaign of defamation" by unfriendly interests on the "pretense that Germany threatens American indepedence and freedom."

"We all believe, however," the Chancellor added, "that this does not reflect the will of the millions of American citizens who, despite all that is said to the contrary by a gigantic Jewish-capitalistic propaganda through the press, the radio and the films, cannot fail to realize that there is not one word of truth in all these assertions."

Must Solve Jew Case.

The Jewish question, Hitler continued, should be solved and "the sooner the better," for Europe cannot settled down until the Jewish question is cleared up."

Should "international Jewish financiers," he prophesied, "succeed in plunging the nations once more into war, then the result will not be the Bolshevization of the earth, and thus the victory of Jewry, but the annihilation of the Jewish race in Europe."

Notable to those who saw stronger hopes for peace in the Chancellor's words was that the only direct demands advanced were for colonies, which Hitler said were taken after the war despite the promises of President Wilson upon which Germany sued for peace.

"The German people has exactly the same right as any other people to share in the opening up and development of the world," he said.

And:

"A nation of 80,000,000 will not be willing permanently to be assessed differently from other nations."

Skips Ukraine and Spain.

Nothing was said about the Ukraine, Memel or Danzig—in all of which Nazis in the past have expressed interest. If Germany has any concrete plans for Spain, he said nothing about them, avowing it was "anxiety for European culture" which compelled Germany to take sides in Spain against the Bolshevist destroyers."

Special mention went to Japan as champion of the anti-Comintern pact: A nation which "in the last two years has set us so many examples of glorious heroism, is undoubtedly fighting in the service of civilization at the other side of the world."

Hitler attacked the former British Foreign Secretary, Anthony Eden, and Alfred Duff Cooper, who quit as First Lord of the Admiralty in protest against the Munich Czechoslovak pact, as well as Harold Ickes, United States Secretary of the Interior.

"Against such agitators," Hitler said, the German press will reply "to bring home to the German people in good time the truth about these men."

Attacks Schacht

The address accorded unusual praise to Field Marshal Herman Goering, engineer of the four-year plan to strengthen Germany economically, and Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop. By implication he contrasted them with cautious men like Hjalmar Schacht, ousted economics minister, and the former foreign Ministers, Baron Konstantin Von Neurath who feared the consequences of a too aggressive foreign policy.

Goering again thus was publicly acclaimed Nazidom's No. 2 man. Conjecture was heard in the lobbies that he might soon be handed the war ministery and possibly the vice chancellorship. It was evident Von Ribbentrop had the favor of the fuehrer for his conduct of foreign affairs over the past year.

Touching briefly on Nazi church policies, Hitler cited statistics he said showed the Nazis are doing more for the churches than is being done in the democracies.

There was the usual praise of Nazi achievements of the past, coupled with what Hitler said was the secret of Nazi success:—

"It is not abstract knowledge which must be considered the decisive factor wherever a leader is required, but rather a natural talent for leadship, and with it a highly developed sense of responsibility which brings with it determination, courage and endurance."

Importance attached to the address was indicated by the propaganda ministry which for the first time at the conclusion made available translations immediately in English, French and Italian.

Sincere Welcome

The Prime Minister in speaking of his Rome visit said the welcomes extended to him and Lord Halifax were "striking in their sincerity."

"Though we are unable to report that we (Great Britain and Italy) were in agreement on all points, we did achieve our purpose, since when the conversation were over each side had a clearer insight into the other's standpoint," he said.

"Signor Mussolini first and foremost made it clear that the policy of Italy was one of peace and that he would use his influence in favor of it if, at any time, the necessity arose.

"Italy desired peace from every point of view and not least for the general stability of Europe.

"Our hosts also made it clear that the Rome-Berlin axis was an essential point of Italian foreign policy."

"We on our part," Mr. Chamberlain said, "made it equally plain that close co-operation between Great Britain and France was the basis of British policy."

"We made no concealment of our regret that Italy's relations with France should recently have deteriorated.

"The great barrier between France and Italy is the Spanish question and until the civil war is over no negotiations between the two countries are likely to be productive," the prime minister said.

Agreed To Keep In Touch

"We agreed to keep in touch with each other regarding the future development of the question of disarmament.

"Mussolini felt that the Jewish problem was an international one and could not be solved by any one state alone," Mr. Chamberlain said.

Speaking of his visit to the Vatican, the prime minister added:—

"It was a privilege which neither of us will easily forget to hear from the lips of his holiness the expressions of the admiration and affection which he entertained for Their Majesties and the peoples of the British Empire."

"We are deeply moved by the courage and humanity which animated his bearing and outlook."

Returning to the Spanish question the prime minister said Italian Foreign Minister Ciano in a talk with Lord Halifax "spontaneously reaffirmed the assurance already given to His Majesty's government that Italy had no territorial ambitions as regards any portion of Spanish territory."

Qualitative Limitation.

On re-armament, he added:

"We have a useful discussion from which it emerged that Signor Mussolini favored an approach to the question by way of qualitative limitation in the first instance when conditions were more favorable for discussion."

Mr. Henderson asked whether Premier Mussolini's willingness to abide by the non-intervention agreement meant that he would withdraw his troops from Spain "forthwith," since the Spanish government and withdrawn all its foreign helpers.

Mr. Chamberlain replied: "It really does not mean that. It means that if and when the British plan which was adopted by the non-intervention committee comes into operation he will do his part."

When Mr. Bellenger asked whether complete agreement was reached "on any subject," the Premier replied:

"I have given a full account to the House."

After the Prime Minister finished his statement on his Rome visit, Clement Attlee, Leader of the Opposition, rose to open debate on the government's foreign policy.

Britain Uneasy.

"There is growing disturbance of mind" in Britain at the plight of Spanish government refugees fleeing from General Franco's Catalan advance, Mr. Attlee said, concentrating his attention first on the Spanish war.

There is also a growing appreciation of the vital importance of the Spanish trouble for the future of liberty and democracy and the security of Britain and France, he added.

Replying to Mr. Chamberlain's assertion that Il Duce spoke of his desire for peace, Mr. Attlee said the people of this country were more impressed "by the fact that Mussolini has been intervening for the last 2½ years in war."

He said the only value of the Rome trip was that it showed "that there was a feeling in Italy among the mass of the people" for better relations with Britain.

The political talks, he said, achieved nothing effective.

"The really vital matter of what is occurring now in Spain was not discussed," Mr. Attlee said.

Mr. Chamberlain rose again at 4.57 (11.57 a.m., E.S.T.) to prolonged cheering for a reply to the Opposition.

He said Mr. Attlee had "confined himself to the topic of Spain, varied only by a few acid comments on the visit to Rome from which I have derived the impression that he is against it."

Conservative members laughed heartily.

Mr. Chamberlain said "No one can read accounts of the pitiful procession of Spanish refugees without feeling once more what a terrible thing war is.

"Everyone must have been touched by the accounts of help being given by the French to the refugees."

Given Liberally To Refugees.

He said the British government in addition to an initial gift of £20,000 (about $93,400) to the International Committee for the Assistance of Child Refugees, had donated a further £20,000.

"When the need arises I have no doubt that we shall be ready to do more," he said.

Replying to Mr. Attlee's criticism, the Premier said: "This is not the moment to change the British government's policy of non-intervention in Spain.

"I do not consider that the situation in Spain is a menace to the peace of Europe," he said.

"But most emphatically I do consider that if we abandoned the policy of non-intervention and if intervention on any considerable scale took place in favor of the Spanish government, the Spanish situation would be a menace.

"From the beginning the government's view was that if the policy of intervention had been continued and increased, sooner or later it would be bound to lead to an extention of the conflict and it has been the government's aim to prevent that expansion."

Franco a Rebel—Absurd.

"In Rome Signor Mussolini expressed the view that it was absurd to say that General Franco, who was in possession of three quarters of Spain, was a rebel.

"I am satisfied," he said, "that if the government's policy is right, as I believe it to be right, it certainly is not now the moment to change it."

He said the government was as entitled to ask the opposition what it would do about intervention in view of its complaints.

Mr. Atlee jumped up and shouted across the treasury box:

After stating Britain had appealed to General Franco to "exercise all possible humanity" in Catalonia, Mr. Chamberlain recalled that anticipations by some of a "terrible massacre" at the fall of Barcelona had not materialized.

Foreign Policy Is Scored By Quebec M.P.

OTTAWA, Jan. 31 — (C.P.). — First violent denunciation of the Government's foreign policy and the doctrine that "when Great Britain is at war Canada is at war" to be heard in the House this session came last night from Georges Heon (Con. Argenteuil) and was applauded by French-speaking Liberals of Quebec.

"In matters of foreign policy we are looked upon as little boys who should be seen but not heard," Mr. Heon said. Canadians should not be called upon to sacrifice "a generation of lives and billions of dollars" in a war over policies Canada had no part in forming. Sentiment should not be the guiding principle in going to war. He believed a general election should be called on the issue of Parliament's power to take Canada into war.

Indication that some opposition to Canada's increased defence estimates and relations with the United Kingdom might come from Quebec Liberals was seen in the declaration of Wilfrid Lacroix (Lib., Quebec-Montmorency) that he was opposed to the doctrine that Canada was at war when Great Britain was at war. He contended that the Dominion should make a direct declaration of neutrality.

No Jew Refugees.

Mr. Lacroix also came out strongly against any easing of immigration barriers, particularly admission of Jewish refugees. In this he was in direct conflict with A. A. Heaps (C.C.F.-Labor Winnipeg North) who made a plea for the entry of a "reasonable number" of European refugees as a humanitarian act.

Malcolm McLean (Lib. Melfort) vigorously denounced the "defeatist" attitude of certain groups in the House, particularly the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation which he said was teaching young people they had no hope for the future.

"While times are difficult," he said, "our natural resources and climatic conditions are such that no one equipped with average mentality and intellect can help but make a living in this country."

Paying For Blunders?

Mr. Heon, the youthful successor to the late Sir George Perley in Argenteuil, delivered his address half in English and half in French.

"We are not able to save our own people from poverty, hunger and unemployment," he said, "but we can afford the luxury of spending hundreds of millions of dollars and risking possibly another 100,000 Canadian lives to help pay for glaring blunders of French and British foreign policies, made during the last 20 years.

"We have had no share in framing those policies but now we are considered important enough to rearm and stand by their mistakes with our Bren guns pointed at the enemy. We are only a glorified extension of Britain and France in America.

"In my opinion the automatic commitment to war is the very negation of the autonomous status we are supposed to enjoy. We are told that Parliament will decide. What can it decide if this country is automatically at war?

"In my humble opinion this Parliament cannot take upon itself the Previous close on off-truck bacon hogs was $9.50 to $9.65.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Jan. 31 — (C.P.). — Weakness on outside markets together with general absence of support pushed wheat futures about a cent lower on Winnipeg Market today. Prices at the finish were 1 cent to ⅝ cent lower, with May at 62⅝, October 63⅜ and July 63⅝ cents.

Operations were at a standstill throughout the session and it required only scattered commission house selling to depress values. No export business in Canadian wheat was reported worked overnight. Minor mill purchases were mentioned at times as prices remained close to low points established after the opening.

....That yokes are highlights of daytime and afternoon dresses, also of jackets. The yokes are sometimes introduced just at the front, with soft gathered fulness below, and sometimes the fulness is controlled by tucks.

....Sometimes, too, clever yoke ideas are worked out in prints, especially in bordered prints, the border observed only in the yoke outline of the bodice.

....That halter neckline, in favor for many seasons, are seen again. The halter has a necklace quality, encircling the throat and joining the decolletage at the centre front. Sometimes this halter line has a very naive expression, as in dresses in net with a net ruche for the halter.

McGrath—Gauthier

MARMORA, Jan. 31.—Of much local interest was a pretty wedding solemnized at St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church, Timmins, last Wednesday when Jeannette Gauthier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gauthier of Timmins became the bride of James McGrath, youngest son of Mrs. M. McGrath and the late James McGrath of Marmora. Rev. Father Guevremont officiated.

The sanctuary was artistically decorated with carnations, roses and chrysanthemums. During the ceremony, Miss Lorraine Pattras sang "Ave Maria" and Juliette Gauthier sang "Mon Bien Aime."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was tastefully gowned in chiffon velvet of raspberry shade. The gown was made with fitted bodice, fitted skirt falling in graceful flares to the floor and completed with bolero jacket fashioned with wide shirred waistline, short puffed sleeves and Peter Pan collar. She wore a Juliette cap of gold sequin, from which fell a waist-length veil of raspberry tulle dotted with gold sequins elbow length gold gloves and gold slippers and a corsage of mauve orchids with lily-of-the-valley.

Lucille Elkins was her sister's only attendant and wore black taffeta with allover silver scroll. Her gown was cut in Empire style with long full flared skirt and square strapped neckline. She also wore a Juliette cap of silver sequins with black and silver tulle shoulder length veil, black satin slippers and white gloves and wore a corsage of sweetheart roses and maiden hair fern.

Mr. Thomas Casey of Cochrane attended the groom. Messrs. Joseph and Romeo Gauthier, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, 27 Kent avenue. Mrs. Gauthier received her guests wearing mauve and grey crepe gown with corsage of red roses. In the evening a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, a large number of relatives and friends attending. The bride was the recipient of many lovely and useful gifts.

The young couple left on Thursday for a short honeymoon to points south, the bride wearing rust crepe with Rose Leal coat. Mr. and Mrs. McGrath will leave Timmins shortly for Crowe Lake, Marmora, where Mr. McGrath will take over the management of Tipperary Hotel.

CONFIDENCE IN MIDWIVES

LONDON—(CP).—Since the inception of the Midwives Act a year ago, assuring better care at childbirth, 10,000 mothers in the United Kingdom have made use of the government-supervised service.

Married in Smith's Falls

DOROTHY DIX

If Couples Used The "Pursuit" Methods After Marriage That They Did During Courtship Days There Would Be Fewer Divorces

DEAR MISS DIX—If you can answer this question you will solve one of the greatest mysteries of married life. It is: Why do people quarrel after they are married when they got along perfectly harmoniously before marriage? And is there any remedy for the domestic spat?

OBSERVER.

ANSWER:

That conundrum can be answered in two words: PURSUIT and POSSESSION. Before marriage a man and a woman get along together without friction because each is in pursuit of the other and they do and say only things that will be pleasing to the other. They watch their steps and heed each other's "Keep Off the Grass" signs. They fall in with each other's plans. They soft-pedal their criticisms. They do not bring up controversial subjects.

The young man in love does not tell his girl that she looks like a figure of fun in that new dofunny hat she has just bought. Instead he tells her how pretty she looks in it. He lets her drag him to symphony concerts, no matter how much he loathes them. He listens respectfully to her views on politics and never dreams of telling her that she doesn't know what she is talking about. He goes with her to her church and lets her pick out the movies, and is just as pliable and smooth to handle as a lump of butter.

Same way with the girl. She doesn't criticize the Boy Friend's taste in dress, no matter how awful she thinks it is. She listens to his opinions as if an oracle were speaking. She goes highbrow if he is literary, or jittery if he is addicted to swing music. If he is a golf fiend, she walks miles around the links, no matter how much her feet hurt her. And one of the main reasons he marries her is because she is such a perfect little yes-yeser.

So there is practically nothing for an engaged couple to quarrel about, but after marriage when a man's and woman's habits, tastes, opinions, points of view come in contact every minute of the day, there are a million things to quarrel about, and most of them do it.

It is a case of possession then, and they feel that gives them the right to speak right out in meeting and say what they think. So they throw prudence and reticence and even common politeness out of the window and go to the mat over everything under the sun.

Another reason that husbands and wives quarrel is because they get a kick out of it. Domestic life gets monotonous and dull and they pep it up by having a regular knock-down and dragout fight, after which they kiss and make up, and everything is serene until they feel the need of livening things up again.

The remedy for the domestic spat is as simple as the cause thereof. It is just the use of a little of the self-control that they show in their dealings with other people. You never saw a family quarrel that either one couldn't have stopped at its very beginning by the use of a particle of self-restraint or diplomacy.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—It is a wife's pride that is hurt far more than her jealousy is aroused when her husband appears to be interested in the attractiveness of other women. I was married for more than five years to a man who couldn't keep his eyes from straying to other girls. I stood that as long as I could and then I went back to my parents and got a divorce. He phones me telling me that he never loved anybody but me. Sends telegrams telling me how he needs the baby and me, and begging me to come back. But I ignore him. He killed my love by his admiration of other women, though I don't think he was actually unfaithful to me. But I am glad I am free. I am picking up the threads of my life and looking forward. HOPE.

ANSWER:

Well, I hope you are not looking forward to marrying again unless you have a blind man in prospect, because I am afraid there are not many men who can make their eyes behave when there is a pretty woman in the offing. Apparently the Tired Business Man is refreshed by the sight of feminine pulchritude, or why else is the country combed for beauteous chorines, and lissom lassies provided for attractions in night clubs?

But while it is true that all men like to look at pretty girls, it is also true that most men are content just to view them as a spectacle and let it go at that. Their admiration is as impersonal as it would be for a beautiful picture. They have no desire to possess them, as is amply proved by the fact that most of the married women you know are nothing to write home about so far as looks go. And it is a pity that wives don't realize this, for it would keep many a plain woman from torturing herself with jealousy every time her husband glances at a pretty girl.

Whether a woman is justified in getting a divorce from her husband merely because he admires pretty women is, of course, for her to decide. But it seems a small matter over which to break up a home and half-orphan a child.

DEAR MISS DIX—Ever since I was a child I have suffered from a bad inferiority complex that I have never been able to overcome. It is most humiliating, especially when I strive to be at my best. And it is particularly severe when I am with men. Sometimes while dining out my hands actually shake. I am sympathetic, have the faculty of making friends, have loads of them and am considered a good mixer, but I cannot conquer myself and feel at ease with people. How can I help myself?

PERPLEXED.

ANSWER:

If you have the faculty of making friends and are a good mixer and popular, what more do you want in the way of self-confidence? Surely you are not so vain as to desire to have the spotlight turned on you wherever you go and to be the star of the occasion.

I should think that you would be so well pleased with yourself that you would have plenty of poise. And let me tell you right here that there are so many blatant egotists in the world that we have come to put a high social valuation on modesty. We find no women so attractive as those who are quiet and reserved and who speak in soft, gentle voices, and who are dressed like ladies instead of being dixed out like vaudeville performers in order to attract attention. You may have read in the papers that violets have come in fashion again.

The only remedy for an inferiority complex is to quit thinking about yourself and give a little thought to others. When you realize that you are of so little importance to anybody but yourself that nobody is noticing you, you are cured.

Library To Install Radio For Children's Broadcasts

A library which will appeal to boy sand girls from the Fifth to the Eighth Grade is to be broadcast by the Toronto public libraries for four successive weeks beginning on Saturday, February 4, at 5.45.

The broadcast, which is made possible through the courtesy of the Welfare Council of Ontario, comes over station CBL, and is being conducted as an experiment to determine what books children like. Children are urged to write to the libraries or station and tell what they think about the program.

A radio will be installed at the Public Library here, and in the libraries in Toronto, and children may listen from the library if a radio is not available in their home. Books to be reviewed for February include E. Nesbit's well-known book for children, "Five Children and It"; Ransom's "Swallows and Amazon"; "Merry Lips," by Dix; and John Masefield's "Jim Davis."

Curvin—Elliott

A quiet, pretty wedding ceremony was solemnized on Saturday evening, January 28, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Elliott, 265 Carlisle Avenue, when their only daughter, Miss Muriel Alberta Elliott, was united in marriage to Maxwell Allenby Curvin, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Curvin, 747 Water Street. Rev. E. W. Rowland of Mark Street United Church officiated.

The youthful bride was very lovely in a gown of beige silk lace over georgette, and carried a bridal bouquet of roses and maiden-hair fern. Miss Ruby Masson and Mr. Earl Gill were the only attendants.

A buffet luncheon was served after the ceremony. Later Mr. and Mrs. Curvin left on a motor trip, the bride wearing for travelling an American broadtail coat trimmed with squirrel, with fur turban and muff. On their return they will reside at 747 Water Street, Peterborough.

PRINCE OF WALES SCHOOL.

The Prince of Wales Home and School Association held a very successful 'Fathers' Night" on Monday despite most unfavorable weather conditions. Approximately one hundred parents and friends enjoyed a well-planned and varied program. The large number of fathers present showed a real interest in the work of the association.

The speaker for the evening was Mr. A. R. Kennedy, managing editor of the Peterborough Examiner. In a splendid address, Mr. Kennedy indicated some of the changed conditions which have affected the ways and means of making a livelihood since the earlier days in this country. He pointed out that, whereas formerly relations between employer and employee, buyer and seller, were simple and direct, now the employer must make heavy investments in machinery before he can begin to employ men, and marketing has become a world-wide business. Mr. Kennedy expressed the opinion, however, that a modern youth, willing to undertake special training, has far greater opportunities than his father had. He felt that educational methods should meet these changed conditions.

In keeping with the spirit of the occasion, the ladies of the executive relinquished their ordinary duties so that the program might be carried out entirely by men. Mr. Mattice acted as chairman, the secretary's minutes were read by Mr. Noftall, and Mr. Windrim outlined the program for education week.

The musical part of the program was opened by the boys' band under the able direction of Mr. H. J. Parnell, playing "Dream Castles." Two other numbers, "Songs of Praise" and "The Corinthian Overture," were also played. Mr. Morley Plunkett, in his own inimitable style, entertained by singing two solos, "Shortnin' Bread" and "The Photo of the Girl I Left Behind Me," and answered the call for an encore with the humorous "Beck's Wedding Party."

Other numbers on the program included a solo by Herbert Henry, a violin solo by K. Read, accompanied by Norman Hurrle; a vocal duet by Allan and Douglas Plunkett, and a solo by Clayton Drury. Mr. Plunkett led a short period of community singing.

The banner for attendance was won by Miss Burgess' class, with sixteen points. Mr. Windrim moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Kennedy and to the others who helped make the evening a success.

Tea Held By W.A. At Bethany Rectory

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, Jan. 31.—A very happy time was spent on Friday evening to St. Paul's recory, when a group of W.A. ladies sponsored a five o'clock tea. Conveners of the group were Mrs. J. J. Hamilton, Mrs. R. Morton, Mrs. Holden, Mrs. Stevenson and Miss Nesbitt.

The long drawing room was spaced with small tables, prettily decorated with smart covers, and favors, arranged for four guests at each table.

The latter part of the evening was spent with games and music. Miss Laura Morton delighted the audience with a lovely song "Lassie O' Mine.."

Fastidious Girl Follows a Routine

A truly fastidious girl puts on fresh underwear and stockings every morning. She brushes her hat before she puts it on, wipes or brushes shoes when she takes them off, never wears soiled gloves, keeps the contents of her purse in order, doesn't try to make a white blouse "do" another day. Her lingeries collars and cuffs are always clean and crisp, and she doesnt tolerate crooked heels or untidy slipper bows or oxford ties for a moment.

She sponges off the inside of her coat collars with a bit of dry cleaning fluid regularly, is never too lazy to put shoe trees in her shoes the minute she takes them off or to brush the dress she has worn all day before hanging it up.

One Part Is True

It is not particularly easy to so interpret a Hitler address that one feels certain the interpretation is correct. What he actually means by warning other powers to leave Germany alone in the working out of her plans is uncertain because he does not definitely say what those plans are.

There was one part of Hitler's latest utterance which can be believed, and that was his reference to the financial condition of Germany following the war. Of that experience Hitler said: "I can now say we were engaged in a tremendous battle."

And that is correct. The feeling in Germany during the last days of Hindenburg was that anything might happen; of stability there was none; of hope or confidence in the people there was none; of strong credit or financial strength there was none. When Hitler said the outside world believed that Germany would collapse he stated the truth for that is what was expected and many believed the collapse had actually taken place. Since then Germany has planned and carried into execution enormous programs of armament and road building, and these have been financed without something which our modern world has always held to be essential — a sufficient gold reserve. Judging financial strength by that standard Germany should have collapsed several times instead of moving on toward greater strength and coming to the point where her bid for export trade is causing other nations worry enough.

So when Hitler speaks of the position of Germany as it was and is today in terms of financial recovery and accomplishment, he is not tampering with the truth, but stating something which has actually taken place.

He Appointed Himself

Clement Marie Thivierge of Montreal is 20 years of age and is a seminary pupil. He was in court the other day because with other students he had staged what was termed as a demonstration, and they had gone out on the street to do it. And in the eyes of the court that was bad. Bad to the extent of a fine of one dollar or one day in jail. Clement said he preferred going to jail as a matter of principle, but found that some friend had paid the dollar into court so he went back to his classes.

This young man [illegible] to protest against a number of [illegible]nes which he considered immoral. He did not want to change our form of government or topple democracy over into the pit, nor was he urging a general strike or inciting people to [illegible]. He was certain of one thing—that the sale of rotten literature was a bad thing and he wanted something done. Probably he had waited his time hoping action would come from official sources, but he waited in vain.

There is something about a fine or a jail sentence in such a case which is to the credit of this young man of 20 years. He had a conviction that something should be done and he appointed himself to do it. And that is more than most people would ever do.

How Taxation Multiplies

The average individual has no idea of how many forms of taxation are in operation by all the governing bodies. Raymond H. Berry, a director of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was speaking to the Sault (Michigan) Chamber of Commerce recently, and he gave figures which show that taxation absorbs 21 per cent. of the national income. To narrow the thing down to terms of work and reward, if a man were to work ten hours a day then he would be working two of those hours to pay his share of various forms of taxation. If he has 300 working days in the year then for 60 of them he has to hand the entire receipts over to taxing officers.

Mr. Berry said that in the United States there were 175,000 separate taxing authorities and in proportion to population the number cannot be much smaller in Canada. He gave some striking figures, too, as to the number of taxes that played a part in building up the cost of a number of articles in common use.

He cited first the case of a cotton dress costing $7.85 and estimated that of that amount $2.20 went to pay taxes, some 125 taxes being represented.

There were, he said, 126 taxes on a pair of shoes, 120 on a bar of soap, 148 on a pair of overalls, 52 on a loaf of bread, 205 on a gallon of gasoline. These might be called "invisible taxes." The buyer is quite unaware of most of these, but no matter at what source they are collected the ultimate consumer pays them in the end.

The reason why taxes multiply is that our taxing bodies have the power to ask for money and demand that it shall be paid. The ordinary individual has no such power; if he gets hard up he has to draw in his horns and lead a humble life, and cutting expenses is his weapon because he too seldom has the power to increase his receipts. There is nothing to force our governing bodies to cut costs and that is probably why most of them never do it.

Peterborough Could Help

Workers in Russia have been placed under a new rule by which they lose their places of employment if they are twenty minutes late. The result has been that said workers have been casting about in order to secure alarm clocks and the next result is that the supply of alarm clocks has run out. Workers go from place to place where such equipment is usually sold and they hear the same response: "Sold out."

Peterborough could do a good deal—perhaps a great deal—to put these Russian workers in a comfortable frame of mind. Just a few blocks from this office is a factory where they make alarm clocks. They will if so desired speak gently and in a musical way to the individual who desires to arise at a certain hour; if he does not respond to the first appeal then the next one is a little more urgent. If he is a sound sleeper then the urgency of the clock's appeal can be multiplied and raised to the fourth dimension—whatever that may be Quite certain we are that Peterborough's clock makers could bring much ease of mind and facility of movement to the harassed Russian worker of today. Our clocks could gently suggest, then more firmly indicate and finally positively demand that the individual rise and be about his day's work.

Was Done In Ignorance

Prof. A. F. Coventry of the Biology department of the University of Toronto gave some facts to the Royal Canadian Institute which could very well have been presented at many places in the province. There had been a survey made of King township in York county, and that particular township is a 90,000-acre area where there has been a shortage of water. Wells have been going dry, the soil has been losing moisture, industrial plants located there have found it advisable to move elsewhere, and the valuable top soil of the land has drifted. And all this has been due to lack of moisture, to floods and a too rapid movement of water from the territory.

Prof. Coventry, explaining the survey, showed there was a bare 11 per cent. of bush land left in King township, and he claimed that 15 per cent. was the minimum for water conservation. The only known cure was to start planting trees to raise the bush land to 15 per cent. Going slightly above that figure would be even better.

What has happened in King township can happen elsewhere, and the tragic feature is that it has already happened. We have in Ontario a number of sections where bush land is not 15 per cent. of the total. In some parts there are farms where there is not a stick of timber standing; not a bit of shade for a cow on a hot day, and nothing being done to remedy the situation. Owners of such farms are now buying stove wood and coal and have been doing so for years.

Prof. Coventry goes farther and says land from which trees have been taken too rapidly can deteriorate until it becomes desert. It means of course that man has been either too smart or too ignorant. He has disrupted the natural order of things; he has drained swamps which were nature's storage tanks; he has cut down the trees which did much to regulate the speed with which snow and rain would leave his property; he has done all things pretty much as HE thought they should be done. And today he finds he must proceed to undo what he has foolishly done and try and put things back in the condition they were fifty or sixty years ago before man became so smart.

Why Put Up With It?

Reading articles and editorials from newspapers is common enough in the House of Commons during the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne. Objection was taken to it a few days ago. Hansard gives the incident this way:

> Mr. HOWE: On a point of order I would ask the chair if it is in order to read editorials from newspapers.
>
> Mr. DEPUTY SPEAKER: On the point of order raised by the Minister of Transport (Mr. Howe) may I point out that usually very wide latitude is given in the debate on the address in reply. I believe hon. members who have preceded the hon. member who has the floor have been permitted to read editorials.
>
> Mr. SPENCE: Everybody has.
>
> Mr. ROWE: Every day.
>
> Mr. BROOKS: They not only read editorials; they read their whole speeches.
>

Just why the country is called upon to tolerate this form of organized nonsense the Examiner has never learned. Here we have our senior form of government to which we send 245 members as well as some 90 in the Senate; we pay them and they are furnished with transportation. In the general principle of the scheme they are there to transact public business, and yet day after day they are standing there reading clippings from newspapers and reports showing what this man said during some campaign speech and so on.

When the Deputy Speaker admitted there was usually wide latitude allowed in this particular debate he might well have added that "wide latitude" is something which the government itself does not allow to people in general. There is little of it when the government demands its revenue or when one of its inspectors finds an individual who has not provided himself with a radio license. There is none when certain forms have to be filled and returned at a given date. So why should members of the House have any of this stuff called latitude so they can stand on their hind legs and read clippings from newspapers which have not the least bearing on what the country is facing at the moment? The proper thing is to close off this long and useless debate and proceed with business. The debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne is at best a meaningless thing. At the moment members have reason to believe there will be an election before long and they desire to have their statements and arguments on political matters placed on record for purely political advantage, and all the Deputy Speaker was able to do was admit there was "wide latitude" in this particular debate. If parliament desires to talk itself into general disrepute then it is on the right set of rails to arrive at that destination.

NOTE AND COMMENT

If our cash were only like the snow. We mean that when the snow goes away we are always certain there is more where it came from.

Man in London, Ont., gave an exhibition by pulling a truck with his teeth. He would be a handy chap to have about the house on the day the can opener could not be found.

In one slippery day in Toronto 39 motor cars skidded into the rear end of street cars, and that was probably better than the old custom of picking out a Hydro pole and knocking it over.

Reading of Canada's proposed purchase of another warship there will be those who will point out that we were already ahead of Switzerland in the naval race.

T. Houton, a man of 80, living in West Nissouri township, has started to cut his third set of teeth and he'll find the handle on the spoon holder a handy thing to help him along.

When Hon. R. B. Bennett was about to leave Canada six young ladies presented him with bouquets and he kissed each in turn. How that man escaped so long is what beats us.

In three years the Empire State building in New York has been hit by lightning 69 times. We always did like sums which worked out as regular and as easy as that one—just an even 23 times a year.

Since Franco took Barcelona he has shoved on and captured six more towns. If they are financed the same as our municipalities we were wondering what becomes of the sinking funds, the tax rate and the per capita debt.

There will be a number of brief ten-minute stops made along the itinerary of Their Majesties to enable as many people as possible to get a glimpse at them. It would be much easier for them if the cars were made of the fine old style where one could put the head out of the window.

People of Port Hope are somewhat disturbed because their fine community has been referred to as located in the Arctice circle. If Port Hope desires to be safely and well described and at the same time have good company, we know this city would have no objection to Port Hope giving its location as being near Peterborough.

TOO LONG

(By A.R.K.)

¶ My Uncle Dougal saved and saved, and Uncle Dougal slaved and slaved, and he did that for years; he never seemed inclined to quit, and go and visit round a bit, nor did he change his gears.

¶ My Uncle Dougal so they say, was making money in his day, he ran a goodly store; each year he seemed to jubilate, when his accountant then would state, that he had made some more.

¶ And Uncle Dougal read a lot, and many were the books he bought, and he had maps and stuff; and he had planned where he would go, and how he'd travel to and fro, when he had saved enough.

¶ The old home-land he used to say, where he first saw the light of day, and his old father's home; he'd visit there a while and win, the friendship of his kith and kin, nor would he feel alone.

¶ But Uncle Dougal loved his store, he loved to make a little more, he felt he still was strong; and so he stayed at it and slaved, and every year some more he saved, but tarried far too long.

¶ And uncle had to quit one day, he never really got away, nor sniffed the ocean air; the last eight years before he went, he was a feeble man and bent—just sitting in a chair.

Our Statesmen At Their Labor

(House of Commons Debates)

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): Would the hon. member be good enough to inform the house where those figures are available?

Mr. DOUGLAS (Weyburn): I refer the hon. member to the report of the agricultural branch of the dominion bureau of statistics which report was issued last Friday at four o'clock.

Mr. GARDINER: Giving fifty-nine cents for No. 1 northern?

Mr. DOUGLAS: Yes.

Mr. GARDINER: Not the average price received by the farmer?

Mr. DOUGLAS: According to this report the average price was fifty-nine cents.

Mr. GARDINER: For No. 1 northern?

Mr. DOUGLAS: No; the average price received for wheat.

Mr. Gardiner: That is too high, I think.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): That is quite impossible.

Mr. DOUGLAS: Well, I refer my hon. friend to the report: I shall be glad to send it over to him if he wants to use it. I do not propose to take up time reading any more of it, but after I make one more quotation from it I shall send it to my hon. friend.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): I wish it were correct, but I am afraid it is too high.

Mr. DOUGLAS: It may be too high, but I am trying to give the government every possible credit, as the hon. gentleman will appreciate. The report which I received in November gave the figure at fifty-seven cents, while the report issued last Friday gave it as fifty-nine cents.

SHE HAD FIVE JOBS

Miss MACPHAIL: In my generation you did not worry about a job. We worried about learning to do the kind of work we were preparing ourselves for; we worried about examinations, about a diploma, about apprenticeship, but not about finding a job. I recall, when I applied for my first job, just in order to be safe I applied for five and was accepted for all five. That was no compliment to me; it was merely that teachers were scarce.

Mr. MARTIN: No, it was special aptitude.

Miss MACPHAIL: No, they did not know me. Young people today would be very much surprised if, on applying for five jobs they were accepted for all five. It is more likely that when a young person applies for one job today, there will be a hundred other applicants—

Mr. DEPUTY SPEAKER: Order. I regret to interrupt, but the hon. member's time has expired.

Mr. HEAPS: I do not think the hon. member has been speaking for more than half an hour. She started at twenty-five minutes to five.

Mr. DEPUTY SPEAKER: My information from the table is that the hon. member has spoken for over forty minutes.

Mr. HEAPS: All I can say is, the information is wrong.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Go ahead; unanimous consent.

Miss MACPHAIL: I thank the house.

I believe hon. members who have preceded the hon. member who has the floor have been permitted to read editorials.

Mr. HOWE: But occasionally put in a little of their own material, though.

Mr. BROOKS: That is exactly what we are doing.

THINKS IT STRANGE

Mr. F. D. MACKENZIE (Neepawa): I was struck by a remark made by Mr. Elliott, of the youth instructors' staff in Alberta, at a meeting called by the Minister of Labour. I believe Mr. Elliott has charge of placing boys in farm homes, something which could be done with good effect in all agricultural provinces. It seems the procedure is to bring a boy and a farmer together—a boy who has no work, and a farmer who is willing to take the boy, if he is physically and morally sound, and give him a home and training. Mr. Elliott said a boy twenty-two years of age came to him to be placed. He asked the boy what he would like to do, and the boy replied he did not know, because he had never had a chance to try. Mr. Elliott implied, as much by his manner as by what he said, that the trouble lay nowhere else than where it actually did lie—right with the boy himself, his family, his school and the community in which he lived. If my memory serves me correctly that boy was placed with a farmer near at hand.

Who is to blame if such a boy had not been working in that place years before? Is it necessary to start a movement away down here in a department of government at Ottawa, and is it necessary to set up a special staff and expend large sums of money in order to show a town boy in Alberta or in any other province that he can get work and training with a neighbouring farmer? But that is what is being done. Is it not absurd? Where is the spirit of the pioneer? Self-help is lacking throughout Canada. Whole communities are looking to some government to give them a hand-out. The youth in the cities of the west, but only in the cities, are in that position.

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

WHEAT FOR WAR

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir,— Your editorial item "Money To Spend" draws attention to an important trend in today's conditions—because it is reasonable to suppose that those 17,350 who paid their $102,015.43 to see Joe Louis operate on "John Henry" Lewis for 2 minutes and 29 seconds, while not very enthusiastic over the matter, would not blame anyone—unless, perhaps, "John Henry"—and the latter might naively claim "the treat was on me" (!)

The old saying is still true: "The sword has run off with all the glory from the spade and the wheel"—as witness the ability of the world's treasuries to find $17,000,000 for "defense" (!) purposes within the single year of 1938—while the same people find it utterly impossible to pay more than 1 cent a pound for the finest wheat in the world (No. 1 Northern at Winnipeg), without which breadgrain supplies all the war plans would promptly fold up—particularly those of Mr. Hitler and Mr. Mussolini and their friends (if any).

That was the flaw this reader found in the otherwise fine speech by Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, i.e. his reference to the deplorable diversion of the various nations' wealth and resources from useful social purposes into military equipment. Does anyone suppose that, if Messrs Hitler and Mussolini were off the horizon—as some day they will be!—the nations would pour $17,000,000,000 into "useful social purposes"? That is the trouble, Sir. We dramatize war, and leave peace to beg her way, alone!

In the meantime it occurs to me to say that I know of no better or easier way to slow-up the wheels of the charioteers of war, notably in the totalitarian countries, than to prevent millions of tons of breadgrain moving thereto (at below-cost prices) for purposes beyond the present or peaceful needs of their people.

CO-OPERATION

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir,— A few of the thinkers of the county in the county council and among the U. F. O. have initiated a movement for a drive to introduce co-operation among the producers of the county. It is generally conceded by thinkers in many countries that there are three choices facing every country which has not already become a dictatorship, namely (a) fascism (or nazism) (B) communism (c) the middle road of co-operation. Under fascism, nazism, and communism there is no human liberty. The individual exists for the state, not the state for the individual. Then if we love liberty why not take the middle road? Why? Most people never give those things a thought, taking it for granted that things can drift as they have been drifting without disaster overtaking us.

On whom will most responsibility fall for conditions as they exist, want, privation, hopelessness causing crime, insanity, suicide and communism? Ranting and raving against communism will not cure it. As well pour water on a duck's back. Remove social injustice and communism dies. It will then have nothing on which to feed. It has been said that thought will save the world, but how are we to get people to think? People who have thought things out must be the leaders. Who are the natural leaders? Teachers and preachers. They have educated minds and are entrusted with leadership. On churchmen falls the most responsibility as the teacher's work is mostly with child minds and they are told what to teach and dare not go far from the beaten path.

Will the clergy of the county get behind the move? The opportunity and the responsibility are theirs. Will they take up the challenge? Producer co-operation is not enough. Consumers must also co-operate. A splendid example of the ruthless power of the big trusts has been furnished the people of Ontario during the past few months. Using propaganda and the provincial government as tools, a proportion of the population were sold the idea of pasteurized milk. Animals fed on it fail to thrive but it is forced down human throats to boost dividends. Many refuse to use it but have to drive to the farm for raw milk. The new regulations have many producers-distributors out of business, so that it accomplished what it was intended to do.

Abraham Lincoln, the great liberator, warned the people of this continent nearly eighty years ago that the trusts would make economic slaves of them. His incisive mind could forsee the pyramiding of wealth which has since taken place. A few countries namely sweden, Denmark, Finland, Norway, and to a great extent Australia and New zealand have solved their problems by co-operation. A noble start has been made in Nova Scotia.

One hears no sabre-rattling from the Scandinavian countries. They took no part in the holocaust of 1914-1918. Why? Because they have learned to think for themselves. They live and let live. They co-operate. Shall we do likewise or shall we perish? Time is short in which to be up and doing. Make no mistake. We may be another China, Ethiopia or Spain. The great natural resources of which our spell-binders are always talking, our oil, coal, nickel etch may be our undoing. Countries which lack these resources through the greed of their neighbors will probably try to seize ours. Canadians must learn co-operation or perish. All honor to the few men of vision in the country who are leaders! How much help they will receive remains to be seen. Your etc.

A BELIEVER IN CO-OPERATION

Douro, Jan. 30.

• Help To Finance Farm Labor

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir,—In reading the proceedings of the Peterborough County Council I was very glad to know that some one at last has started in the right direction of creamery and milk co-operation but just on the start I would like to advise you to keep politics out of the picture, as I have known several good attempts on this same kind of adventure killed by politics. Keep it free from this canker.

We hear a great deal these days about testing our cattle for T.B. and other diseases, then in the next breath compelling the farmers to have their milk pasteurized. Does not look like sense to me, nor cents in the producers' pocket at any rate. We will have to convince the milk consumers, as the milk man who was asked by one of his city lady customers if his cows were on pasture all the time. He said "yes." "Well," she said, "I am so glad to know I am being supplied with pasteurized milk."

The thing that looks so foolish to me is the fact that the farmers have been forced into the trouble and expense of having their herds all tested for T.B. and other diseases then if they do not pasteurize or send milk where it will be, we will not be allowed to sell their milk or butter.

In the near future, if I can read between the lines and I think I can a little at least. Just a case of the big fish devouring the little ones, and in that takes place the consumer will very soon know where the price will soar. We have too many already, making millions out of milk products.

Some of those people who are doing the most complaining are not the consumers, but those who would like to have control of all milk products. The majority of doctors do not favor pasteurized milk; human nature has provided milk at its best. Why should man come along and destroy it. Some people should drink milk of their kind, namely, "goat's milk."

The county council had better see what they can do in solving the unemployed question. As a farmer I am still of the opinion there is still plenty of work for the man that is willing to do a fair day's work for a fair day's pay, who is not always complaining. There are thousands of jobs on the farms for man of this calibre, and if the government would as readily come across with some of the millions of money they seem to have, for helping other concerns, (as well as the money paid out on relief,) help finance the wages of these men, the man who had the job would feel better, as well as helping the farmer out, and make him feel better satisfied.

There is no better place on earth to work than on the farm, but relief being so handy makes help more independent. There must be reasonable co-operation between employer and employee, and a man be given to understand that if he leaves his job, without some just cause for so doing his relief may be cut down or taken away altogether. The average wage on a farm is from fifteen to thirty dollars per month, with board and lodging, which means altogether from thirty to fifty-five dollars per month, according to what they can do, and as I said before if the government would pay five or ten dollars per month of this wage, I think there could be thousands of these unemployed men given work and at something that would be a great help to the country and still be a financial saving on the government.

GOOD TASTE COUNTS.

An authority in such matters steps to the front and affirms that being well dressed isn't in the least a matter of money.

"There are women who can spend fortunes on their costumes and still look dowdy," says Claudette Colbert, who never looks that way and couldn't if she tried.

"Then there are other women who contrive to look charming, desirable and lovely on purchases that amount to less than $20."

Nor has geography or environment much to do with the matter, thinks Miss Colbert,

For she adds: "I have seen in the small towns of America and Europe women who should achieve distinction because of harmonious costumes which they have created by themselves."

So, ladies, it isn't what you spend but how you spend it; it isn't what you wear but how you wear it, that counts.

What is true with respect to attire, which Miss Colbert rightly considers a form of art, is true elsewhere in the creative world.

A singer, a composer, a painter or a writer who has taste and deftness frequently is able to transform a trifle into an achievement shot through with real beauty.

On the other hand, a singer, a composer, a painter or a writer lacking in taste and discrimination too often turns work of high potential merit and great cost into something which is clumsy, muddy and even repellant.

Both sorts of things are being done continually. — (Detroit Free Press)

SHELTERS ONLY.

Between December 5 and 10 the number of bombs dropped on Barcelona by raiding rebel warplanes was 455. The number of people killed was two. Does this mean that a civilian population can be given some fair defence against air attack? Yes. But only if it is provided with an ample supply of underground shelters. When Barcelona was still advising people to paste up their windows against gas or go into cellars for shelter or relying on trenches (and that is the phase of A. R. P. this country is still in) the death roll was horrible. Now Barcelona has shelters for all. . . . And it is a story which should strengthen irresistibly the demand of the Labor Party statement on A. R. P. for the immediate construction of shelters. — (London Daily Herald)

CHOICE OF WEAPONS

"Arthur," said the fair young thing, "dad is in the billiard room. Now is the time to ask him for his consent to our marriage."

"Why?" asked his sweetheart in surprise.

"Then he will only have a book in his hand instead of a billiard cue," replied the wily Arthur.

1,400 Cars Of Lemons Dumped Into Ravine To Bring Back Market

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 31. — Ralph Locke gave his maiden address to the Rotary Club here on Monday, and chose for his subject, "Lemon Growing" in Northern California near Maxwell, where he spent several years on a 1,000-acre fruit ranch, which had an additional 3,000 acres for the growing of other miscellaneous crops such as barley, oranges, prunes, grapefruit, and olives.

Owing to the fact that very little rain falls on this section it is necessary to irrigate the land and to facilitate this the orchards are planted on a hillside spreading out in a V shape from top to bottom. By means of electric pumps water is brought to the top of the hill where it circles down to the bottom through sand pipes. The land is irrigated in this way every two weeks. The trees themselves are planted about forty feet apart and reach a height of fifty feet, bearing fruit all the year around. An orchard of this type must be at least eight years old before it begins to be profitable, claimed the speaker, who declared is was a rather novel experience for Canadian farmers to see the trees which bore fruit and blossoms at the same time. Almonds or some other minor crop are planted in the orchard to carry the ranch until the main crop becomes profitable. The almond trees begin to bear in about three years and are merely shaken from the branches when ripe.

Lemon Picked When Green.

The lemon is always cut from the tree when still green, and carefully placed in a hamper and later in a crate somewhat heavier than those used for actual shipping. Great care is taken in removing the lemon from its tree since they are easily bruised and the least break in the outer skin will cause them to rot. It will spoil in three days following a bruise, said Mr. Locke. After being crated they are placed in a huge warehouse where the temperature is kept at 1.0 degrees until th fruit ripens. They are then carefully washed, sized and hand wrapped,

1,400 Cars Dumped.

All fruit must be sold through the Fruit Growers' Association, said the speaker, who told of having seen no less than 1,400 cars of lemons dumped into a ravine at the order of the association when the market had "gone to pieces." The fruit could not be sold at a profit, and in order to revive the market this large amount was destroyed.

In California barley, like most other field crops, may also be grown but it is always planted in the fall instead of the spring. The olive grows on a small tree similar to the willow and is very bitter to taste when ripe, while the rice crop is almost exclusive to the region north of Sacramento. Here the farms are all operated by Chinese and Japanese, who both work and manage the farms for the Americans since it is not legal for the Japanese to own property. Rice is planted on level fields during the month of May and is kept flooded with water until it is ripe in the fall. Binders operated by small gas engines do the cutting after the field has been drained, and there are no horses to be seen, most of the work being done by mules, while men sweat under a temperature of 125 degrees during the daytime and sleep in a "cooler" 100 degrees of heat at night.

Despite these high temperatures during the summer it is necessary for the fruit ranch owner to be prepared for the occasional winter frost, and when the temperature goes down to thirty-two degrees, all help is called out and the smudge pot, located at the base of every tree is lighted, pouring off a heavy oily smoke which prevents the fruit from being touched by the frost.

At the conclusion of his address Rotarian Tom Hall expressed the appreciation of the club to Rotarian Ralph for his interesting address.

Reduce the Easy Way on Low-Calorie Diet

Exercise No Help to Mrs. Fleshy

"The more I exercise the more I gain," pants Mrs. Fleshy, bouncing up and down in her gym class beside graceful Miss Slim.

Creamed chicken's delicious, but a scant cupful is 400 calories. Two pats of butter (100 calories) on a hot roll (100 calories) make 200 calories more. And that lemon meringue pie "sticks to your ribs" to the tune of 450 calories.

You'd have to work like a dynamo to get rid of all those calories, Mrs. Fleshy! Follow Miss Slim's pleasant way of reducing.

She likes chicken too — but she counts calories. A sandwich with three slices of chicken, a pat of butter and lettuce is only 250 calories. And that tasty custard pie is but 225 calories.

Lose two pounds a week on a healthful, tasty low-calory diet. Our 32-page booklet gives reduction menus for two weeks, based on protective foods rich in pep-giving vitamins. Three-day liquid diet. Calory chart. Build-up program if you're underweight.

Tweed Girl Is Hit By Passing Car

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 31.—Lois Fisher, five-year-old daughter of Mrs. William Fisher, narrowly escaped serious injury on Saturday evening. While playing in front of her home, she ran directly into the path of a motor car driven by H. J. Cordy of Sulphide. Mr. Cordy did everything possible to avoid striking the child who became confused. Fortunately the girl, although bruised about the side of the head and body was not seriously hurt and after receiving medical attention is recovering at her home.

MILLBROOK

Mr. F. W. Pendrie, of the firm Fowler and Pendrie, who has been in ill health for some time, left on Saturday for an extended holiday in California.

Reeve W. E. and Mrs. Ball were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Garnett, Port Hope, on Sunday evening.

The invitation dance held in the Armouries on Friday evening, under the auspices of the officers and non-commissioned officers of "C" Company of the Midland Regiment, was a well attended and most enjoyable event. A number of out-of-town guests were in attendance, and music was provided by Jack Grant and his Aces of Havelock.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Reid of Reaboro were guests of her aunts, Mrs. L. H. Rea and Mrs. Elizabeth Armstrong, on Friday, motoring here to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. R. J. McKnight.

Mrs. Clara Walkinshaw, a niece of the late Mrs. W. G. Pendrie, who has spent the past few months in Millbrook and vicinity visiting friends, left on Saturday for her home in Los Angeles, California.

J. W. Thorndyke, of the CBC, Toronto, was home for the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thorndyke.

James Moore, Dean Of Hastings County Council

STIRLING, Jan. 31 — They call him the 'Dean of County Councillors." His genial disposition, happy moods, generosity to friend and enemy (if any) his ability as a councillor, and an infectious laugh that has won for him a host of friends, has endeared him to not only his colleagues in the Hastings County Council but to members of provincial and dominion municipal bodies with whom he has been "doing business" for nearly three decades.

Yet it is doubtful if any of the members of the 1939 Hastings County Council, when they took their seats at the inaugural meeting of that body realized that Reeve James A. Moore of Elzivir and Grimsthorpe townships, was entering his twenty-eighth consecutive year as a member of the council and that this year marks his seventeenth consecutive year as chairman of the Roads and bridges Committee.

Holds Record

"Jim" as he is familiarly known among his council colleagues and a host of friends outside municipal circles, established a provincial record last January when he attended his seventy-ninth consecutive council session. Well on his way to establishing an even greater record, the genial "James" was suddenly stricken with appendicitis early this summer, an incident that not only prevented him from attending the June session of his beloved council but also stopped his attendance record at the figure 79.

However, the current session marks his eighty-first appearance as a county councillor, a record that members claim is an all-time one in the Province of Ontario.

His familiar figure and jolly disposition, were sadly missed at the June session of last year. For, as one member facetitiously puts it, "The county council without the Honorable Jim, is like pepper without salt, a coat without pants, or a hot dog without mustard."

Chairman of Roads

For the past sixteen years he has been honored with the chairmanship of the Roads and Bridges Committee of the County Council. Faith in his knowledge of this intricate and difficult phase of county administration, his ability to carry through and work within the appropriations given him, with a maximum of results, and satisfaction on the part of all the municipalities of this far-flung county of Hastings, has gained for him year after year his position at the head of the Roads Committee.

He is of the type that pioneered the almost jungle-like fastnesses of the northern part of the county in the days of his rugged forebears. He is afraid of nothing that resembles work and time after time has sacrificed much of his own time and labor that the road system of the county might be benefitted by his advice and experience.

One of the most popular figures that has ever graced a seat in the Council Chamber, "Jim" to all appearances is hale and hearty, and ready for another decade of service to the municipality and county that he loves so well.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, February 1.

A very active day, with much moving in the direction of high goals, is forecast, judging by the lunar as well as mutual aspects. This positive headway may be made against underhand opposition or fraudulent tactics. The menace of treachery and subtlety also pervades the private relations, calling for vigilance and shrewd manipulation. But real progress in finance and position await.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of splendid opportunity for advancement, progress and good fortune. Much may be gained by aggressive and constructive effort as well as by alertness to plots from undercover sources. The undercurrent of duplicity and deceit may also be found in private, social, or sentimental relations. It calls for keen and shrewd although discreet manipulation.

A child born on this day may be capable and ambitious, with much enterprise and versatility. Nevertheless, it may have certain restless or erratic proclivities underlying its really excellent disposition.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

READ THIS FIRST:

Elsie Ritter, a beauty shop operator, taking the place of a friend for a week in the private salon of Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Sr., finds herself involved in a mystery when the eccentric old lady is found dead under one of the hair driers after Elsie had left the room for a few moments. She is further humiliated when she learns that one of the servants in the Manor's household suspects her of taking Mrs. Witherspoon's emeralds, which are missing. Certain members of the Witherspoon family and some of the house guests strike Elsie as queer, and she is surprised when the old lady's son, Horace Witherspoon, advises her to say nothing of the missing jewels for fear of publicity and the police. The coroner arrives for his investigtion. Phil Benson, Elsie's friend and a reporter, comes for an obituary for his paper and Elsie shows him around the mansion. Mrs. Witherspoon's funeral is held the next day.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

TUESDAY dawned a better and brighter day. I felt quite cheerful as I bustled about the salon preparing the pads and curlers and ammonia for Mrs. Horace's permanent. Promptly at nine she arrived and by nine-thirty things were well under way.

I had almost completed wrapping the hair when Miss Daphne looked in.

"Going to make mother beautiful?" she called, laughing at the sight of Mrs. Horace looking like nothing so much as a piccaninny with her head covered with metal clips.

I smiled. The more I saw of Daphne the better I liked her.

"I've been trying to talk her into having this done for ages," she said, coming inside and seating herself on the arm of a chair. "She always refused until now."

"Better late than never," I said.

"Right you are," she agreed, and I thought she directed an anxious glance at her mother. "I'll run along. Glad wants me to help her pack. See you at lunch, mother."

At a quarter to eleven Mrs. Horace, her head a mass of kinky corkscrews, was ready for the final step. I plastered her hair with waving lotion and set the wave.

"Take the second drier, please," I directed, and was somewhat relieved when she scooted under it without demur. Either she had forgotten or did not care that it was in this chair that her mother-in-law had breathed her last. I fastened the cloth strip tightly about her throat and threw the switch.

I will never know to my dying day what made me suddenly whirl from the table where I was sorting and returning the curlers to their separate boxes, but whirl I did. For a moment I stood staring at the aproned figure beneath the drier, what had caused my start of alarm, my certainty that all was not as it should be? There was nothing wrong with the picture—Mrs. Horace sat quietly, her hands folded in her lap. Nothing wrong, and yet — there — there it was again! A soft scraping sound like the sound of something dragging roughly across the floor! It was close, quite close. Perplexed, I tiptoed to the drier.

And then — then I saw; I saw what was making the noise! The slipper-clad feet of Mrs. Horace Witherspoon were creeping slowly from beneath the hem of her skirt! They were pointed toward me, toes out! On and on they crept. I could not take my eyes from them.

Suddenly, with a violent movement, they stopped. Horrified, my gaze travelled upward. Mrs Horace lay sprawled in her chair, her neck held rigid by the cloth strip of the helmet! Her lower torso slumped grotesquely forward, as if it had endeavored to escape the rest of her body.

The room turned upside down and right side up again before I finally managed to throw the switch and lift the hood. And as the head was released from its forced imprisonment Mrs. Horace Witherspoon slid noiselessly to the floor.

As I bent above her a familiar odor tickled my nostrils. I sneezed! Then my knees gave way and I was sitting upright on the floor looking into the wide open eyes of Mrs. Horace. I screamed. I screamed again and again. Those eyes regarded me steadily. They were terrified eyes! I scrambled to my feet and fled screaming into the corridor.

I sat in my bedroom waiting for someone to come for me. It was mid-afternoon and I had been waiting since twelve o'clock. Four hours of horror, of vague, nameless fears.

It was Miss Daphne who found me in the hallway. She had been coming up the front stairs when she had heard me shrieking and she had run to where I stood and had shaken me roughly.

Before long the whole household was milling about the corridor. Mr. Horace appeared from somewhere, and when I saw him I began to scream again. It was his wife who lay on the salon floor with her eyes open—and dead!

"Hush!" he said, and his voice was a different one than I had ever heard him use. It was not faltering and uncertain, but strong and incisive. It cut like a knife through my hysteria. I was so astounded I quit yelling and stared at him open mouthed.

"What is it?" he demanded, and pointed to the salon.

"Something has happened," Daphne said. "Something dreadful, I think."

"What is the matter?" Della Craig pushed herself forward.

"Stand back all of you!" commanded Mr. Horace in his new crisp voice. "Miss Ritter, come with me!"

I tried to draw back. I did not want to go inside again, but he took hold of my arm and pulled me across the threshold and shut the door on the crowd outside.

"In the anteroom," I managed to stammer, and he pushed aside the silver curtain.

"Good God!" I heard him exclaim. He sort of staggered and fell into a chair and hid his face in his hands. For five minutes he sat thus; then he raised his head and looked at me.

"How did it happen?" he said at length, and he had his old voice back.

I shook my head helplessly. "I don't know. I never left the room."

"Poor Lettie!" He knelt on the floor beside her. "I—I don't understand."

"Father!" Daphne came into the room. She ran to the little man, and her eyes fell upon the body of her mother. I thought she was going to faint. But she did not faint. She stood there a few feet from her father and her mother—and there was an expression on her face that froze my blood to see. She was smiling, with the corners of her mouth lifted ever so slightly and curled back from her teeth!

I must have gasped, for she turned and faced me gravely.

"She's dead, isn't she" she asked softly.

"Yes, she's dead." Mr. Horace answered her. "Her heart has stopped beating."

"Father!" And now another voice called his name. The dark young man, Mr. Richard, burst into the salon. His face was pale with apprehension. "Della says there's been an accident!"

"Mother is dead," said Daphne, and she smiled again that queer, blood-chilling smile.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

"Why, Mr. Punch! you look very sad," Knarf and Hanid said to their good friend the other evening. He was sitting all alone on the steps of the little Play-House where he lived with his wife Judy. Punch and Judy were puppets, you know. They often acted in little plays for the children.

"Is something the matter?" Hanid asked again.

Mr. Punch looked up. He tried to smile. "The matter? Well—to tell you the truth, my dears, something is the matter."

"What is it? Tell us, please. Perhaps we can help you."

"Perhaps you can," he answered, slowly. "But I don't think so. Today is Judy's birthday. And I can't give her the present I want to give her."

What Is It?

"Oh! that's too bad," the two shadows exclaimed. "What is the present?"

"It's not very much. It isn't anything you can buy. You see," he went on, "when I first met Judy many, many years ago and she had a birthday, I gave her a daisy."

"A daisy!"

Mr. Punch nodded. "A little daisy. I went out and picked it myself. It was growing in a sunny spot on the carpet in the parlor. I suppose you wouldn't call it a real daisy. But it looked very pretty. It had yellow petals made of thread and a beautiful slended stem as green as a stem should be. Judy was so happy with it, she said: 'Punch, this is the best present I have ever received. I never want a nicer one.'"

"And can't you find another one to give her?" the shadows said.

"No," said Mr. Punch sadly. "The old carpet has become worn. The daisies have all disappeared. I don't know what to do."

At that instant Knarf cried: "Oh! I remember something!" Then he dashed up the stairs—up, up, up—till he came to the attic. Then he squeezed into the trunk and there at the very bottom was an old, old dress which Grandmother had worn when she was a little girl. And all over the dress were little buttercups and bluebells and daisies.

And she said: "Punch, my darling, this is the loveliest birthday present you have ever given me. It's the only birthday present I ever want."

Aren't you happy for Mr. Punch?

Rebels Hold Major Portion Of Spain

With the capture of Barcelona, the Spanish insurgent forces now possess the greater portion of Spain. Surrounded on all sides the remaining loyalist territory, shaded on the ABOVE map, will now be subject to increasing pressure from General Franco's forces.

Looking Back On This Date

Among the many difficulties which the Earl of Elgin, our first constitutional governor-general had to contend with was the absence of official correspondence by his predecessors, Metcalfe, Bagot, and Sydenham, with the colonial office. Part of this trouble had been caused, of course, by the destruction of many official records in the fire which wrecked Parliament House, Montreal, on April 25, 1849. At that time guberational files went into ashes with the journals of the legislatures of both Lower and Upper Canada and of the first eight years of the Province of Canada.

In a letter to the Colonial Secretary, dated Toronto, Jan. 31, 1851, Lord Elgin wrote:

"It is one of my great difficulties here that as all my predecessors have died after holding the office two or three years I am forever pestered by applicants who quite promises made by one or other of them, which, of course, I have no means of verifying. What a relief it would be if they could speak from their graves and save me this badgering from men, many of them frauds, who base their applications on the knowledge that I have no means of proving them the liars they probably are."

It so happened in the particular case under review that the applicant for compensation had sent documents to London which verified his claim and Elgin was glad to hand it to Robert Baldwin for settlement. But there were other cases in which the applicants took advantage of the fact that their patron was dead to file claims of various kinds.

Elect Officers Fairmount S.S.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FAIRMOUNT, Jan. 31.—The annual Sunday school meeting was held in the Howden Memorial Hall with a good attendance, Superintendent C. W. Seymour taking the chair.

The financial report was given by the secretary-treasurer, R. C. Hanbidge, showing a sound balance for the coming year.

Reports were then given from superintendents of the different divisions and organized classes showed a decided increase over the previous year.

Election Of Officers.

The following officers were then elected: Superintendent, C. W. Seymour; assistant supt., F. R. McIndoo; sec.-treas., R. C. Hanbidge; supt. of adult division, R. K. Earle; supt. secondary division, Mr. W. Seymour; supt. primary division, Miss Mary Hooton; supt. of beginners, Miss Helen Earle; supt. of home department, Mrs. R. Hooton; supt. of missionary, Mrs. J. Seymour and Mrs. H. M. McBain; supt. of cradle roll, Mrs. T. W. McIndoo; supt of teacher training, Mrs Russell Earle; grading officer, Mr. G. H. Hooton; flower committee, Mrs. G. Hooton and Mrs. W. Seymour; monitors, Jimmie Irwin and Nelson Ballantyne; music committee, comrades' class, Mr. Duncan Seymour and Harry McArthur.

Several items of business were then discussed to improve the efficiency of the school and it was decided to hold mothers' day service in May, also the anniversary followed by a garden party third Sunday in June.

SURPRISE

PONTEIX, Sask.—(CP)—Resting in bed, Mrs. Maurice Bedard, a farmer's wife, got the biggest surprise of her life. A coyote, chased by hounds, jumped through a window of her home. Her screams brought a worker, who killed the wolf.

Old Virginia Fine Cut is here, bringing new convenience, new satisfaction, new enjoyment to "roll-your-owners." It's an extra fine cut tobacco with long, silky threads of mild Virginia leaf that lie snug and tidy in the paper (most smokers prefer Vogue or Chantecler papers) that roll quickly and easily into evenly-filled cigarettes.

This new cigarette tobacco is different and it comes in a different package—a pocket-fitting, seal-tight pouch that keeps the tobacco fresh and in top condition to the very last shred.

The handy pouch of Old Virginia Fine Cut carries the signature "D. Ritchie & Co.", the hall-mark of genuine Old Virginia.

Ottawa Shaping Affairs For An Election

OTTAWA, Jan. 31—(CP).—Preparations for the next Dominion general election are going forward steadily at the chief electoral office her. Today a 381-page book of election instructions prepared by Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer, came from the King's Printer. A week ago the names of the new returning officers were announced in a special issue of the Canada Gazette.

Parliament last session made so many changes in the Elections Act that the new book of instructions will require careful study by all engaged in the forthcoming election. After one trial in the 1935 election with permanent voters' lists, revised yearly and always ready for use, Canada is now going back to its historic system of preparing new lists after a general election is announced.

In each electoral district enumerators will sally forth in pairs, with one Conservative and one Liberal in urban polling divisions, after the writs for the election have been issued and obtain names of all men and women entitled to vote. The enumerators will wear bronze badges for identification purposes. In rural polling divisions the lists will be prepared by only one enumerator who will be selected and approved by the returning officer.

Enumerators will start work 49 days before polling day and must have their work completed by the 42nd day. All the lists will be printed locally by the returning officer by the 26th day before polling day.

Each Voter Notified

At the 1935 general election each voter was notified by a postcard of where he or she could vote. Under the new system, in cities of more than 25,000, every voter will receive an envelope containing the complete list of all voters in the polling division. In cities of under 25,000 and in towns, these lists would go to householders only and to such voters as are living in hotels and rooming houses.

Election officials believe it will be as economical to send these out as in the past it had been to send the card. In the case of the cards each had to be filled in separately, whereas in the case of the voters' lists the identical sheets will go to each elector in the polling division. The list sent to each voter or householder will also contain a notice of the time and place of the revision.

The lists will go out 23 days before voting and in addition to notifying the voter where to vote, they will give each elector an opportunity of checking up in his own locality to see whether names have been accidentally left off the list or names included which should not be there. In the case of urban districts courts of revision will be held on the 14th, 13th and 12th days before polling when additions or eliminations from the list will be completed. In the case of rural areas the lists can be added to until polling day.

An important change set out in the instructions is that for the first time election results from any part of Canada may not be published in any particular province until the polls have been closed at 6 p.m. owing to the difference in time between eastern and western provinces, it has been possible in the past for results in the Maritimes to be published in British Columbia before the polls in the Pacific Coast province have been closed. Changes were made in the Election Act last session to prevent this praitice.

The book of instructions announces that the following change regarding withdrawal of candidates: "A candidate may withdraw at any time after being officially nominated but not later than 48 hours before the opening of the polls on polling day by filing with the returning officer a declaration to that effect signed by himself and attested by the signatures of two qualified electors in the electoral district. Any votes cast for such candidate will be null and void and the deposit $200 of a candidate so withdrawing will be forfeited."

In the past there has been considerable confusion regarding the withdrawal of candidates particularly when they withdrew on the eve of an election. Deputy returning officers were not authorized to notify the voter of such withdrawal. Under the new law, however, they will be instructed to post a sign in the polling booth announcing the withdrawal of a candidate.

In the coming election, 40 tons of books and forms including the blank ballots will be sent out by the chief electoral office to the various constituencies. The printing of the names of the candidate on the ballots is done in the various constituencies as well as the voters' lists. The instructions fix definite rates of payment for all these services as well as the rates to be paid election officials and rentals for premises in which to hold the voting.

Each urban enumerator will receive seven cents for every name of an elector included on his list. Rural enumerators will receive nine cents. The deputy returning officer will receive $7 for acting at an ordinary poll and the D.R.O. for advanced polls, which last three days, will receieve $15.

The chief electoral officer will issue no less than 155 different forms to be used in the election. These forms are listed in the instructions. Diaries are appended to each part of the election instructions. By following these diaries, each class of election officer will be able to ascertain what duty he has no perform each day preceding the election and on polling day itself.

Foreign Policy

right to decide participation and extensive re-armament. The last election was not fought on these issues. If this Parliament is to engage Canada in a future war it should go immediately to the people and seek authority.

An Election Issue.

"Let us be frank and face the facts. Participation in a continental war will be an issue in the next general election whether we want it or not. It will most certainly be an issue in Quebec.

"If this government has been informed from unimpeachable sources that some foreign power has cast a covetous eye on this territory then it is our sacred duty to proceed with the speediest plans for its defence. But it must be a war that threatens our very liberty, independence, and existence."

Reference to Jewish refugees and immigration in general came into discussion immediately the House opened when Mr. Lacroix presented a petition from the Saint Jean Baptiste Society of Quebec Diocese, bearing 127,364 names urging the government to bar all immigrants, particularly Jewish. It was received without comment.

A few minutes later A. W. Neill (Ind., Comox-Alberni) introduced a bill amending the Immigration Act opening the way to leniency toward those aliens due for deportation because they became public charges before obtaining full citizenship. It was to aid particularly those political refugees who might be subject to hardship or even the death penalty if returned to their country of origin. The bill was given first reading.

Issues Confused.

Mr. Heaps said immigration and the refugees question were being confused in the minds of the members. No one was asking for a large influx of immigrants. It had been proposed to let in only about 50,000 refugees.

"No human being can help extending sympathy for the plight of the refugees," said Mr. Heaps. "Never in the history of mankind have human beings been treated so barbarously as at the present time by Fascist powers.

"The pitiful plight of all these people has aroused international concern and I think every civilized country in the world has taken definite action of a sympathetic nature.

"But Canada has not yet done so and I would like to see our own government and nation take its rightful place with other democratic countries and show its sympathy in a practical manner."

Mr. Heaps accused the government of permitting a Cabinet Minister with no jurisdiction over immigration, State Secretary Rinfret, to announce the government's policy on the refugee question at a public meeting in Montreal while the House was in session.

Mr. Rinfret spoke in Montreal January 20 and Mr. Heaps quoted a Montreal newspaper report which said the Minister announced, as a matter of government policy, that so long as unemployment existed in Canada there would be "no open door for refugees."

The Secretary of State was not in the House when Mr. Heaps made his observations but Prime Minister Mackenzie King said that the fact the government was opposed to any "open door" policy is "a very different thing from giving consideration to a situation and meeting it in the best possible way short of an open door."

Mr. Heaps called upon the Prime Minister to confer with other party leaders in the House and formulate a plan on the refugee problem. This would eliminate any suggestion of political advantage to one party or another.

Labor organizations throughout the Dominion, Mr. Heaps declared, would approve the admission of a limited number of refugees.

Hon. H. A. Stewart (Con. Leeds) suggested that the camp system carried on by the last government for the care of transient unemployed be re-established and that work be provided for them by a program of secondary road construction.

Defeatist Attitude

Mr. McLean scored the attitude of the C.C.F. group which he said was one of defeatism. Instead of leading youth to believe "there is defeat and nothing else in store for them they should be telling them there are more diversified opportunities in Canada today than there ever were at any time in the past.

"It is true that today a man must go out and make his own job perhaps more than he has ever had to before. But how can you expect any government to make jobs for all who come along?

"That cannot be done unless the government is to take over full control backed up with bayonets like our dictator friends in Europe and make everyone work without regard for the pay he shall receive.

"If young people took advantage of the education they received; if they got out in the open places and took advantage of the natural resources of the country; if they were willing to fight against nature and try to solve their own problems they would be much better occupied than in listening to counsels of despair.

Snowplows Work All Night Opening Roads

Borne on the wings of a northeast gale, a blizzard swept the eastern part of Ontario on Monday night, piling drifts high enough to block many communication roads and interrupting train and bus service in outlying points.

Working all night, snowplows on the Provincial highways kept the road open, and this morning motor traffic was getting through from Port Hope to Peterborough, the regular bus having little trouble behind the snow plow. To the north motor traffic stalled at Apsley, and the bus driver on the Peterborough-Bancroft run spent the night in the village. The road from Apsley to Bancroft at ten o'clock was not passable for motor vehicles, but from Peterborough to Apsley the road was plowed and in good shape. Downeyville reports motor traffic is proceeding from Omemee to Downeyville, and all other main highways such as Peterborough to Lindsay and Peterborough to Madoc are open.

Eight Inches Fell.

The official reading as given by A. O. Phillips, weather recorder this morning revealed that up to six o'clock on Tuesday morning eight inches of snow had fallen, and it was still coming down, at ten. The storm, while causing much discomfort to those who had to be abroad on Monday night, brought joy to the hearts of skiers in the district, who hope now there will be sufficient snow for the provincial ski meet in the city on February 11 and 12.

Bancroft Storm-bound.

A wire from the northern town of Bancroft says twelve inches of snow have fallen since Monday, and that bus and train services have been delayed.

Millbrook residents report it is possible to drive a car from the village to Highway 28, but the road is heavy where drifting has taken place.

All side roads throughout the county are said to be impassable to motor traffic and farmers and rural mail carriers are resorting to sleighs to get through.

Snowplows were used on the Canadian Pacific Railway last night more as a precautionary measure, but were needed only in a few of the cuts where the snow had accumulated.

Havelock District.

The road to Oak Lake and South Lake were both reported blocked today, while the road to Corodva Mines from Havelock was almost impossible. Ross Covert and Bill Forsythe, both of Havelock, are said to have gone to Forsythe's hunting cabin at Bass Lake yesterday and did not return last night. No fears are held for their safety as the hunting cabin is well built and they have plenty of food. There is also a mining settlement close by.

Game Called Off.

Stirling hockey team was unable to reach Norwood last night for a scheduled hockey match, which was postponed to a later date.

Hastings District

Deep snow drifts on the Hastings-Norwood road combined with poor visibility forced at least two drivers into the ditch early last evening. Later, however, the provincial snow plow passed through here and opened the road.

At the height of the blinding storm a heavy truck was forced into the ditch east of Norwood when the driver could not see an approaching car until it was a few feet ahead. It was also learned that a dance at Warkworth sponsored by St. Jerome's parish, was postponed due to inclement weather.

Smoke-Stack Topples

The Anglin passenger bus proceeding from Trenton to Peterborough, arrived fifteen minutes late at Hastings. Morley Dingman, the driver, said he had plowed through drifts higher than the radiator cap. He was forced to stop several times to unplug the radiator and clear the windshield.

Farewell Party Is Given Bailieboro Couple Who Are Leaving Vicinity For Lakefield

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 31. — A large crowd of friends and neighbors gathered in Fletcher's Hall Friday evening to do honor to Mr. and Mrs. Judson Pue and family, who have recently moved from the farm to take up residence in Lakefield. Reg. Perrin, acting in the capacity of chairman, spoke briefly of the loss the community had sustained in the removal of such worthy citizens and neighbors. He asked Mr. Pue and family to come to the platform, where an address was read by Harold Howson, with Fred Perrin and Charlie Barnard presenting Mr. and Mrs. Pue with a beautiful studio couch. Jack Brackenridge and Jack Monorief presented gifts of money to the three children, Joan, Norma and John.

Mrs. Chas. Barnard, on behalf of the Ladies' Association of the church, presented Mrs. Pue with a hymn book.

Mr. Pue thanked all for their kind gifts and hoped to have them visit them in their new home at Lakefield.

The committee in charge served refreshments, after which dancing and cards were indulged in until the wee sma' hours.

OBITUARY

ROBERT BROOKS

Many friends and relatives attended the funeral of the late Robert Brooks from his late residence, at Gore's Landing, on Saturday, January 28.

Mr. Brooks was in his 84th year and had been in failing health for some months previous to his death on January 26th. Until then he had always enjoyed excellent health and took the greatest pride in his garden.

He retired twenty-eight years ago from his farm which was located about two miles from the village.

He was married in 1882 to Mary Doidge who predeceased him by seventeen years. Later he married Levina Liscombe, widow of the late George Liscombe, who survives him. He also leaves to mourn his loss his only child, Mrs. M. F. Ames of Plainville, three grandchildren, Lyall Ames and Mrs. Hartley Halstead of Noranda, Que., and Mrs. C. R. Washburn of Java, East Indies, and two great grandchildren. Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Allan McIntosh of Gore's Landing and Mrs. Alex Eagleson of Coldsprings.

He was a Conservative in politics and belonged successively to the Bible Christian, Methodist and United Church.

Interment was in the Bible Christian Cemetery at Plainville.

MRS. R. J. McKNIGHT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 31—The sudden death of Ida May Brown, beloved wife of Robert J. McKnight, which occurred last Wednesday in the early morning hours, following a brief illness, came as a great shock not only to the immediate family, and relatives, but also to the community at large as well.

Mrs. McKnight was the only daughter of the late George Brown, and his wife, Elizabeth Pethick, and was born on the family homestead, Zion Line, fifty-eight years ago. Following her marriage to Robert J. McKnight, who survives her, residence was on the Seventh Line, Cavan, just north of Millbrook.

Mrs. McKnight was a member of Grace Presbyterian church, active in its interests and faithful in attendance and support, holding the office of president of the Ladies' Aid Society for a period of three years and being a valued member of the choir for practically her entire period of connection with her chosen place of worship. The local branch of the Women's Institute has also suffered a severe loss through the passing of Mrs. McKnight, who for the past three years had filled the office of president, and for several years had been an active and capable member.

Surviving relatives include one son, George, on the homestead, and an only brother, Wesley Brown, of the Zion Line. The funeral, which was very largely attended, took place from the family residence on Friday at 2 p.m., Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A., having charge of the service. The pall-bearers included: Messrs. T. W. Belch, A. Coyte, L. W. Smith, Thomas Douglas, H. C. Argue, and W. Elson.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

Among those from a distance who attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Raper of Toronto; Mrs. Annie Osborne, Bowmanville; Mr. and Mrs. George McCullough of Newtonville; Mr. and Mrs. Norman McCullough, of Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. K. Reid of Reaboro; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Crown, of Reaboro; Mr. and Mrs. Reg Woodward of Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. J. Boughen, of Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Boughen of Dale; Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard Strong, and Miss Alberta Brock, of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. J. Bigelow and Mr. and Mrs. W. Bannon of Kirby.

Roseneath W.M.S. Elects Officers

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Jan. 31. — The election of officers and the presentation of the annual reports were features of a busy afternoon for the members of the United Church W. A. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Ella Brown.

The "Spirit of the New Year" was the theme of the devotional period, conducted by Mrs. L. W. Scott. Appropriate articles were contributed by Mrs. L. Tucker, Mrs. M. Davey, and the convener, Mrs. Scott.

Miss Mary Braithwaite, the treasurer, reported receipts of $109.84, expenses $100.13, with a balance on hand of $9.71.

Miss Irene Brown, secretary, reported 21 members on the roll, 11 meetings held.

Reports of standing committees were presented by the conveners—Devotional, Mrs. L. W. Scott; Parsonage, Mrs. Andrew Brown; Flower, Mrs. M. Davey; Sunshine, Miss Mary Braithwaite. Vice-president Mrs. C. Sanderson and pianist Mrs. S. Thackeray, reported briefly on their activities.

The president, Mrs. A. Nill, briefly thanked the members for their loyal support and co-operation during the year.

Mrs. L. W. Scott and Mrs. E. Braithwaite moved a vote of thanks to the officers.

Officers Elected.

The election of officers by closed ballot without nomination, conducted by Rev. L. W. Scott, resulted as follows: Mrs. A. Nill was re-elected unanimously for a fourth term as president; vice-president, Mrs. C. Sandercock; secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Braithwaite; treasurer, Miss Mary Braithwaite; pianist, Mrs. Ella Brown; assistant, Mrs. S. Thackeray; devotional committee, Mrs. L. W. Scott and Mrs. M. Davey; parsonage committee, Mrs. Andrew Brown, Mrs. Alfred Braithwaite, and Mrs. E. Sandercock; flower committee, Mrs. M. Davey, Mrs. J. Baxter, Mrs. L. Tucker, and Miss Hildred Taylor; sunshine committee, Miss Irene Brown and Miss Mary Braithwaite.

The installation service was conducted by Mr. Scott. Owing to the lateness of the hour the program was postponed until the next regular meeting.

A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess who served refreshments.

Crokinole Party.

The W.M.S. sponsored a crokinole party on Friday night in the Town Hall. Mrs. S. Thackeray won the ladies' prize, and Clark Mouncey the men's prize. At the end of the game period, the ladies of the society served cake and sandwiches.

Personals.

Messrs. Delbert Varcoe, C. W. Varcoe, C. Grigg and S. Thackeray were in Belleville on Friday attending the convention of Central Ontario Fall Fairs Association. C. W. Varcoe is one of the association's auditors.

Present Prizes For Attendance At Park Street

Prizes for regularity of attendance at Sunday School were presented at Park Street Baptist Church on Sunday afternoon. All those who were present on fifty or more Sundays received material encouragement of seals and books. In the primary department thirteen boys and girls were given Testaments for their fine record in their first year, and at the other end of fidelity and devotion was Mrs. George Boyler's attainment of eighteen years of required attendance for prize awards. She was presented with a copy of "The Imitation of Christ." Second to her was Mrs. A. Barber, seventeen years, who received the book "The Poet of the Breakfast Table."

Clarence Corbett, superintendent of the Sunday School, presided during the afternoon's distribution of prizes by the pastor, Rev. C. C. Boyter, assisted by George Batley, past superintendent. The program included several musical numbers, a violin solo "Cavatina" by Stanley Northrop, accompanied at the piano by Harry Northrop; vocal trio by Misses Agnes and Annie Sands, with James Sands who played his guitar; and several little hymnal numbers by a new vocalist, Miss Eleanor Young, a pretty tot with blond curls, a sweet, strong voice, for just a little girl, and a remarkable sense of pitch. She is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. Gordon Young.

The list of prize-winners follows:

vestigated the robbery of the Wiarton, Ont., brewery warehouse, of becoming after that date a plotter with him for various crimes.

A specific charge was that Melville Campbell sent $350 to Wilson through Howard Campbell after the robbery of the Mount Brydges bank.

The constable denied the allegations categorically. He said Campbell was an informer—an informer who volunteered information before police asked for it and a man who sought a reward for giving information leading to the arrest of Oscar Campbell, his brother.

Oscar, now in Kingston penitentiary also, refused to have anything to do with the inquiry when General Williams and Hope visited the prison. Other prisoners interviewed failed to substantiate Campbell's charge. One or two referred to Wilson as a conscientious officer who sought to do only his duty.

Howard Campbell visited Melville at Windsor Oct. 14, the day after the Mount Brydges robbery. Olive Campbell said Melville believed that Howard had been responsible for his arrest and that he was angry with Wilson because he felt he hadn't done anything for him.

Brother and sister thought this animus against Howard and Wilson was responsible for Melville's accusations.

The Son's Evidence.

Earl Campbell, 18, son of Melville, said that he saw Wilson after a visit to his father in London jail. He mentioned $125 supposed to be going to Melville by Wilson and the officer promised to send it up with Howard. When he didn't Earl visited provincial police offices and accused the constable.

Mrs. Melville Campbell said that Wilson was a friend of her husband's and frequent visitor to the home. Mrs. Campbell sat during the hearing with Kathleen Byrne, who was with Campbell and Harold Moore in the apartment house at Windsor. The pretty former Ottawa girl, stylishly dressed, said she knew nothing of the alleged $350 payment.

Lindsay Brigade Has Busy Day Upon Fire Calls

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, January 31.—The local fire brigade stood by all day answering alarms from different parts of the town. The majority of the calls were chimney fires, but at noon hour when the storm was at its height the fire fighters were called upon to battle with a rather serious fire in the welding plant of A. L. Cote on William street north. When the brigade arrived, dense volumes of dark smoke was belching from the building, and when the water was turned on, the wind blew it back on the firemen, who were soon covered with ice. Fortunately the flames were prevented from spreading to other buildings. The loss is placed at $1,500, with no insurance on the building.

Month For Forgery.

At a session of the police court Monday morning, Daniel McGinnis, a local resident, was sentenced to one month in the county jail by Magistrate Gee on the charge of forgery. The accused signed the name of William Miles, of Lindsay to a cheque made out jointly to himself and Miles. The cheque was issued by a Cannington resident for work done in the bush by the two men. The accused told the court that he had no intention of defrauding Miles whom, he claimed, was not entitled to any of the money.

Breaks An Arm.

Mrs. George Hollwell, of Gelert, sustained a painful accident at home on the week-end. She was carrying a pail of water to her poultry when she slipped on the ice and fell on the pail. She sustained a broken arm and a fractured rib.

Store Burns.

The grocery store of Orville King, of Gooderham, was completely destroyed by fire on the week-end. The blaze started in the attic from an overheaed stovepipe and spread with great rapidity. No insurance was carried on the building and contents and the loss is estimated at $1,000.

Girl Breaks Leg.

Margaret Hodson of Haliburton, was seriousy injured while tobogganing near her home on Saturday. While going down the hill, the girl put out her leg, the toboggan, which contained other children, passing over the member, breaking it. She is at present in the Red Cross Outpost Hospital.

BURNED MAN'S LEGS

CAPE TOWN—(CP).—Convicted of tying paraffined-soaked paper to a sleeping man's legs and igniting it, Sam Fakl, 25, was fined $24 or six weeks in jail.

THE MISERY OF HIS COLD BEGINS TO GO

Massage VapoRub on the throat, chest, and back. Then spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. (No dosing, no stomach upsets.)

VapoRub's poultice-and-vapor action goes right to work—direct through the skin like a poultice, while its medicated vapors released by the body warmth are inhaled direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This two-way action (inhalation and stimulation) loosens phlegm—clears the air-passages—checks tendency to cough—eases muscular soreness or tightness—relieves local congestion—and he soon feels comfortable again.

Long after he relaxes into restful sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working. And often by morning the worst of his cold is over. No wonder so many mothers put faith in VapoRub whenever anyone in the family has a cold!

GARAGE ENTERED

A garage at the rear of the Elite cafe was broken into sometime Monday but nothing was stolen from the place.

APPROVE YOUTH PLAN

The youth training plan proposed by the Canadian Corps Association and endorsed in a resolution by the council of Niagara Falls received the support of the relief committee Monday night.

WIFE JOHN CARLISLE DIES.

The obituary column to-day records the death of Mrs. John Carlisle of this city. Her husband, the late John Carlisle, once lived near the High Bridge on the Trent Canal and owned considerable property in that district. Carlisle avenue is named after him.

BADLY DAMAGED

Cars belonging to W. H. Kidd, 490 Driscoll Terrace and J. O'Toole, 826 Water street, weer badly damaged when they collided at the intersection of Murray and George streets. Kidd was travelling west on Murray street and O'Toole south on George street when the crash occurred.

RADIO CASE ADJOURNED

A charge against Walter Farr of possessing a radio without having the necessary license was adjourned for a week when called this morning before Magistrate Langley in police court. It was explained that the accused was unable to appear today. A similar charge against another man was withdrawn by the radio inspectors.

DRUNK DRIVING CHARGE

Charged with drunken driving on Saturday night T. E. Chapman secured an adjournment through his counsel T. J. Carley, K.C., when arraigned in police court on Monday. The case will be heard on Friday. The charge originated from a traffic accident Saturday night in which the car of Charles M. Lawrence, chiropractor, was damged.

WANT OTHER TENDERS

Purchase of wood for next winter's relief supply was deferred by the Dutton committee Monday night. One of the bids included a price for second grade wood, and as the other tenders quoted only for body hardwood it was decided to write them and ask for bids on No. 2 quality, each man to submit a sample cord in the city which will be bought by the council.

RELEASED ON BAIL

Robert Nathan Herman, acquitted on an arson charge on Friday, but in custody on being committed for trial on a charge of theft, was released on bail Saturday when he appeared before Judge Sheldon Smoke. The amount was $2,000 and the bailsmen were B. Chesler and Orville Moore. Herman will appear for trial at the Assizes before Mr. Justice Green on Monday, February 13.

SOME POTATOES

Scotty McKinley, genial Stewart street resident interrupted several patrons at Smith and Freeman's barber shop yesterday afternoon as they pitied themselves because of the storm outside, to tell them about his potatoes. "I have potatoes in my garden that are two feet high ,they are sticking through the top of the snowdrifts." To sort of clear the mystery up he added, I forgot to pull them last fall.

NURSERY PROPOSED.

Walter Bromwell was re-appointed caretaker of the grounds adjoining the sewage disposal plant in Otonabee on the understanding that if two or three acres are to be broken up for a tree nursery this year he will have no right to that part of the land. Alderman Dutton repeated last night that he would like to see the Council lay out on a moderate scale a plantation of trees from which the city could draw its supplies for parks and streets.

Board Of Works Puts $97,000 In Estimates

Three more committees filed last night their quotas totalling $159,737.48 to the council's estimated expenditures for this year as the preparation of the budget proceeded to another stage for revision by the finance committee next Friday night.

The appropriations of the Board of Works were recommended at $97,000, the Relief committee at $60,737.48, and the Manufacturers Committee at $2,000.

Mayor Hamilton expressed some doubt at adjournment as to whether at the present of planning for the year the appropriations could be kept within an amount that would not increase the tax rate beyond last year's. However, nothing definite as to that outcome is available yet except the expressions at recent meetings of the council and committees affirming an intention not to add even a fraction of a mill to the rate for 1939.

Alderman Dutton, chairman, informed the relief committee that the relief estimates are based on a prospective total distribution in Peterborough of $153,346.31, an increase of 30 per cent over last year, corresponding with the growth in the number of persons applying for assistance.

Of that total the city's liability is placed at $60,737.48, although for the sake of convenience in the arithmetic of budgeting it will probably be set at $60,700, the provincial and federal government's contributing the rest.

Alderman Dutton commented that the statement he had to present was not a pleasant one, and the year was not beginning with a promise of improvement. The appropriation for January is $14,867.32, and up to last night the actual expenditure for relief was $15,900.

"However, we are hoping that by Spring there will be a change for the better, and that the number on relief will be considerably reduced," the chairman said.

According to the committee's estimates the actual expenditure on relief last year out of the city treasury was $52,709.90 and the estimates for the present year amount to $60,737.48. The increase over last year is $13,000.

Lions To Present The Gondoliers

Lorne Henderson, chief of the investigating staff, of the T. Eaton Company in Toronto, voiced regret last night at the fact that so few opportunities exist for the people today to see any of Gilbert and Sullivan light operas. He addressed the Lions Club at their regular monthly meeting held at the Kawartha Club, and explained the plan being sponsored by the Lions to bring the Eaton Operatic Society to Peterborough in April to stage the light opera, "The Gondoliers."

"Thirty years ago one could take his choice almost any night in the week in Toronto and see any of a dozen light operas, but today it is almost necessary to go to England or New York to get a variety," the speaker said. He expressed appreciation of the fact that this city still had some very capable stage hands, most of them veterans and skilled in their work.

The cast in "The Gondoliers" consists of sixty people besides the symphony orchestra and the members have been working steadily at the opera since last October. They plan to appear at Kitchener, Brantford, Peterborough, Hamilton and Toronto. Last year the same society put on "Iolanthe" which was a decided success and many who saw the show last year have urged members of the Lions Club to bring another light opera to the city this year.

Mr. Henderson, who is president of the Eaton Operatic Society, said "The Gondoliers" is a production that will suit the musical tastes of every show goer in the city and district, and it is regarded by many critics as being the best opera written by the two in later years.

Among those in the cast are several of the oustanding church soloists in Toronto and include; Norman Cherrie, solist, Eaton Memorial church; George Aldercroft, soloist, Church of the Messiah; Arthur Harvey, soloist, St. James' Cathedral; Frederic Morris, Bonar Presbyterian church; Ross Smith, St. Alban's Cathedral; Allison Wallace, Manor Road Presbyterian; Betty Barron, Westminster Church, and whose mother was a D'Oyly Carte favorite a quarter of a century ago; Helen Bruce, radio contest winner, and Radio City solist; Miss Minnie Sinnett, of Toronto, and Geoffrey Hatton, late of the D'Oyly Carte Company. The symphony orchestra is conducted by Thomas J. Crawford, Mus. Bac., F.R.C.O.

Council Is Asked For Some Lights

W. Thos. McDonnell, retired provisions broker of Toronto who has returned to live on the old homestead at the southeast corner of the city, wrote the council Monday night appealing for a string of lights, at least four, to be extended from Downer's Corners to his house. His request was referred to the Utilities Commission. Apparently it was news to several members of the council that the eastern border of the city extended beyond the road running north from the growing community at Downersville. Mayor Hamilton said the line began from No. 7 highway almost opposite the J. T. O'Connell farm.

Mr. McDonnell has already made many improvements to the property on which he spent his youth before going to Toronto, and as it is within the city limits he contends that he should receive some consideration in street lighting service.

Protest About Piling Snow In Driveways Annoys Members Of The Board Of Works

"People are surely not getting so lazy that we've got to go and sweep off the last snow flake for them," was the mildly worded stricture of Alderman Bradburn Monday night in a brief discussion of a complaint by E. W. Glover, 182 Reid street that the use of the street grader in rolling back snow from the streets throws up a barrier at lane entrances.

Alderman Stocker and Cotton moved that the letter from Mr. Glover be received, but Alderman Dutton objected that every person who wrote in good faith to the council was entitled to the courtesy of a reply.

The letter seemed to annoy Mayor Hamilton. "I've heard a lot of approval from citizens about the way the streets have been kept clear of snow this winter," His Worship said, "and my own opinion is that the Board of Works has been doing a darn good job."

Alderman Bradburn said that it would take only a few minutes to shovel away the snow that might be thrown up by the plow in front of lanes, and City Engineer Parsons protested that "we spent $12,067 last year on an approproation of $4,000 for snow removal, and we can't keep on at that rate. People want snow removal service, and if we leave some along the edges a lot of people think they should get busy and complain to the engineer. If snow has to be carted away we have to hire most of the trucks, and it all comes out of our appropriation.

Some of the members were evidently prepared to give the letter the basket treatment, but they fell in with the Dutton idea and asked for a report by City Engineer Parsons.

Free Chalmers Reckless Driving

Declaring that on all the facts he could not find that the accused had been guilty of recklessness Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in Monday afternoon's session of police court returned a verdict of not guilty in the charge against James P. Chalmers of reckless driving, laid after two city snow-shovellers had been injured in a traffic accident.

Chalmers took the witness box after the noon adjournment and told his story of what had happened. He said that he had seen the conditions on the road and had slowed down to between 8 and 12 miles an hour as he approached Driscoll Terrace. He had seen three other cars pass by in safety. As his car reached the second last window of the bus that had been standing on the corner, he declared the big vehicle started to pull out and he had to choose between hitting the bus or swinging to the left.

Chalmers said that when he veered to the left he sounded his horn once and put on his brakes and his car slewed. He did not see any of the men hit and when he looked back after he had stopped his machine they were all on their feet so that he assumed that no one had been hurt.

First Accident

Chalmers told his counsel H. S. Balfour that he had been driving a car for years and had never before been involved in an accident.

Bert Deck was called by the crown in reply and swore that he did not hear the horn of Chalmers' car blow before the accident.

After the argument of Defence Counsel Balfour who declared there had been nothing shown to suggest recklessness on the part of the accused and of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., who argued that Chalmers had seen the situation as he approached the scene and should have stopped, Magistrate Langley gave judgment.

He felt that an emergency had been created by the action of the bus in pulling out from the curb without a warning signal and that while there might have been a fault in judgment on the part of the driver there was nothing in his conduct that approached recklessness. He complimented Chalmers upon the frankness with which he had given his evidence, remarking that the accused had not tried to hide anything that was not in his favor.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

The Westclox men turned on the heat to a sizzling pitch in their weekly roll at Duffus Alleys last night. Mel Starr flattened 798 pins to top the individual scoring. Roy Deannard was next with 764, Jim Goodson 713, S. McBride 683, J. Watson 670, H. Baptie 653, J. Gatfield 635, S. Vint 638, P. Hayden 632, J. Duffus 611, H. Thompson 606, and A. Turcotte 600. Lois Darling headed the girls' section with a two-game string of 392 (217), Mary English 381 (200), Grace Aldred 379, Glad Mortimer 330, Mary Garvey 311, and M. Elliott 308.

F. Dyer upset 641 pins to head the Lock Works group—L. Symonds had 628, G. McDonald 610, Miss Clancy 514, and Miss Camparano 448, while Miss Cooper racked up a good 200 single game. The Postmen saved their energy when only two men shot over 600—Bennett 678 and Miller 664.

Design Is Urged For New Parks

The development of the Ashburnham Memorial Park on Armour's Hill and also the work that has been begun along Crescent Street should follow some accepted design, Alderman Dutton urged at last night's meeting of the Board of Works when appropriations for those projects were being considered.

"We should know definitely what we are aiming at, and money can be spent from year to year according to that plan," he said, and City Engineer Parsons was authorized to consult W. H. Moore, horticulturist with the Ontario Department of Highways, for the purpose of laying out the course of development in both these beautification projects.

Studying Traffic

DETROIT, Jan. 31—(CP).—Four police executives attending the famed Northwestern University Traffic Institute of Evanston, Ill., arrived here to-day to spend six weeks studying Detroit's Accident Prevention Bureau. Lieut. F. M. Kreml said he was sending the executives here because the Detroit bureau is considered a model for the nation, because of its outstanding record of accident reduction.

Vestry Meeting At St. Luke's

Frank Patterson and Charles Hamilton were appointed church wardens for St. Luke's Anglican church Monday night at the annual vestry meeting, the first being named by the people and Mr. Hamilton by the rector.

There was a good attendance despite the rough weather and Rev. G. J. Bousfield, minister at St. Luke's, presided. Reports were read from Sunday School, Women's Guild, Women's Auxiliary, Girls' Auxiliary, Junior Auxiliary, Chancel Guild, Men's Club, A.Y.P.A., Boy Scouts, Cubs, and the Envelope Secretary. The report from the church wardens revealed a slight deficit over the year, which was mainly due to the fact that the rector was ill during a part of the year.

Lay delegates to the Synod were named as follows: J. J. Turner, F. H. Patterson and Gerald E. W. Bousfield. Auditors are Alex Butcher and Gordon Maniece, J. J. Turner is vestry clerk for another term and Mrs. R. H. Parsons was appointed to represent the church on the Anson Board.

Appointment of an envelope secretary was laid over for the present and will be left to the church warden.

Neighbors' Fight Is Aired In Police Court

The dove of peace fluttered its wings in the somewhat dingy surroundings of the police court at noon today after a controversy between Otonabee neighbors had been aired and a harmonious settlement finally arranged, after all parties had had the benefit of some helpful advice from Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

The proceedings started out today with the hearing of evidence in an assault charge laid by an Otonabee woman against a man living on the next property. W. F. Huycke, K.C., appeared for the complainant and the accused was defended by W. B. Gordon.

At the outset Mr. Huycke announced that if the accused would apologize to the complainant the latter was satisfied to drop the proceedings but the defendant declined at that stage to accept the olive branch.

The complainant, a married woman, told of the accused coming to her house and banging on the side door. She was alone at the time and when she went to the door she said that he had accused her of taking down a sign and when she admitted doing so he had waved his arms at her in what she said was a threatening manner and had also sworn at her. Afterward he had again seized the handle of the screen door and shook it violently but she had kept her hand on the latch inside so the door could not be opened.

Had Land Surveyed

To Mr. Gordon the complainant said that she had taken down the sign put up by the accused and had also helped to remove two fences he had put up. Witness said that last year she and her husband had had their place surveyed and ever since then the accused had not been speaking to her husband.

A woman who lived across the road from the complainant testified that on the afternoon of the alleged assault she had called on her neighbor a short time after the affair and had found her with the front door locked and observed that she was in a very upset condition.

That concluded the complainant's case and Mr. Gordon moved for dismissal on the ground that no actual assault had been proven and that the jurisdiction of the magistrate was ousted because the ownership of land was involved.

Magistrate Langley found against him on the second point but on the first ruled that, while he did not condone the conduct of the accused and considered that he had acted in a very ungentlemanly manner, he felt that no actual assault had been shown and therefore the case would have to be dismissed.

Settlement Arranged

At the suggestion of the magistrate a settlement was arranged in the second charge, that of destroying an apple tree. The defendant explained that he had accidentally stepped on the tree but the magistrate felt that under the circumstances it was only right that he should pay for the damage done.

Then His Worship gave both parties his views as to the manner in which they should endeavor to live as neighbors and at the conclusion of his remarks the litigants shook hands all round and departed, apparently friends again.

No Money Is Being Set Aside For Repairs To Wooden Sidewalks As Estimates Struck

The gradual and continuous passing of the old order was reflected again in the omission of any item of expense for repairs to wooden sidewalks in the appropriations of the Board of Works Monday night. Fifty dollars was put in the 1938 budget, but not a cent was spent. City Engineer Parsons said the only stretches of wooden sidewalks he could recall off-hand were at several approaches to C.P.R. level crossings in Ashburnham, where the cost of deep fills of concrete was avoided by short reaches of wood planks.

Once upon a time the old streets committee of the town council had only wooden sidewalks to lay and keep in repair. Concrete walks were unknown, and in those days generations of boys, and girls too, perhaps, stubbed toes on projecting planks, and on cold winter nights the boards made loud cracking reports under the furrying feet of townspeople. Mr. Parsons said that the noise caused by contractions due to frost when the weather drops below zero, and verandahs, roofs and other exposed wooden parts of houses protest in the quiet of the night against the severity of the freezing is probably caused by the drawing of nails as the wood shrinks in the process of contraction.

Appropriation Of Manufacturers Committee Increased, Plan Drive For New Industry

Those watch dogs of the treasury, Aldermen McIntyre and Bradburn, probably surprised Alderman Glover Monday night when he turned in his requisition of $1,500 for the Manufacturers committee this year. The items were signs advertising the city $750, general advertising $350 and travelling expenses $400. But, that wasn't enough for the two aldermen who possibly more than others have acquired a reputation of keeping an eye on every dollar that shows a disposition to vagrancy.

'I am not saying this in any spirit of criticism," was Alderman Bradburn's comment, "but I think we should put some more money in the estimates for the purpose of trying to get new industries. If we can get a new industry it would pay us well, and I feel we shouldn't wait for people to come here and try to sell us something. We should try to go out and try to sell them, and I think we should put sufficient money in the appropriation to permit Alderman Glover to go to places whenever he feels he should."

"All right, we can make it $2,000 instead of $1,500," Ald. Glover agreed, thereby reflecting a sentiment that has been repeatedly expressed during recent months by many ratepayers. He related some recent activities, and told of plans for erecting signs in the Bancroft-Gooderham area directing traffic to Peterborough.

Fifty Houses Will Be Needed In Cobourg For Skilled Workmen With New Industry

Putting two and two together it seems that Cobourg is the lucky town that has drawn from the light and lean industrial bag a new industry, presumably for the manufacture of aluminum products. The laketown's papers, especially the Sentinel-Star, are urging the immediate need of fifty houses for skilled workmen. A. Roy Willmott, the town's solicitor, wrote the paper last week suggesting that the offices of a construction company might be called into use to get the fifty new roofs in place, and "A Cobourg Taxpayer" demands some solid information, casting off the veil of mystery, and less "back-patting" by those who are claiming the sole credit for attracting the new factory to the town that is said to have scorned smoking chimneys in its old Victoria College era.

From all accounts there is only one industry running loose around Ontario, and it has been given quite a chasing by interested municipalities including Peterborough. The company required as a primary condition the freight facilities of a lake port, and as Cobourg's harbor complied with that requisite the factory is said to be heading in that direction.

It may possibly be some other industry than the aluminum products people, but those who keep an eye on the new industry market say that it is about the only one that is not tagged. So, Les Wilson's town may look for an early boom when those fifty houses get under way with the factory to engage their dwellers, and tradesmen and builders will probably decide that opportunity is beckoning them down to the lakeside town.

The Rambling REPORTERS

ABOUT TEETH

The tale is told of a local gentleman who had trouble in his stomach. The doctor advised him to have his teeth out—so the gentleman obligingly removed two sets of store molars. The same party maintains he has one false tooth which actually aches, and he believes this one for Ripley, the "Believe It Or Not" chap. Without wishing to unduly overstrain one's credulity, the aforementioned gentleman winds up his tale of the teeth by stating he once pulled an aching one merely with a firm grip on ordinary pliers and a snap of the head—but he had to repeat the operation when he discovered he had jerked out the wrong fang.—C.P.

McIntyre Fears Be No Pumper

"It looks as if we won't be able to get that 600-gallon pumper this year," commented Alderman McIntyre last night under the effect of a heavy injection of estimates that seemed to be trimming off every little projection in his own committee's needs for the year. It is a question of maintaining the efficiency of the Fire Department," he said, "and after all it isn't Chief Gimblett's department, nor the Council's, nor mine, it is the people's, and if enough of them would tell members of the Council they think the pumper should be bought, I feel sure we would get it. But, when the Council begins cutting down appropriations to fit the tax rate, I'm afraid the pumper is one item that will come out. Personally I think we should go ahead and get it, turning in two or three old pieces of equipment that are out of date."

Johnston Given Month In Jail On Theft Count

Joseph Johnston, former school trustee, of Harvey township, was convicted by Magistrate Langley, K.C., in police court this morning of theft of flour and matches from the Dominion Stores on the night of Saturday, January 14.

W. J. Arthur Fair, defence counsel, informed the Examiner immediately after judgment had been given that he proposed to enter an appeal.

A second charge against Johnston, of having stolen 200 pounds of sugar from E. F. Mason on the same occasion was withdrawn by the Crown.

In giving judgment in the case, the hearng of evidence in which took nearly two days last week, Magistrate Langley after reviewing the testimony at length, said he was satisfied that the circumstances indicated the guilt of the accused. He stressed the fact that Johnston had not given in his opinion, a satisfactory explanation of how the stolen goods were found in the car of which he was in possession that night. His Worship expressed the opinion that an explanation of the accused's action could be found that he and other in his party had been drinking. It was probably because he was under the influence of liquor that Johnston had got himself into such an unenviable position.

Mr. Fair before sentence was passed urged that the accused be given the benefit of a suspended sentence but Magistrate Langley said that the ends of justice would not; in his opinion, be served by not inflicting some punishment upon the accused.

WANTED
A Ton Of Coppers

One ton—2,000 pounds—of pennies are urgently needed to purchase hospital equipment and furnishings. Or, to be more exact, 1,999 pounds, since the first pound will be donated by Mayor Hamilton on the Capitol stage, Wednesday evening.

Fraternal clubs, women's organizations and individuals interested in welfare promotion are invited to aid in this campaign. Your co-operation will be sincerely appreciated.

For your convenience, a copper-colored cylindrical container will be found at nearly every place of business in Peterborough and nearby towns. Please, don't forget it when you are handed your change. If you haven't any pennies, remember that nickels, dimes and quarters—yes, and dollars, too—also have weight. Every contribution counts. Let us balance the scales in favor of this worthy cause.

TOMMY ANDERSON IS IN FIRST PLACE IN THE N. H. L. SCORING

Schriner, Blake Are Tied For Second Spot

MONTREAL, Jan. 31 — (CP). — Tommy Anderson, one of the "Old Men of Manhattan" who help make up Red Dutton's New York Americans, has climbed to the top of the National Hockey League scorers.

Anderson, up near the front all season, gained 4 points in last week's play and moved to the front with 28 points, official league statistics showed last night. He supplanted another veteran, Johnny Gottselig, who, like the rest of his Chicago Black Hawk mates, has been finding the way to opponents' nets a hard one to travel.

Gottselig, pointless for a week, dropped into fourth place. Sweeney Schriner of Americans and Toe Blake of Montreal Canadiens shared second position with 26 points, one more than Gottselig, Marty Barry of Detroit, Nels Stewart of Americans and Syl Apps of Toronto, all grouped together.

Stewart and Alex Shibicky of New York Rangers, leader a week ago in goals, held their place, but were forced to share it with young Gordie Drillon of Toronto. They have 12 apiece. Anderson and Schriner are the leading playmakers with 18 assists.

Red Horner, perennial "bad man" of the Maple Leafs, remained in front in penalties. Only Art Coulter of the Rangers disputed his penalty-box record, and his 50 minutes were 13 minutes fewer than the 63 that officials have given flame-thatched Reginald.

Bargain rates at the Brock St. palais d'ice tonight when Port Hope and our Monarchs clash in a junior O.H.A. whizzer. Two bits—or just a quarter—for any seat in the arena, reserves, upper rail, rush or rafters! The boys will be playing for keeps, and don't think it won't be a live number—and we like the locals' chances in this joust. Monarchs earned several wins on their classy play this season, but had harder luck than ol' man Job. Shoulda won several but shoulda isn't is—like the nigguh tale: "Is yo'-all workin'?" said one darky. "Ah ain't sayin' ah ain't," the other grunted. First one snaps: "Ah ain't askin' yo' ain't yo' ain't, but is yo' is!" So the Monarchs have to cop a couple right away to catch a playoff spot. A loss here this eve won't ruin 'em, but it won't do them much good, either.

* * * * * *

Pete Vitarelli's gang will likely lineup like this: Goal, Morrison; defence, Giardino and Beggs; centre, Rochetta; wings, Connelly and Vitarelli; alternates, Nicholls, Cauley, Mortimer, Clark and Mackness. Likely DeCarlo will nurse a sore side on the sidelines. We like the scrappy, dashing style of the young Monarchs, and fans can do lots worse than drop around and see these whirring juniors battling it out—especially at the reduced rates.

Off To Oshawa

And our junior Colts open their "B" series this e'en down in Oshawa, taking the tailend of a doubleheader. Bill Jackson's gang have shown up good in drills lately and we expect 'em to go to town now that the chips are down and the money's up. Sort of make hay while the iron is hot, or strike while the sun shines. Doggone, we never can keep track of these old maxims, like you can lead a horse to water but you can't take a bull by the horns. As some goof radioed recently, those who live in glass houses shouldn't. Anyway, the Colts have lots of class on paper and are due to strut it on ice. They have speed, beef, experience and puh-lenty of inside fortitude. Go it, youse Colts!

District O.J.H.A. schedule has been revised and runs out till March 1st—of all things. But has spaces in between. Lakefield is at Lindsay tonight, while Feb. 6th sees Lakefield and our St. Peter's meet in Lakefield. Locals disappointed Campbellford fans last Friday by not showing up—though they 'phoned 'em they couldn't ice a full team. Game will be played later. It's quite a neat little four-team layout with the Saints of this town having to hustle like a three-alarm fire to wriggle into one of the two playoff berths. More again on the lads.

End Of A Star

Baltimore Sun scribe, speaking of Pick Hines obtaining Omar Kelly and Jack Riley of Toronto for the Orioles, says: "The club needs some fight and, if a Kelly and a Riley cannot help the cause, the situation is impossible. The passing of Goalie Forster occasions no surprise. He has been an in-and-outer all season. As usual, hero worshippers played a part in young Forster's downfall. There always is a tendency around here to heap too much praise on athletes, and especially youngsters. Many of them cannot take it and continue wearing the same size hat." Very true, and it applies to local juniors, often, too. Forster always liked to grandstand it, when he played up this way for the Oshawa squads.

Well, sir, the Petes won a hockey game and we gotta cold En route to Belleville on a dirty trip last e'en, where the Fliers were grounded 7-1 by the high-flying locals. Game was half an hour late starting, back highway being heavy and swirling snow forcing a cab driver to be psychic to keep between the fences. Better coming back the front wa In Belleville, a light-fingered lad lifted Lorne Gray's watch and some loose change, but prompt action by the arena boss had him arrested and the stuff returned. And we'll be blown to bits if another guy doesn't try to pinch Hughie Davis' car as the locals were stoking up in a beanery! Quite a trip all around—some of the boys wanting to turn back at Havelock going down—but the Petes made it and won out.

Airmen Look Bad

Trenton Fliers looked bad, and they'll have to hurry-hurry-hurry or the scrappy Bellevillains will overhaul 'em. The Petes played their best hockey of the year, with a sustained speed, smooth passing attack and tenacious checking. Plus a steady defence and air-tight net work. Just clicking on all cylinders, and the fans—evenly divided in vocal efforts—were never in doubt after the first frame. It was 1-0, 3-0 and 3-1 by periods, the Aviators battling away but a bit outclassed on the night's play. Fliers finish their schedule with our gang here on Friday, and they'll have to cop a coupla contests or miss out on a playoff berth to the Redmen. Yessir, it's like that now!

* * * * * *

We picked Harding and Weir defensively, with Kingdon, McNulty and Creighton on the attack, as most effective of the locals yester gloaming—but they all looked okay. Whereas none of the Airmen really sparkled. Some high-sticking in the last period, but a fairly clean affair, and always sizzling fast and interesting. Kept the cash customers yodelling plenty from start to finish, even with the Petes apparently several counters better on the evening. Quinte press gang remarked in surprise when we rolled in with the team: "You must be nuts to travel on a night like this!" And we replied that the old noggin is softening up lately — and that we'd soon be screwier than a barrel of pretzels. But we hate to pass up any of these senior scraps.

Girls' Hockey Is In Spotlight C.G.E. Carnival

A revival of girls' hockey would seem to be certai nof success if interest shown at an exhibition game at Brock street arena Monday night were any indication. Stream-lined feminine pulchritude held the spotlight at an ice carnival sponsored by the C.G.E. social and athletic club. Such stars as Gertie Hamilton, Marylin McCarthy and Grace Barnes gave exhibitions of skilful playing, won enthusiastic praise.

The game was between the All-Stars and the Meter Department of the C.G.E., the former winning by a score of 2-0. The All-SCtar team included Rose Vitarelli, Peggy Lacey, Grace Barnes, Mary Hallihan, Antoinette DeCarlo, Marylin McCarthy, Vera Bartley, and Helen McGraw. Graces Barnes and Marylin McCarthy scoring. For the Meter Department were Ruby Melburn, Jerry Riley, Gertrude Hamilton, Noreine O'Toole, Iris Hopkins, Marjory Jameison, Jane Harvey. Cy Whatley was referee. There were no injuries, though the pace set was fast and rough.

The screwiest game of hockey ever played was the opening number of the carnival, when players clad in pyjamas batted a basketball around the ice with the hazy purpose of slamming it between goal posts. One team was shod in overshoes, the others were allowed to play, for some unstated reason, wearing one skate and one boot. The teams were members of the social and athletic club executive versus members of the hockey club executive. The score was 2-1 for the hockey executive, a bystander said, and none was in a position to doubt his word.

Players on the social and athletic team were I. F. Reid, H. A. Cranfield, E. G. Hardie, N. E. Crowe, W. Bennett, A. Weir, B. Hurrle, Alf Day. On the hockey executive squad were Cy Whatley, Bill Jones, B. Ashmore, E. Spencely, Curly Krug, E. Williams, B. Primeau. Referee was C. A. Salmonsen, accused from time to time of siding with the losers.

Dancing on ice was well under way by 11 o'clock with Nick Hartley's orchestra. Dancers wore a variety of footgear that included mocassins, overshoes, ski boots, slippers. Lucky numbers were held by Miss Madeline La Pointe, Miss R. McTeague, A. Craig, A. B. Sands.

Hockey Team In Accident

OSHAWA, Jan. 31.—Five hockey players en route by auto to play a schedule game in Lindsay Monday night were victims of an accident, two miles south of Manchester, one of them being knocked unconscious.

Edward Marsh, Oshawa, was removed to Oshawa General Hospital, suffering from concussion. His companions, who were shaken up and bruised, were Louis Wiseman, Jack Cameron, Robert Bates, all of Bowmanville, and Roy Morgan, Oshawa.

The players were in a car driven by Morris Breslin of Bowmanville, manager of the team. At the hamlet of Prospect the auto skidded into the rear of a truck stranded at the side of the road. Breslin was bruised about the face and had several teeth loosened.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 31. — Campbellford worked hard Monday night to collect an 8 to 7 victory from the fast skating Madoc-Marmora Mic Mac team and maintain their record of not losing a game on their home ice this season. The locals tallied the winning marker with less than a minute and a half of the third frame left to play.

In the first period the Henworth, Alexander, Akey line put the score at 4 to 0 before Gerry West's squad could get organized. With a three goal lead at the end of the first the visitors pressed hard and were rewarded half way through the second when they stretched their lead to 5-1.

Throughout the first period the odds were all with Madoc which had the better of the play, pressing the attack constantly into Campbellford territory where the defence gave Turner little support and he was called upon to stop a dozen hard shots.

The visitors banged away, taking complete command as Campbellford continued to display a rather ragged brand of hockey all through the opener, being completely outskated with an open defense during most of the period which left Turner, who played a brilliant game, with plenty to do in the cage.

The contest began with two referees but after Campbellford's representative on the ice, Russ Ayrhart, handed out two or three penalties which did not conform to the views of the visitors and topped it off by handing Akey, their star forward, a five minute penalty for disagreeing with him, he politely retired at the end of the first period, leaving Don. Whittick to handle it alone.

Two Men Short.

During the opening stages of the second period Campbellford began to click on their plays and Hollingsworth made some remarkable saves while his team played two men short as Akey served out the balance of his five minutes and Henworth got the gate for tripping. It was while Blake, Phillips and Couch were ganging up in the visitors' territory pappering Hollingsworth, that Alexander picked up a loose puck inside his own blue line and coasted in on Turner to add one more to the visitors' tally and bring the score to 5-1.

From the opening bell in the third Campbellford swarmed in on Hollingsworth, shooting from every angle and took the visitors' four goal lead away from them in the first nine minutes of the game and added one more only to have Madoc even up the score once again with less than five minutes to go.

During the early stages of the stanza Robinson, play-maker of the locals' second line, was substituted for Couch on the Blake, Phillips' combination and he teamed up to capture one of the counters with Blake. Phillip opened the scoring and following a penalty for Heyworth the locals played five men up.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

Snow drifts, high or low, made no difference to the curlers and once again, all the boys turned out, 100 per cent. This double-header racket seems to be clicking and going over big. We believe the boys like them.

There were many close games last evening and many exciting ones. Three of the games scheculed had to go an extra end before a winner was declared. We divide the special mention games for this evening and name the Kay-Green game and the Cruthers-Ryan one as the most outstanding.

The sympathy of the entire club is extended to D. Carlisle and his family on the occasion of the death of Mr. Carlisle's mother.

The final game of the Gibson trophy was played yesterday morning between two rinks skipped by Mrs. O. DeGraw and Mrs. R. Waddell. Very often a final game is just another game with nothing outstanding about it, but yesterday's game was chucked full of thrills and good curling and kept a fair crowd of spectators well on their toes throughout the entire game. Probably the best curling of the game was the last four ends. It was just a matter of who would count, and anything might have happened. All eight players played well and the showing of the two new leads was very gratifying.

Amerk Centre Who "Found Himself"

One of the best members of the National League cast labelled New York Americans and manipulated into third place in the standings by fiery Red Dutton, is Art Jackson, ABOVE, who all of a sudden, seemed to "find himself" and has been popping goals in back of the twine-minders regularly this season. Only dark cloud on the Dutton outlook is the fact that the Amerks don't own the younger of the N.H.L.'s Jackson brothers, but merely have him on loan from Boston Bruins. However, they have the option of purchasing him at the end of the season and if the price is anything within reason, or close to it, Arthur will undoubtedly find himself a full-fledged Amerk next year.

Bettina Fights Aged Tiger Fox

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 — (AP). — Jimmy Grippo, the accomplished magician who manages Melio Bettina, has performed his most amazing feat. His charge will fight the aged tiger Jack Fox for the light-heavyweight championship of the world—in New York at least—Friday night in Madison Square Garden.

To most fans the champion here is John Henry Lewis, recently thumped by Joe Louis. The New York State Athletic Commission has ruled him out of the title, however, and the winner of this one will be the world's boss as far as the Commission goes.

The bout, which will crown a successor to the title once held by such noted maulers as Jack Delaney, Paul Berlenbach, Tommy Loughlan and Bob Fitzsimmons, has all the goofy and engaging angles the cauliflower industry can supply.

Lacrosse Group Folds Up On Pacific

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31 — (CP).—The four-team Pacific Lacrosse Association, its players largely drawn from Canada, has folded up after only three weeks of operation because of difficulty in obtaining a suitable indoor arena.

In making the announcement last night directors said two teams probably would remain for a series of exhibition games in an outdoor arena, but the other players would leave for their homes this week.

Terriers were composed mostly of players from Orillia, Ont., home of three Canadian championship teams, and other Ontario cities. Indians used tribesmen from many parts of Canada and players on the Yankees and Canucks were largely from British Columbia. Probably the Yankees and Canucks will remain for the exhibition series.

Announcement the association's schedule has been suspended ended an ambitious program by its sponsors to introduce the Canadian game—on a streamlined basis—to Los Angeles with hopes it would be extended to other California cities.

Players were warned before they left their respective homes that they faced two-year suspension from leagues under jurisdiction of the Canadian Lacrosse Association.

Jimmy Gunn of New Westminster, B.C., referee in the circuit here, replied with plans to form a British Columbia Professional League to take care of off-season months with the entire southern loop moving to Canada at completion of a projected 14-week schedule.

The league opened here last January 8 with double-headers scheduled every Sunday and Thursday nights. Six players formed a team, instead of the seven in the Canadian game; quarters were reduced from 15 minutes to 12 minutes, and centering the ball after goals was eliminated as measures designed to speed up the game.

Association officials did not indicate what the "difficulties" were. The teams have been playing at Olympic Stadium.

STUDEBAKER WINS VICTORY

Defeats All Others In Gasoline Economy Test

Studebaker scored heavily and won a clean victory in the annual Gilmore-Yosemite economy sweepstakes just held over the classic course between Los Angeles and Yosemite National Park. Studebaker cars won in their competitive groups and the Studebaker Commander defeated every other car in the sweepstakes, regardless of size, price or number of cylinders.

The winning Studebaker Commander delivered 55.426 ton miles per gallon of gasoline, defeating the nearest competitor by the comfortable margain of 2.912 ton miles per gallon. The Commander actually used less gasoline than any other six, eight, or twelve in the event. It delivered 30.94 actual miles per Imperial gallon. The competition is decided upon the ton-mile basis because this compensates for weight differentials.

The Studebaker President eight, victor in its group, delivered 52.914 ton miles per gallon and 27.5 actual miles per gallon. The President defeated all other cars except the Commander and the Packard 120, won third place in the sweepstakes and lost second place by the infinitesimal margin of .049 ton miles per gallon of fuel.

The 314-mile classic was run under the most difficult weather conditions of the event's history. Heavy rain, heavy snows, and unusual cold marked the event. Twenty-nine cars entered and 13 were unable to finish in the time limit. The sweepstakes was conducted under the official sanction and supervision of the American Automobile Association. Hence all records are official.

PETES ROMP OVER TRENTON FLIERS FOR A 7 TO 1 VICTORY

Locals Get A Strangle-hold On First Place In Group By Knocking Off The Airmen

Taking a stranglehold on the top rung in their O.H.A. senior "B" grouping last night in Belleville, the Petes grabbed off a 7-1 victory over the Trenton Fliers before about 600 fans. A blizzard kept the game half an hour late in starting—the Petes hitting heavy roads—and cut down considerably on the attendance.

The late start threw the Fliers off, and they played poor hockey, while the Petes were in top form and never clicked better. They turned in a fine effort, outstepping the Airmen, checking back fast all evening, with the local defence and goalie in perfect form. It was a fast, exciting fray all the way—with the Petes having a fair margin of the play. Little rough stuff was seen throughout.

The couns was 1-0 in the first frame, and the Petes ran up the count with a 3-0 margin in the middle chukker, the last period giving the Buckland boys a 3-1 edge as the Fliers ganged up. One goal was scored on a breakaway. The Petes looked several goals better than their rivals, but were playing their best nockey of the year while the losers looked bad most of the evening. They may still be ousted by the Belleville bunch.

Game Stars

While all the locals turned in a fine effort on a good sheet of ice, Ray Harding in goal, Archie Weir on defence, and Bun Kingdon, Joe McNulty and Red Creighton on the attack, looked best for the Peterborough pack. The Petes dished up a speedy passing game, with first-rate back-checking and good defensive work to make the Airmen look bad. Aside from McNabb and Todd, none of the Fliers shone in this effort, though they all battled hard.

It was fast and fairly close for most of the first heat, with Gratton almost tallying around the net early. Play swept up and down fast as the fans roared and it was about half over when Tompkins pulled a beautiful solo rush from his own blue line, through the defence to yank the goalie out and backhand the disc home for the only count of the period. McNeely made a nice try and a Starr-McNulty rush came close. McNulty was gated for chopping and the Fliers pressed hard but did no damage. Creighton and Coughlin combined on a fine try near the finish.

Petes Pressing

Early in the second, McNeeley was chased for tripping and the Petes turned it on, with Starr scoring from Coughlin at close range. Lecompete made Harding jump when they were all even again and then Coughlin got the finger for tripping. The R C A F. gang swept up and made it hot till Don returned, when play was speedy and even. Tompkins puled a good rush, and a bit later McNulty tallied on Kingdon's rebound when Gibson batted it back out to him The Petes had an edge now and were tearing in regularly, while checking countering drives before they got by defence. Gratton jabbed in his own rebound near the finish on a neat play to make it 4-0 at the gong.

Play was fast and hard in the third, with the boys keeping their sticks well up. Kingdon counted on Weir's pass on a breakaway when the Fliers began ganging up, and they were careful for awhile. A McNabb-Todd rush made Harding hop but, when Cook went off for charging, the Petes peppered Gibson hotly McNeeley nearly broke free for one, Harding robbing him. McNulty counted at point-blank range on Creighton assist. Later Oleskevis got the air for tripping and the Petes pressed again but could not tally. Gibson thefted Tompkins at close range and five Fliers went on the attack, Lecompte finally scoring on Johnston's rebound. Creighton got it back in close just before the bell on a nifty effort.

The teams:

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Gray and Weir; centre, Kingdon; wings, Starr and Tompkins; alternates, McNutly, Gardner, Creighton, Coughlin and Gratton.

Fliers: Goal, Gibson; defence, Cook and Oleskevis; centre, Lecompte; wings, Legris and McNeeley; alternates, Johnston, McNabb Brackenbury, Todd and Richardson.

Referee—A. Armstrong, Oshawa.

Remember When—

Billy Burch, former Toronto Aura Lee centre, made his professional hockey debut at Montreal 16 years ago tonight. Playing for Hamilton in the National Hockey League, he figured in two of his team's four goals against Canadiens. Burch has retired from the sport.

Monarchs Meet Port Hope Here

Fighting with their backs to the well-known wall ,the local Monarchs will be facing elimination if they lose here tonight (Tuesday) when they clash with Port Hope in an O H A. junior fixture, a postponed game being played now. They tangle at 8 30 in the Brock St. rink this evening, and it should be a whirlwind game between two apparently well-matched young squads. In a typical wild, exciting junior fray, the young Petes hope to get back in the running with a victory, while the Hopers are also on the verge of elimination from a playoff berth. The game will be fast, heated and close—and it should draw a good-sized crowd of fans.

The Vitarelli-coached crew of Monarchs turn in some fine efforts —notably their tie here with Lindsay and their tough loss here to the big Bowmanville boys—but they haven't had much luck lately. They will keep fighting in their usual slambang style this evening and might well knock the Hopers back down the highway with a reverse. It promises to be one of the best of the O.H.A. junior tussles seen in the Brock St rink this winter, the ice being fast and both clubs at full strength for the important match.

Says Fireball Feller To Rollicking Rollie—

"I'll grab it like this Rollie, and send it down the groove to you," says Bob Feller. "And then I'll catch it and that will be strike three and another man out," says Rollie Hemsley. The famous battery mates with Cleveland Indians get together on a Florida beach and discuss the coming ball season, only three months away. Feller, who led the American League in strikeouts last year (as well as issuing the most bases on balls) is counted upon for frequent victories in the Indian cause, while Roisterous Ralston is still regarded as one of the majors' best backstops when he sticks to his knitting.

Lakefield Juniors Beat Grove 12-2

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 31—The Lakefield Public School defeated the Lakefield Preparatory School junior team in a 12-2 victory in the Lakefield rink on Saturday morning.

The play was one sided as the score indicates with the Lakefield lads displaying a fine brand of hockey. The lineups are as follows:

Lakefield Public School—Goal, G. Birch; defence, A. Jackman, P. Edwards; wings, H. Skelcher, G Carveth; centre, K. Montgomery; alternates, B. McFadden, H Watson, C. Trude.

Referee—Mr. Loosemore.

LAKEFIELD

Grove Outscores Juveniles 4-3

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 31.—The Lakefield Preparatory School defeated the Lakefield Juveniles 4-3 in an exhibition tilt here on Saturday afternoon.

Although the Juveniles led them in the first period when Bullock netted the puck twice, only to be followed by Crickmore and Dobbin for the Grove, they were unable to pull through in second and third stanzas. Morris and Johnson received penalties for tripping.

During the second period Morris tallied on a long shot from the blue line to make the score three-two for the local team. Then Maclaren on a one-man rush tied the score 3-3. Again Crickmore netted the rubber to end the scoring for the Grove team. No penalties were handed out during this period.

The Juveniles failed to even the score, making many attacks on the Grove net only to be turned down by their opponents' goalie and the close checking of the 'Prep School' boys. Maclaren for the Grove, and Bullock for the homesters received penalties for tripping, while Harris also occupied the penalty box for two minutes for cross-checking Jewell.

Lakefield Preparatory School — Goal, Pease; defence, Maclaren, Rose; wings, Frewer, Crickmore; centre, Harris; alternates, Langmuir, Carson, Roberts, La Nauze, Foster, Dobbin.

Lakefield Juveniles — Goal, C. Windsor; defence, C. Birch, J. Kendall; wings, E. Jewell, C. Pearson; centre, M. Bullock; alternates, K. Morris, B. Arthurs, C. Johnson, B. McFadden.

Referee—C. Blewett.

Al Delaney Ready To Meet Max Schmeling In 15-Round Bout In Berlin Next May

LONDON, Jan. 31.—(CP Cable)—Contingent upon satisfactory financial arrangements, Al Delaney, heavyweight boxer from Windsor, Ont., will meet Max Schmeling of Germany in a 15-round bout in a Berlin open air stadium next May.

Announcement of the projected fight was made today by Dave Sonnenberg, the Canadian's manager who declared he had accepted provisional terms for the bout.

"As soon as Schmeling returns from his present visit to New York, we will resume discussions about a definite date and purse," Sonnenberg said. "But Delaney will not fight of course unless assurance is given that he will be allowed to take the purse out of Germany."

Since his return here from Canada some month ago Delaney has hung up an impressive string of victories in the United Kingdom. His stock rose sharply after his win over Arno Kolblin, former German and European heavyweight champion.

TORONTO, Jan. 31. — (CP) — Fighting held more for Horace (Leftyf) Gwynne today than at any time since the slim Toronto boy won the Olympic bantamweight title in 1932.

Gwynne, who came back from the Los Angeles Olympics to enter a professional career loaded with disillussionment, regained the glory road last night when he won the Canadian bantamweight championship with a 10-round decision over Johnny Gaudes of St. Boniface, Man., at Maple Leaf Gardens. Lefty won by more than matching Gaudes at his own long-hitting game, taking eight rounds and the judges, unanimous vote.

It was the culmination of a quick comeback for Gwynne, who only last fall was back to his first love, the race track, as a jockeys' agent at Detroit. He used to exercise the horses around Toronto tracks when the ring didn't attract him so much.

It was proof, too, that Gwynne's triumph over Gaudes in an overweight bout a few weeks ago was no fluke. The experts had predicted after that one that the champion would spend more time drilling for their next meeting, that he'd beat Gwynne at long-range fighting and wear him out through sheer speed.

Stands Up To Fight

But Lefty, with 8 to 5 odds favoring him, foresook his old crouch and his in-fighting style for a full-height stance and smashing lefts and rights from well back. His left was still his most potent weapon but he showed himself a two-fisted fighter ready for almost any kind of going.

He won the hard way, getting up off the floor in the first round and grabbing the lead speedily.

Joey Bagnato of Toronto weighing 132¾, took the semi-final by a narrow margin over Don Eddy, 134, of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Wrestling

(By The Associated Press)

Wilmington, Del. — Bronko Nagurski, 230, International Falls, Minn., defeated Sammy Cohen, 215, Trenton, (straight falls).

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN CARLISLE

One of the oldest residents of Peterborough passed away Monday night in the death at Nicholls Hospital of Ellen N. Munro, relict of the late John Carlisle in her eighty-second year.

Mrs. Carlisle was born here and had lived all her life in this community. She was the daughter of the late George Munro, a pioneer of this section of Ontario who came to Canada from Scotland and opened a mill in Peterborough. Before her marriage to Mr. Carlisle who predeceased 21 years ago she was a school teacher.

Mrs. Carlisle had almost a life-long connection with George Street Church. She was a life member of the Women's Missionary Society and until advancing years compelled her to give up most of her activities she had been teacher of a women's bible class.

A woman of sterling qualities she enjoyed the esteem and affection of a large circle of friends to whom the news of her passing will bring grief.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. J. Archer, Beaver Lodge, Alta., and Mrs. J. A. Wilson, Peterborough, and five sons, G. H. Carlisle, M.D., Winnipeg, Man., David and A. M. Carlisle, M.D. of Grand Prairie, G. Douglas Carlisle, Peterborough and John Carlisle, Bancroft. Three brothers, Nihil Munro of Peterborough, G. K. Munro of Grand Forks, N.D., and James Munro of Toronto are also left to mourn her death.

Mrs. Carlisle had been inactive for some years but had only been seriously ill for the past ten days.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. from Comstock's funeral home to Little Lake Cemetery.

JAMES PACKMAN.

The death of James Packman, resident of Anson House, occurred at Nicholls Hospital on Monday after a short illness. He was in his 78th year.

Born in England, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Packman, and came to this city from England about a quarter of a century ago. His wife predeceased him in 1918.

Mr. Packman was a member of All Saints' Anglican Church, where he was librarian for a number of years and active in the choir. He was an esteemed member of the church, popular with the congregation and a host of friends elsewhere. He had been employed by the Ceylon Tea Company.

He leaves one son, Gideon, in England; a daughter, Mrs. High, in England; a brother in Detroit, and a sister in England.

The funeral service will be held this evening at 8 o'clock from the Funeral Home of A. Comstock and Sons, 305 Water Street, Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson of All Saints' Church officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

DR. SIDNEY B. TYRON.

Word has been received here of the death of Dr. Sidney B. Tyron of Cooperstown, N.Y., whose wife was formerly Miss Annie Drummond of Peterborough, a cousin of J. J. Turner.

Dr. Tyron was born in Wait Hill and graduated from the Willoughby High School, Western Reserve University, Cleveland and Bellvue Medical College, New York City and afterwards served as an interne at the Bellevue Hospital.

After practising in New York for several years Dr. Tyron opened an office in 1924 in Cooperstown, N.Y., where he remained until his death from a heart attack.

Mrs. Tyron and two daughters survive.

The news of Dr. Tyron's death will bring regret to numbers of local people who knew the family and some of whom had visited the Tyrons at New York and Cooperstown.

ROBERT MAHAFFEY

He was a member of Park Street Baptist Church. Surviving besides his wife are four sons, Walter, Alvin, Cecil, and Henry, all of Peterborough; and five daughters, Mrs. R. Warren of Brooklyn, New York, Mrs. F. McIntosh of Toronto, and Gladys, Violet and Alice, all at home.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence, Rev. C. C. Boyter of Park Street Baptist Church officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. SAMUEL RODDY

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 30.—Death removed the oldest resident of Cavan township on Wednesday in the person of Elizabeth McArdle, beloved wife of the late Samuel Roddy at the ripe old age of 98 years. She was born in Kingston in 1841, and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John McArdel. Her father was chief of Police in Kingston. While still very young she moved with her parents to Hope township and, in 1868 she was united in marriage at Cobourg to the late Samuel Roddy of Hamilton township. She took up residence at Sackville Corners where her husband was employed in the Sackville sawmill, later they launched out into farming, near Perrytown moving from there to Cavan township 57 years ago. They purchased the farm now operated by her younger son James. Her husband predeceased her 34 years ago.

Throughout her long and useful life, Mrs. Roddy has enjoyed the high esteem of all who knew her, of a kindly nature and a hospitable home and had many warm friends. In religion she was a Methodist, a member of Fraserville Church. She was an ardent supporter in all church work, her intellect remaining keen until a week before her passing, it being a pleasure to hear her recall old reminiscence. One in particular was her father helping to initiate Sir John A. MacDonald into the Orange Order. She was indeed a 'grand old lady."

Surviving are three sons, Joseph Alfred of Swift Currant, Sask., John Henry of Peterborough and James of Cavan, and one daughter, Eda, Mrs. Isaac Lunney.

The funeral took place Saturday from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lunney, Campbellcroft, where the deceased has made her home for the past six years. Rev. H. R. Williams, pastor Centerville Presbyterian Church conducted the services at the house and grave. Interment took place in the family plot Centerville. The pall bearers were her old neighbors and grand nephews, Messrs Wilbur Cole, Luther Cole, Fred Lewers, Otta Pue, Offa Williamson, Wilbert Larmer.

SISTER ST. CHARLES

Announcement of the death this morning of Sister St. Charles of Mount St. Joseph will be deeply regretted by many of the Catholic residents of the city, especially in the south end of the city where for many years she had been a teacher at the Lake Street School. Sister St. Charles had retired from the teaching profession quite a number of years ago, but has remained in the memories of the many boys and girls whose education she assisted and influenced as a strong and devoted personality in the years of their youth. A kindly disciplinarian, sound teacher, her interest in children extended far beyond the ordinary course of subjects in the primary school.

Sister St. Charles was Bridget Duffy before she entered the Sisterhood of St. Joseph. She was a daughter of James Duffy and a contemporary, although not a relative of her famous townsman of the same name Father Frank Duffy, a Cobourg boy who became famous as a priest in New York city, and Chaplain at home and overseas of the regiment known as the "Fighting Irish."

The funeral of Sister St. Charles will take place on Friday morning.

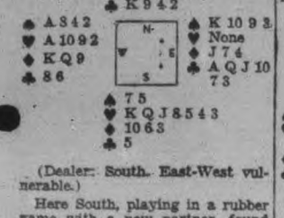
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

JUST DON'T DO IT

WITH A NEW PARTNER opposite you, judgment is at a premium to prevent misunderstandings which can cost hundreds of points. If you contemplate making some bid which may be interpreted in any one of several different ways, don't do it unless you have a line on which interpretation he will place upon it. This is most emphatically true of original suit bids of three, which are used in a wide variety of different ways by good players. With a hand calling for your kind of favorite three bid, don't make it. Pass, unless there is some other bid possible which your partner can understand.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

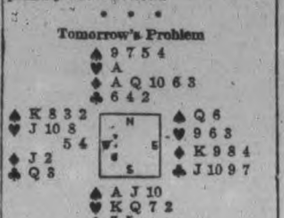
Here South, playing in a rubber game with a new partner, found himself with just the kind of holding on which he likes to bid three of his long suit—a worthless hand defensively, but one which promises to go down about three tricks if he finds his partner unable to help. If the suit were one card longer, he would bid 4-Hearts on it.

So South started with 3-Hearts. West passed. North, expecting his partner to have a pretty good hand with about an honor trick or so on the side, bid 3-No trump. East passed and South, willing to take not-vulnerable punishment if not doubled, passed also. West, who knew South's kind of three bid, was pleased to double this. South then felt he had to take it out into 4-Hearts, which West doubled.

Seeing a vulnerable game probably lost, East now had the temerity to back in with 4-Spades, which North doubled. Scared to death now, South took it out to 5-Hearts, which West doubled. This was set five tricks, worth 900 points to East and West, who could have made only an ordinary spade game, plus possibly one overtrick.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Against a lead of the heart J, how should South play for a no trump game?

Schools Present Joint Concert In Hastings Hall

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 31.—Before an appreciative audience of parents, friends and children of the entire district that packed the Hastings Town Hall, a community school concert was given on Friday evening, by the pupils of seven schools of the district under the auspices of the Women's Institute. The event was the first of its kind.

The selection of the numbers was left entirely to the teachers. Fifty-three pupils took part and each number was well received.

Mrs. T. A. Walsh, the first vice-president of the Institute, announced each number on the program and extended a hearty welcome to everyone. She thanked the teachers for their kind co-operation and also the boys and girls who were to take part during the evening. She called the eight teachers to the platform and in turn introduced them to the audience.

The Hastings Public school presented several choruses, a solo and a song. The first number on the program was a song, 'Tattle-the Telephone Bird' by a small pupil, Earl Scriver, who sang in a clear voice as he carried his gun over his shoulder. Twelve pupils, Eileen Dodd, Ruby Scriver, Vera Richardson, Bessie Turner, June Mouncey, Muriel Oliver, Alex Sherwin, Donald Richardson, Billie Johnston, Raymond Scriver, Robert West and Billy Mouncey rendered two choruses, "Canada Our Own Home Land" and "All Thro' the Night." Pupils of Mr. Grant Sine, they were well trained and sang to the accompaniment played by Miss Margery Scriver.

Miss Jessie Lamb's six little boys got the big hand of the evening as they sang "Scare Crows." They were dressed in flowing white gowns and white masks.

Present Trial Scene.

The pupils of Hastings' Separate school, under the direction of the teacher, Frank Carroll, had only one number, but it showed careful training on the part of the teacher. The trial scene from 'The Merchant of Venice" was admirably presented by the following: Therese Gallivan, Flora MacDonald, Vincent Gallivan, James Herrington, Stafford McKenty, Paul Pettigrew and James Pettigrew. The actors played their parts well, entering fully into the characterization and every word of the Shakesperian play was heard distinctly in all parts of the hall.

The Dutch Line School of Percy township, under the direction of the teacher, Miss Donna Nelson, also took part. Noreen Dunlay, the tiniest girl and a cute little tot, sang "My Goodness, No," as she pointed to her dolly. Mary Dunlay and Riet Barry, the former in sun bonnet and apron and the latter in a high top hat and black suit, sang "Mary and John" and later "The Girl on the Little Blue Plate" as Miss Nelson played the accompaniment. Glen McMasters sang a solo, "Harbour Lights."

The Cobourg Road school, with Miss Kathaleen Crosson as teacher, had four members, Marguerite Lamey and Marguerite Kelleher dressed in blue and white sailor suits, sang and danced the Sailor's Hornpipe. Isabel Beamish and Helen Richardson as 'darkies,' won applause as they presented their dialogue, "Lucenda's Mistake."

Exceptionally well given was the entertaining dialogue, "Mrs. Brown's Visitors by Lillian Smith, Donna Beamish, Marguerite Lamey and Marguerite Kelleher. Helen Lamey looked charming in her Alice Blue gown and bonnet as she sang sweetly "My Alice Blue Gown."

Miss Helen McGee, teacher of Fife's school in Asphodel, directed her pupils in two very excellently rendered and popular numbers. June Oakley, Doreen Beavis and Marie Lynch as a trio sang unaccompanied "Is This the Train For Heaven." Billie Bannon related "Murray and Me," a humorous tale about two boys who played tricks on the visiting minister.

Fleming's school, Percy township's pupils presented three numbers. The teacher, Mr. Arnold Bates, accompanied the pupils on the piano as the quartette, Ruby Lewis, Irene McGrayne, Wilma Beamish and Olive Beebee sang two numbers. Three girls gave a sketch taken from the school reader. Wilma Beamish, Maryln Ford and Phyllis Johnston cleverly acted the patr as Olive Beebee read the story "The Tar Baby."

Boys Provide Comedy.

The Elgin school, Asphodel township, with all boys taking part, had a number which created much laughter. The teacher, Miss Jessie Hay, did some careful training for the following humorous reading, "My Financial Career" by Albert Thistlewaite and "The Deacon's Masterpiece" by Robert Stinson, and an address by Harold Stinson.

Six boys, Robert Stinson, Albert Thistlewaite, John Pacey, Charles and Paul Waters and Mr. Wesley Wildman, their musical instructor, dresse das sailors and with musical instruments sang and played "The Stormy Winds Did Blow."

Mrs. T. A. Walsh read a poem, "What Al Says," especially written by the Hastings poet, Mr. Albert Scriver, for the occasion, which also marked the fifth anniversary of the Hastings branch of the Women's Institute.

Following the program Mrs. Roy King and Mrs. C. M. Baker made the presentation of small gifts to each pupil taking part during the evening.

BIGGLESWADE, England — (CP) —Mr. and Mrs. F. Milton, returning home, were astonished to find their roof gone. Men demolishing condemned cottages in the same street had stripped theirs by mistake.

Tot At Death's Door Puffs Grandpa's Pipe, Gets Better–Now Veteran Smoker At 3

TRENTON, N.J., Jan. 31—(AP)—One of the things Walter Crawford found in his 1938 Christmas stocking was a man-sized briar pipe—a useless gift for the ordinary three-year-old youngster, but not for Walter.

Ever since that night almost two years ago when pneumonia all but snuffed out his life, Walter has been an inveterate smoker—not only of pipes but of cigars as well. And his parents don't mind.

"The doctor had given Walter up as lost. His mother was too broken up to stay in the room with him, so I sat by the little tot's bed smoking my pipe.

"He reached out his little hand toward my pipe. I gave it to him and he puffed on it. Immediately, he became better. Ever since he has smoked."

Medical science to the contrary grandfather Wargo believes that smoke inhaled into Walter's lungs broke the congestion which pneumonia had caused and saved the lad's life.

Apsley Village Women's Institute Enjoy Bread Company Movie

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Jan. 31.—On Wednesday evening a moving picture show was held in the parish hall when a Peterborough bread company put on a show under the auspices of the Apsley W.I. Pictures of their plant and other pictures were enjoyed before the show a short musical program was given, when some of the local talent was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Among those taking part were Mr. D. Hester, and Mrs. H. Tucker sang a duet and gave a musical number; Audrey Windsor and Jean Bullied gave a musical number; Mrs. George Kilborn, solo; Patsy Eliot, song with the guitar; three of the schools also sang, Miss Northey's school, Miss Turner's and the Apsley School. A delightful evening closed with the National Anthem.

Guild Meeting

The ladies of St. George's Anglican Guild met at the rectory on Thursday evening for their semi-monthly meeting of members present. The meeting was opened by Mrs. James Downing, president, with Mrs. Charles Smith reading a portion of scripture and prayer led by Mrs. Downing.

Items of business were discussed, one of the most important being a discussion of the St. Patrick's supper to be held on March 17. It was decided to have an Irish play after the supper. It was also decided for some of the members to make the tickets for the treasure chest, the draw to be made the same night as the dance. A pot luck supper was also discussed for the night of the annual vestry meeting to be held early in February. Meeting closed with prayer after which ice cream, cake and coffee were served and a social time enjoyed.

Miss Jean Tanner has returned to her home after a few days spent in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Tanner of Chandos and Mrs. H. Skelcher motored to Peterborough on Wednesday.

Mr. Dindsale of Peterborough was in the village on Friday on business.

The Men's Club held their weekly meeting in the new room in the rear of the parish hall on Thursday evening with about seventeen members present. After an evening of cards a pancake supper was served. A basket social and dance has been planned by the club for February 10.

A great improvement has been made at the rear of the St George's parish hall, where a large store room has been converted into a nice modern kitchen. A new floor has been laid and cupboards made and walls and ceiling finished, making a large room suitable for meetings, and all sorts of other parish activities.

Chileans In Panic At Fresh Quake

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 31 (AP)—New panic was reported today among survivors of Chile's disastrous earthquake after more shocks, described as "very strong," in the same region where between 25,000 and 30,000 already had died.

The new tremblors, lasting more than two minutes, rocked Chillan and Concepcion shortly before midnight, spreading terror among the homeless sleeping in the public plaza at Chillan.

Some sources said the new shocks were almost as strong as those last Tuesday which destroyed Chillan and left an estimated 15,000 dead among the city's 40,000 population. There was little property left to be damaged, however.

When the ground beneath their feet again began trembling violently, reports said, women and children in Chillan screamed with terror and men fought to reach open spaces safe from the danger of falling trees and crumbling walls.

The earthquake was the climax of repeated, less severe shocks which had been felt throughout yesterday in the quake area 250 miles south of here.

The work of an army of carpenters building mammoth wooden barracks to house the homeless of Chillan continued.

FAIRMOUNT

Mr. and Mrs. F. McBain who have been visiting friends in the community, returned to Omemee last week.

Miss Betty Allin and her two brothers Stanley and Morley and Mr. Roy Hooton attended the skating rink at Omemee Saturday evening.

Mr. Elmer Johnston, who had his foot cut while in the woods, is fully recovered now.

Mr. Malcolm McBain and Verne Nelson of Apsley spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. McBain.

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Earle and family and Mr. and Mrs H. McBain were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. McArthur on Sunday

DOURO

Mr. Arthur Carveth and daughter Margaret spent a few days with friends in Peterborough.

Mrs. Jean Sweeney and baby spent a few days with her mother, Mrs. John Fizgerald of Otonabee.

Dr. and Mrs. Munro of Warsaw, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Olan Leahy one evening last week.

Mrs. D. Menogue returned on Thursday from St. Joseph's Hospital and is making a good recovery.

Mr. John D. Shea, who has been seriously ill, is recovering.

Mussolini Speaks On Wednesday

ROME, Jan. 31—(CP).—Premier Mussolini, following Prime Minister Chamberlain, will speak Wednesday when he reviews 20,000 Italian troops.

There is no indication as to what the Duce will say, but Hitler's speech in Berlin to-night probably will have some bearing on it. Reaction to Mr. Chamberlain's address of Saturday was favorable, Virginio Gayda, the authoritative Fascist editor, contrasting it with French "Intransigeance" and President Roosevelt's "drum beating, alarmist policy."

The Fascist press is confident Hitler will uphold Italy's territorial claims on France when the time comes to present them. Newspapers are playing up German press comments to this effect.

Gayda, calling Mr. Chamberlain's speech "clear, honest and willing," said "nobody in Italy can think of discouraging this tendency of the British Prime Minister to seek a definite peace formula for Europe with good will and negotiation."

Premier Refuses Let Hudson Quit

LONDON, Jan. 31 (CP Cable).—Prime Minister Chamberlain declined today to accept the resignation of R. S. Hudson, secretary to the department of overseas trade, in one of the final chapters of the "junior ministerial revolt."

Mr. Hudson and the Marquess of Dufferin and Ava, under-secretary for the colonies, will continue in the ministry and Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, third member of the rebellious triumvirate, will soon be back after being replaced as under-secretary for war by the Earl of Munster in the ministerial reshuffle Saturday.

The three men revolted shortly before Christmas, complaining against the defence administration of Leslie Hore-Belisha, secretary for war, and Sir Thomas Inskip, then minister for co-ordination of defence. They also protested against the work of Earl Winterton, chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster with a seat in the cabinet.

In the reshuffle both Sir Thomas Inskip and Lord Winterton were demoted, but this should not be taken as a direct result of the revolt. Those demotions had been contemplated for weeks as a move to strengthen the government.

Although Lord Dufferin did not offer his resignation it is understood he will do so, and the prime minister probably will not accept. The reason for Lord Strathcona's "suspension" from the ministry was the impossibility of his working under Mr. Hore-Belisha at the war office after being so critical of his chief.

TRENT BRIDGE

The postponed anual congregational meeting will be held Wednesday night at the church.

Miss Rena Chaplin left Tuesday for Toronto, where she will take a course in government household training course.

Mr. R. W. Umphrey observed a birthday anniversary Saturday.

Mr. Gerald Chaplin of Birdsall, was a visitor here Sunday.

Bennett Severs Last Link With Canada

By Harold J. Fair
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

HALIFAX, Jan. 31—(CP). — Last link of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett's connection with Canadian public life was severed today as a liner took the former Prime Minister to his new home in England and his resignation from the House of Commons was en route to Ottawa.

Writing the letter of resignation to the clerk of the House was one of Mr. Bennett's last acts before sailing in the Montclare Saturday night. He wrote the letter in a Halifax business office and posted it himself, ending a participation in Canadian politics that extends back to 1911.

Mr. Bennett, who represented Calgary West, entered the House of Commons in the reciprocity election of 1911. He remained there until the conscription election of 1917 when he did not run. He returned in 1925 and remained there ever since. He did not make a farewell appearance in the House before sailing.

The former Conservative leader's farewell words to Canada were reserved for Halifax and his alma mater, Dalhousie University. He said goodbye at a luncheon tendered him in the Montclare by Halifax Canadian Club and Dalhousie.

Mr. Bennett confessed he had been under considerable emotional strain the last few weeks, but managed to endure it. The Halifax display, however, nearly broke him up, he said.

Before reaching the main part of his speech—repetitions of pleas he has made across the country for Canadian unity, Empire solidarity, and enlightened democracy—he reminisced of "Old Dal." He recalled his first visit to Halifax, the long walks, the law school with its moot courts, his friends and his great teachers at the University.

A Wider Patriotism.

"I invite you to a wider patriotism than that of a mere provincial life," he said. "Great as you may regard Nova Scotia—and it is great—I invite you on this occasion as I leave you to thin kof that vast land that lies beyond you, still part of Canada."

Pleading for an intelligent democracy, he said now if an effort is made at economy, a person's political opponent immediately campaigned against him. Dictators, however, could "blue pencil" items of expenditure.

"Effective? Of course, but it denies liberty. Is the price that should be paid too great? I say it is. To deny liberty is destructive of humanity."

Four times, the British saved civilization, and Mr. Bennett asked whether Canadians were not better working out their destiny with Britain than "with any combination you can think of."

"I expressed it as a youth in mock parliament. Now in old age I hold it more firmly than ever."

Defending Prime Minister Chamberlain's handling of the September crisis, Mr. Bennett said he would ask any critic, "Had you been Prime Minister, would you have tilted the balance for war?"

Prime need now was for a common Empire foreign policy. "And we are not so bankrupt in statecraft, my friends, that we British people can't do it."

Siam Revolt Fails 50 Officers "Retired"

BANGKOK, Siam, Jan. 31. — (A. P.). — A plot to overthrow Siam's 13-year-old King Ananda was nipped to-day with widespread arrests and "retirement" of more than 50 high army officers.

One officer was killed by police when he attempted to evade arrest Another committed suicide.

The revolutionists were said to have planned to assassinate government leaders and restore Ananda's uncle, former King Prajadhipok, to the throne.

Pradjadhipok abdicated on March 2, 1935, and Ananda became king. A regency was established to rule for Ananda during his minority and the boy continued his schooling in Switzerland.

An official broadcast on discovery of the plot was made to-day, a fortnight after Ananda sailed for Europe after his first visit here as monarch.

Probing Assault

Major Walter Buch, head of the Uschla, highest court of the Nazi party, has been placed in charge of the probe into the facts of the alleged beating given Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels. Buch has also been named head of the Sicherheitsdienst or 'S.D.' formed to spy on Nazi party members.

Service Offered By V.O.N. Told To Rotary

Guest speaker at Monday's Rotary Club luncheon, T. Frank Matthews, of Toroto, brought many reminders to old friends in the augmented audience of his years of public service and of enterprising leadership in other community affairs in his old home town.

Mr. Matthews came to Peterboro to-day as president of the Toronto branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses, sketched the work of this national organization, especially in Toronto, and said that if a request for V.O.N. service in this city was made at any time to the head office in Toronto, he felt certain it would be given. Incidentally, the local Board of Health has already given some considerable consideration to this proposal, but has not yet moved beyond the stage of obtaining information.

Fred L. Roy presented Mr. Matthews to the Rotarians, calling up from his own memory that in 1902 Mr. Matthews was chairman of the old Water Commission, Peterboro's first utility, and won immediate public approval by cutting the rates in half during the first year of its administration. Mr. Matthews continued in the responsibility of chairman of the commission until 1916 when it was succeeded by the Utilities Commission with which Mr. Matthews remained until his departure for Toronto.

Mr. Roy said it was notable that Mr. Matthews' public service in Peterboro is being duplicated by his son, Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the Utilities Commission.

A large measure of credit for the establishment of the Waterworks Commission, Mr. Matthews said, was due to S. R. Armstrong, City Clerk, who was present at the luncheon with Mayor Hamilton. The Victorian Order of Nurses was organized in 1897 under the leadership of Lady Aberdeen, wife of the Governor-General of Canada at that time. It is the only national Canadian nursing body engaged in visiting homes, and knows no bounds of creed, race or social standing. Neither is inability to pay for the service an obstacle to its extension.

85 Local Branches.

Mr. Matthews said there were now eighty-five local branches of the Order was 343 fully qualified public health nurses engaged in its work throughout the Dominion. In 1937, the last year for which the records were complete, the V.O.N. service was provided to 84,144 cases for which 779,569 visits were made. In regard to payment, Mr. Matthews said 59 per cent of the visits were made on a free basis, 8 per cent. were paid for by the patients, 16 per cent were partly paid, and insurance companies paid for 17 per cent. of the cases.

In Toronto the nurses of the Order last year attended 9,200 patients, making 115,949 visits in that service. The cost per visit to the Order was $1.01 of which 95 cents was paid by the city of Toronto.

"Our public welfare work in Toronto last year cost us $22,000, and we received $16,500 from the city," Mr. Matthews said. "Our total expenses amounted to $106,400 and our revenue was $105,014. We hope to get the balance somewhere." He outlined the scope of the V.O.N. service in attending to all kinds of cases, and said the mortality rate in Toronto maternity cases was less than the general rate for Canada.

Nurses must have a thorough hospital training with post graduate work in public health nursing. From its inception the Victorian Order of Nurses has specialized in emergency situations, and had always tried to meet them. In 1898 four nurses went to the Klondyke where an epidemic of typhoid fever had broken out. They remained there three years, working under difficult conditions. Twelve V.O.N. nurses were assigned to the special duty in Halifax at the time of the munitions explosion, and fifty-two of the Order's nurses enlisted during the first year of the war. Others followed them, and during those four years the normal work of home nursing was considerably handicapped.

The club's thanks to Mr. Matthews was expressed by Mac Gordon. James Dutton presided.

HASN'T AN ACHE OR PAIN SINCE TAKING SYNTONA

There is the splendid experience of Mr. Jack Dews, 18 Byron Ave. West, London, as told in his own words.

"My limbs ached terribly and I had a soreness in my back, right across my kidneys. Was also troubled with bladder irritations and weakness. I tried several remedies but just seemed to be going from bad to worse and was becoming very nervous and rundown.

"My people were great believers in natural herbs, so when I read about Syntona I decided to give it a good trial, and I have come to tell you that it has been just wonderful for me. Those gnawing tortures have gone out of my bladder and kidneys and I haven't an ache or a pain now. I used to have dizzy, bilious spells, too, and feel nervous, but this condition has passed away. It is great to feel so good again and

I cannot speak too highly of Syntona."

Every sufferer in Peterborough and vicinity is invited to put this medicine to the test and the chances are that you, too, will agree it is the very best medicine you have ever had the good fortune to use.

Detroit River Runs Backwards Against Wind Giving Windsorites Case Of The Jitters

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 31—(CP)—Startled Windsorites today saw the Detroit River flowing backwards and laid down a telephone barrage of queries for information. Skeptical newspapermen were amazed when they checked and found the river flowing backwards and against the wind just as fast as it usually travels the othe. way.

But United States Lake Survey officials were quite calm. The wind they explained, had been blowing steadily in one direction for four days piling up water in Lake Erie, so it was higher than Lake St. Clair, which usually is four feet higher than Lake Erie.

The 25-mile-long Detroit River, linking the two lakes, was merely obeying natural laws by running backwards. Survey officials said it had happened before several years ago.

Dewey Loses Policy Racket Witness As Perjurer Weinberg Suicides

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 — (AP). — The spectre of George Weinberg, ailing and fearful one-time gangland "strong-arm" who killed himself yesterday, lingered to-day over the policy racket trial of James J. Hines, Tammany district leader.

District Attorney Thomas Dewey announced that Weinberg, on whose shifty testimony he leaned in the miscarried first trial of Hines, still was a witness in the second and that the long transcript of his testimony, although its veracity was doubted by the judge, will be read by an assistant prosecutor.

The admitted perjurer and state's witness against Hines was on the stand 3½ days at the first trial and at one point in his testimany Hines leaped angrily from the counsel table and shouted, "You lie."

Weinberg was a brother of Bo Weinberg, whose body—he and the rest of gangland believed—was encased in concrete and dropped into the East River as a token of underworld displeasure.

Fear of a similar fate for himself, his cronies believed, or a severe stomach ailment, in the opinion of Dewey, drove him to snatch up a pistol from a Dewey investigator's coat and shoot himself through the head.

In A Protected Sanctuary

The shooting took place at the pretentious hideaway in suburban White Plains which Dewey had rented as a sanctuary for Weinberg, J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, one-time "Kid Mouthpiece" for the notorious Dutch Schultz gang which Hines is accused of protecting for pay; and big Harry Schoenhaus, another Schultz henchman. They were held in "protective custody."

All three pleaded guilty to charges similar to those against Hines—conspiracy and contriving a lottery in the multi-million-dollar Harlem numbers game—and turned evidence against Hines.

The three, together with detectives and Investigator Joseph Kaitz had just finished dinner yesterday and were preparing for a drive through the countryside.

Weinberg, who had awakened several times in pain during the night, left the dining room ahead of the others, seized the pistol from Kaitz's overcoat and went into the bathroom. They heard a shot a moment later.

Presbytery Y.P. Hold Service By Candle-light

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 31.—The usual Sunday evening service at Lakefield United church was varied this week when the members of the executive of the Peterborough Presbytery Young People's Union were present and put on an impressive candle-light service in lieu of a sermon. Candles to represent each of the apostles were lighted from the central candle, which represented Christ. Meanwhile the president and his executive explained the significance of each candle. Then member of the local Y.P.U. came forward and each lighted a candle from the central taper, until there was a complete circle of light around the church.

A solo by Miss Cora Charlton lent considerably to the service.

2nd Windsorite Shot By Bandit

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 31—(CP).—John Cote, 19, was shot in the shoulder to-day when he tried to resist a young bandit who Saturday shot Moses Cohen, 51, when Cohen fled from an attempted hold-up.

The bandit, who staged five hold-ups during less than two hours Saturday night, was considered a potential killer, police said to-day, because his willingness to shoot his victims at the slightest provocation.

Cote was shot as he attempted to punch the hold-up man. Workmen going home early to-day found Cote lying unconscious in a snow bank.

"I took a punch at him and he fired," Cote said. "That is the last thing I remember. Then I regained consciousness."

Cote said the bandit took $3 from his pocket while he was unconscious. The wound was not considered serious.

MUSEUM TO STAY

LONDON—(CP)—One of Britain's greatest treasures, the British Museum library of nearly 5,000,000 volumes, will have to remain in London and run the risk of air bombardment in the event of war, A.R.P. officials say.

Germans Rail At Roosevelt For Reported Claim "U.S. Frontiers In France"

See Nation Dropping Neutrality Stand In Act Unexampled Since War; France, Britain Reported Jubilant

BERLIN, Feb. 1 (AP).—The Berliner Nachtausgabe splashed the headline, "America's Frontier on the Rhine," across its front page tonight and described President Roosevelt's meeting with the Senate Military Affairs Committee yesterday as "without example since the days of the Great War."

In a two-columns dispatch under a New York date-line, Nachtausgabe quoted United States newspapers as saying Mr. Roosevelt had told committee members that the United States must back up democracies in any war against the totalitarian states with arms deliveries.

"Unbelievable agitation (hetzaktion) of Roosevelt after the Fuehrer's peace address" was a subhead of the dispatch.

Another said, "Washington stirs up the people to make business."

"This action of Roosevelt's," the dispatch said, is without example since the day of the Great War. It leaves no doubt that Roosevelt is a second Wilson, who is deliberately walking in the footsteps of his democratic predecessor in office.

"As a result of these conversations it is clear that the United States finally has broken with its neutrality policy.

"The intervention policy of Washington in European matters has become a fact. Yesterday's committee session thus assumes a fundamental importance for Germany and her friendly totalitarian nations. Washington yesterday officially became the centre of war-inciting hatred against totalitarian states."

Featured in France.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—(AP).—First editions of afternoon newspapers in Paris used big headlines to-day to proclaim that President Roosevelt had declared the "frontier of the United States are in France."

Although members of the government refused to comment on reports of the President's meeting with the Senate Military committee yesterday on the ground that his statements were to a closed session, there was undoubted jubilation in official circles.

Jubilation in Britain.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(AP).— The British press showed satisfaction today with accounts of President Roosevelt's meeting with the Senate Military Affairs committee. Emphasis was given to reports that he had said he intended to aid European democracies in every possible way short of war in any conflict with dictatorships.

Such headlines as "Roosevelt to Aid Democracies,' 'and "Our Frontier is in France—Roosevelt," stretched across the front pages of London evening papers.

Reports reached London too late for morning papers and evening papers lacked editorial comment.

In official quarters it was evident the reports of the meeting were welcomed as further aid in strength-

Roosevelt Ready To Aid U.K., France In War

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 — (AP). — United States senators had from President Roosevelt today an assertion that America would help European democracies arm against totalitarian aggression.

Mr. Roosevelt was reported to have outlined that policy yesterday in Washington before a Senate military committee, whose members were sworn to secrecy.

However, as details of the unusual conference trickled out, the president's objective in expediting sale of American-made aircraft to France and Great Britain was disclosed to be preservation of world peace through support of democracies.

The New York Herald Tribune, in a dispatch from its Washington correspondent, said the president went even further and told the Senate committee the United States would aid Great Britain and France in the event of a European war with every means short of sending troops overseas.

Both the Herald Tribune and Times correspondents said the president had placed the United States' frontiers "in France."

The Herald Tribune further repoted the president "intimated that there were already a definite understanding and positive commitments between the United States and the European democracies."

Position Known

"The responsible heads of the European democracies know my position," the president was quoted by the Herald Tribune as saying.

However, any armaments supplied to European countries would have to be paid for, the president was reported to have said.

When one member of the committee asked the president about the neutrality law, which empowers him to declare an embargo when he deems a state of war exists, he replied "that bridge" would have to be crossed when it was reached. There has been some talk of amending the neutrality act, especially since the Ike Neal Given 2 Years 9 Mos.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Feb. 1—(CP). —Isaac "Ike" Neal, Marmora carpenter, was sentenced to serve two years and nine months in Kingston Penitentiary at Kingston after being found guilty of assault doing bodily harm to Lem Yung, cafe owner at Marmora, Ont., Dec. 10 last, by Justice E. R. E. Chevrier in Supreme Court. His Lordship in addressing the accused stated "You are a very lucky man in as much you are not facing a murder charge, which you missed by a mere fraction."

Found guilty on a charge of perjury, Alfred Williams, 38, Trenton, already undergoing a two-year term in penitentiary, was sentenced to four years in the same institution, two of which will run concurrent with the former sentence. The charge arose from statements made by Williams at his trial in Trenton, that he did not resist officers when his arrest was affected.

$70,000 Storm

DETROIT, Feb. 1—(CP). — Civic authorities estimated to-day the cost of removing this week's near-record snowfall would reach $70,000 before all thoroughfares are celared by tonight. Nearly eight inches of snow fell during the storm.

No Weinberg Prints On Suicide Gun

NEW YORK, Feb. 1—(AP).—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman was urged today by a Nassau County lawyer to investigate a report that the fingerprints of George Weinberg, a key witness in the retrial of James Hines, Tammany district leader, were not found on the gun with which he allegedly committed suicide last Sunday.

George E. Mulry, of Mineola, Long Island, sent the following telegram to the Governor: "Informed believeable source that Weinberg's fingerprints are not on revolver of Dewey Peling. Check. Confiscate revolver for confirmation."

The gun used by Weinberg, it was reported at the time of the shooting, had been taken from the coat of one of District Attorney Thomas Dewey's detectives guarding Weinberg and two other witnesses, J. Richard Davis and Harry Schoenhaus, at a White Plains, N.Y., retreat.

Mulry said a client in New York City, who he described as being "on the inside of things," told him Weinberg's prints were not found on the alleged suicide weapon and that no fingerprints, in fact, were found on it after the shooting.

Shack Hermit's Rye Prune Juice Moonshine Upsets Police Analysis By Exploding

WHITBY, Ont., Feb. 1 (CP)— George Brillinger, shack dweller near here, made swamp whisky so powerful a bottle of it exploded before police could have it analyzed, Provincial Constable W. H. Clark told Magistrate F. S. Ebbs yesterday as Brillinger was sent to jail for three months.

Clark said Brillinger told him he made the liquor from rye, water and prune juice for his own use. But police had received complaints the stuff was being peddled.

"I've been making it for the last two winters," Brillinger said. "I wasn't poisoning nobody but myself so it was up to me."

Evidence was that Brillinger, who took the three months because he couldn't pay $100, had been living on bread and tea and an occasional rabbit.

Hitler's Kin

Mrs. Bridget Hitler, Irish-born sister-in-law of the German Fuehrer, is pictured here as she left Highgate police court in London, after answering a summons for non-payment of approximately $45 in taxes. She married Herr Hitler's half-brother Aldois, then a Dublin waiter, 28 years ag. The couple was separated in 1914.

Houde Threatens To Pull City From Province

MONTREAL, Feb. 1 (CP). — If there is any attempt to control the city from the "outside," Montreal will seek secession from Quebec Province, Mayor Camillien Houde last night told City Council.

The fiery Houde, four times Montreal's Mayor, who resigned before completion of his third term because of differences with Premier Duplessis of Quebec, warned if the province interfered with civic autonomy he would consult Ottawa on the question of seceding.

Visiting the banks Tuesday, Houde said he heard the suggestion a controller be appointed for the city's revenues and expenditures. "A controller for Montreal?" he said. "I champion the prerogatives of council, and if the banks want to place a controller let them put one in Quebec, so it may be seen what goes on there."

The Mayor said the Provincial share of local direct relief costs has not yet been paid for January, and partial shares for other periods still are due.

"If that is deliberate or not, I do not know," he said.

End Of The Shoot

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(CP)—Today the pheasant and partridge shooting season ends and the London Season officially begins and runs through Ascot in July to dispersal in August to Scottish moors and yachting at Cowes. It is the season of drawing-rooms and debutantes, of grand opera and the social swirl that triumphs over the fogs of old London.

House Stands Behind Chamberlain

Out To Climax Career With Arms Limitation Pact

LONDON, Feb. 1 — (CP). — The Chamberlain government today reviewed the prime minister's ambitious program to obtain limitation of Europe's staggering rearmament and ensure peace.

It was too early, observers agreed, to expect any reaction from Chancellor Hitler to the feeler thrown out by Mr. Chamberlain yesterday in his statement to the House of Commons in which he asked for deeds and not words from Berlin in support of peace.

Mr. Chamberlain told the House, resuming for a foreign policy debate after the long year-end recess, that the government's policy of peace through negotiation "is succeeding."

After a day-long debate the House gave him what amounted to a vote of confidence on his dealings with dictator states and on non-intervention in Spain by voting 258 to 133 to uphold the government when labor forced a division on a motion to adjourn the House.

Mr. Chamberlain said he was willing to discuss Germany's "grievances," which are principally its demands for colonies, if Hitler would "enter into an arrangement for limitation of armaments."

It is widely known Mr. Chamberlain is eager to cap his career by obtaining such limitation. As a businessman he is shocked by the huge slums Britain is spending on arms in an effort to catch up with Germany in preparedness, and by the spending underway in other countries.

Peace in World Trade?

Meanwhile, a hint that Chancellor Hitler's Reichstag speech may lead to a German-British peace in world trade was advanced. The suggestion came from R. S. Hudson, secretary of the overseas trade department, who two weeks ago assailed the barter system Germany uses to get business as a "reversal to the practice of the middle ages."

Germany and Great Britain are now competing for the markets of southeastern Europe. Hitler, in his exposition of the German need of trade, declared "we must export or die," and Mr. Hudson in the House of Commons last night, said that his phrase was "one of the most encouraging things we have had for a very long time."

"I believe that—if we can re-establish confidence and remove tension—there is plenty of export trade to go around for both our countries," the minister said. "I think it may lead to a sensible arrangement being reached to develop markets at reasonable prices and a stop being put to cut-throat competition."

Ontario, Still Working On Drifts, Due For More Snow-And Cold

TORONTO, Feb. 1 (CP).—Thousands of workers continued toiling today throughout Ontario to relieve the province of the effects of the worst snowstorm it has experienced in years. Armies of men, aided by powerful ploughs, cleared snow-heaped highways and relief was hurried to stricken centres. The snowfall was so heavy the possibility was considered of dropping supplies from the air to some of the more severely affected areas.

Traffic, knotted in many centres by the heavy fall of snow Monday, gradually began moving yesterday with workers clearing the roads in crisp, clear weather. The work was hurried in anticipation of another zero wave—and probably snow or sleet—moving in from the west.

Naistorville, a small community in the heart of the Niagara fruit belt near Hamilton, was one of the most seriously affected centres. Isolated with several neighboring centres during the blizzard, the area faced the prospect of remaining marooned for a couple of more days and, it was reported, planes would be pressed into service in the event of food shortage.

At London it was reported Western Ontario's highway blockade was lifted partly with ploughs clearing all but a few sections of the provincial road system. County and rural roads in many sections still were blocked and workers concentrated on these after clearing the main roads.

In Dereham township in Oxford county, a plough was pressed into service to open a road so Clarence Hetherington could remove his 13-year-old son seven miles to hospital at Tillsonburg for an emergency operation. In Norfolk county a road was opened from Port Rowan to St. Williams for a doctor to reach a patient. A similar case was reported at Walsh.

Bus schedules still were disrupted last night on the Toronto-Simcoe lines. Railway ploughs cleared the tracks in an attempt to keep trains running on schedule. For the second day, ferry service between Port Huron, Mich., and Sarnia was suspended because of an ice jam in St. Clair river.

In some towns automobiles still were stuck in deep snowbanks lining the streets. Most of Toronto's streets were cleared and traffic was moving normally.

Wives May Be Slapped Judge Rules Refusing Divorce

Chicago, Feb. 1 (AP)

A MAN has the right to slap his wife, Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan ruled yesterday in denying a divorce to Mrs. Mary Kuhar, 21, and he added:

"If more wives were slapped there would be fewer divorces." Mrs. Kuhar alleged her husband, John, 24, a musician, was cruel, and testified that two weeks after their marriage last June he slapped her twice when she refused to go dancing with him.

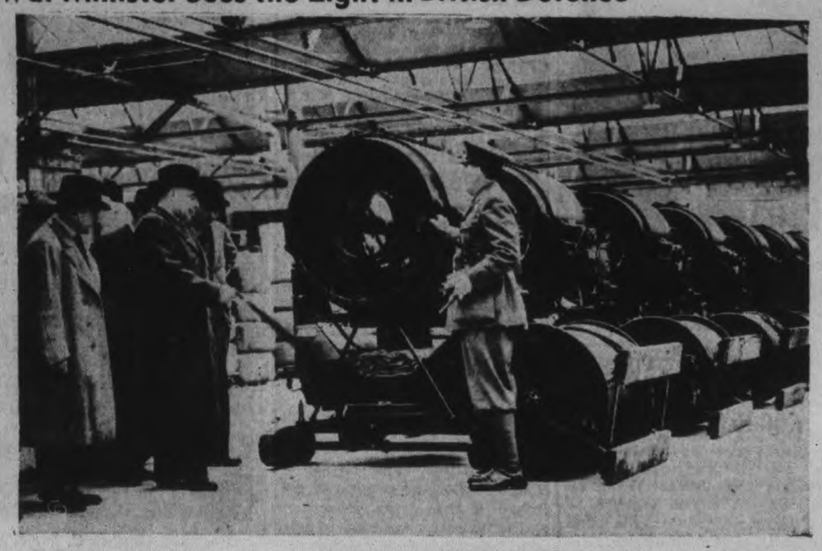
War Minister Sees the Light in British Defence



Pointing with the umbrella, that seems to be standard equipment of all British statesmen, is Leslie Hore-Belisha, Premier Chamberlain's War Minister, who is shown during a tour of inspection of the London anti-aircraft mobilization stores. The Minister is interested in one of a battery of powerful searchlights designed to spot enemy targets for the ring of anti-aerial guns around London.

Nazi Need Of Trade Likely To Curb Colony Demands

BERLIN, Feb. 1—(AP).—It became increasingly apparent to-day that Chancellor Hitler's determination to increase German trade might place Nazi political demands temporarily in second place.

While the press kept up the colonial arguments which Hitler strongly advanced in his Reichstag speech Monday night, the Economics Ministry concentrated on the more immediate question of export.

It was announced German and British industrial representatives would meet in Duesseldorf February 28 to consider mutual trade and economic problems. (The British Secretary for Overseas Trade, Robert Hudson, indicated last night that a British-German agreement to end conflict in world trade might be reached upon a lessening of international tension.)

A German representative departed for Moscow, and usually informed Germans hinted at the possibility of trade or political negotiations. Economics Minister Funk began conversations with the Czecho-Slovak Trade Minister.

A visit of a Brazilian Air Force Commission and the arrival of the new Mexican Minister, General Juan Azcarate, later this month, were seen as indications of improving relations with the Latin-American countries, trade with which Hitler warned the United States not to interfere.

There was speculation in banking and trade circles, without any official interpretation of his new duties, that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht might become Germany's "sales agent."

Exports Essential.

Hitler made the need of export a question of life for the nation in his Reichstag address. Germany must "export in order to buy foodstuffs," he said.

He made the demand upon Britain and France for return of Germany's war-lost colonies, but he said this question could not cause a war and he went further to state that the export question was the more immediate.

Groundhog Slips Up Sees Shadow Two Days Early

Port Erie, Ont., Feb. 1 (CP)

FARMER John Anthony reported today a miscalculating groundhog or woodchuck paid him a visit yesterday, saw his shadow and left again for his home in a clay bank, skirting the Thompson road.

Tomorrow is officially "groundhog day," but Anthony believes the actions of his visitor means another six weeks of winter.

27 Ploughs Open Hamilton Area

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 1.—(CP). —(CP).— Huge snowdrifts which blocked district highways gave way gradually to-day before the mass attacks of 27 ploughs, the greatest number ever used on the 534 miles of pavement in this section.

One rotary plough started on Highway 53 (Elfrida to Duff's Corners) early to-day and from there will proceed to Caledonia to open up Highway 54 which has been plugged since the storm struck the district at the start of the week.

A caterpillar outfit is working on No. 56—Elfrida to Canfield through Binbrook and Blackheath — where cars are reported marooned in drifts 10 to 12 feet deep.

Five Ploughs were used yesterday in opening No. 20. It took two of the biggest outfits one hour to cut through one drift near St. Ann's, where two gas trucks, several transports and numerous private cars were stalled.

Several county roads in Lincoln are now passable and it is possible to follow the ordinary route from Grimsby to Smithville. To travel between these two points, a distance of 8¼ miles, yesterday it was necessary to follow a circuitous route of 30 miles.

Last Minute News Flashes

TORONTO — Graydon McCrea, suspended Toronto police constable, charged with manslaughter, was convicted of "dangerous driving" by a supreme court jury under Mr. Justice George A. Godfrey late today.

MONTREAL — Squads of health department inspectors seized more than 1,500 Japanese-manufactured shaving brushes today under instructions from Dr. Adelard Groulx, civic officer of health. The brushes were taken to laboratories where they will be tested to learn if they contain anthrax germs, which caused at least one death in western United States.

B.B.C. Ignores Threats From Hitler To End Broadcasts

London, Feb. 1 (AP)

THE British Broadcasting Corporation decided today to ignore a warning by Chancellor Hitler that "If broadcasts sent from certain foreign countries to Germany do not cease we will soon end them."

Official circles said there is "no intention of discontinuing" the B.B.C. nightly news bulletins in German.

Pasteurization Area Enlarged

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—(CP)—The Ontario Department of Health moved nearer its objective of making pasteuriaztion of milk compulsory throughout the province today when the legislation was ordered applied in scores of additional areas.

The compulsory pasteurization legislation, passed at the 1938 session of the legislature, was first applied last October when most of the urban areas of the province were brought under its provisions. On January 1, some 30 villages were added to the list and today's order adds 13 more villages, the whole county of Elgin and townships and parts of townships in 12 more counties and districts.

Pasteurization becomes compulsory in the following areas, Villages: Beaverton, Bradford, Burks Falls, Colborne, Dundalk, Hensall, Markdale, Port McNichol, Port Rowan, South River, Stoney Creek, Sundridge and Westport.

Entire townships: Westerminster in Middlesex; Bucke in Temiskaming; Baldwin, Merritt and Mongowin townships in Sudbury; Gordon in Manitoulin; Melick in Kenora.

Entire county: Elgin.

Parts of township: Part of Guelph township in Wellington in the vicinity of Guelph City; part of Waterloo township near Kitchener; parts of the townships of Zorra East, Blandford and Oxford east, west and north in the vicinity of Woodstock; Prince township in the vicinity of Sault Ste. Marie; Ramsay township near Almonte; Bosanquet, Plypton and Warwich townships in the vicinity of the town of Forest; Deerham township in the vicinity of Tillsonburg; Southeast Hope and East Zorra in vicinity of Tavistock; part of Rama township in Ontario county; part of Morison in Muskoka; part of London township, Middlesex county; and part of McNab township, Renfrew county.

Socialized Mining Said Too Costly

REGINA, Feb. 1 (CP).—Socialization of the mining industry as proposed by the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, would be too costly for any government to attempt, Hon. T. C. Davis, Attorney-General, said in the Saskatchewan Legislature yesterday during the throne speech debate.

No government in Canada had, within its own sphere, gone as far along the road to public ownership as the Government of Saskatchewan.

Mr. Davis said it was unreasonable to argue for mining development with public funds. In the Flin Flon mining district $33,000,000 had been expended by private interests before one cent return was obtained.

"No government could spend such vast sums on the chance of locating paying mines," he said.

Development of roads to mining areas was the best investment Saskatchewan could make at the present time, the Minister said.

Joseph Burton (C.C.F., Humboldt) said that if Communists ever got control of the country it would not be through the medium of the C.C.F., Mr. Burton told the House.

It would be because of the old line parties "who had failed the people in their hour of need." He charged the Communist party was openly supporting the Liberal party. He also suggested Tim Buck, National Communist leader, as a possible Liberal candidate at the next election.

Most of the banks in Germany are now local government or semi-public institutions.

German Border Air "Mined"

BERLIN, Feb. 1 (CP-Havas). — "Mine fields of the air" — captive balloons filled with poison gas to asphyxiate enemy airmen — have been established in western Germany from the borders of Switzerland to the Netherlands frontier.

Die Wehrmacht, organ of the German general staff, published photos for the first time today of the elaborate defence zones in the western Reich equipped with vast aircraft batteries, and the fleet of captive gas balloons.

Major-General Kitzinger, commander-in-chief of the air defence zone of the west, in an accompanying article, described what he called "mine fields of the air," and that when necessary the gas could be released in thick waves in the face of oncoming enemy airmen.

General Kitzinger said meteorological observations had been taken under the direction of the general staff for a period of years to decide the most strategic places for locating these balloons.

The system of air defence—including the latest models of aerial indicators to give warning of approaching aircraft—is designed to protect the heavy industrial area of the Ruhr and neighboring regions. The entire area has been covered with a network of special communication lines linking the various units.

Snowed-in Hamlet Waits On Thaw

CAISTORVILLE, Ont., Feb. 1 — (CP). — This Niagara Peninsula village of 150 expects to be snowbound until there is a thaw, Edward Pettigrew, keeper of the general store, said to-day. Supplies of bread and milk were assured by horse-team relays.

The village's normal communication line in winter is by the 16-mile county pavement to Smithville but Pettigrew said to-day that the snow on this stretch is packed so hard and deep, eight and 10 feet in some places, that he doubts the road will be open again to motor traffic until milder weather melts the snow.

Teams struggled aross fields, over fences and by other circuitous routes to bring bread and milk to the village last night. The snow was hard enough to hold the sleigh, but often the horses broke through the crust and their drivers had to shovel.

A second shipment of bread and milk left Smithville yesterday afternoon and was expected here by sleigh around noon to-day. Meanwhile the village had enough bread and milk to last to-morrow.

It was possible, Pettigrew said, that a clear way would be open for teams in a day or two.

Spanish Deserters Locate Haven In France Catch Includes Work-Build Own Camps

PERPIGNAN, France, Feb. 1 (AP)—France, unwilling host to thousands of able-bodied but warweary Spaniards, today began to put those who refuse to return to Spain to work.

The first 200 Spanish government army deserters sent to the site of the French concentration camp at Argeles-Sur-Mer discovered they had to build it. A tough mobile guard captain gave the 200 a brief introductory talk in Spanish on the wasteland at Argeles where they found wood for the barracks to house them and barbed wire for fences.

"Gentleman," said the captain, "you will be fed well and lodged well, but you must work for it. You are now in France, not Spain, and as long as you stay here you will be subjected to French military discipline."

He then put them to work digging foundations for barracks, and setting posts for fences.

The concentration camp idea plus the sight of food trucks rolling into Spain already has sent a large number of government soldiers back to the units they deserted.

Cahan Assails Trade Pact As Job-Loser

OTTAWA, Feb. 1 — (CP). — Canada's new trade agreement with United States "will have the inevitable result of increasing unemployment throughout Canada" in the opinion of Hon. C. H. Cahan (Con. Montreal St. Lawrence-St. George).

In the House of Commons yesterday the veteran former secretary of state condemned the agreement and ridiculed what he called "the prime minister's illusive infatuation that reduction of our modest tariffs against United States will save civilization from international conflict."

Speaking in the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, Mr. Cahan said the high tariff policies of the United States against Canada, climaxed by the Hawley-Smoot tariff of 1930, "brought Canada to the verge of financial ruin that was only avoided by the Ottawa agreements of 1932."

The agreement with United States and its accompanying concessions of Canadian preferences in the British market struck a blow at the Empire trade agreements and the preferential system, Mr. Cahan said.

"In fact, from the time the Ottawa agreements with the United Kingdom and other British dominions were signed, Aug. 20, 1932, the state department of the United States and its representatives at foreign capitals have striven by every possible means known to destroy the effect of those inter-imperial agreements."

Mr. Cahan read newspaper reports of speeches by United States public men and from editorials to support his claim the United States had attached considerable importance to obtaining removal of the wheat preference and other concessions enjoyed by Canada in the United Kingdom.

Sees European War Lasting 30 Years

MONTREAL, Feb. 1—(CP). — If war breaks out between the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis and powers led by Great Britain and France, it may last for 30 years, Lieut.-Col. J. R. J. MacNamara, Conservative member of the British House of Commons, said last night at a meeting of the Montreal United Service Institute.

The "rapid victory" hoped for by the totalitarian powers would not materialize, MacNamara said, and the superior resources of their opponents eventually would triumph.

Great Britain, he said, realized her responsibilities, but hoped "common sense and tact" would avert war.

"In Great Britain we realize that wars are not declared, but may come to us with as little as eight minutes' warning. If planes were reported over Brussels, it would just give our fighter squadrons time to get into the air.

"Our navy is in a better position relatively than it was in 1914, except for the American fleet. But war with the United States is absolutely unthinkable—the more the Americans arm, the more we're pleased."

McNamara said Hitlers recent victories enhanced his prestige but Mussolini's had lawered because he was unable to "igive his people dividends."

Nazis Celebrate

MONTREAL, Feb. 1—(CP). — The sixth anniversary of Adolf Hitler's rise to power was observed last night by 150 Montreal Nazis and sympathizers at a gathering in the Harmonia Club on Drummond street. Karl Dannenberg, acting German consul here, addressed the group, praising the achievement of the New Reich.

On the wall of the club, a Union Jack and a Nazi banner hung side by side. German flags were brought in to the hall by a color bearer, and the audience stood and delivered the Nazi salute.

SUCCESSION DUTIES..

Succession Duties raise three important questions. How much will they be? — will my estate have the money or liquid assets to pay them within the time set by law? — what effect will this tax have on my plans? ¶ We invite you to consult our officers who have a practical knowledge of the working of Succession Duty Acts in the various Provinces of Canada. They will be glad to estimate the amount of Duty for which you should make provision, and to discuss your estate plans, as they may be affected by this tax, in the light of this Corporation's long experience as executor and trustee extending over half a century. ¶ Your inquiries will receive prompt attention: they will place you under no obligation.

president in his message to congress early in the session suggested it might at present work to the unfair disadvantage of some nations.

Some Plain Speaking

With 18 members of the senate committee gathered in a circle around him, the president was reported to have spoken plainly on the foreign and domestic policies underlying the proffered aid to a French mission in obtaining planes from private manufacturers in the United States.

The senators said Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that sales of planes to foreign governments would provide employment and prepare this country for the mass production of aircraft called for in the defence program. It was in connection with the sale of planes to France that the president appeared before the committee.

He was said to have declared that the government considered it the wisest policy to aid European democracies to rearm so that they could balk threats of war by being prepared for any eventuality.

There were strong indications, however, that the president's explanation of the government's interest in the French mission had not stilled minority criticism of the move within the committee.

This criticism took the form of protests against the secrecy which has cloaked committee investigation of the matter as well as the White House conference. One senator said he was considering walking out of further closed sessions, if the record of previous ones was not made public.

"To be sworn to secrecy at a time when there is much to be said is more distressing than you can know," Senator Nye (Rep.-North Dakota) told reporters after the White House meeting.

No Credit To France?

While some committeemen who have been critical of the administration's moves said they were satisfied there was no proposal to create a credit for French purchase of the planes, others said they wished to delve further into the treasury's part in the projected deal.

Nye said he had asked that Secretary Morgenthau be recalled before the committee. The committee heard last week that a representative of the French air ministry had been permitted by treasury authority to inspect the latest type of light bomber.

The President explained at the conference, committee members said in Washington, that his instructions to the treasury and other departments to aid the French mission had been sent in the form of a memorandum.

Mr. Roosevelt was quoted by some Senators as reminding the committee that as commander-in-chief of the army and navy, he had authority to approve or disapprove sales to France.

Asked at his press conference whether the government would have approved sales of planes to Germany or Italy, Mr. Roosevelt said that was an "if" question. The President told reporters that no military secrets were divulged in making the French sales.

The President's discussion was not limited to the European situataion, it appeared. He expressed concern over the question of Nazism in Latin America and advocated increase in United States' trade there to overcome it.

Finger Severed By Circular Saw

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MOUNT PLEASANT, Feb. 1. — Albert (Bud) Edgerton is in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, suffering from a badly cut left hand, as a result of an accident while he was operating a circular saw on Tuesday afternoon. Edgerton and his brother Jack were sawing wood on the farm of Joshua Eggleston, half a mile east of the village, and it is thought the pole slipped, owing to the slippery condition of the wood after Monday's storm.

The index finger of Edgerton's left hand was completely severed and the next finger badly mangled. The injured man was brought to Peterborough by Arthur Eggleston and after treatment at the Clinic was taken to hospital.

British Airliner Fired On By Japs

HONG KONG, Feb. 1—(AP).—A wireless message saying "we are being fired at by Japanese warships west of Waichow," was received here today from the pilot of the Imperial Airways plane Delia en route to Bangkok, Siam, from Hong Kong with two passengers.

Waichow Island is off the south China coast, near French Indo-China, over which the British plane passes on its regular route to Bangkok. The plane was not hit, it reported later, and landed safely at Hanoi, Indo-China. Another Imperial Airways plane, a few minutes behind the Delia, was not fired upon.

The incident followed a warning by L. Oakazaki, Japanese Consul-General at Canton, against British, French or other foreign planes flying over Japanese-occupied areas to and from Hong Kong. Imperial Airways officials said their planes did not fly over Japanese-occupied areas.

Mr. Hudson, in previous speeches, declared Britain could win any trade war, but in an address before the German chamber of commerce in London January 23, he indicated his government was ready to help Germany upward economically in exchange for political appeasement.

International affairs were to be discussed by the cabinet today at its regular weekly meeting. Questions of defence and rearmament will be reviewed at a special meeting tomorrow.

Optimism over the European situation which followed Hitler's "conciliatory" speech to the Reichstag on Monday spread. It was reflected yesterday in surging stock markets here.

Building Permits Slump In January

Building figures for the month of January slumped a little owing to the severe weather but construction work continued on several of the major projects which were started some months ago and are now nearing completion.

Totals for the month of January as revealed by building permit record in the City Engineer's office, shows four permits taken out during the month with a total value of $6,109.50. The permits include one garage, $94.50; one dwelling, $3,500, being built on Mark street by Cyril Agnew, and two miscellaneous permits of $2,515, the bulk of this was for general repairs and alterations to the boiler house at the Coca-Cola plant on George street.

The building totals for January, 1938, amounted to $10,130.00, and consisted of six permits.

Arms For Dictators' Enemies.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A member of the senate military committee said today President Roosevelt had indicated that the United States was prepared to sell war materials not only to Great Britain and France but to other "independent states" in Europe which oppose the threat of aggression by the dictatorships.

Accounts—some in conflict with others—of what the president said to members of the committee yesterday continued to dribble out to the press and public causing jubilation abroad in the democratic states and condemnation in Germany and Italy.

The military committeeman, who asked anonymity, said Mr. Roosevelt's discussion with the committee of the United States' policy of permitting sales of airplanes to France had made it plain the president was committed to a course of allowing other nations to obtain war supplies in America as long as they could pay cash.

The senator said the conversations had centred on the non-totalitarian countries, which he said were referred to as "independent states," and had not been confined to Britain and France.

One conflict of opinion over what was said concerned how far the president had gone in outlining the foreign policy involved.

One member of the committee said that as he recalled the discussion, the President had said he considered that, in the event of a world war, the frontiers of the United States would be in France.

Two other committeemen denied emphatically, however, that the president had said anything of this nature.

New Fighter

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(CP-Havas)—The Royal Air Force has adopted a new, fast combat monoplane with underslung wings, it was disclosed last night.

Bigger Gates Bring Bigger Attendances To Roseneath Fairs

THE NEED of bigger gates, if not better, with more parking space, lends a touch of humor to the annual report of the Roseneath Fair Board. Every time they cut a new gate in the fence, larger crowds swoop down on them, and even with the new accommodation the problem of getting into and out of the grounds is comparatively in about the same position as before. Last October, the Fair Board provided a new third gate on which they spent some extra money for artistic effect, but a bigger crowd than ever turned up for the day, and the squad of traffic directors was nearly overwhelmed. It wasn't so bad getting into the grounds because no one was in much of a hurry with the whole afternoon ahead of them, but getting out on to the road again around five o'clock created such a problem that the next outlet will probably be opened towards some road other than the highway from Hastings to Cobourg.

Canadian Widow Safe After Quake In Chile

TORONTO, Feb. 1 — (C.P.). — Mrs. C. A. Sadlier, widow of a prominent Canadian missionary in Chile, who with her daughter was in the earthquake zone last week, escaped harm in that disaster, according to word received by friends here.

Anxiety had been felt because it was known Mrs. Sadlier and her daughter lived in Concepcion. Her son, Ralph Sadlier, and his family live a considerable distance from that city, destroyed in the quake.

Mrs. Sadlier, formerly Miss Ethel Anthony of Montreal, went to Chile many years ago with her husband, a former Church of England missionary in Western Canada. The misison work in Chile now is independent.

Decorators Redraping Queen's Park Chamber For King

Just A Few Firecrackers All That's Needed To Welcome Invading Air Fleet

MIDLAND, Ont., Feb. 1—(CP).—Canada's defence preparations were criticized last night by Major T. M. Medland, of the Canadian Corps Association, before a joint meeting of the service clubs and municipal councils of Midland and Penetang.

"We are certain that any future attack against Canada must come in the air and yet our coastal searchlights haven't been used for 25 years," he said. "True, we bought $1,500,000 worth of searchlights recently, but we forgot to buy the motors to run them.

"Our present permanent force in Canada of 3,900 men is less than the French maintained when they held Canada. As far as our defence is concerned, with the aid of a few firecrackers we could give a decent civic welcome to an approaching enemy and that's about all."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 1 — (C.P.). — Strength at Liverpool and absence of offerings held wheat futures steady in Winnipeg Market to-day as prices moved within an ⅛ cent range in exceedingly dull trading. Closing quotations were unchanged, with May at 62⅝, July 63⅜ and October 63⅝ cents.

A little outside buying presumably by Chicago, was noted from time to time, but it was not determined whether this was in connection with inter-marketing spreading or not. Only a few minor loads of Canadian wheat were reported worked for export.

Liverpool advanced ⅛ to ¾d.

Less Sleighing

STRATFORD, Feb. 1—(CP).—Sleigh riding isn't as popular as it once was in Ontario's snow belt, local teamsters say. At one time there were dozens of sleighs and teams to be rented here for an evening's outing. Now there are only one or two.

Local Radio Interference Is Bad In Peterborough; Mostly Due To Faulty Electrical Appliances

Apparent confusion as to the nature of numerous complaints that have been made recently by representative Peterborough citizens about radio reception in this city, has led to the arrival of a trouble car in this city. Two representatives, Frank Marlborough and Tom Trent, from the Radio Trouble Branch, Department of Transport, arrived here yesterday to conduct an investigation into local interference causes.

The complaints were, on the whole, not directed to such an end at all. They were made following poor reception of Hon. R. B. Bennett's speech made in Toronto recently. Many listeners said they could not hear the speech over CBC's Toronto station, CBL. Ald. James Dutton complained that radio listeners in this area received little value for the money they paid out in license fees from year to year, when the Commission's station could not be heard.

However, despite the error, the two inspectors have decided to stay in the city until Friday at noon. They may be reached at the Grand Hotel, preferably by personal interview rather than by telephone, and will investigate complaints of local interference.

Peterborough has too much local interference for a city its size, said Inspector Frank Marlborough. Very little of it can be placed at the door of the Utilities commission as is sometimes the case, and most of the cause of poor reception is due to electrical appliances operating in homes.

Worst offenders, he said, are electric pads, "which can ruin reception within a radius of two city blocks of the point in which they are being used. As many as two or three hundred radios are sometimes affected." Not all such pads are causes of interference, but many times people do not realize their electric pads are causing trouble, because interference does not come from them until after they have been turned on for a considerable time.

"If you have an electric pad," he said, "just try this experiment with it: Place it between two pillows and turn it on. If, in five or ten minutes, an intermittent roar comes from your loudspeaker, turn the pad off. If the noise stops, turn the pad on again. Then you will know whether your pad is causing interference in hundreds of other radios besides your own."

Electric razors, blowers on furnaces, sewing machines, are other instruments that cause radio interference, he said.

The two men will tour Peterborough during the rest of the week, seeking to eliminate as many causes of local interference as possible.

Cause of poor reception over CBL, they said, was the proximity of the wavelength of the powerful Mexican station, XER, and they can do nothing to alter that condition. Because neither Canada nor the United States has an agreement with Mexico in regard to use of wavelengths, no action can be taken to limit XER's broadcasting power.

Good Samaritan Pays 'Red Tape' Fine Saves Father Jail

Toronto, Feb. 1 (CP).

ALBERT DEBENHAM, 54, father of four, today was grateful to an unidentified benefactor who paid his fine of $20 for failing to fill out some forms required by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Today was the last day of grace Debenham had for paying the fine. Tomorrow he was to go to jail.

A receipt for the fine came through the mail. Court officials said they had no way of telling who paid it.

Famous Choir Is Coming To City

It is not often that the people of Peterborough have the opportunity of hearing a famous English choir as the Ladybrook Ladies' Choir direct from England, which will visit this city on Thursday, February 9 and give a popular concert in St. Andrew's church on that night.

This choir arrived in Halifax a week ago and is visiting the chief Canadian cities before making a tour of the United States and fulfilling several engagements at the World Fair in New York next summer. Already large audiences have been delighted by their performances in cities in the Maritime provinces and in Quebec.

Organized in 1927 by Miss Elsie Harrof, A.R.C.M., the choir has had outstanding success in musical festivals in the north of England, in Manchester and in London. It has won many prominent awards in competition, including first place in a Welsh festival, where it was opposed by leading Welsh choirs.

Sir Richard Terry, Sir Hugh Robertson, Dr. J. Keighley, Allan Stephenson and other leading English critics have spoken in high praise of the performance of the Ladybrook Choir.

A chief attraction will be the pianist, Margaret Maddison, who is declared to be on of England's most brilliant pianists. One of her most recent triumphs was at the Gratian Hall in London, where the freshness of her performance, the delicacy and sympathy of her rendering of Beethoven's first concerto won enthusiastic approval.

These English ladies will receive a warm welcome from the citizens of Peterborough and this welcome will be expressed by His Worship the Mayor James Hamilton at the beginning of the concert.

The choir will be heard over the CBC from 6.30 to 7.00 p.m. on Sunday next.

Springville United Church Reports Good Year

(Examiner Correspondence.)

SPRINGVILLE, Feb. 1.—The annual congregational meeting of the Springville United church was held in the basement on Monday night.

The chair was taken by the pastor, Rev. C. L. Brown, who led the devotional period which opened the meeting.

A letter from Mrs. William Whitfield was read thanking the congregation for their remembrance to her. Mrs. Whitfield had resigned from the position of treasurer of the Women's Association after holding the office for twenty-seven years.

Mr. R. B. Elliott, in a few well chosen words, voiced his appreciation for their remembrance to him Mr. Elliott had been secretary of the congregation for twenty-five years.

The presentation of reports by representatives from the various church organizations showed that the church was in fine working order.

Mr. S. Fairbairn reported for the session showing that six had joined the church ,there had been one baptism, one death and three communion services. The membership of the church is one hundred and twenty-eight.

The Sunday school financial report, which showed the school to be in a flourishing condition, was given by R. B. Elliott. After paying all expenses and giving $46.00 to the missionary fund, the school closed the year with a balance of $34.15.

The W.M.S. report was given by the treasurer, Miss J. Schaeffer. This society has a membership of twenty-five and has raised $160, this being $10 above their allocation. Besides this two bales of clothing had been sent to the west.

Mrs. O. Murray, treasurer of the Women's Association, reported that society to have raised $196.43 and after paying expenses to the amount of $137.76 had closed the year with a balance of $58.67.

Miss Schaeffer reported for the Mission Band, of which she is the capable leader, showing that there was a membership of seventeen. Twelve meetings had been held, and $12.00 had been raised.

85 in Sunday School.

Mr Gordon MacIntosh gave the secretary's report for the Sunday school. It showed an average attendance for the year of 65, with a membership of 85. There were 34 diplomas presented for regular attendance.

The M. and M. treasurer, Mr. H. Young, reported receipts of $196.99, this being an increase of $20.99 over 1937.

The Springville Young People's report was given by Mr. Gordon Morrison. It showed that the society had raised $79.47 and after giving $11.65 to the M. and M. fund and paying expenses to the amount of $58.41 had closed the year with a balance of $19.41.

The church treasurer, Mr. R. Armstrong, reported that the church had met all its financial obligations for the year and closed the books with a slight balance.

The auditors' report, stating that the treasurer's book was correct and well kept was given by Mr. Fred Elliott.

The session was appointed a committee to secure speakers for the anniversary services to be held in June and October.

The retiring stewards, Messrs. A. Hunter, S. S. Staples and S. Connell were re-elected for a term of three years. Also the treasurer, R. Armstrong was made a steward.

After some discussion as to the advisability of holding a fowl supper this year, it was decided that the Women's Association and Board of Managers meet later in the season and make the decision.

Mr. Melville Johnson voiced the appreciation of the congregation of the splendid leeadrship and service given during the year by the Rev. C. L. and Mrs. Brown. He spoke briefly on the progress that had been made in the various departments of the church and said that this in itself was a tribute to the pastor and his wife. He also thanked the different officers for their assistance and co-operation.

This concluded a very successful congregational meeting and it was closed by the Mizpah benediction.

Egypt's Sacred Carpet Goes To Mecca

Annually the mahmal or sacred carpet of Egypt is taken from Cairo, Egyptian capital, to the Holy City of Mecca, and this year, for the first time, youthful King Farouk attended the solemn ceremony that accompanies its departure for Arabia. Religious and political leaders of Egypt are seen here leading the caparisoned camel that carries on its back the sacred carpet.

Churches Fail To Keep Faith With The West

Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson, rector of St. John's Anglican Church voiced regret at the annual Vestry meeting of the parishioners Monday night at the fact the parish had fallen down on the allotment to the Diocesan Synod fund. He expressed the opinion that there were many in the parish who were well able to give more generously to this particular fund but who were unwilling to do so.

The financial statement for the past year showed a slight deficit and Canon Robertson during the course of his remarks said the only increase in salary made during the year was a slight increase to the sexton which he felt was amply justified.

Canon Robertson said also that it was a most regrettable state of affairs that so many large parishes within the Toronto diocese were defaulting on the allotments, and he charged the churches were not keeping faith with those in the west, in several of which the clergyman's total income was sixty dollars a month.

Arthur Bacon, a member of the congregation remarked that perhaps the reason the collections were down was due to the fact so many of the parishioners were on relief, and unable to give.

In reply Canon Robertson made it clear the Church did not expect the people in straitened circumstances and on relief to contribute to the Church, and he added "I am well aware of the poverty which exists in the parish, perhaps better aware than any person else with the possible exceptio nof my colleague, Rev. Brain.

"With the class of people to whom I refer it is not a case of being unable to give, but rather one of being unwilling to give," said Canon Robertson.

D. G. H. Melton, was named Church's Warden and Fred Hills, the People's Warden, the two exchanging positions. Auditors are, E. S. J. Martin and A. L. Stedham. Roy Thompson was named Vestry Clerk for anotheer term. Lay delegates to fo ranother term. Lay delegates to Charles Coleman,- R. T. E. Hicks Lyne, Dr. G. S. Cameron, Bert Graham. Alternate delgates aree C. G. Graham, W. R. Thompson, Col. Arthur Stevenson, W. C. Ackerman, and Barry Ottewell.

Rev. Williams In Farewell Sermon Packs Millbrook Church

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 1 — Grace Presbyterian church was filled to capacity on Sunday evening, for the farewell service of Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A., who is leaving this week for his new charge at Avonton, near Stratford, after eight years as minister of the combined charges of Centreville and Millbrook.

St. Andrew's United church withdrew its evening service out of compliment to the special occasion in a sister church, the pastor, Rev. A. L. Sisco, being assosciated with Rev. Mr. Williams on the pulpit platform, and assisting with the service, offering the prayer, and reading the lesson from 1st Corinthians, 13th Chapter.

In his sermon, which was of a most impressive, and deeply spiritual character, Mr. Williams emphasized three points, the theme being "The Christians Three Degree."

"The B.A., or 'born again' degree, the Christian may obtain from God's word, studying under the beloved Dean, the Saviour, and every true follower of Jesus Christ has this through faith; a degree in geology, for which the text, "Thou are Peter, and upon this rock shall I build my church', is a very simple degree, it too is obtained through faith in Christ as the Rock of Salvation; then there is the degree of theology, based upon the words spoken by the thief on the cross, 'Lord, remember me when Thou comest into Thy Kingdom.' Confession of personal sin, and need of a Saviour, will bring this degree. Lastly, neology, brings us to the text, 'All things, whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive!' To try and live the christian life without prayer is like trying to sail a ship without a rudder. Water on the knees from praying is to be preferred to water on the brain from high living."

In concluding his sermon, Mr. Williams spoke appreciatively of the harmony between the three churches of the community which he had enjoyed during his pastorate; his pleasant associations with his own people, and with all others in the community and countryside; his best wishes for the welfare of the charge which he was leaving, with many happy memories of services rendered, and given, and of his earnest hope that under a new minister there should be growth and prosperity, especially of a spiritual character.

Immediately the choir sang, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and the service was dismissed with the blessing.

Mrs. Williams Honored

Following the service, at the invitation of the Ladies Aid Society, adjournment was made to the basement, when Miss Ruth Thorndyke read an address, and on behalf of the women of the congregation, Mrs. S. E. Eakins and Miss Mina Gibson presented Mrs. Williams with a handsome salad bowl, and her mother, Mrs. Jones, with a lovely Ascot scarf. Both made suitable reply, and the gathering dispersed with many expressions of personal regret at losing two such willing and efficient workers from the society.

A special feature of the Sunday School session in the afternoon had been the presentation of a fine electric clock to Mrs. Williams, Mrs. J. R. Thompson reading the address, and Miss Margaret Armstrong offering the gift. The clock was in two tones of white and blue, and entirely of glass. Gratitude for the timely remembrance was feelingly expressed.

POLIDENT CHANGES FALSE TEETH CLEANING FROM A PROBLEM TO A PLEASURE

Do your stained plates shout— "FALSE TEETH"?

Keep them sweet and purified —clean as new—with POLIDENT

Why let tell-tale stains or "denture breath" tell the whole world your teeth are false? Learn what a real pleasure they can be when kept clean and purified like new . . . sweeter, cooler, more comfortable and hygienic—with Polident.

Prevent Denture Breath

Even worst old stains, deposits, tarnish and odors are dissolved away right before your eyes! No brushing, acid or danger. Millions use Polident daily and call it a blessing for comfort and convenience. Leading dentists everywhere recommend it for all who wear a plate or removable bridge.

Try Polident today and see what a difference it makes. At all drugstores—3 oz. can 40¢—7 oz. can 75¢. And your money back if not delighted.

PLATES FEEL BETTER — Polident prevents sore gums due to unclean dentures. Plates feel cooler and more comfortable — your mouth fresher and sweeter.

BREATH IS SWEETER — Offensive breath is so common among denture wearers that dentists call it "denture breath". Polident prevents denture breath.

WORKS LIKE MAGIC

Keep plates sweet, clean and purified by doing this daily: Add a little Polident powder to ½ glass water. Stir. Then put in plate or bridge for 10 to 15 minutes. Rinse—and it's ready to use.

Time To Tune Them Out

What is the reason for Hitler making his much-heralded addresses in Berlin? And why is Mussolini doing the same thing from Italy?

The answer is they know the democratic world will tune in and listen. If Hitler has a veiled threat which he desires to make he knows well enough that groups of interested people in all parts of the world will be grouped around radios listening to it. If he has something which will scare or impress the world then he is going to do it.

And it is the same with Mussolini. We have no doubt before he speaks Hitler knows what he is going to say. Mussolini knows too that the radio has opened the world to him and he makes the most of his opportunity.

If either of these individuals knew they would be talking to their own people and no others they would do mighty little broadcasting, for there is nothing they have to say to the folk at home which they have not previously heard.

The world is probably becoming accustomed to living in the atmosphere created by Hitler-Mussolini, but we would like to see a policy tried out by which the radio stations of the world would not play so unerringly into the hands of the two men whose purpose it apparently is to keep their own nuisance value up to the top point. There is such a thing as keeping the people informed of what is going on in the world, and there is also a condition where the trouble makers are given too great a scope in trying to keep the world in a state of turmoil by shouting at all the people telling of what they may do, while they know well enough they may not do it.

Small wonder that Hitler-Mussolini love the radio service of the world. It is doing for them exactly what they want it to do. They have rather overstayed their welcome and the time to tune them out is at hand.

Signing a Petition

Perhaps people feel better after having signed a petition for something or other. Mr. Lacroix, who comes from Montmorency in Quebec, presented one to the House of Commons a few days ago and it is said to have been signed by 127,000 people.

The burden of the petition was that there should be no lowering of the immigration barriers which regulate the entrance of people to the Dominion of Canada.

Just what got their wind up we do not know unless it was the various reports which have been issued about refugees from Europe seeking asylum in various countries of the world where they might be free from persecution.

But there has been no lowering of immigration regulations in this country. They are today the same as they have been for the last 25 years.

Apparently all that was necessary was the suggestion that some drastic change was to be made and Quebec felt a spell of the jitters coming on. We doubt whether many of the 127,000 who signed that petition had any fixed idea of what they were doing. That is the way of most petitions and that is why they receive such little attention.

Many Of Them Guess

It has happened so many times that there is nothing unusual because it has happened again. We refer to the conflicting idea people hold regarding the speed of a moving object.

There is a case up for trial in Toronto and the speed of a street car came into the evidence. It is recorded that Col. A. C. Pratt, an eye-witness of the accident, said: "I think the speed of the street car was quite excessive."

The next witness was John D. Reid, a passenger on the street car and he considered the street car was proceeding toward the intersection at a moderate speed.

We can recall court actions where the speed of a motor car has been placed at anything from 22 to 43 miles an hour. It was the same car of which people were speaking, and it was travelling at only one speed. Truth seems to be that an individual cannot tell the speed of a car or a street car or anything else by looking at it. Obviously much of such testimony is useless in seeking to arrive at a fair decision.

Now For The Rest Of It

Now that the radio inspectors have been busy in this city and other places in the district and have rounded up a number of individuals who were not in possession of licenses to operate receiving sets, we hope it will not be considered the task is completed.

The man who pays a fine and also buys a license is surely entitled to something for his expenditure. Something better than he has been receiving.

Only a few days ago a reporter from this paper started getting interviews from people telling what they thought about the radio reception and programs which were being carried. There was no trouble in securing such statements and almost invariably the opinion was that service in this city was bad. One gentleman went to the extent of calling it lousy.

Now that the sinners have been rounded up let the curative and kindly services of the department deal with interference and poor reception.

Headed For Failure

Dr. K. P. R. Neville, registrar of the University of Western Ontario, admits he has a task which he does not particularly enjoy. The results of the half-year examinations at the university have been made known and those who have fallen too low will be informed they will have to leave the school. Those who come below the 50 per cent. mark in half the subjects go in that classification, although exceptions are made in the case of scholars whom the faculty believe can do better.

Dr. Neville explains that those who are taken out by that process are not fitted for university training. They would never make a success in the work they are trying to follow. It is interesting to learn that a number of such students never had a clear-cut idea of why they started work at the university. Some of them came along for the social activities and never had any intention of doing serious work, and they will be as great a problem to their parents as they have been to the university. They can be "spotted" within a week or so and the school is glad enough when the time comes to see them depart. In this assortment are found the clowns and the cut-ups, the smart chaps and so on, and the registrar admits things go on much better after they have departed as they are never a credit to the place.

Experience of other years has convinced Dr. Neville that there will always be the same outlook on the part of these scholars. They are always granted a personal interview, when it is explained to them that they should try something else in life, and always there are the same answers from the departing students. There are some who will have recourse to a few tears, others will be abusive, but the majority will say "I've always been picked on anyway." There is not likely to be one in the entire group who will admit that he is at fault or that he has muffed his chance through his own nonsense. Always is the blame elsewhere, and a young man who is starting out with that feeling is due for a rough journey and a poor one. He has the ingredients of failure in him in large measure. The sad part is that the check-up he received at the university will not serve its full purpose. It will not cause him to see that the cause of his trouble is himself.

A Silly Old Custom

Robert Smeaton White, M.P., Montreal, does not think much of the prevalent custom in the House of Commons by which all speakers taking part in the debate on the reply to the address from the throne begin by offering their congratulations to the mover and seconder of that address. Mr. White has seen much of parliamentary life. He was born in Peterborough 83 years ago and first entered the House of Commons in 1883. After an absence of some years he went back in 1925 and has been there since.

Mr. White says the manner in which there is constant reference made to the fine speeches of the mover and seconder is "becoming ridiculous and childish." The Examiner agrees. Looking over a few copies of Hansard one finds how prevalent is the custom. D. A. McNiven of Regina used about 40 lines to commend "the hon. members who moved and seconded the address." And moving and seconding means that these gentlemen formally launched the debates which opened the deluge of orations and much small talk. A. J. Brooks managed it in seven lines, while H. C. Green of Vancouver South raised the limit to 17.

R. M. Warren of North Renfrew did it in 9 lines, while G. E. Wood of Brant managed it in a total of 7. Even so experienced a man as Hon. W. D. Euler filled 11 lines with congratulations, and A. G. McAvity of St. John-Albert had the condenser working so he got through with four lines. W. H. Golding of Huron-Perth had congratulations for several people, but found time to devote 8 lines to the mover and seconder. H. B. McKinnon of Kenora-Rainy River ran a similar score, and A. A. Brown of Hamilton East, if he cares to make a count will find he used the unusual number of 13 lines in extending congratulations. But J. A. Bradette of Cochrane was just bubbling over with the spirit of felicitation and he could not give utterance to it all in anything short of 39 lines.

Miss Agnes MacPhail first entered the House in 1921 and has been there since, so she has seen a number of sessions come and go. Apparently the first lady member is not much taken with the old custom of congratulations. She has a technique in address which is very much her own. Quoting from Hansard we give this example:

Mr. Speaker: I intend to lump my congratulations. I offer them to the mover (Mr. Matthews) and the seconder (Mr. Chevrier) of the address in reply, to the new leader of the Conservative party (Mr. Manion) and to the new members, although I think I should offer condolences rather than congratulations."

And that at least was a break in the dull monotony of offering congratulations which are so stereotyped that they lack meaning and sincerity. We are convinced that Mr. White is right and that the custom is "ridiculous and childish."

The Place To Start

W. H. Golding, M.P. for Huron Perth, brought an old bone into an address in the House of Commons when "he deplored carping, destructive personal criticism of men in public life, and saw in it discouragement to getting the right type of citizens in politics."

We believe that sort of thing is rather over-stated. If there is one place where it is indulged in it is right in the place where Mr. Golding was speaking. Criticism there is often destructive and the reason is that one political party is trying to bring about the downfall of another.

Members of the House have privilege in what they say. There have been statements made there many times which if uttered outside the House would have made splendid openings for suit for slander.

Our newspapers do not as a rule indulge in personal abuse of public men; our feeling is that they use them very decently, and when there is criticism offered it is fair and directed toward what these men are doing rather than toward the men themselves.

If Mr. Golding has a plan to correct the situation then he has a good field in which to work right where he is in the House of Commons.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The sad man moans something about it being a long winter, but the bright fellow mentions that each day is one closer to the coming of spring.

When the radio announcer can think of nothing else to say he tells you for the 28th time the name of the station to which you are tuned.

Montreal minister says it is all right to ski on Sunday if people go to church first. Trouble with skiing is when a person gets a start everything is allowed to slide.

One bandit is blamed for five hold-ups in Windsor during one night. His total cash return was $1.30, showing that there is at least one bandit who needs to take some instruction in the fine art of selection.

Representative Fish at Washington said President Roosevelt had so scared the people with war talk that women were looking under the bed for a spy before retiring at night. And of course all they ever find is a little dust.

A farmer in Gananoque district is charged with lighting a fire under a team of horses when they were stuck with a heavy load. Perhaps there is no way to prevent such an individual from owning a team of horses, but there ought to be.

Reeve John Crawford of Caradoc Township in Middlesex walked six miles to attend a council meeting when he found roads so bad his car would not run. It was not so stated in the story but we take it that the distance home would also be six miles.

Jim Curran of the Sault Star says he has received a shiny little button which indicates he has been named a deputy game warden. He admits he has always wanted to be a Justice of the Peace. That would look nice in print, J. W. Curran, J.P., but in the meantime he will refer to our splendid colleague in Algoma as J. W. Curran, D.G.W.

WEAK SPOT

(By A.R.K.)

¶ When I lived on Concession Ten, along with other youngish men, our ways were quiet and right; we never looked for trouble there, nor sniffed too much the midnight air, nor stayed out most all night.

¶ If there were bills which should be paid, no bailiff had to make a raid, or camp upon the stoop; no constable came on the run, or pointed at a man a gun, or locked him in the coop.

¶ The only thing that wasn't straight, to tell the thing I hesitate, it fills me with remorse; the men left truthful words aside, when they got settled in their stride, at trading off a horse.

¶ Good men they were at other stuff, of truth they couldn't tell enough, nor were they crude or coarse; but they said things they shouldn't say, when they stepped out upon the day, that they would trade a horse.

¶ A horse might have the heaves quite bad, the look upon his eyes be sad, he might have spavins too; but goodly men would downright swear, as how the horse was pretty fair, and solid through and through.

¶ Grandfather was a goodly man, his life mapped by a careful plan, nor was he loud or coarse; but even he would slip I know, on days he felt the urge to go—and trade an ancient horse.

Better Times Coming In West

From Parliamentary Reports

Mr. C. R. Evans, (Maple Creek Sask.): The unusual drought conditions during 1937 left all the cultivated land in the district tributary to Swift Current either in a drifting condition or in a condition which gave great concern and alarm. This was due chiefly to the fact that the crop seeded in the spring of 1937 failed to grow. With the exception of the scanty stubble carried over from 1936, the whole country was practically bare of vegetation cover of any kind.

Following severe drifting during the winter and summer and fall of 1937 the wind-swept prairie presented a horrible spectacle in the spring of 1938. Thousands of acres in a solid block were swept clear, and miniature deserts covering many thousands of acres could be found in many points in the southwest. The farmers individually were helpless, because any cultural work attempted was quickly destroyed by the wind and drifting soil from adjoining fields. It was evident that the co-operation of every farmer in the entire district would be necessary if drifting were to be stopped and the land seeded. It is in this respect that the agricultural improvement association proved a great help in solving the problem. Meetings were held and plans were laid which included the furrowing of entire areas on the same day. Whole families turned out to stake out the fields in eight-rod strips, and every kind of furrowing implement, from walking ploughs to the new steel lister, was used. By ploughing furrows at eight to ten rod intervals the drifting could be temporarily stopped. The land would then be quickly cultivated to bring the first lumps to the surface to prevent further soil drifting until crops on the alternate strips were established. Difficulties presented themselves, however, and it was frequently necessary after a severe storm to do the furrowing all over again. Furrows alone would not control drifting, and when a storm arose before the whole area was worked, furrows were completely filled. It was here that the organization proved its great value. Encouragement and support were needed to keep a large body of farmers working in the face of great difficulties. Special equipment and motor power were needed where suitable machines were lacking and power was insufficient. Agricultural improvement associations through the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act and the help of the experimental station at Swift Current were able to supply a limited quantity of this equipment. This helped the less fortunate of their members to fight the battle of the drifting soil to a successful conclusion. In all areas where the organized effort was supplied, the drifting was controlled and the crop established. Great credit is due to the farmers who cooperated so whole-heartedly in the face of almost insurmountable difficulties.

The agricultural improvement associations have been responsible for many new activities in southwestern Saskatchewan. To their credit they have the solution of the soil drifting problem. The experimental work carried on by the experimental station at Swift Current in cooperation with the agricultural improvement association members has laid the foundation for a successful soil drifting control program which will eventually bring all drifting soil under control. Therefore there is in southwestern Saskatchewan no dust bowl that cannot be controlled.

For just a few minutes I should like to say something about the Canada-United States trade agreement as it affects western Canada, particularly our live stock exports. Already this year we have shipped 17,702 cattle to the United States in comparison with 3,256 head last year. So it is plain to be seen that the reduction of one and one-half cents per pound on heavy cattle over 700 pounds is an inducement to the growers of cattle in Canada and particularly in western Canada to take advantage of the price of good beef cattle in the United States. During the first week of December of last year I had occasion to visit a big feeder in the southern part of the province who was feeding about 1,200 head of beef cattle. Those were all two and three year old steers, weighing 1,200 to 1,400 pounds. He had been feeding them from October 15, and he told me he expected to start shipping them to the United States on the first of January. A few days ago, I received a letter from this feeder telling me about seven carloads of cattle which he had shipped to Chicago at the first of the year and for which he had just received, returns. He estimated that on those cattle he saved about $6.50 per head freight, and his net profit, not including that, was about $20.50 over what he would have received on the Toronto market on the same day.

NICKEL FOR GERMANY.

APPROXIMATELY 90 per cent of the nickel used in the world now comes from Canada; 10 years ago the principal producing corporation, in the directorate of which citizens of the United States had previously been in the majority, was reorganized with a majority of British subjects as members, although the greater part of the investment remained in the ownership of citizens of this country. This shift in personnel was hailed as an astute move by the British for the reason that it put in their power control over the policy of the corporation and nickel is essential to the making of arms.

It is now reported that a deposit of nickel in Celebes Island, Netherlands East Indies, is to be developed by a Holland corporation, and it may be significant that the metal is to be extracted by a new process worked out by the Krupp establishment in Germany.

Twenty thousand tons of the Celebes ore were treated according to the new technique in the Krupp works in Germany and the results of the test are declared to have been "remarkably successful".—New York Sun.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

THIS FUSSY AGE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—What a pother is made in these days about a bit of a snow storm: one would think that snow storms were a thing of recent date only. The dailies of this morning are full of the very terrible snow fall with the attendant Northerly gale, which piled drifts high wide and handsome during the last twenty four hours. Hundreds of motorists caught on the snowbound roads, forced to abandon their cars and seek refuge in home, and hotels, and even in barns and school houses.

These motor cars in which folk like to swank around in, and in the lovely summer weather like to skin over the beautiful paved highways, are a pitiable sample of helplessness when they come up against a piled-up bank of the beautiful, which the winds, in frolic, have sifted through the fences and laid in beautiful wreaths across a cutting in the highway.

But for those of us who can look back some half a century, and recall the trudge in early morning to the little old red schoolhouse, at which all must put in appearance by nine o'clock or give a good reason why so late: some from a mile, some from two miles away: to us a puny storm such as we read such terrible reports of these days would not be offered as an excuse, and if offered not be received by the schoolmaster.

And the girls could take it with the boys. Some of the little scholars it is true would be missing, but among those who made the grade, there seemed to be a spirit of camaraderie engendered, and this even included the schoolmaster. As a consequence we all drew nearer the big wood stove, and enjoyed the day more than usually was the case. Lunch hour became a picnic, while the storm howled without.

When the farmers, who then owned the roads found the drifts too deep on the highway and sidelines, the fence was pulled down at a convenient spot and they took to crossing the farms, to a point where the road was again passable for a time; then take to the fields again. The people in those days could not understand why they should be beaten by a mere snow storm. They met it as they met all their other many difficulties, with a smile: got out the horse team and the sleigh, and armed with shovels went forth conquering and to conquer.

We can visualize some of those men, now grown grey, and not so sturdy, coming out of their comfortable farm homes on such a morning as this, looking away down the long stretch of highway on which they can see several buried motor cars. They will smile a reminiscent smile, turn up their coat collars, and go off to the barn to help with the chores. Let the government clear the roads—they own them now. Time marches on.

CITY TRUST FUNDS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—The editorial in the Peterborough Examiner on January 27th, 1939 which says that the surplus came into existence because the City Trust invested city sinking funds in securities which were earning more than the specified four per cent and the reserve was in that way established, is only partly correct.

The vast bulk of the City Trust monies came into being so that there is now a reserve of approximately $330,062.00 of the money of the ratepayers of the City of Peterborough held in the City Trust's hands, and which the City Trust has refused to use for the purpose of reducing the tax rate of the City of Peterborough.

The City Trust did allow to the council $20,000.00 to settle the Ackerman Company's lawsuit. It spent something like $12,000.00 for the rest-room and lavatory on the market square, but now it has found that it cannot give any money to the city even reduce its tax rate.

The requirements of the City Trust last year from the ratepayers amounted to $360,453.71 while the City Trust had a reserve of approximately $330,062.00.

The City Trust is limited by the Ontario Statutes of 1928, Chapter 104, Section 25 as follows:— "The said Commissioners shall on or before the first day of February in each year, and often if necessary, submit to the Council of the said City, a statement in writing showing the amount specially required (after giving credit for the amounts available for that purpose as herein provided) for payment of the interest and for the sinking funds, or for the annual payments on all debentures of the said City Corporation then outstanding.

It will be observed that the City Trust is required to give credit for the amounts available for the payment of interest and for sinking funds or the annual payments on all debentures when outstanding and the City Trust for many years has not done this so that the people of the City have had their monies used in accumulating this surplus which is increasing every year by the amount of interest on interest, and which will accumulate for the next several decades unless it is used for the reduction of taxation of the people of the city. The real fact is that the money has not been accumulated, as The Examiner stated, by the reason that there were increased interest earnings above four percent, except in a small measure, but the real accumulation took place by the demands being made by the City Trust upon the City Council for a levy without giving credit, which the City Trust should have done.

Yours Truly,
(G. N. GORDON)

RECENT EXCAVATIONS AND THE BIBLE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—The elaborate excavations conducted in the Holy Land with a view to finding out if the scriptural account is open to the textual linguistic, geographical, historical and chronological objections of the higher Critics has been finished down to the virgin soil from which history began.

The scriptures have been vindicated in every particular. There remains the question of "faith," that is whether what is recorded is only the imaginings of the Jewish critics or is evidence of man's communion with his Maker. That is a question of experience and the correspondence now crowding the newspapers regarding the "failure of the church" can as a consequence settle nothing.

The Rev. Dr. Woodside, the present moderator of a great church, confessed, following Mr. Bennett and "The New Outlook" that the "church has failed."

That this "confession" is being fiercely resented is a matter of course.

AN APPEAL

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Would you be so kind as to print this letter for me. You see—I have been confined to bed for over 3 years and realizing that a hobby or occupation of some kind might help relieve the monotony of this life I recently began to collect coins.

But under these conditions I find it rather hard to make any real progress on my new hobby and I wondered if some of your readers might not be willing to help me out.

Perhaps they have one or two old coins — medals or tokens hanging about for which they have no especial attachment and that they might be willing to part with.

I would gladly repay them for any expense incurred in mailing.

Thank you.

• Lad of 4 Flees From War Zone

By CHARLES FOLTZ
Associated Press Foreign Staff

PERPIGNAN, France — Pepito is only four, but he is one among the thousands who crossed mountains in rain and snow to escape the Spanish war, and he has a story to tell.

I came upon him last night at dusk at the foot of a gaint peak. He had halted there with the seven other persons he accompanied from Spain.

He was not very clear about his last name. He was just Pepito. His mother died along the road from Barcelona — of hunger, of weariness or perhaps of a wound she had received in the head.

Pepito kept on.

The women he was with last night said they looked around and there he was, trudging along. When they sat down to rest, Pepito sat down too.

They asked if he were lost.

No, he was not. He was just going to France.

So they brought him along.

Last night he did not know what he was going to do or where he was going.

He was just Pepito, he was only four and he had a soldier's hat that was too big and a watch that wouldn't run.

ONE AMONG 40,000

He was one among the 40,000 French authorities said have pushed into France since Barcelona fell to the insurgents last Thursday.

The French hope that all will return to their Catalonian homes when the danger of further fighting there is past, but in the meantime refugee camps are being established.

Soup kitchens rolled up to provide food. Pepito and his friends said they had not eaten for two days.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And Pilate, when he had called together the chief priests and the rulers and the people, said unto them, Ye have brought this man unto me, as one that perverteth the people: and, behold, I, having examined him before you, have found no fault in this man touching those things whereof ye accuse him. . . . I will therefore chastise him, and release him. . . .

But they cried, saying, Crucify him, crucify him. . . . And when they were come to the place, which is called Calvary, there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand, and the other on the left. . . .

Now upon the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre, bringing the spices which they had prepared, and certain others with them. And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre. And they entered in, and found not the body of the Lord Jesus.

And it came to pass, as they were much perplexed thereabout, behold, two men stood by them in shining garments: and as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here, but is risen. . . .

YOUNG MAN OF 21.

Under Dominion regulations the head of a family is allowed to claim exemption on income tax of $400 for each child under 21 years of age, while under the Manitoba regulations an exemption of $500 is allowed. At the age of 21 years these exemptions are withdrawn, even though the young adult may continue to be wholly dependent upon his or her parents.

The theory upon which the regulations are based is, of course, that children who attain the age of 21 should automatically become self-supporting. But under present day conditions that is far from being the general rule. In the first place there is a scarcity of jobs, and in the second place a much higher standard of education is required than formerly to secure a job that holds out any prospects for the future.

Many heads of families in the lower income groups complain, not unreasonably, that automatic withdrawal of the exemptions at the age of 21 comes at a time when their children are costing them the most to maintain.—Winnipeg Tribune.

OSHAWA JUNIOR 'B' GANG COPS A 5-0 WIN OVER LOCAL COLTS

Chiefs Outscore Sailors 5-4 In Final Rally

(By the Canadian Press.)

St. Catharines Chiefs, who have put on a great spurt in recent weeks, may yet attain their objective—a playoff berth in the senior "A" division of the Ontario Hockey Association. They were just one point away today.

The Chiefs edged out a 5-4 victory over Port Colborne Sailors on Sailor ice last night. The win gave the Chiefs a total of 16 points, one less than the fourth-place Sailors who hold the last playoff slot.

Meanwhile, Toronto's undefeated Goodyears met stout opposition from the reinforced Brantford Red Birds, cellar occupants, but emerged on the long end of an 8-6 score. Goodyears apparently used the game to improve individual scoring averages and forwards gave rearguards little protection at times.

Johnny O'Flaherty, crack Goodyear winger, collected a goal and two assists for a total of 35 points, one behind Les Chishalm of Oshawa who leads the league.

Don Metz of Toronto scored two goals and snared three assists to go into a tie for third place with his teammate Hank Goldup and old Goney McGowan of Port Colborne, each with 29 points. Goldup accounted for a goal and two assists against Chiefs.

McGowan Nearly Does It

McGowan, always plugging, nearly pulled the game from the fire for the Ports. With the Sailors behind three and three minutes of play remaining, he shifted his thin frame through the St. Kitts' rearguard for three goals—the hat trick. The first two were on combination efforts and Coney scored the last one alone at the 19-minute mark. That ended the spurt.

Goodyears, with one game to play before the season ends Feb. 10, can't be ousted from first place. They intend to finish the schedule undefeated and will be favorites to retain the league championship they won last year after a gruelling playoff series with Port Colborne.

Oshawa likely will finish in second place. They have 21 points, three more than the third-place Niagara Falls Brights. Brantford, with but one win this season, have no chance of staggering from the cellar.

Brantford presented five Hamilton City League players in the battle with Toronto. They were goalie Sherry, defenceman Red Dunn and forwards Jack Conick, Minovich and Cinor and they figured prominently in the scoring statistics.

Conick and Minovich each bagged a goal, Ebby Edmison with two, Tony Torti and Keith Cooper, accounted for the rest. Metz, with two, Dave Neville, Bill Grant, Bobby Laurent, Goldup, O'Flaherty and Shorty Robinson were the Toronto marksmen.

Neville, formerly of Montreal and a member of Canada's last Olympic hockey team, played his best game since joining the team several weeks ago. Besides scoring once, he accounted for two assists and will be in the peak of condition for the playoffs.

Port Colborne's three goals in the last minutes of play came during a St. Ktits' penalty. The other scorer was Gallinger on an assist from George Wade in the first period. Wade assisted McGowan on his first goal.

Arnold Rombough, with two, Joe Desson, Sammy Phillips, and Chuck Millman were the Chiefs' leaders. Eleven penalties were issued during the battle, including a misconduct to the fiery Upper. Leo Reise, former coach of the Brantford club, refereed the game.

Horning Opens Gulfstream Park As Direct Challenge To Hialeah

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Jack Horning, an amazingly stubborn young man, today opens the newest and gaudiest racing plant in the country, Gulfstream Park, with a program of eight races, and everybody is sitting back to see whether he loses his shirt.

The new establishment is, of course, opening right in the face of beautiful Hialeah Park, which still has the better part of a month of its season to run, and toward the last of its announced 40-day program will bump into Tropical Park's bid for the horse players.

Only 28 and flushed with energy, Horning has rushed his new plant to completion in two feverish months of night and day construction.

The track is situated only some 10 miles north of Miami on a four-lane highway, in the heart of Hollywood, Florida. Business houses of both Hollywood and nearby Fort Lauderdale declared half-holidays for the grand opening.

Horning admits his track won't attract the cream of the oat-burners this winter, but he's confident the class of runners will rise as the seasons roll on.

C.G.E. Cagers Are Defeated

COBOURG, Ont., Feb. 1—(CP).—Cobourg "Gradettes" last year provincial ladies' basketball champions continued their series of victories this season by defeating Peterborough C.G.E. 43-31 at Cobourg last night in an Ontario Ladies Basketball game. Highest scorer of the game was M. Wood of Peterborough who scored 17 points. Alma Riley, of Cobourg, was high scorer for the locals with 13 points. Cobourg scored 26 in the first half and 17 in the second, while Peterborough had nine in the first and 22 in the second.

Lineups:

Cobourg: Young ,Page, Riley, K. Throop, Ovens, Shorey, Thompson, McDonell, D. Thropp, Wilkins and Stewart.

Peterborough: Hallahan, Nolan, Hodson, Foster Bartley, Wood, McCarthy, Mann.

Ski Notes

On Monday evening the executive and technical board of the Ski Club held a joint meeting to further plans for the Ontario Provincial Championships, to be held here February 11th and 12th. All details have been worked out and the committees appointed are now hard at work making the necessary preparations.

This will be the biggest meet we have ever had here and in order to put it over in the traditional Peterborough manner we will need plenty of assistance. So, if you are asked to lend a hand, please cooperate with us to the best of your ability.

Another way in which you can cooperate, if you have not already done so, is in the small matter of club fees. There are still a few taking advantage of the club's properties and facilities who have overlooked this item. We like to see everybody skiing—the more the merrier—but there are certain expenses involved in maintaining these facilities for your enjoyment. So call in and see the secretary, Lahring Parsons. She'll be glad to give you a receipt and a club badge.

The regular run scheduled for Thursday evening will this week be held at Nassau instead of Jackson Park. You'll enjoy skiing under the floodlights and the social committee will be on hand to satisfy the "inner man." There is good skiing at Nassau and the jump must be prepared for the club championship jumping, which will definitely be held next Saturday afternoon. We mean "definitely" this time. There is plenty of snow now and with a little packing and stamping the jump should be in first class shape on Saturday.

We had distinguished visitors at Bethany on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hall and Mr. Ross Larway. Fred is president of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, and Ross is honorary secretary. They were both enthusiastic about the courses we have laid out for the provincial championships. Fred will be back again as one of the officials for that meet and we appreciate his advance visit and his approval of our "set-up."

We have received complaints that the telephone system installed to time the races at Bethany is being used for commercial purposes. During a lull in the proceedings over the week-end the official timer was asked to secure a quotation on hogs. How about it, "Red"?

RUGBY IN EGYPT

CAIRO, Egypt — (CP). — The Queen's Own Hussars won the Army Command Rugby Cup for the second year in succession, beating the 3rd Regiment, Royal Horse Artillery, 14-3.

England's Champion Jockey Expert Curler

Perennial king of England's jockeys and greatest rider since the days of the immortal Fred Archer, Gordon Richards is also a winter sports enthusiast and is seen here on the curling rink at St. Moritz, Switzerland. He is said to be a better than average devotee of the "soop 'er up" art and here he gets the stone away for a good shot.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Comes a squib from Sarnia: "The football outlook has undergone a change since the 1938 season wound to a close. Several things, nebular and otherwise, have bobbed up to dispel some of the gloom that clouded things when Bummer Stirling announced his retirement. Eastern Canada football is in an unsettled state right now. The Big Six idea, despite denials from most of the centres concerned, is far from a dead issue. Hamilton, one of the clubs that held out with Argos, is reported to be weakening, and Montreal may get around their two-club difficulty and merge if the amalgamation idea goes through. Ottawa has favored the idea for some time. If the Big Six doesn't materialize, there may be fireworks at the next annual O.R.F.U. meeting. Senior, intermediate and junior clubs have axes to grind and the DeGruchy-Bailey regime may encounter strong and organized opposition over many controversial points."

* * * * * *

Tomorrow, which is Thursday, sees the local Aces and Lindsay tangle in a district puck fray—with an O.H.A. affiliation—out in Omemee. Aces are the strong squad in this circuit, and should about cop the duke, we believe. Omemee have an exhibition tilt at Oakwood tonight. By the way, the McNevin Trophy tournament at Omemee will be Feb. 8-9-10 this winter, with teams expected from all over Victoria and Haliburton counties, places like Haliburton, Kinmount, Lindsay, Woodville, Oakwood, Omemee, etc. The Haliburton Huskies—famed in that rugged hockey territory—will probably bring an excursion train down for the tourney.

* * * * * *

They Stayed At Home

Another 1,800 or more fans and the Brock would have been packed last night as the local Monarchs copped an 8-3 junior win over Port Hope. The puck customers aren't going for the junior games, at least so far—saving their shekels for the senior scraps—but they may get wise to hockey action when the junior playoffs roll around. When and if. The Monarchs kept in the running for a playoff berth in their "C" group with their first win—though they had a tie before and against the strong Scugog squad—and they earned it. Looked a lot better than the Hopers all the way. More speed and a neater passing style over most of the route.

* * * * * *

The game was fast but the hockey only fair, resembling plain shinny at times. And rather rough for juniors, with two free-for-alls breaking out among the puckists. We liked the work of Rochetta, Mackness, Connelly and Beggs especially for the winners, but the rest turned in a good effort, too. The Monarchs are just up from the Junior City League this winter—and our opinion is that it'll take 'em another season to really click in junior O.H.A. company. Some fine young players but the team as a whole won't go very far this semester, we fear. The Hopers tried hard, but roughed it up too much for their own good, and were also somewhat outclassed. Monarchs play in Lindsay on Friday and have one more home game in the schedule.

* * * * * *

Off To Bad Start

Our junior "B" Colts were blanked 5-0 in Oshawa last eve in the first of a double home-and-home series to declare an O.H.A. junior "B" team for playdowns in Central Ontario. Colts worked hard and had practically as much of the play in a streamlined and hard-hitting joust, but lacked luck in great big gobs. Classy Motor City lads—made up of last year's Ontario juvenile champs, a couple of good imports and two 1938 Memorial Cup finalists—slipped a goal in behind Baker in the first, one more in the second and then three in the third, though one was a fluke. Parnell, Williams, Foster and Wade went best for the Jackson gang, but all the boys will have to hustle in the return fixture here next Tuesday. Though they're not licked yet, by any means.

* * * * * *

Only hockey game here this week now is the senior "B" setto on Friday at the Brock. It's the final fray of the schedule in Peterborough, Trenton Fliers and the Petes tangling. Is important from two angles, first being that the Fliers right now are fighting to make a playoff berth—Belleville threatening to squeeze in there ahead of 'em—and second being the Petes want to hold onto the top run so as to have the right to name the rink for the first playoff tilt. As it'll also be a nifty puck session (all Fliers-Petes' games are), we imagine the customers will come out again in droves.

* * * * * *

The Petes Had Polish

Praising the polish of the Petes in the last win, the Quinte columnist adds: "Monday night the Petes were really hot. Frank Buckland's charges forced the Fliers to carry the play and then Harding pushed 'em aside with some exceptionally fine saves in the clutches. But he was given fine aid by the efforts of McNulty, Weir, Kingdon, Tompkins and Creighton, who apparently play much better hockey on the road than they do in the Brock St. rink. Maybe another year Peterborough might get into the swim and join the cities with an artificial ice rink." Maybe we might, who knoweth?

And a bit of basketball. Cobourg Gradettes copped an L.O.B.A. win over our C.G.E. lassea, 43 to 31, in a wide-open cage contest last night in Cobourg. Electrics made it a fine fight, and M. Wood led both teams in scoring with 17 points. Up at the P.C.I. gym, Westclox damseis nosed out a 6-5 verdict over Y.W.C.A., a last-second point spelling the difference. Tonight at 6-30 in the Collegiate, Quaker Maids meet C.G.E., while Thursday there at that time sees the Quaker Debs and St. John's tangling. Three Bowmanville teams play school hoop fixtures at P.C.I. this Friday. While three senior men's tussles will be held Saturday e'en in the Y.M.C.A. court.

Hither and yawn: Lindsay juvenile puckists took a firm grip on top place in their group with a 5-1 win at home over Lakefield last eve.... Oshawa intermediates smothered Port Hope, 13-1, to even their series last night....Local Aces and Lindsay clash at Omemee on the morrow.... Conny Smythe, Leafs' fiery little pilot, is 44 years old today....Monarchs' draw prizes last p.m. went to: C. H. Wilton at Grand Hotel, H. Arnold in the Barrie Building, and Clare Brady, Jr. of 175 Douro St.....Sutton intermediates meet Whitby tonight, and Bowmanville juniors go to Lindsay ....Skiing at Nassau under floodlights tomorrow in the gloaming, but no jumping....Lacrosse didn't last long in Los Angeles and now the Canuck players are under C.L.A. suspension....Police didn't lose time halting two puck fights at the Brock last eve; and a Port Hope rooter who came out on the ice was told off in a big way....We've got those "That's All There Is, There Isn't Any More" blues—buh-buh-buh—blooooos!

Westclox Girls Win Close One

A free throw, dropping through the basket with the fraction of a second left to play gave Westclox Girls their second one-point win in the last four days, when they defeated "Y" Gym 6-5 in the Collegiate Gym, last night. It was a close struggle from beginning to end, the losers having a one-point lead at half time, outscoring Westclox 3-2 in the eight first half. It was 5-all at the three-quarter mark and through the last period neither team could score till C. Whatman, going in for a pass under the 'Y' girls' basket, was fouled. She made the point, even as the game ended, and gave the Westclox squad their winning margin. Checking was very close by both teams and neither squad had many shots from close in. A. Flynn and M. Allison had field goals for the winners, while C. Whatman made two free throws and S. Zakos had a basket and two free throws, while L. Ellis had a free throw for the "Y" squad.

C. Whatman and M. Pammett were best for the Westclox, while R. Sullivan and S. Zakos starred for the losers.

Westclox.—A. Flynn, M. Hawthorne, M. Pammett, V. Britnell, J. Crowe, C. eMtcalfe, J. Hair, M. Allison, C. Whatman, M. Goldie.

"Y" Gym.—S. Zacks, M. O'Brien, B. DeMaio, D. Pearson, V. Sullivan, R. Sullivan, S. Florence, S. Zakos, L. Ellis.

Referee—J. Dundas.

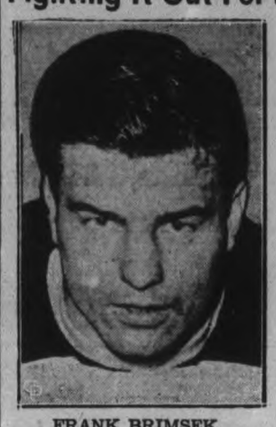
Fighting It Out For Shutouts



FRANK BRIMSEK

TURK BRODA

Staging a great battle for shutout honors in the National League this season are Frank Brimsek, sensational rookie with Boston Bruins, and Walter (Turk) Broda, of Toronto Maple Leafs. They are tied for top place at the moment with seven apiece, although Brimsek's play has been more consistent and his goals-against average is better. Broda blanked the enemy six times last season to take third place in this department, while Frankie, of course, had not then been sprung on the N.H.L. public. Dave Kerr, of Rangers, last year's shutout leader, is two behind the Bruin and Leaf twine-tenders.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—The baseball hold-out season officially opens today, but where are they?....The crop is scarcer than grade A, B or C opponents for Joe Louis....Ever since Lou Gehrig crossed everybody up by holding forth instead of out, the boys have been beating the ground hog to it by scampering back into their holes on the double....Joe Strip and Van Mungo are sticking around, but they've hollered wolf so often nobody bothers to see what the noise is about.

Fight Manager Eddie Mead hits town tomorrow and you can look for an Armstrong-Montanez or Armstrong-Ambers announcement any time thereafter....The Don Mead legion took a shellacking at Hialeah Monday....Six losers in six races put the ace jock one up on Tommy Farr....Tiger Jack Fox, the light heavyweight, is having weight trouble.

A big ten basketball coach was having trouble getting a prize prospect past the academic department....A research paper on which a great deal would depend, was required of the athlete....The coach promptly got the kid a finished paper....Instead of copying it the youngster handed it in as was.... The pay-off came when the Prof., a bit doubtful of the handwriting, asked the boy the topic of the paper ....You guessed it, the boy didn't know and the teacher pressed the button which summoned the bouncer.

Promoter Mike Jacobs, who usually can spot a hit or a hitter from around the corner, is kicking himself because he turned down a fourth interest in "Helizapoppin" for $20,000....The show is the No. 1 Broadway hit....A Los Angeles sports writer who drove Max Baer to his Hollywood hotel, says there are some pretty good looking wrens around the lobby, but Max didn't even look at 'em....Arriving in the film capital, Max said: "They tell me Hollywood is full of hams already, so I don't see how my coming there could make the situation much worse."

Mrs. Doug Davis Captures Bailey Trophy

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Doug. Davis' rink defeated Miss Dell Watson's foursome by a score of 10 to 8, to carry of the bailey Trophy which comes up for competition annually amongst the members of the Lakefield Ladies' Curling Club. Play in the competition commenced immediately following completion of the ladies' open 'spiel and has just been completed.

This year five rinks entered the series—each playing four games. Mrs. D. Davis and Miss Odelle Watson tied for first place on the list—each with there wins to her credit—thus necessitating a play-off game.

The results of the series follow:

Mrs. G. Graham, 6; Mrs. D. H. Charlton, 3.

Miss O. Watson, 7; Mrs. D. Davis, 5.

Mrs. F. Wannamaker, 10; Mrs. G. Graham, 5.

Mrs. D. H. Charlton, 10; Miss O. Watson, 5.

Mrs. D. Davis, 14; Mrs. F. Wannamaker, 1.

Mrs. D. Davis, 18; Mrs. Charlton, 3.

Miss O. Watson, 16; Mrs. F. Wannamaker, 6.

Mrs. D. H. Charlton v. Mrs. F. Wannamaker (not played).

Mrs. D. Davis, 8; Mrs. G. Graham, 6.

The Play-Offs:

Miss Margaret Sanderson, Mrs. J. R. Hull, Mrs. George Spence, Mrs. Douglas Davis (skip), 10.

Mrs. J. McKerchar, Mrs. R. C. Chittick, Mrs. J. R. Knox, Miss O Watson (skip), 8.

Stores Dept. Wins C.G.E. Puck Tilt

The Stores Department of the C.G.E. won their second straight in a hard-fought exhibition puck match late last night in the Brock, defeating the Planing Dept. 7 to 5. Primeau, Menzies and Pilling were best for the winners; while Masters, Waston and O'Brien looked good for the other side. Westran swung a potent club, too. The boys in the midnight loop believe they will yet wean the public away from motion pictures. The players:

Norway shipped over 550,000 gallons of medicinial codliver oil to the United States last year.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

The high light in last night's curling was the win registered by T. Mackay's rink. After losing six straight schedule games his rink finally hit the pay-off station at the expense of Eb. Taylor's quartette. The double-headers will continue this evening.

Our club is represented to-day at the Lindsay bonspiel with rinks skipped by G. Cairns and B. Scott, and at Oshawa R. F. Downey and J. H. Sedgwick are piloting two local rinks.

Harry Foote, the popular secretary of our club, was welcomed back by the boys last evening, after a month's illness.

Scores:

J. Sedgwick 18, G. Matthews 8.

T. Mackay 18, W. E. Taylor 4.

J. Mayneord 10, E. Thomas 6.

T. Holyman 13, R. Bacon 9.

R. Best 14, E. Metcalfe 8.

W. Widdess 14, G. Cairns 13.

Hunting Milk

BRANTFORD, Ont., Feb. 1. —(CP).—H. E. (Harry) Gignac, formerly of Brantford, and president and general manager of the Purity Milk Dairy, Windsor, made a hurried descent upon Brant county today to buy milk to relieve a serious milk famine in Windsor, caused by a snow-blockade. Mr. Gignac said he had been successful in obtaining a considerable quantity from producers in Burford and St. George areas.

"I'm buying all I can get and hope it will reach 250 cans," he said.

Bat Home Three In The Third Of Lively Tilt

OSHAWA, Feb. 1.—In a fast and peppy 'nightcap" of a twin bill here last night Oshawa's entry in the O.H.A. Junior "B" race blanked Peterborough Colts by 5-0.

It was the first game of a home and home double series to decide which club will represent the district in provincial playdowns.

Not until the final frame when the visiting pucksters from the Liftlock City faded under the breezy pace which was set, did the homesters definitely take the upper hand. In the first two periods play was fairly even with the Motor City squad having a slight edge in territorial play but actually having no more dangerous scoring chances than did their opposition.

Finally Score

While Berwick was serving a penalty in the first of the game, Oshawa managed to finally break through the determined defence play put up by the Colts. During a scramble McMaster took a pass from Peters and coming out in front of the net, backhanded the puck into the strings.

In the second period just as the halfway mark Fraser broke up a Peterborough attack, countered with a rush that resulted in a goal, when he passed the disc over to Wilson and the latter nicked a small gap in Baker's armour to make it 2-0.

In the third period, the homesters won going away. An early goal in the period settled the issue beyond doubt, Peters getting it when his attempted passout from behind the net, hit the goalie's skate and glanced across the line. Daniels sizzled a shot past Baker on Yourth's pass to make it 4-0 and with only one second left to play, McMullen lifted the puck in when Baker failed to smother after a hectic scramble in which Yourth and Daniels both figured.

Came Close

Despite a penalty to Oshawa in this frame, the visitors could not score, although they did everything else but that. Phillips in the nets for the winners, turned in a sterling game, but Fraser, burly rear guard for Oshawa, was best man on the ice. His body checking wrought havoc with Peterborough attackers and Murphy also joined in this art. Up front Wilson, Yourth and Peters were best for Oshawa, while Parnell, Williams, Foster and Wade were the pick of the Peterborough forwards.

Baker played well in the nets and Berwick turned in some nice rushes from his own blue line. As a team the "Petes" didn't quite have the brand of speed sustained by the homesters and their passes did not click as well.

The teams:

Peterborough: Goal, Baker; defence, Berwick and Curtin; centre, Wade; wings, McDonald and Foster; alternates, Williams, Stewart, Pammett, Parnell and Craig.

Oshawa: Goal, Phillips; defence, Fraser and Murphy; centre, Wilson; wings, Reid and Peters; alternates, McMullen, McMaster, Daniels, Morris and Yourth.

Referee—Ernie Wortley, Toronto.

Summary:

First Period

Oshawa—McMaster (Peters) ..12.00

Penalty—Berwick.

Second Period

Oshawa—Wilson (Fraser) 9.45

Penalties—Peters, McDonald and Wilson.

Third Period

Oshawa—Peters (Wilson) 1.10

Oshawa—Daniels (Yourth) 9.40

Oshawa—McMullen (Yourth, Daniels) 19.59

Penalty—McMullen.

MONARCHS COP FIRST WIN WITH 8-3 DECISION OVER PORT HOPE

Locals Earn Verdict Handily On Speed And Passing In Lively Junior Puck Tilt

Monarchs marched through Port Hope for an 8-3 junior O.H.A. victory at the Brock St. rink last night, their first win of the season. They kept in the running for a playoff berth with a clear-cut decision before a small crowd of fans. It was a lively fray, featured by two free-for-all fights, with the police restoring order.

Coach Pete Vitarelli's gang had too much speed and passing ability for their rivals, who roughed it up from the start. A total of 21 penalties were dished out, with the local outfit guilty 10 times. Edmunds was the bad man of the game, the husky Millbrook defenceman drawing no less than six penalties, while Giardino and Rochetta drew most of the homesters.

While the hockey dished up was disorganized a good part of the time, it was interesting most of the route, but the Monarchs had a decided edge to earn the verdict. The score was 1-1 in the first, and 5-2 going into the third. Aside from a cracked rib to Wainman in the second, there was no damage done though the teams boarded, carried high sticks and fought twice in a fairly bitter embroglio.

Most Effective

Mackness, Beggs, Rochetta and Connelly looked most effective for the winners, with the whole gang from the goalie out turning in a neat performance. They stuck to clean, fast hockey and clearly outpointed the Hopers. For the latter, F. Hills and Wainman were best, the whole gang trying hard. Edmunds and Goalie Anderson, only 15 years old, looked good in spots—but roughed it up too much to be really effective.

Early in the first frame, Connelly went off for tripping, but Edmunds followed him shortly for charging. The locals pressed and finally tallied when Mackness rifled home Vitarelli's rebound. The latter and J. Anderson were gated for roughing it and then F. Hills went in close to counter and tie up the score. Wainman was chased for tripping and the Petes pressed till Rochetta got the air for tripping as the Monarchs muffed chances to sink the disc in around the net.

Go To Town

At the start of the second, Connelly took Rochetta's rebound and parked it behind the goalie. Play was close to shinny at times but fast, with the home crew having a decided edge most of the way. Wainman nearly netted one and then Edmunds and Carley climbed the boards for roughing it. F. Hills scored on a sizzling shot from the defence and Giardino almost got it back a moment later. Mackness counted on a hard angle drive and a short time after a fight broke out. Edwardson, Mackness, Giardino and Campbell were sent to the cooler when hostilities ceased. Edmunds drew a delayed penalty later for tripping and Rochetta's penalty shot was stopped. Near the finish, Monarchs got two fast ones, Beggs and Rochetta scoring in close with no assists.

Edmunds and Rochetta got the finger to start the third for bumping each other, and play was fast and heated. Mortimer counted on a nice solo effort at close range. Morrison robbed Bradshaw, and Edmunds got his sixth penalty, this time for tripping. The locals pressed hard till Giardino got the thumb for holding. He just got back when he got it again for hooking and Port Hope pressed for a time. Another fight broke out with Connelly and J. Hills drawing penalties. Rochetta scored neatly on a breakaway, and a minute later Nicholls tallied on Rochetta's pass in close. Wainman got through to counter for Port Hope just before the finish.

The teams:

Port Hope: Goal, H. Anderson; defence, P. Anderson and Edmunds; centre, F. Hills; wings, J. Hills and Demill; alternates, Wainman, Edwardson, Campbell, Bradshaw and Potts.

Monarchs: Goal, Morrison; defence, Beggs and Giardino; centre, Rochetta; wings, Connelly and Vitarelli; alternates, Nicholls, Cauley, Clarke, Mortimer and Mackness.

Referee—J. Sabatino of Lakefield.

Leg Injuries Don't Stop Dressing Room Quartet

Slightly paradoxical is this quartet. All four display injuries and all four laugh. Or are they singing? Anyway they're all members of Lester Patrick's New York Rangers and they're displaying bandages on their legs resultant from their battles on the ice. The Patrick pucksters have been fairly fortunate so far this season and none of the wounds displayed was bad enough to keep them out of the line-up, except that of Lynn Patrick, LEFT, who was out with his knee injury for about a month. The others, LEFT to RIGHT, are Cecil Dillon, right wing; Clint Smith, centre, and Art Coulter, defence.

St. John Bantams Cop 7-0 Victory

St. John's Bantams blanked St. Paul's 7-0 last night in a Church Hockey League game at All Saints' rink. It was a surprise win and the Anglicans are moving right ahead, being in a tie now with Knox for third place. St. Paul's were well beaten, though four counters were of the soft variety. Frank got four for the winners, Clark two and Coones the other. This trio and Farrow looked good for the St. John's crew, while the young St. Paul's had no outstanding players. Seals, usually good, did very little and N. McNaughton and Carley were probably best. The teams:

St. John's: Goals, Moore; defence, Scott, Farrow; centre, Clarke; wings, Frank, Coones; subs, Howard, Bond.

St. Paul's: Goal, Board; defence, Seas, H. McNaughton; centre, Hill; wings, Forbes, Hendry; subs, Doughty, N. McNaughton, Carley.

Referee, D. Charlton.

Lock Co. Teams In Lively Fray

In a Lock Works shop puck tilt in the Brock Saturday morning, Electro-Platers took a 9-5 win over Brass Finishers. It was 2-2 in the first frame and 6-2 going into the third. Cockerel got four goals, White three and Symonds and Prete one each for the winners; while Watkins and Mann tallied a pair each, and Carravaggie one for the other side. It was a lively tussle. White, Cockeril and Giardino were best for the victors; and Watkins, Jordan, Wheeler and Mann tops for their rivals. The teams:

Electro-Platers: Goal, Giardino; defence, Prete, White; centre, Cockeril; wings, Symonds, Lock; subs, Drummond, Robinson.

Brass Finishers: Goal, Macdonald; defence, Watkins, Mann; centre, Jordan; wings, Coombes, Wheeler; sub, Carravaggie.

Albions, Elgins Tie 4-4 In Overtime

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 1.—After three overtime periods, with both teams battling to break the deadlock, the Havelock Albions and Elgin, holders of second place in the East Peterborough Rural League, emerged with one point apiece, the final count being 4-4. Roy Richardson was the scoring ace for the night, notching three of the visitors' goals. Hill again turned in a good game in the Albion nets, while the first front line of E. Ellis, F. Ellis and H. Gordon were most effective among the rest.

Practically all the scoring came in the initial period, Elgin shooting out in front on goals by Roy and George Richardson. F. Ellis and Hagerman retaliated with two markers for the locals to even it up. Roy Richardson collected his second goal of the evening a short time later, to end the scoring for the first period, with the visitors leading 3-2. The only penalty of the game, which was fast and clean, though plenty rough, was handed out this session to Green of Havelock.

Roy Richardson, starry centre player for Elgin, made his last successful scoring effort early in the second period, bringing his sniping total up to three, which placed his team two goals ahead. F. Ellis once again scored for the Albions on a nice pass from E. Ellis, leaving the visitors still one up at the end of the second stanza.

Earl Ellis, who played a nice game all evening, made the play which evened things up in the final stanza, in regular time, slipping the puck to Hamilton parked in front of the Elgin nets, who made no mistake in ramming it home.

Deadlocked at the end of regulation time, the teams went through three overtime sessions without bulging the twine, with Havelock having a little the best of the play. H. Gordon was forced out of the game in the second overtime period when he stopped a hard drive on the ankle. The teams:

Elgin.—Goal, E. Preston; defence, O'Grady, Sheppard; centre, R. Richardson; wings, Lumsden, Murphy; alternates, Metcalfe, L. Fleming, G. Richardson, J. Richardson.

Referee—P. Voyer, Havelock.

Amerks Slip Back Into Third Place Tying Bruins At Boston 2-2; Rangers Trounce Hawks By 3-2

By Jack Calder
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

New York Americans looked even better in third place in the National Hockey League to-day than they did in second place yesterday.

The Americans slipped back last night by tying the league-leading Bruins 2-2 at Boston, while their intra-city rivals for second position, the Rangers, were defeating Chicago Black Hawks 3-2 at New York. But by holding the leaders on Boston ice—something no other club had done in more than a month—the spangled club showed itself more than ever deserving of ranking with leaders.

This is one of the winter's great coaching jobs, this job Mervyn (Red) Dutton has done with the Americans. The old men of Manhattan lost six straight exhibitions to the Rangers in pre-season play. Convinced they had slipped too far to keep pace with the young, swift blood of other teams, some selectors relegated them then to seventh and last place in the standings.

But by the arts of stick-handling and opportunism, by matching every opponent in grappling and in-fighting, the Americans have been contenders since the season's start. They have almost played even with Boston, winning two, tying one, and losing three of their games with the Bruins. To-morrow night they can go into the lead in their city series with the Rangers—and second place in the league.

The Dutton System.

Two years ago the Americans were bankrupt, orphaned and aged.

N. Colville.

Last season Dutton made them a threat in playoffs. They are a good deal more than that this time, but they still haven't built up an extensive school for developing players or bought a big-name star. There must be something to the Dutton credo of "keep punching."

The Americans came from behind to tie Boston last night, Lorne Carr nabbing both their goals. He sent them ahead after less than two minutes, but Mel Hill levelled the score in the second period. In the third Flash Hollett gave Boston a 2-1 advantage, but Carr deadlocked the game in less than a minute. Bruins outshot the Americans six-to-one in overtime, but still couldn't break through.

The line of Alex Shibicky and the Colville brothers, Neil and Mac, did all the Rangers' scoring against Chicago, Neil getting the winning goal and Shibicky the others. Mac grabbed three assists and Neil two.

M. Colville

Clint Smith poked the rubber into his own goal in the first period to put Chicago ahead, Jack Shill of the Hawks getting credit for the score. Shibcky gave Rangers the lead with a counter in the second and another in the third, and, after Bob Gracie tied the score again, Neil Colville came through with the winning goal less than four minutes from the finish.

The Black Hawks have won only once in 10 starts since Paul Thompson and Carl Voss took over the management from Bill Stewart a month ago. Last night they announced a trade that brings them Joe Cooper from Philadelphia, Rangers' farm club, in exchange for Alex. Levinsky. Both are defencemen and Levinsky has been with Rangers before.

Cahan Assails

appeasement is already proving insufficient to satiate the cupidity of politicians at Washington who are now emulating Hitler and Mussolini in their claims for territorial expansion," Mr. Cahan said.

Quoting a declaration attributed to Robert B. Reynolds, Democratic U.S. senator from North Carolina, to the effect that to prove its friendship for America Great Britain should cede "a 50 mile corridor from the United States boundary to Alaska," R. Cahan said this was "a claim even more insolent than Hitler's claim to the Memel corridor or Mussolini's claim to Tunisia."

Senator Reynolds also suggested this would be only part payment of Britain's debt to the United States and in addition she should give Bermuda to the United States," Mr. Cahan said.

Reports from Washington were also to the effect the St. Lawrence seaway was being studied by the army high command and that the voluntary assumption by the United States of the defence of Canada would involve control of navigation in the St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes system by the naval and military forces of the United States.

"Evidently," remarked Mr. Cahan, "an adequate apeasement of the Washington government will involve radical encroachments upon the autonomy and sovereignty of Canada."

Mr. Cahan urged the government to arrange a conference between industry and labor seeking to bring about a rehabilitation of Canadian secondary industries "and establishing such new industries as would have a reasonable prospect of success under stable tariff and stable monetary conditions."

"We can never achieve permanent prosperity by annual grants for temporary relief of the indigent, or by ever-increasing our excessive national debt by large expenditures on unproductive public works," he said. That course only serves to hasten the Dominion on the way to ultimate economic ruin.

The Way Out.

"But by increasing the volume of our domestic industry by giving reasonable security to both capital and labor, and by establishing reasonable safeguards against the products of the conscripted labor and low living standards of competing foreign countries, we can and should make Canadians the most prosperous and happy people in the world."

R. W. Gladstone (Lib., Wellington South) added further argument to that already advanced by previous speakers for more business-like sessions of the House. Some methods should be found of doing away with "the prevailing type of bickering discussion" and replacing it with quiet discussion that might be organized into legislative action.

There was something wrong with the Federal administrative organization, Mr. Gladstone thought, and he was not questioning any particular party.

He suggested some members of the House be set to work during parliamentary recesses on means of improving the administration of such branches as radio, the rural mail delivery and public buildings.

W. K. Esling (Con., Kootenay West) condemned the practice of appointing wharfingers at small government-owned wharves on lakes where the traffic was light and mainly restricted to small producers whose only means of staying off relief was by marketing their produce by water.

Another Drain.

Mr. Esling also blamed the government for "sponsoring" and aiding the Canadian Performing Rights Society in collecting fees and royalties on works of which they could not prove ownership and sending a "flood of Canadian money" into the pockets of a monopolistic group in the United States.

The trade agreement with United States negotiated in 1935 save Canada from ruin, in the opinion of Dr. T. V. Grant (Lib., Kings). The new agreement had yet to prove its merits but it was "built on a sound foundation" and the previous agreement had "saved Canada from ruin through stagnation of trade."

The only trade agreement Canada had that was any good was the agreement with the United States signed in Ottawa in 1932, in the mind of Dave Spence (Con. Toronto-Parkdale). "Members may laugh at that but if they are not stupid they should know it," he said.

Mr. Spence declared there would be no opposition from the Conservative group on the government's defence program. "We have to trust somebody and we might as well trust the Minister of National Defence (Hon. Ian Mackenzie)."

Members of the Social Credit party would come to Ottawa in increasing numbers, J. S. Taylor (Ind. Nanaimo) prophesied. Of the C.C.F. which he supported when he was elected in 1935, Mr. Taylor said "it was the finest and most promising movement in Canada at its inception but it is slowly passing out of existence, almost unnoticed."

Predicts Recoil

Norman Lockhart (Con. Lincoln) predicted the Bren machine gun would have "a double barrelled recoil across Canada." He was referring to the Davis commission report on the Bren contract and said much more would be heard of it. "You can't fool all the people all the time," he said.

Mr. Lockhart criticized administration of the National Housing Act in that it was still impossible for many to get loans for small workmens houses.

Although there was sentiment in the country for a union or national government, previous experience of Canada and Great Britain had not proved very satisfactory, James Glen (Lib. Marquette) told the House.

Mr. Glen had some criticism for the C.C.F. party which he said had advanced policies which would require $500,000,000 additional revenue each year.

Gilbert Weir (Lib. Macdonald) had general commendation of the Government's administration except for the National Housing Act. He believed the approved lending institutions were not co-operating in the rural areas, and he urged some improvement be brought about.

Plowing Snow-Clogged Roads

Many villages and towns throughout Ontario were completely isolated following the recent blizzard which swept the province. Snow-plows were hard pressed to break through the snow-clogged highways in an effort to reach marooned settlements. The snow-plow, shown ABOVE, was pictured as it bucked the drifts which blocked highways in the Orangeville district.

Doctor Leaves Car In Snowbank And Wades Through Snow To Bedside Of Small Child

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 1.—Dr. J. A. MacDonald and J. L. Doherty of Hastings waded over an hour through knee-deep snow for nearly two miles at the height of Monday night's blinding snow storms to reach a four-year-old girl in a critical condition from pneumonia.

The doctor and his companion left here at 8 o'clock for Brickley, 5 miles south, but deep drifts and poor visibility forced them to abandon the car about three miles out. They then took to "shank's mare" through the drifts to get to Doherty's whose young daughter, Theresa, required immediate medical attention. Her temperature had reached 105. She was reported normal this morning.

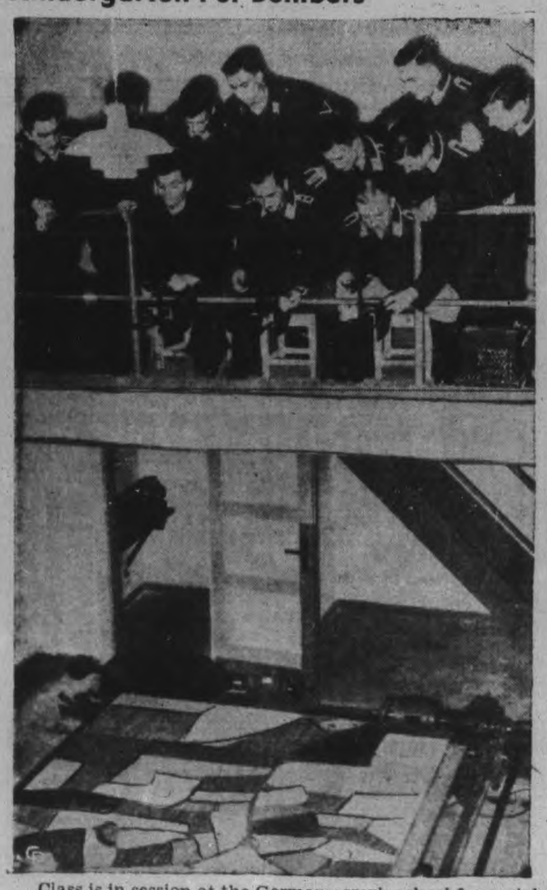
On their return home the pair encountered snowbanks which almost prevented them opening the car doors.

Dr. MacDonald also revealed today that he had met with car trouble at the English church hill near Roseneath Saturday night. He abandoned the car and after attending one patient west of that village he walked cross country to Brickley where he attended two more patients covering 21 miles on foot in all. He arrived back home at 8 a.m. Sunday morning.

P.S. The doctor added he walked backwards down some of the hills at the end of his hike because his toes were skinned.

Roads in Hastings area were opened this morning with trucks getting through from Peterborough, Campbellford, Westwood and Norwood.

Kindergarten For Bombers



Class is in session at the German army's school for aerial bombers at Pommern and some of the boys who may one day be called upon to pull the lever that will unleash death and destruction on a crowded city or peaceful countryside are learning one of the first steps in their trade. At TOP, three students gaze into bombsights, while BELOW a device that gives the illusion of flying high above the earth presents a moving panorama of the ground as it would be seen through the sights of an air bomber.

Keep Own Revenues.

Secession, he said, would result in Montreal's revenues remaining for the benefit of the municipality, which no longer would be forced to act as milch cow for the rest of Quebec.

Assailing delay in receipt of Quebec's dole money, Houde said the city could do "nothing about it." The Quebec Attorney-General would ban a suit against the province.

The Mayor declared the city's finances now were in a strained situation. About $22,500,000 was owed the bank and $6,500,000 in bonds were maturing March 1. In addition, Houde said, $1,500,000 of a $5,000,000 loan placed on the market some time ago could not be disposed of.

In the last financial statement of the city, issued January 13, the net debt at last October 31 was shown at $203,043,310, an increase of $1,703,115 from May 1 of 1938. Net funded debt during the same period fell from $274,028,746 to $273,133,467.

Assets at the end of October were given as $127,445,757 and liabilities $330,489,067.

As this second solution, he continued, "is for the time being not feasible, by reason of the continued blindness of the one-time victorious powers, we are forced to occupy ourselves with the first..."

The press gave prominent display to reports of Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech in which he offered to negotiate upon evidence of deeds along with friendly words in favor of peace.

Comment, however, was brief and general, and an official spokesman said the Foreign Office still was studying the text.

The Boersenzeitung declared in an editorial that "our demands are so just and so long overdue that they do not admit a 'deal'."

Lokalanzeiger stated that "it could hardly be assumed that Chamberlain should fail to see the chance offered by Der Fuehrer's frank expose of controversial political issues."

OBITUARY

JOHN THOMAS CULLEN

The funeral of the late Thomas J. Cullen was held from the family residence on the Lakefield road on Monday, January 23. Despite severe weather a large number of friends and relatives turned out to do honor to one widely known throughout the community.

Mr. Cullen was born September 29, 1851, on the farm on the Lakefield road now occupied by Charles Lee. He was the third member of a family of five sons and four daughters, children of the late Simon Cullen and Martha Cochrane. The farm now occupied by the family and being but one half mile from the old home, has been in the Cullen name for 77 years and was purchased then from the late William Donaldson.

Apart from his home interests Mr. Cullent was deeply interested in were the work of his church. A lifelong Presbyterian, he was ordained to the eldership of the Lakefield Presbyterian church some forty years ago. He discharged faithfully the duties of that high office until failing sight and later total blindness compelled him to relinquish the task. Since 1925 the family have been associated with St. Paul's church, Peterborough, and although unable to attend often in that time yet his interest in his church never waned.

The Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's church chose as his text words from the 90th Psalm: "We spend our years as a tale that is told." He brought comfort to the bereaved relatives in a thoughtfully prepared discourse woven around the words of the favorite hymn of the deceased, "Work For the Night is Coming."

Mr. Cullen is survived by his sorrowing wife, formerly Helena G. Miller, and by two sons, J. Percival Cullen of Toronto, Stuart T. Cullen at home, and one daughter, Olive, at home. Surviving also is his youngest sister, Mrs. W. G. McKee, London street, Peterborough.

The pall bearers were Clarke Garbutt, William Bickell, Howard Beavis, George Mullen, George Lockington and Charles Brown. Interment was made in Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. AUGUSTINE HUCK

DOURO, Feb. 1—Friends in Douro heard with great regret of the death in Toronto at St. Michael's Hospital, on January 22, of Mrs. Augustine Huck, nee Carrie Sweeney, aged 38, daughter of the late Andrew Sweeney and Mrs. Sweeney. Deceased passed away after a short illness of pneumonia.

The funeral took place on Wednesday, January 25, from her late residence to St. Joseph's church and to Mount Hope cemetery.

Survivors are her husband, three young children, Leona, William and George, of Toronto, her aged mother, Mrs. Andrew Sweeney of Douro, Martin and John Coughlin of Douro are half brothers and there are several half-sisters.

Negro Held As Slayer Of Housekeeper

VICTORIA, Feb. 7—(CP)—R. A. Wright, 68-year-old Negro carpenter, was charged last night with the axe-and-razor murder of Mrs. Dulcie Hanham. A police guard was stationed in the hospital room where Wright is recovering from minor wrist and throat slashes.

Police formally charged the Nego some hours after he had been picked up on an Indian reservation near here and rushed to hospital for treatment. Officers said they went to the reserve after they had been notified a man was attempting suicide.

Mrs. Hanham, 33, was found dead in Esquimalt municipality early Saturday, her head battered and slashed and long gashes on her throat.

Police chief H. W. V. Pecknold of Esquimalt said Wright had employed Mrs. Hanham as a housekeeper for a time after the Negro and his wife separated.

MARKERS RECOVERED

A set of license markers stolen from Duffus' garage some time ago, were recovered Tuesday when a worker at the Peterborough Canoe Company found the missing articles hidden in a lumber pile and turned them over to the police.

AWARDED FIRST PRIZE

LOST ARTICLES.

At the car barns of the Peterborough Bus Company there are two umbrellas, a rugby ball, several gloves, and a maroon pullover sweater, all of which have been left in the buses by passengers. The rugby ball is believed to be the property of the Collegiate. The owner of any article may have it by identifying the same.

FISHING FOR CAR

Mechanics from Hughes' Garage are still trying to get the 1939 model car off the bottom of Stoney Lake, where it sank on Sunday afternoon. It is estimated the car is in 17 feet of water and the ice is so treacherous it is impossible to get the tow truck near the spot where the car broke through the ice. How they will manage to recover it in a short time is certainly a problem.

NO EAR FOR HITLER.

A Peterboro woman was asked whether she had listened to Hitler's speech Monday. Her reply was: "I did not. I read parts of his book, "Mein Kampft," and I remember his avowal that "we Germans hate our enemies and will to destroy them." That's all I want to know about Hitler and all his kind. Personally I think he hates the British peoples most of all."

TESTING HYDRANTS

Hydrants along George street were give nthe regular inspection this morning to determine if any water was leaking inside the cylinder. This work goes on throughout the winter to guard against any of the hydrants being frozen up when a fire occurs. It is claimed that a car striking a hydrant is sufficient to cause a slight leak in the pipe, and the water in this weather would freeze, making the hydrant useless.

PLOW BREAKS DOWN

Otonabee township snowplow doing 24 hour duty since the blizzard and heavy snow struck the district Monday afternoon was overworked during the night and an axle smashed. The operators had another one in reserve and is was placed in the plow, in a short time. Most of the motor traffic is coming north on the Sixth Line to No. 7 highway.

ACCIDENT VICTIMS IMPROVING

Three women from Keene who were seriously injured seven weeks ago yesterday in a two car smash-up on the flat road near the Hiawatha turn are reported to be showing steady improvement. Two of them, Mrs. Sarah Wood and Miss Edith Wood received fractured hips, while Mrs. William Wood suffered a broken arm. All are staying at Keene during the Winter.

NEW BUSES ARRIVE.

Two new buses arrived at the barns of the Peterborough Bus Company this morning from Windsor and will be made ready for use on the city streets. It will be necessary to paint the name on the buses and do some trimming and adjusting before they are put into service. It is estimated they will not be used for at least two more weeks. They are the same style as the last ones brought in, and the latest type of motor transport in Canada.

Selling Badges To Finance Winter Sports

If, during the next few weeks, you see men and women sporting badges on which appear the figure of a skater, you will know immediately that they are public-spirited citizens of Peterborough who are doing their bit to promote this city's winter sports.

The badges were presented free to the Winter Sports Committee by J. M. Heffernan of the Colonial Weaving Company, and are being sold by the committee for a dollar apiece. By their sale the committee will keep the Jackson Park rink free of snow and will flood it from time to time. No privileges of any kind go with the purchase of such badges—they are only evidence of the goodwill and public-spiritedness of buyers. The Winter Sports Committee is urging all to buy and wear these badges.

Playground In The Making.

The Jackson Park rink is the first step towards making an ideal winter playground on the outskirts of Peterborough—a playground that, when completed, will be the envy of every other city in the Dominion. So great has been the popularity of the rink to date that the committee, in conjunction with the Nicholls Park Trust, are encouraged to enlarge sports activities to a surprising degree next year.

Already plans are being studied for a two-storey Swiss Shelter, to be erected near the rink. The entire lower storey will probably be used as a canteen in Swiss style, complete with chairs, tables, full menus. The upper storey will contain dressing quarters. It is planned to erect the building at the foot of the hill approaching the rink, so that the second storey will be on the same level as the top of the hill. A bridge will give direct access to the second-storey dressing quarters from the hill. It will not be necessary to pass through the canteen to reach the dressing quarters.

Bobsled Run.

Further action by the Trust and the Committee will be the erection next winter of a swift bobsled run. Its grades and angles have already been taken and it will be laid in such fashion that bobsledders will complete their course directly below the starting point, giving them the shortest possible distance to return. The course will be floodlighted, and gives promise of becoming one of the Park's most popular sports.

A fast toboggan run is also being mooted.

Carnival On February 17.

Another activity of the Winter Sports Committee will be a skating carnival on February 17 at Brock Street arena, when 35 members of the Toronto Skating Club will be on hand. Including the best known figure skaters in all Canada, this troupe will give a display that promises to be remarkable. Details are being worked out at present, and it is announced that one innovation will be the use of colored ice.

Members of the committee, enthusiastic over the support their winter sports activities are receiving, hinted at the possibility of a skating carnival for next year that would be unique in the history of this country. They spoke of an outdoor carnival, under floodlight and by moonlight, in the Jackson Park rink, with circles of seats extending all around the huge ice surface and colored lights hanging from trees—a carnival that would make any Hollywood producer green with envy.

Sale of the badges will also help to defray expenses in connection with the monster ski meet being held at Nassau on February 11. The committee, pointing out that their only means of raising money is by sale of badges and of tickets to the skating carnival, urge all public-minded citizens to support them.

Irwin Coming Back

MONTREAL, Feb. 1—(CP).—John Irwin, who lost the presidency of the huge McColl-Frontenac, Limited, after an unsuccessful financal battle with United States interests last year, is getting back into the oil business as president of the $11,000,000 Canadian Oil Companies, Limited.

With control of Canadian Oil Companies transferred from the U.S. to a Montreal investment securities concern, announcement was made to-day that the 58-year-old executive from Kingston, Ont., would become the new president at the annual meeting in April.

Snowed-In On An Ontario Highway

Just one of the many cars that dotted the highways following the recent blizzard, is this abandoned car, resting in a snow bank after its owner decided that it was no use trying to get any further without the aid of snow-plows. Dozens of other motorists were placed in a similar position as the howling blizzard swooped down on Ontario, isolating villages and towns and completely tying up traffic in many cities. Rural highways were reported to be impassable.

Driver Of Truck Faces Charge Of Reckless Driving

Arising out of a recent accident at Apsley when a truck crashed through the wall of the living quarters of Duncan Brown, Apsley store keeper, the driver of the truck has been charged by Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon E. Broughton who investigated the affair, with reckless driving.

The case was to have been heard in traffic court this morning but Yates sent word asking for an adjournment, stating that it would be impossible for him to appear today.

Magistrate Langley named Wednesday of next week as the date for trial.

S. Kenneth, charged with entering a through street without coming to a stop entered a plea of guilty through Constable Gordon Puffer and a fine of $2 and $3 costs was levied.

A charge against William Casey of failing to produce a driver's license when called upon was adjourned for a week.

Goes Back To Reformatory

Released from the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph last week, Wilfrid York, 20, of Peterborough was arrested on a drunk charge at the C.N.R. station when he arrived here Saturday evening and the mishap has cost the youth his liberty as the parole authorities are having him returned to Guelph to complete his original sentence.

York was released to go to work on a road job but his slip on Saturday means the end of that arrangement.

When arraigned Monday morning he pleaded not guilty to the drunk charge but today he changed his plea and Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., imposed a fine of $10 and costs or seven days in jail, to date from last Saturday. When he is released then he will be turned over to the parole authorities.

$10,000 Difference In Relief Estimates

Relief estimates as separately prepared by A. G. Metheral, relief officer, and M. E. Shaver, city treasurer, do not coincide, the difference being around $10,000, according to intimations to-day as recapitulation of the budget was in process for the meeting of the Finance committee Friday night with Alderman Cotton in the chair.

From that report at the city hall this morning it seems that some crimp may be put in the amount that will be set aside for the year's relief payments.

A year ago the council received some adventitious help in a surplus of about $21,000 from 1937. Mr. Shaver has already told the council they will be lucky if the carry over for this year is half that amount. The final figures have not yet been made up.

So far none of the committees has found any projecting items which they felt should be clipped off at once. In fact $1,500 was added to the Board of Works' estimates to provide for prospective improvements of Crescent street this year. So far apparently the committees have either been asking for bare necessities or the critical mood has not yet asserted itself, or perhaps everybody is going to be satisfied if the tax rate is held at the same levy as last year.

January Customs Show Increase

Customs figures at the local port continued to climb during the fiscal year of 1938 which ends in March, and the January customs figures os given by the local officals this morning indicates a healthy increase over December.

The January total was $153,474.25 as against a total in December of $125,925.09, which leads the staff at the Customs office to believe the total figure for the year will come close to establishing a record for the last decade. The January list consisted of import duties, $66,734.98; excise, $86,627.27; and sundry collections amounting to $112.00.

New Car Ordered By The Utilities

Members of the Peterborough Utilities Commission were amazed yesterday at a series of "coincidences" by which they found that all but one car dealer was willing to offer them $525 trade-in value for a used car.

Tenders from nearly a dozen dealers, affering to sell all kinds of new cars, big and small, were opened at yesterday's Utilities meeting. As each was opened, the same trade-in $525, came up once more. Members were surprised, or perhaps they were not.

After they had opened most, there did come a surprise. Lillico Motors offered a trade-in of $565 on a new car. After careful perusal of all prices, that car was purchased because members felt it offered best value. The car will be used by the superintendent.

The Rambling REPORTERS

FOOLHARDY

A 14-year-old girl walked nonchalantly across George street between Antrim and Edinburgh early Tuesday night directly in the path of a motor car. The driver sounded the horn when he saw the girl was continuing but she kept on and the man by dint of clever driving and fast work applied the brakes and swung the car up close to the sidewalk. Onlookers claim the car missed the girl by inches. The driver, visibly shaken by the close shave, climbed out of the car and called the girl back. He showed no anger in reprimanding the girl, merely, attempted to explain it was a dangerous and foolhardy act on her part. This is one time, according to those who witnessed the incident when the motorist was in the right and the woman did not have the last word.—McG.

A DREAM THAT CAME TRUE

A young girl whose fondest dream came true, and who is in raptures this week is six-year-old Carol Raper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Raper, 571 Stewart street.

Bright and early one morning recently, Carol came running into her mother's bedroom to tell about what a wonderful dream she had just had. "Oh, mummy, I dreamed I had a little baby sister," she said, and her tones suggested that such an event would be the most glorious thing imaginable. That very night her "mummy" went to hospital and little Carol got her wish. All three are doing well, especially Carol.—P.

Vagrant Is Given Term Of 20 Days

William Weatherspoon, elderly transient, who pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy last week and had been remanded until today was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court this morning to twenty days' imprisonment.

In the interval the accused's record had been received and this morning Weatherspoon admitted having been in Oshawa, Beaverton, Ottawa and other places mentioned in the list. He told the magistrate that on the present occasion he had stopped in Peterborough on his way back to Tornto from an Ottawa visit.

When Magistrate Langley imposed sentence of twenty days Weatherspoon asked that the days he had already spent in jail be taken into consideration and he won his point, the court ordering the sentence to begin on January 28.

Seventy-six Babies Were Born In January Surpassing Number In Any Month In 1938

There were more babies born during the month of January this year than in any month during the whole of 1938, and the total of 76 bouncing babies included two sets of twins, all girls, who are reported to be doing well. Sixteen couples paraded to the altar to pronounce the words "I do," and the death certificates reveal that 36 passed on.

In January of 1938 the births reached the high total of 61, falling short of the 1939 start by fifteen. There were 18 marriages and 38 deaths.

Statistically the year began in a very auspicious manner, as the birth rate climbed, the death rate dropped and the number of marriages are practically on a par with the January total of 1938.

Bus Drivers And Firemen Are Scheduled To Meet In Greatest Ice Battle Of Year

Adequate police protection and a fully equipped first aid squad have been organized for the battle royal scheduled for 11.30 to-night at the Brock street rink, between the Bus Drivers and the Firemen.

A few years ago when these two aggregations of good humored bruisers tangled in the annual melee at the Brock, the game got underway at midnight and the only spectators were an undertaker, a policeman and a reporter.

To-night the fans who stay up to witness the attack will be assessed ten cents, and any money realized will go towards the Firemen's Toy Fund. This condition was laid down by the Bus Drivers, who claimed they would supply their own iodine and adhesive tape, but would not play unless any money made out of the duel went to supply the poor children with toys at Christmas.

Conversations, threats and ridicule have been flying between the two camps for the past month, and the arrangements were not finally decided on, until one of the bus drivers mailed a box of dominoes to the Fire Hall, suggesting the Smoke Eaters might find this a more appropriate game. There is considerable talk to-day on the question of whether Joe Astles will be allowed to pad the Fire Dept. goal with a mattress, so that he can bounce in and out without injury when the rushing Bus Drivers are unable to stop as they carry the puck on an attack, but no decision was reached.

Rink officials warn all spectators to stand well back from the rink boards as they have some doubt whether the walls will stand up under the bruising which they are certain to receive when the two teams get underway. The players have little difficulty getting started but stopping is a problem with most.

New Taxi Bylaw, Zone System Now In Force

The new taxi bylaw, otherwise Bylaw No. 16 of the Board of Police Commissioners, comes into effect today and application forms, which the owners and drivers of taxis are required to fill in, are available at the police station. It is provided in the bylaw that these applications must be approved by the Chief Constable before any license will be granted.

The scale of fees for licenses so far as owners are concerned is $5.00 a year per car, while driver's licenses cost $1.00 a year.

Under the bylaw there are a number of regulations governing the condition of taxi cabs and the manner in which they are to be driven. It is required that the vehicles shall be kept in a clean and sanitary condition and in good repair and each cab shall at all times be equipped with at least five serviceable tires.

The bylaw sets forth that no owner shall require any driver to be on duty more than 12 hours in any day of 24 hours and that no owner shall be on duty himself as an operator or driver more than 12 hours of 24 hours.

Driver Licensed

Every licensed driver is to be furnished by the Board with a numbered metal disc and is required to affix the same to his coat or overcoat at all times when driving.

Owners and drivers are forbidden to drive thieves, pickpockets or prostitutes, to smoke while driving passengers, to make any loud noise or disturbance or use bad language or molest, annoy or insult passengers, to loiter in the streets with their vehicles, to premit any immoral, indecent or disorderly conduct in their taxi cabs, and to demand or receive any rate or charge other than the charges specified in the bylaw.

It is provided that no fare shall be charged for children under ten years of age in charge of an adult but for children over ten years full fare shall be charged.

A zone system has been adopted in the fixing of rates and this is the feature in which the public is most concerned.

The city of Peterborough and the surrounding territory within three miles from the city limits has been divided into two areas.

Two Areas Defined

Area No. 1 is as follows: That portion of the city of Peterborough bounded on the north as follows: Commencing at the intersection of Monaghan Road and Parkhill Road, thence easterly on Parkhill Road to Fairbairn street; then northely on Fairbairn street to Wolsley street; thence easterly on Wolsley street to the western limit thereof; thence easterly along the prolongation of Wolsley street to the intersection of Anson street and Hilliard street; thence easterly on Anson street to the eastern limit thereof, and eastern limit thereof, and easterly on the prolongation of Anson to the west bank of the Otonabee river; thence southerly along the bank of the river to the intersection of the river with Parkhill Road, and thence easterly along Parkhill Road to western limit of the Trent Canal; on the east by the Trent Canal from Parkhill Road aforesaid to Little Lake; thence southerly along the shore of Little Lake to the bridge of the Canadian National Railway; thence westerly along said bridge and thence to the point of intersection of Lansdowne street with the west bank of the Otonabee river; on the south by Lansdowne street; on the west of Monaghan Road.

Area No. 2: All that portion of the City of Peterborough and the territory surrounding the city within three miles of the city limits not included in Area Number 1.

Rates Of Fare

The following shall be the established rates or fares to be charged by the owners or drivers of taxicabs.

(a) For conveying each passenger from one point to another within Area Number 1 between the hours of six o'clock a.m. and twelve o'clock midnight of the same day, twenty-five cents.

(b) For conveying two passengers, or less, from any point in Area Number 1 to any point in Area Number 2, or vice versa between the hours of six o'clock a.m. and twelve o'clock midnight of the same day, fifty cents and for each additional person twenty-five cents.

(c) For conveying two passengers, or less from one point to another within Area Number 2, between the hours of six o'clock a.m. and twelve o'clock midnight of the same day, fifty cents and for each additional person twenty-five cents.

(d) For conveying two passengers, or less, from one point to another within Area Number 1 between the hours of twelve o'clock midnight and six o'clock a.m. of the following day, fifty cents and for each additional person twenty-five cents.

(e) For conveying two passengers, or less, from any point in Area Number 1 to any point in Area Number 2, or vice versa between the hours of twelve o'clock midnight and six o'clock a.m. of the following day, seventy-five cents and for each additional person fifty cents.

(f) For conveying two passengers, or less, from one point to another within Area Number 2, between the hours of twelve o'clock midnight and six o'clock a.m. of the following day, seventy-five cents and for each additional person fifty cents.

(g) For conveying passengers at funerals a flat rate of three dollars per car.

(H) By The Hour

(c) for the first hour completed in conveying passengers $2.00 for four passengers, or less in five passenger cars and for each subsequent hour or part thereof at the same or a proportionate rate, and for seven passenger car the rate shall be for the first two hours, per hour $2.50 and for each subsequent hour at the same or a proportionate rate.

i) Drive-self cab not less than $2.50 for each hour.

(j) For carying trunks as baggage, twenty-five cents each; hand baggage shall be carried free.

(k) For tally-ho or sight-seeing coaches, for 1 or 2 hours, for each person $1.00; for each subsequent hours 50c for each person.

Heads Board

Mrs. Joseph Mills was re-elected chairman of the Mother's Allowance and Old Age Pension Board at the regular meeting of the Board held Tuesday night. Members of the Board paid tribute to her fine work during the term just completed.

Doug. Loomis Is Appointed To Pension Board

Mrs. Joseph Mills was re-elected chairman of the Mother's Allowance and Old Age Pension Board at the regular meeting held Monday night, and Mrs. George Benton was named vice-chairman. Doug Loomis is the new member of the Board, his appointment being made by order-in council, and he takes the place of A. Huot of this city, who has left Peterborough. The other two members of the Board are Mrs. C. R. Banks and James C. Ellis.

The secretary reported that at the present time there are 129 women in the city receiving the Mother's Allowance and 420 people getting the Old Age Pension. At the meeting five applications for Mother's Allowance and 10 for Old Age Pension were considered.

Suffers Injury To Hand

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 1.—Douglas Pickering, an employee of the Campbellford Cloth Company sustained an injury which might easily have cost him the index finger of his right hand. Pickering is said to have caught the injured member in his loom at the company's plant. Although severely crushed doctors decided that amputation was unnecessary.

CAMPBELLFORD

Accommodations Found Good At High School

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 1.—"The accommodations here are among the best to be found in schools of this size in the Province" read an extract from the report filed with the School Board following the inspection made by S. D. Randall, Chairman of the board, Major G. H. Free instructed the secretary to read the report in full for the benefit of members at their regular meeting held on Monday.

Although the accommodations are good the inspector suggested that the water supply was not satisfactory nor was the dressing room accommodation provided for classes in physical education. Ventilation in the gymnasium was another matter which needed improvement. This the report continued accounted for the rating of III for the water supply, IV for waiting rooms and II for the gymnasium. It was suggested by a member that the Inspector should be notified that the suggested improvements had been made in order that the former ratings could be restored. Grading of all other accommodations was I.

"Satisfactory additions were made to the various departments during the past year. However, reference and supplementary reading books are urgently needed in geography and in British and Canadian history. These should be provided as soon as possible. The ratio of teachers to pupils is 31 to 1."

"In my opinion the principal has not sufficient time for effective supervision and the classes are too large for efficient work in part of Grade IX English, Grade IX Music, Grade X French, Grade X Latin and part of Grade X English" continued the report which referred to conditions existing prior to the engagement of an assistant teacher for several of these departments.

Of provision for teaching the various courses the inspector stated "Satisfactory provision has been made for teaching the subjects of Grade IX including Home Economics and General Shop Work".

School Well Staffed.

"The teachers are qualified for their positions" and of the total number of 217 pupils on the roll 103 are boys. "I had the pleasure of congratulating the caretaker on the condition of the school this year. Last year much of the teaching was reported as being good or excellent; a portion of it was fair to fairly good and none of it was unsatisfactory. There is noticeable improvement in the teaching this year. The average is good or better and all the teachers are giving their best to their work.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

READ THIS FIRST:

Elsie Ritter, a beauty shop operator, taking the place of a friend for a week in the private salon of Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Sr., finds herself involved in a mystery when the eccentric old lady is found dead under one of the hair driers after Elsie had left the room for a few moments. She is further humiliated when she learns that one of the servants in the Manor's household suspects her of taking Mrs. Witherspoon's emeralds, which are missing. Certain members of the Witherspoon family and some of the house guests strike Elsie as queer, and she is surprised when the old lady's son, Horace Witherspoon, advises her to say nothing of the missing jewels for fear of publicity and the police. The coroner arrives for his investigation. Phil Benson, Elsie's friend and a reporter, comes for an obituary for his paper and Elsie shows him around the mansion. Mrs. Witherspoon's funeral is held the next day. Elsie is at her wit's end when Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Jr., dies suddenly while under the same ill-fated drier in the salon the next morning.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

THE SIGHT of his sister affected Mr. Richard oddly as he rushed into the salon. His expression underwent a subtle change. He seemed about to speak, then, thinking better of it, thrust his hands into his pockets and, circling the body of his mother, went to the window.

Mr. Horace got stiffly to his feet. "I—I had better phone Dr. Didmore."

"You aren't going to leave her there?" asked Daphne, incredulously.

Richard swung around from the window. "You can't move her," he said slowly. "Not until after the police arrive."

"The police?" His sister regarded him in amazement. She turned pale.

Richard laughed hollowly. "The police," he repeated. "They dislike having bodies moved—in murder cases!"

"Murder!" I felt another scream coming on. I swallowed convulsively. "But she wasn't murdered," I blurted. "No one touched her but me!"

"Oh!" His dark eyes bored into mine. "I see."

"Please!" Mr. Horace raised his hand. "No quarreling! I—we—must decide what is best to do."

"And what is best to do?" Daphne asked and her body swayed slightly forward. She seemed to be waiting for something, I did not know what.

"I wonder—" Her father seemed to think aloud. "I wonder—"

"It is murder, isn't it?" Richard insisted. "Isn't it?"

"Don't be silly, Rich," Daphne reproved him. "Of course not!"

"Oh!" His eyes widened and narrowed, and he ran his tongue slowly around the edge of his lips. "Maybe not," he said. "Maybe not."

Mr. Horace beckoned to him. "Perhaps, son, you had better take Daphne to her room."

"All right," he agreed. "Coming, Daffy?"

"May I go, too?" I requested. My head was splitting and I was shaking all over.

"Of course. You had better rest. I shall call the coroner and wait here until his arrival."

"What is it?" Della Craig again separated herself from the little group in the corridor and appointed herself its spokesman.

"Mother is dead," Daphne said quietly.

"Dead!" Della emitted a shriek. For one startled second Della Craig the woman peered from the eyes of Della Craig the actress. And the woman was frightened!

"Della, my dear!" A young man in a sky-blue lounging robe attempted to gather her in his arms. He was a beautiful young man: he had pale golden curls and blue eyes swept by long curling lashes and a complexion like peaches and cream.

The actress shrugged him impatiently away. She had regained control of herself and was murmuring conventional and hackneyed phrases of condolence.

"Oh, Jeff!" Without warning Daphne's unnatural calm evaporated and she began to sob aloud.

"Darling!" A second young man detached himself from the group. He was the young man of the healthy laugh, the one who had blundered into the salon the morning of the ball in search of Daphne. He pressed her head to his shoulder and she wept unrestrainedly.

"I theenk I take care of my fiancee without your asseestance, Meester Todington." A third man stepped forward — Count Orsini! His expression was not amiable.

Jeffrey Todington regarded him stonily without reply. He did not loose the girl from his arms.

"Do you hear what I say!" the count shouted angrily.

"Please!" Daphne raised her head. "I'm going to my room," she announced wearily. "Come, Rich!" And ignoring the outraged count she went slowly down the corridor.

I went to my room and waited. The hours dragged themselves by. Now and again I was startled by the sound of strange noises from the salon. Once I crept close to the connecting door and held my ear to the keyhole. There was the sound of many feet, heavy boots marching across the tiles and the steady murmur of deep voices occasionally raised in a shout or a curse.

At four o'clock, when I thought I had been completely forgotten, Hawkins tapped at my door and announced that I was wanted in the library.

"Who wants me?" I demanded, my teeth chattering uncontrollably in my head.

Hawkins looked pained. "The police, miss."

The police! I shivered. I had never had more to do with the police than a polite "Good evening" to the pot-bellied copper whose beat included the surveillance of Polly's shop.

"Yes, miss," the butler sniffed audibly, "there are four of them in the house creating the most frightful disturbance. Mrs. Greely is quite beside herself."

"Oh!" The picture of Mrs. Greely "quite beside herself" was amusing, but I was too frightened to laugh.

"Will you come down now, miss?"

"Ye-es."

The chief of police of Lawnville, a Mr. Ellis, and a uniformed assistant, stood before the fireplace. At various positions about the room were scattered the members of the household and guests.

Mr. Horace, his eyes like burned holes in a blanket, occupied the large chair beside the library table. Daphne and Richard were in straight chairs nearby. Miss Henrietta, a crazed scarecrow, was poised, as if for flight, upon a tall stool beside one of the bookcases.

The guests, slightly separated from the family, were arranged in a group by the windows.

"Miss Ritter?" questioned Chief Ellis.

I nodded, for I could not have spoken for love nor money.

"Sit down over here." He indicated a chair apart from the others. I sat down weakly.

"Now then," he said, surveying us, "We'll get to the bottom of this business. Please remain quiet unless you are directly questioned."

"You've no right to order us about!" Richard jumped up.

"I don't intend to order you about," the chief spoke placatingly, "but the law must take its course."

"And what has the law to do with us?" Richard's face was a threatening thundercloud.

"Please, Rich!" Daphne pulled him backward, and unwillingly he subsided.

"Now, then," Chief Ellis began again, so far we don't know exactly what has happened here except that the medical examiner isn't satisfied that the deceased died a natural death. It's up to us to find out how—and why—she died!

"No!" protested Daphne, white as a sheet.

"But this is outrageous!" Della Craig rose to her full height. "It is ridiculous!"

"It is that!" The young man of the golden curls joined the actress.

"And who are you?" inquired the chief pleasantly.

"I am Reginald Ainsworth!"

"Yes?" Afraid you're a stranger to me. Sit down, please."

"Why—" The handsome Reginald gaped at him open-mouthed. Why!" And he collapsed like a toy balloon with the air let out.

"Horace!" Della implored her host. "Are you going to permit this—this outrige?"

"I—I don't see what I can do." Mr. Horace smiled uncertainly. "I think we had best make no complaint at present."

"Right," said Chief Ellis. "Play fair with me and I'll play fair with you. Just let me handle this my way and we'll get along all right."

Della regarded him coldy. I guess she was not used to having men, even policemen, ignore her wishes. It did my heart good to see her get the worst of it.

"Ha! Ha!" Someone else was enjoying the situation. Miss Henrietta cackled thrilly.

"Hattie!" said Mr. Horace.

She glared at her nephew: "I can laugh if I want to, Horace Witherspoon! I can laugh! Ha! Ha!"

The two policemen looked blankly at one another. The chief's assistant, who I afterward learned was Officer Karns, tapped his forehead significantly. Chief Ellis nodded.

"Well, boys!" Dr. Didmore strode into the room. He swelled importantly. "It's just as I suspected—murder!"

Murder! At his pronouncement, so callously delivered, you could have heard a pin drop. No one seemed even to breathe. Then a sigh, a long-drawn-out sigh like a shuddering sob, pierced the silence.

"Murder!" echoed Mr. Horace.

"Murder! For Heaven's sake!" The soft southern drawl of Glad Wescott reverberated around the room. I saw Richard Witherspoon send a quick glance in her direction, a glance that was intercepted by the hard, watchful eyes of Toots Lemoine. Something passed between the two of them. Something—and then it was gone.

"I suspect poison," the coroner continued. "There are no marks or wounds upon the body. I shall perform an autopsy."

"Poison eh?" Officer Karns nodded significantly. "Woman's weapon, poison," he said.

"I don't understand," protested Mr. Horace, confusion and disbelief written upon his face. "Letty poisoned?"

"I shall perform the autopsy and make my report," Dr. Didmore informed him. "It is too early to surmise."

"Father!" Daphne caught at his arm. "You must not let them! You must not!"

"The laws asks no permission," the coroner said coldly, "the matter is out of your father's hands."

"I can't bear it! I can't bear it!" She buried her face in her hands. "Its too horrible!"

You Can Tell Fortunes Lots of Exciting Ways

"Nine — a wedding my fate holds for me," Sally reads her fortune by tossing the dice into the Mystic Circle. Fred thinks Sally is mighty clever, wants to hear his fortune, too.

Try it yourself—it's easy. Use a circular piece of cardboard or draw a circle with chalk. Put the dice into a box and shake —hard.

When dice fall inside the circle, add the numbers on top of dice to learn your fortune. Three means joy, happiness. Seven's adventure. Six is gold. Fifteen's a plot to "snare you." If dice fall outside the circle try again. On the floor? A quarrel.

Here's an old gipsy stunt for telling the card fortunes of six people at once. Try it at your next party. Shuffle any fourteen cards including King, Queen and Jack of Diamonds; Ace, Three and Two of Hearts. Fortune seekers draw one card each. Two of Hearts? A love affair, Jack of Diamonds? Good fortune.

What do the other cards say? Our 32-page booklet gives meaning of every card in the deck, explains fascinating ways to tell card fortunes. How to read tea leaves, horoscopes. Fortune games for parties.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of FUN WITH FORTUNE TELLING to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

The World Is Still Waiting The Answer To Why Mismated Couples Remain So Long Married And Why They Put Up With Each Other's Foibles

ONE of the chief grievances of domestic wives is that their husbands seem to regard them as merely household gadgets, devised for their comfort and convenience, while so many other wives who spend their time in the beauty parlor instead of the kitchen are treated like Lady Loves by their husbands.

"Look at all we do for our husbands," cry these bewildered and disappointed ones. "We slave for them early and late. We pinch pennies to save their money. We go shabby that they may be well dressed when they go out in the world. We walk the babies at night so they may have their sleep. We nurse them when they are sick and buck them up when they get discouraged. We cook what they like to eat and do everything in our power to make them happy. And what appreciation do we get?

"None. Our husbands take us for granted and consider all we do for them as no more than their due. It is the Grabem Sisters, who take all and give nothing, whose husbands worship them and wait on them hand and foot. It is the lazy wives whose husbands have to get up and get their own breakfasts; it is the extravagant ones whose husbands have to work their fingers to the bones to pay their bills that men go crazy over. So what's the use in being a good wife when the bad ones get all the love and attention?"

And no one can solve their problem except by saying that somehow it seems a law of Nature that the Marthas of this world shall do its toil and bear its burdens, while the Marys reap all of the rewards and get the bouquets. And there is small comfort in that explanation.

But this curious phenomenon of marriage in which the unworthy mates get all the cakes and ale, while the worthy ones sup on gall and tears, is not confined to wives. Husbands also share the same fate. For all about us we see men who work themselves to death to indulge their wives in luxury, yet who never get even a "thank you" for their labor and sacrifice. We see husbands who are patient and forbearing, who put up with bad housekeeping and ill-temper from their wives, yet who are not even treated with civility by them. Yet they go on apparently loving their wives to the bitter end.

And, on the contrary, we see men forsaking the wives who have given them forty years of devotion and slaved to help them make their fortune for hard-boiled little golddiggers. We see men take the love and service and sacrifices of their wives as a matter of course and never give them so much as a word of praise in return, or even a sign that they still retain any vestige of interest in them or affection for them.

And we have seen so many women go down into the gutter and fish out drunkards with a love that never failed; we have seen so many women slaving in boarding houses and standing behind counters to support lazy, good-for-nothings who would not work; we have seen so many wives forgive the philanderers, time after time, who insulted them with their affairs, that it makes us wonder what qualities an individual should possess to keep the affections of the woman, or the man, to whom he or she is married.

In order to retain his wife's love, should a husband put her happiness ahead of his own and sacrifice himself to her, or does she love and respect him more if he makes her kowtow to him? Does a wife want a husband who is gentle and tender, or one who is a cave man? Should a man make his wife pull her weight in the boat, or let her make of him a dishwasher and a baby-tender?

Which has the best chance of holding her husband, Patient Griselda or a glamor girl? Does a man love his wife for making him comfortable, or keeping him amused? Does a husband stay in love with his wife because she is a model of all the virtues, or because she retains her girlish figure and is a good-looker?

Nobody can answer these questions. Not even husbands and wives. And that is why marriage is such a gamble. It is a game where there are a hundred exceptions to every rule for playing it.

Looking Back On This Date

Ninety years ago today (Feb. 1, 1849), the Earl of Elgn went to the House of Parliament at Montreal and gave the royal assent to the amnesty bill. Chief beneficiary was William Lyon Mackenzie, who was enable to return shortly afterwards.

There has been a lot written about this amnesty by sympathizers with Mackenzie, who have stated that the amnesty was due to the efforts of Joseph Hume and other Radicals in England. But the facts prove that the amnesty was the act of the Lafontaine-Baldwin ministry aided by Lord Elgin. Indeed as early as Aug. 24, 1848, the governor wrote to London:

"Ever since my present advisers have been in office I have been much pressed by them to extend an act of grace and amnesty to all persons who were engaged in the rebellions of 1837 and 1838. I think it would be highly expedient to accede to this proposition. The mercy and the favor of the crown have already been extended to several of those who were most guilty, as for instance, M. Papineau, and others liable to indictment have returned to the colony perfectly confident that the terrors of the law will never be invoked against them. In Upper Canada many who have been pardoned are still, notwithstanding such pardon, subject to penalties imposed by special acts of the legislature, which can only be removed by parliamentary enactment.

"The principal rebels who are now precluded from returning to the province are Dr. (Robert) Nelson and Mackenzie." Here Lord Elgin ventured the prophecy, which proved true, that Nelson would never return from New York, and proceeded:

"Mackenzie, the most conspicuous among the Upper Canada rebels, is very anxious to return and wrote my secretary a letter (the famous recantation and regrets). I think it would be far better as to both of these individuals to return under the shadow of a general act of amnesty than to make them the objects of special acts of favor. Mackenzie, although he has made professions of repentance and amendment, is regarded with much disfavor by a considerable portion of the inhabitants of Upper Canada. The best part, even of the Reform party in Upper Canada, would consider a pardon to him individually a misplaced act of lenity."

Later Lord Elgin expressed the belief that "if I were to take the initiative next session and propose in parliament an act of oblivion it would have an admirable effect as carrying a tacit but very telling recognition on the part of the imperial government of the conduct of the Canadians."

When the amnesty bill was debated in the assembly it was opposed by the "Tories, bound by MacNab, to make mischief, demanding the production of the correspondence which I refused." The opposition was defeated by a large majority and Elgin in the Queen's name gave asesnt to this historic "act of grace and mercy."

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

When Knarf and Hanid told the folks in the playroom about Sparrow, who came every morning to the windowsill in the children's room looking for breadcrumbs, most of them said: "He's a lucky bird to be able to go flying around the way he does even though it's winter outside."

But Perdy, the canary, who lived in a cage which hung near the sunny window in the playroom, shook his head. "I don't think Sparrow is so lucky at all. I think he's very unlucky."

"But do you like living in a cage."

"Why?"

"Because he doesn't live in a cage the way I do."

"But do you like to live in a cage?" Hanid asked in surprise.

In a Cage.

"You can't fly much in a cage," Knarf added. "There isn't much room."

"That's right," said the canary. "But you can do so many other things. You can eat whenever you like. My seed-box is always full. And there is always plenty of water to drink. And if you feel like taking a bath—all you have to do is take it. And you can stand on a perch and sing. And you can hop and spring, and swing. Yes—the only thing you can't really do is fly."

"But isn't that important for a bird?" the two shadows asked. "Birds have wings and they should be able to fly."

The canary was silent for a moment or two. "I suppose you're right," he said at last. "Flying is very important for a bird. I remember my mother telling me about all the places—the wonderful places there are to fly to. The trees, the flower-beds, the hill-tops, the water-falls. It would be nice to fly to all of them. It would be nice to meet other birds and sit on a branch singing with all of them. But—"

"But what?"

His Reasoning.

"But it's not for me. I'm a canary. I was born in a cage. It's my home. And perhaps," he added, "Sparrow sometimes wishes he lived in a cage, too. Perhaps he wishes he didn't have to wonder each morning when he comes to the windowsill wether the children have forgotten to leave his breadcrumbs for him. No, I'm quite happy just as I am."

And just to show how happy he was, he hopped lightly on his perch and sang a beautiful song.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, February 2.

Rather "mixed influences," according to astrological testimonies, are found in this day's chart. While there may be sudden and surprising opportunities for progress and expanding good fortunes, there also may be a definite obstacle or delay in reaching these desirable objectives. This might possibly have to do with the personal activities or that of the family. It is probable that strangers or distant influences may assist to a beneficial change. Secret alliances may be lucrative.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of rather conflicting conditions. There is much opportunity for gain and expanded interests, but there is a delaying, impeding, or disappointing influence as well. This might be due to illness or depression. Distant matters, strangers or large interests or political organizations may figure in one's success and demand a change of plans.

A child born on this day may have varied talents, much ingenuity and skill, although disposed to "hide its light under a bushel" through morbidity, lack of confidence or physical debility.

Britain may grant a subsidy of $5 an acre to barley growers.

India's population is expected to double in the next 70 years.

George Street Young People Meet

Over sixty members of George Street Church Young People's Society met Tuesday evening for the weekly meeting, which was under the direction of the Christian Culture department. Recreation led by Miss Loretta McDougall opened the program, and a sing-song was led by Mr. Lloyd Parnall.

During the brief business period the president, Mrs. Wasson, announced a congregational skating party which is being held Thursday evening at the Brock street rink, and extended a welcome to all the members of the society. The musical program included solos by Mr. Wallie Crouter accompanied by Miss Helen Delahaye, and delightful piano duets by Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Nicholls.

The theme of the worship service which closed the meeting was "Love," and hymns, prayer and scripture centred around this theme. Taking part in this service were Miss Jean Doogan, Miss Betty Lytle, Miss Mary Walker and Mr. Kenneth Brenton.

Tested Favorite Recipes

(By MARY MOORE)

The famous Butter Cakes that a certain chain of restaurants used to serve "hot off the griddle" have long been a mystery to many hungry cooks. Not long ago we printed a recipe that was made on the same principles, but we think the following is a better one:

Butter Cakes.

Scald 2 cups milk, then to it add 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter (or good shortening), and 2 tablespoons sugar. Cool this mixture to lukewarm, then to it add 2 cakes of yeast and stir until they dissolve. Then sift in 4½ cups sifted flour. Beat until smooth—or for about 2 minutes. Put dough into clean bowl, stand the bowl in pan of warm water at about 70 deg. Fahr. and let rise until very light—until about double in bulk. Drop from large spoon onto medium hot griddle—not as hot as for griddle cakes. Bake until bottom crust is brown, turn over and bake on other side. It takes from 10 to 15 minutes to acquire a good crunchy crust on both sides and to bake these cakes through to the centre. Serve hot—tear apart and dot with butter. If any are left they may be split and toasted next day. These amounts make about 15 butter cakes.

PRAISES BARBERS

SYDNEY MINES, N.S.—(CP). — Superintendent Helen Saunders of Harbor View Hospital here paid tribute to Sydney Mines barbers in her annual report. She said they had come voluntarily to the hospital on the day of the Princess Colliery disaster in which 21 were killed or fatally injured, and shaved and washed the injured.

In addition to ranking as tops on the airwaves, they have made several movie shorts and just signed a contract for more film features.

Canada's Heritage Is Described As a Glorious One

"Our heritage—so what?" was the thought-provoking address heard by the Mark Street United Church young people at their annual banquet Monday evening in the Sunday School room of the church. Mr. H. L. Garner was guest speaker, and was presented by the vice-president of the society, Mr. Fred Parsons.

Illustrating his words with the life stories of two men, one born into a home rich in material luxuries, but lacking in the one thing that money cannot buy, parental guidance and companionship; the other into a home that was humble in one sense, but nevertheless rich in a loving and wise guidance, Mr. Garner pointed out that the finest heritage is made up of intangible things such as love, honesty, charity, steadfastness, industry, kindness, fairness and tolerance, which far outweigh in effectiveness and influence for good the material heritage of possessions and ostentatious show.

The speaker described the heritage of Canadians as a glorious one, with its freedom to come and go as we please; to practice our religion, whatever it may be, without dictation or molestation; to express ourselves without fear of reprisal; to conduct our business without restraint or hindrance except as dictated by good business practice." He discussed the debt which young people of today owe to posterity, and answered his own question of "What can I get from posterity?" by remarking that "You get out of anything just about what you put into it—and life is no exception." The thanks of the young people was expressed to the speaker by Miss Dorothy Giles.

After a pleasant few minutes of community singing, Mr. Harry Northrop entertained with piano numbers, and two delightful solos were given by Mrs. Northrop. An interesting item of the evening was the reading of the first Young People's paper, edited under the capable directorship of Miss Marjorie Ferguson.

A short induction service for the new officers was conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. W. Rowland.

Senator and Mrs. R. F. Green Mark Golden Wedding Anniversary

VICTORIA, Feb. 1 — (CP). — Senator and Mrs. R. F. Green were honored here yesterday as they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. They were married Jan. 31, 1889, in Erie, Penn.

Messages of congratulation were received from all parts of Canada and hundreds of friends called to express their good wishes. The large reception rooms of their home were filled with flowers of every description.

Senator and Mrs. Green, who will leave for Ottawa shortly, came to British Columbia soon after their marriage and settled in the Kootenay district. In 1912 Senator Green was elected to the House of Commons by acclamation as Conservative member for Kootenay and in 1921 was called to the Senate.

Assisting in receiving the guests were Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Green, son and daughter-in-law of the Senator and Mrs. Green.

Paris Features Gray and Yellow

Gray and yellow tinges characterize many of the new colors which Paris fabric houses have advanced in their spring collections prepared for the couture. Gray itself, and the putty shades which are between gray and beige, are featured in woollen houses; blues show most gray influence, including horizon, tapestry and pastel blues, with some brighter medium tones like saxe and royal. Pastels, pinks and roses show the influence of gray.

Yellows, so prominent in Paris midseason costume collections, continue to be featured strongly, and reds and greens now incline to yellow casts rather than to the rosy-reds and blue-greens of fall. Lobster and lipstick reds, a number of nasturtium and zinnia shades from yellow through orange to red are typical of the new yellow-tinted colors. Chartreuse and bud greens are typical of the yellow-tinged greens. One woollen house is putting a little yellow into nearly all sports mixtures to give a yellow tinge to the basic color.

Interest Shown In Foreign Languages

The enrolment for the evening educational classes throughout London shows a remarkable interest in foreign languages, we are told. The demand is easily the biggest on record, French, German, and Spanish, in that order, are the most popular so far as actual numbers go.

The complaint is frequently made, and with every justification, that the British are not a nation of linguists, and, unlike the Continentals, have no special desire to learn. But the international crisis seems to have brought young men and women in London up against serious problems, and the demand for knowledge of foreign languages is the natural outcome.

MRS. SUND of 10 Elaine Court, McDermot Avenue, Winnipeg, is very enthusiastic about the many uses of mustard as a family remedy. Going to her pantry, she brought out the Keen's tin and said she would not be without it in her home.

About a year ago, her daughter Mary had a bad cold, which left her with a sore back, shot through with sharp pains. After using a number of remedies without avail, she tried a mustard poultice. This had such good results that a second and a third were applied and, after the third, the pain disappeared completely. Before applying a poultice of mustard, Mrs. Sund always rubs the part lightly with pure lard. This allows the mustard to stimulate circulation and do its healing work, without burning the skin.

A POULTICE GOES ON FIRST

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sund, who, of course, have great faith in their family doctor, smilingly told of his invariable advice when they call up about any of the family who are down with a chest cold. "Put on a mustard poultice," are his first words, "And I'll be around in the morning."

Mrs. Sund boasts that her mother and her mother's mother always relied on mustard for many purposes, and it was from their experiences she learned to use it.

It is wise to get in touch with your doctor at the first sign of a bad general cold and, if he cannot come at once, take a hot mustard bath and stay in bed. Two or three tablespoons of dry mustard mixed with a little cold water, and added to the tub, will stimulate circulation and begin the work of throwing off the cold. If the cold is in the chest, take Mrs. Sund's advice and stop it with a poultice.

SAFE AND ECONOMICAL

Mustard is safe and economical for many ailments. It only costs a cent or two to mix enough with a little cold water for a poultice, a hot foot bath or a tub bath to check colds, relieve aches and pains or induce sleep. A mustard bath stimulates circulation, cleanses the pores and has a medicinal effect that is amazing. Write to Colman-Keen (Canada) Limited, Montreal, for free booklet describing its medicinal uses and giving the correct proportions for preparing it.

Order an extra tin for the bathroom, and be sure to insist upon Keen's Mustard, the brand that is famous all over the world for its quality, purity and strength. 41M

J. A. McFeeter Resigns From Milk Board

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—The resignation of J. A. MacFeeters as a member of the Milk Control Board of Ontario was announced yesterday by Hon. P. M. Dewan, Minister of Agriculture. Mr. Dewan said the resignation had been accepted, and he announced the appointment of Erle Kitchen, R.R. 4, Woodstock, to the board.

Reason for the resignation of Mr. MacFeeters was the expansion of his own private business interests.

Mr. Kitchen has a broad knowledge of the dairy industry, it was stated. He was born at St. George and farmed with his uncle there until 1919, when he moved to Oxford County, where he has conducted a large dairy farm. A former student of the Ontario Agricultural College, he was a member of East Oxford Township Council for three years. At the present time he is secretary of the Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers' Association.

He will attend the regular sittings of the Milk Control Board, but is not an administrative officer, Mr. Dewan said.

In order to accept the position, Mr. Kitchen has resigned as vice-president of the Toronto Milk Producers' Association and from the executive of the Whole Milk Producers' League of Ontario.

Judge Views 'Strip' In Milk Shower Decides Dancer 99 p.c. Nude

DETROIT, Feb. 1 — (CP). — A description of a strip tease in a milk shower bath, in dry, precise legal terms was on court records here to-day written by Judge Charles Rubiner after research in a night club here.

Judge Rubiner was trying the suit by Zorine, a nude dancer, against her manager, Fred Merrill, for damages because he violated a contract to manage her alone as Detroit's nudist, and instead managed another girl, Dorothy Henry.

Merrill's defence was that Miss Henry was not a nudist, she was a creative dancer. Conflicting testimony so baffled the judge he determined, all in the interests of justice, to investigate.

Judge Rubiner held Miss Henry's dance was 99 per cent. nude. "The dance consists chiefly of posing on a circular platform about the size of a bass drum," the judge reported. "The dancer begins her act plentifully clothed, but in the course of her gyrations she discards one garment after another. In the meantime, a circle of jets around the rim of the platform emit streams of liquid on her body, giving the effect of a milk shower bath.

"During the bath more garments are shed until the performer is clad only in nature's raiment, with the exception of a string intended to serve as a brassiere, and something not much more than a string around her loins.

"When this became wet the performer, at least to the naked eye, was entirely nude. The total costume of the dancer probably could be carried in her compact."

The court assessed damages at $500 in Zorine's favor.

Nazi Competition In South America Looms As Blow To U.S. Trade

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—(AP).—Increased German competition with the United States for South American trade was expected by federal officials today to result from Chancellor Hitler's Reichstag speech.

Commercial experts disputed Hitler's contention that Nazi trade relations with Latin-American nations were no concern of the United States. They pointed out that Germany's trade is on a barter and artificial currency basis, and declared this in general has the effect of diminishing the total of international trade.

They contended also that Germany's foreign trade, being controlled by the Nazi government, was a means of exerting political influence and therefore could not help but be of concern to the United States in the western hemisphere.

State department officials made no public comment on Hitler's address, which contained several references to the United States.

The belief was widespread in diplomatic and other official circles, however, that relations between Germany and the United States might continue to be strained for some time. There is no prospect that the German and American ambassadors, now at home, will be permitted to return soon to their posts.

Wishes Peace, But——

Although Hitler said "Germany wishes to live in peace and on friendly terms with all countries, including America," students of international affairs noted these four references which he made directly or indirectly to the United States:

1.—That the present relations between the two nations suffered from a campaign of defamation conducted in the United States "to serve obvious political and financial interests."

2.—That in certain democracies it is apparently one of the special prerogatives of political democratic life to cultivate an artificial hatred of the so-called totalitarian states."

3.—That Germany's economic relations with Latin-American are her own business and not that of the United States.

4.—That certain persons like Interior Secretary Harold Ickes are "apostles of war."

Diplomatic circles believed a campaign of press recrimination against the United States might follow Hitler's statement, 'I deem it necessary that from now on in our propaganda and in our press all attacks be answered and above all be brought to attention of the German people."

FALSE ALARM

HALIFAX—(CP).—It was just another false alarm when fire apparatus responded to a call from one of the city's main business streets. A coal truck went too close to a pole and tore the alarm box off.

Caught In Blizzard School Girl, 13, Gets Badly Frozen

Orillia, Ont., Feb. 1 (CP)

BETTY BROWN, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Brown, Bolsover, was taken to Soldiers Memorial Hospital in Orillia after being badly frozen on her way to school yesterday. Walking less than a mile to the school house in a heavy blizzard and in zero weather, the girl's face was frozen and her hands, clutching her coat collar to keep it closed, were frozen. It was believed at first the two fingers would have to be amputated but it was expected this would not be necessary.

India's population is expected to be 400,000,000 when the next census is taken in 1941.

Blizzard Paralyzed Mid-West

Sweeping down on Chicago a howling blizzard piled up 14.8 inches of snow in 14 1-2 hours, completely crippling all transportation in the windy city. Many schools, factories and stores remained closed as the city began a battle to free itself from the heavy drifts of snow which obstructed streets and highways. Hundreds of cars were left in the street by their owners as driving became impossible. Here a policeman sweeps the snow off the window of an abandoned car to make sure there are no occupants.

Collegiate Notes

Due to circumstances beyond our control—to say nothing of exams—this column has probably been noted by its absence through the long hours of the past week or two. For this we are truly sorry. But, from now until the roses bloom in the late spring—say about June—gather around each Wednesday eve and the hearsay of the old Alma Mater will be at your service, yours to peruse and digest.

BASKETBALL

After a lay-off of a couple of weeks the warriors of old P.C.I. goeth forth to do battle once more in your honor. This Friday come even-tide three Garnet and Grey squads will "go all out" against a trio of battling basketeers from the fair city of Bowman-villa in an attempt to keep intact their winning ways. As you remember when last heard from the Senior Boys had soundly trounced Lindsay, Miss Brisbin's Senior Girl's had taken care of both Lindsay and Port Hope and the Junior Boys under the guidance of Mr. Craig had made their first appearance, annihilating Port Hope's Junior Red and Black threat.

And in doing these aforementioned feats the home lads and lassies looked very apt and accomplished and should go far in their quests for Provincial or at least C.O.S.S.A. titles. As we see it the only potential threat to the Senior lads supremacy is Bowmanville and the Juniors may encounter trouble with the Cobourg younger lads. Especially down in the pint-sized Cobourg gym. The Senior Lassies shouldn't have too much trouble winning their district. At least from what we've seen so far.

All in all it looks as though the pay-off games for all concerned may very well be enacted this week and the following Friday when the three P.C.I. teams pay a return engagement to the Rubbertown school gym. Three wins here this week would indeed be a big thing in the Old Hall of Learning and the corridors would truly hum merry tunes come next Monday morning. A good crowd out there yelling at all three engagements wouldn't hurt one little bit either so let's see you.

First game (the junior tussle) will likely start at seven, followed by the Senior Girl's at eight and the Senior Boy's winding it up at nine. Or the junior boys may play after school, advancing each of the night games an hour. Be in there battling lads and lasses!

CAMERA CLUB CAPERS

Despite the exams this past few days, the Camera Club, always one of the busiest of school organizations has had an extremely trying few days. Had their regular meeting last week and again this week, on Monday, are busily engaged in taking pictures of groups and outstanding persons of the school and are also handling the line of school stationary which has been put on sale lately. On the Camera Club show-case at present, too, are some swelegant snaps of Bob Crocker, taken by our friend and rival correspondent Hugh Kenner, depicting the worries and cares of an Upper School student (almost any Upper School student) in the midst of writing exams.

Along side of these are samples of the school stationary ordered some time ago, but apparently which has just been received. It is Gray paper with a Garnet school chest embossed at the top. Strictly classy. And then, for those who prefer plain white paper with just the crest on the top there is also a small quantity of it attainable at the same price. It can be obtained at 1 o'clock on Mondays, Wednesdays or Friday from the Camera Club. It has been suggested that this year the Camera Club have their picture taken for the Echoes and this indeed is a worthy idea. However, it is not definite yet, the Camera Club having it under consideration now.

SCHOOL PLAY

Well, at long last, after many weeks of silent work and practice the Dramatic Society, under the direction of Mr. Hale steps to the fore with this announcement. That somewhere near the end of March the Dramatic Society will present their play. It has been announced as Barrie's popular comedy "Dear Brutus," a delightful, fantastic offering which should go over big with the pupils who play in it and most definitely with those who see it. Practices start today (Wednesday) at 4 o'clock and come March we should have as practiced and skilled a school cast as ever faced an audience over the Collegiate foot-lights. Best wishes to everyone concerned — which should be everyone.

PICTURES

Again tomorrow, Mr. Henry will present another program of film subjects to the school body at 4.10 in the Assembly. The last program was a big success and a large crowd turned out and this week's show, while only half the price, should be almost on a par with it. The No. 1 item, at least the first on the program is entitled Pandora and billed as an animated cartoon. Then comes what looks like an educational feature entitled 'Oil from the Earth.' No. 3 is called 'Ski time in the Laurentians' and should be the hit of the program with so many of the skiing fraternity in our midst. To wind up the program comes a short entitled 'Noranda Enterprise' without much doubt a trip to the mining areas of Northern Ontario.

LITERARY SOCIETY FINALE

The concluding number of this year's four 'Lit' meetings was presented to the school body on the afternoon of the twenty-fourth and was furnished (and we don't mean with tables and chairs) by forms II and III to the Household Arts, Industrial Arts and III Commercial. The program was presented in the form of a broadcast, made possible by the electrical efforts of Roy Hiscox. Featured were a rendition of the popular Walt Disney novelty tune 'Ferdinad the Bull' sung by chorus of III Commercial students and Miss Orma Lacheur's singing of the Indian Love Song. The remainder of the program, a comedy was filled with laughs and brought a fitting close to a good year in the world of Literary Society.

Featured in it were Hugh Heslip, Eileen Jeffries, Ken Rose, Iris Whalen, Andy Fowler, Queenie Holden, Ken Turnbull, Mel Andrus and George Watson. Mr. Weem's orchestra did a good job of supplying music throughout the performance, and the teachers and pupils responsible deserve all the credit in the world.

SKATING PARTY

Just in case anyone hasn't heard and if we aren't too late in warning you tonight (still Wednesday) the school is holding a mammoth skating party in the Brock street rink. This is something new at least as far as we can remember and should prove a definite success at least judging by the talk around the halls of P.C.V.S. Proceedings are scheduled to get away about 8 o'clock and the small charge of one dime is being asked as your admission price. So come one and come all and let's make this a big night in the school year. Prizes have been promised and 'tis said there will also be good music. After the gloom of the exams this should be a welcome excuse to cut loose. So as Kay Keyser would say—'Come on Chillun', let's skate!'

SOUNDS IN THE NIGHT

Basketball squads have been practicing nightly through the exams for this week's important tilts ....Pictures of the caricatures which lined the walls of the gym at the 'At Home' were shown in the Camera Club showcase last week... Gloom was so thick in the halls this past week or so you could cut it with a knife—even a medium sharp knife....Echoes staff is still looking for volumes No. 1 and 2 of the School Year Book....Lookin' and hopin'....Watch a couple of lads named Depew and Wiseman this week in the game against Bowmanville....They can go....The Rubbertown Senior lads will sorely miss Mason who is playing hockey instead....New back-boards and baskets for the gym have been rumored but nothing definite has come our way yet....No morning entertainment this week due to exams... And so as the Latins say, be seein' you....Latins in Manhattan that is.—J.E.C.

The Rarely Photographed Spencer Tracy Family

Few faces are more familiar to movie fans than that of Spencer Tracy, while few families of Hollywood stars are photographed less than his. A photographer found the family together however when Mrs. Tracy and five-year-old Suzanne visited the star on the set and here they are seen chatting between "takes."

WARSAW

One of the jolliest dances in a long times was held in Warsaw town hall on Friday evening, when a shower was given Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ivey. A good crowd was present.

Miss Cora Drain returned to Toronto on Sunday after a few days visit here. Dr. Donald Munro has been laid up for a week.

France Peps Up Campaign In Balkans

PARIS, Feb. 1—(AP). — France stepped up her campaign to regain her lost influence in the Balkans today in an effort to reinforce her stand against German and Italian expansion.

Members of the cabinet, meeting last night before Chancellor Hitler's speech in Berlin, ordered quick completion of negotiations for trade treaties with Rumania and Yugoslavia.

"Hitler's speech has not aggravated the international situation" was the general reaction of both French officials and the press to the German Chancellor's words.

Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet said the speech was "much more moderate than expected."

Hitler's assurances of support for Italy in the event she is attacked caused some apprehension, however, lest Premier Mussolini take this as a "go ahead" signal to press claims for French territory.

Mussolini's speech tomorrow was awaited for the next indication as how Europe's course would turn.

A significant statement of France's position in the face of German and Italian colonial demands came from General Henri Giraud, military governor of Metz, in an address last night at Metz.

Suicide to Start War

"Germany and Italy must know that it would be suicide for them to throw themselves into a war against France," he declared, adding that the Maginot line could turn back any attack and that German aviation, although admittedly superior to the French, could not win.

"I say this because it is my absolute conviction because I know the strength of the French army," he said.

He said the French Government already had taken the stand it would go to war rather than yield to Italian demands for Tunisia, Corsica, and other French Mediterranean possessions.

Premier Daladier called his key ministers, including Bonnet and Finance Minister Paul Reynaud, into conference to decide what could be done about improving France's standing in Central Europe, impaired by her failure to oppose the partition of Czecho-Slovakia last fall.

An economic mission, which studied the situation, reported an "entirely new system of French economy" would be needed to recapture that field.

French ministers announced that new offers already had been laid before Yugoslav and Rumanian delegations, now in Paris for negotiations, and that the signing of new trade treaties was imminent. The nature of the accords was kept a secret pending their signature.

MARMORA

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Rattray visited relatives in Kingston over the week-end.

Miss Marjorie Loveless, nurse-in-training at Belleville General Hospital, spent Sunday at her home in Deloro.

Miss Winnifred Sabine spent the week-end in Kingston.

Misses Margaret Shannon and Mary Paquet were visitors in Kingston over the week-end.

How to Beat
CHRONIC BRONCHITIS
Coughing? Bringing up phlegm, or hacking to get it loose? Take Templeton's RAZ-MAH Capsules. Choking, wheezing, gasping, coughing are usually relieved at once! Check attacks by taking RAZ-MAH whenever chest begins to feel tight. Relief from $1 worth—or money back. 50c or $1 at druggists. 506

Convalescing After Sickness

After many severe illnesses such as influenza, scarlet and typhoid fever, pneumonia, etc., or an operation, the patient is usually left in an extremely weak, nervous and exhausted condition.

To all these convalescents who need a tonic to strengthen and build up their weakened system we would recommend Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills to assist them back to the full enjoyment of robust health. They supply the elements so necessary to build up the shattered nervous system, and bring back bodily strength and vigor.

As Franco Personally Directed Successful Drive Against Barcelona

When his insurgent forces made their supreme effort, in the recent drive into Catalonia, that climaxed in the capture of Barcelona, Generalissimo Franco himself took the helm of the great offensive. He is shown, LEFT, watching the advance of his troops on a government position. Jubilation is written on every face of this insurgent regiment. UPPER RIGHT, as they march into Tarragona, key position in their drive against Barcelona. Crashing through the first ring of defences around Barcelona, insurgent forces are shown, LOWER LEFT, standing guard over government forces captured in the loyalist trenches surrounding the city. Too young to realize what it is all about, these little children, LOWER RIGHT, raise their arms in salute to the new order as they emerged from the ruins of their bombed home.

Suggest Bonusing Northern Trapper

REGINA, Feb. 1 (CP).—Suggestion the Federal government might consider bonusing northern trappers to offset a serious drop in fur prices and light catches was made by D. A. Hall (Lib., Cumberland) in the Saskatchewan Legislature yesterday.

He said trapping conditions in the north were none too good this season, there being a scarcity of animals, but, despite this, prices were poor.

Red fox, which formerly sold for about $35 a skin, now demands from $3 to $5, and silver fox pelts that formerly demanded prices up in the hundreds now brought about $20.

Mr. Hall recommended establishment of large game preserves in the north, where animals could propogate in comparative safety. During the past few years the ravages of fire, over-trapping and low water levels had hit the trapper "a pretty hard blow."

CENTRETON

Mrs. C. Eddy, Carmel, and grandson Ira Merriam, called on his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Merriam on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. James McKenzie, Misses Bernice Bromwich and Marie Millar, and John Gillespie were visitors to Cobourg on Saturday afternoon.

The memebrs of the King's Own Mission Band are meeting in the Sunday School Room on Saturday afternoon.

Rev. H. W. W. Bromwich gave the fourth series of sermons on Simon Peter on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. A. Nichol and Mrs. P. Stewart sang a duet. The following annual report of the United Church was read: Envelope givings, $249.30; collections, $49.56; strawberry social, $40.47; thanksoffering and supper, $168.32; other sources, $16.50—making a total of $524.14 raised.

Fairmount Church Has Fine Year

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FAIRMOUNT, Feb. 1.—The annual church meeting of Fairmount was held on Friday evening. Three joined the church, one was baptized and one died.

Mr. J. O. Ball then gave the financial report as follows: W.M.S. allocation, $130; S.S. balance on hand, $127.90; M. and M. givings, $16; Y.P.U. gave $3 to M. and M. funds; expenses for the year $585.35; balance on hand $126.50.

The election of officers then took place with the stewards re-elected as follows: Messrs. R. K. Earle, B. Johnston, G. H. Hooton, S. T. Wilson, C. W. Seymour, P. B. Seymour; committee to provide past records, Mr. T. W. McIndoo, Mr. G. C. McBain, Mrs. J. Seymour; organist, Mrs. T. W. McIndoo; ushers, Roy Hooton and Will Edgerton; auditors for 1939, Edward Johnston and Lloyd Hooton; caretaker, Harry McArthur.

It was decided to hold anniversary services the first Sunday in October, Mr. T. W. McIndoo and the Rev. C. L. Brown to secure the minister.

Snow Storm Briefs

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 1—(AP).—A storm that swept New York state today could not be defined as a blizzard, United States meteorologist James H. Spencer said, because it lacked:

1. A northerly gale; 2. A blinding snow fog composed of very fine snow; and 3. Zero temperatures.

BOSTON, Feb. 1 — (AP). — A roaring northeast blizzard, ripping into New England at a mile-a-minute force, last night interrupted shipping, grounded air transportation, slowed motor traffic and left two dead from accidents attributed to the storm. In Boston Harbor, mariners reported a wind velocity of 60 miles an hour.

MONTREAL, Feb. 1. — (CP). — A blizzard swept into Quebec province last night before a 41-mile-an-hour gale, reports showed no damage or disruption of traffic or communication services. Weather authorities said it was the same storm that was raging over Ontario and sections of the Northern United States.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Feb. 1.—(CP)—Police held two girls, 15 and 16, today after they confessed they hitch-hiked here from Thomaston, Ga., just to see snow.

The girls ran into the biggest snow drifts seen here in a decade. They were having such fun throwing snowballs police decided they must be strangers here and questioned them. They will be returned to their homes.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 1.—(A.P)—The business of telling which way the wind blows is a worry for the Erie County Highway Commission.

"The wind usually blows from the west," said Acting Highway Commissioner Arthur Yaw. "So all our snow fences have been placed on the west side of the highways."

"Now look at it," he added as he studied reports of three-foot drifts. "It's blowing from the east and the fences aren't doing up a bit of good."

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 — (AP). — Neither wind nor snow nor crippled transportation facilities could change Mrs. Eleonora Martin's mind about her husband, Harry. She travelled more than 30 miles through a blizzard to get a divorce.

SOME ATTEMPT

BUSHEY, England—(CP).—Tommy Godwin, 26-year-old cyclist, is trying to break the world's 12-months' cycling record. He plans to travel more than 72,000 miles by covering at least 200 miles a day.

IT DIDN'T STOP HIM

PONTEFRACT, England—(CP).—Harry Leake, 49, a slater of Burston, was admitted to hospital here after going about his work for days with a broken neck. He was injured when a ladder broke while he was working.

After Bombing Charged To Irish

Police are shown cleaning up the glass that littered the roadway after one in a series of bomb explosions that spread terror in various English and Irish communities last week. This one was at a switch station of the Central Electricity Board in Southwark. Apart from glass breakage, it did little damage. Authorities blamed Irish terrorists of the outlawed Irish Republican army. Many arrests were made all over England.

NERVOUS WOMEN

IF you are nervous, weak or have headaches or backaches, take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It tones the female organs, calms the nerves, improves nutrition and so strengthens you. Mrs. J. M. Stott (photo above), of 245 Brock St., Brantford, Ont., says: "I was so awfully nervous that everything upset and irritated me. I felt weak, draggy and worn-out and often had such miserable headaches I could cry. After using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a short while, my appetite improved, I was stronger, wasn't so nervous, and became sturdy and robust. I felt better in every way." Buy it in liquid or tablets at your drug store.

Pilot With 5,000 Hours Of Flying Returns As Student Pilot And Is Going Back To School

MONTREAL, Feb. 1. — After 5,000 hours of flying, something like 750,000 miles in twenty years, Donald R. MacLaren, assistant to the vice-president, Trans-Canada Air Lines, is going back to school. He left Montreal by yesterday morning's plane for Winnipeg where, as a student pilot, he will begin all over again. Putting himself in the hands of instructors, he will start with the link trainer, "flying" without leaving the ground. He will go through the six stages of training required of all pilots until he finds himself on the right side of the plane as a first officer. Then he will study station procedure, despatching, weather and maintenance and overhaul. The idea is that as an operating officer he may be thoroughly familiar with every aspect of T.C.A. operating methods. He will be in the West two or three months.

MacLaren learned flying "the hard way" as a bush pilot and in the war. He first went aloft in 1917, with the Royal Flying Corps at Long Branch, Ont. He was in France, where he made a distinguished record, until October, 1918. Then he represented the Canadian Government on the Air Ministry until 1921. He had a permanent commission as squadron leader in the Royal Air Force, but resigned it and came home to Canada instead of going to India. Entering the commercial aviation field he organized Pacific Airways and operated the fisheries patrol along the British Columbia coast, made aerial photographs, transported freight by air into the Yukon and Northern British Columbia, and flew the night mail between Regina, Moosejaw, and Calgary. Later, when the company was merged with Canadian Airways, he became assistant general manager, Pacific Lines. This position he relinquished in 1937 to become the first employee of the Trans-Canada Air Lines.

Percy Commissioners Are Re-elected

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, Feb. 1.—The annual meeting of the Percy municipal telephone system was held in the council chambers Saturday afternoon. There was a large number of subscribers present who were well pleased with the reports given. J. A. Sykes, D. H. Evans and James O'Reilly were re-elected commissioners.

D. Shorter was a visitor to Peterborough Saturday.

Egg Group Paid $885,388 In Four Years

OTTAWA, Feb. 1—(CP).—Since formation of the first unit four years ago, the 28 units of the Eastern Ontario Egg and Poultry Farmers' Co-operative Associations have been paid a total of $885,388 for their products, the Dominion Department of Agriculture announced today.

Market through the co-operative associations, the farmers have received $727,806 for their eggs, $140,622 for dressed poultry, and $16,960 for live poultry.

Figures for 1938 show a return of $301,032 for eggs, $65,906 for dressed poultry and $10,178 for live poultry. Before formation of the first co-operative unit at Oxford Mills, Ont., in Dec., 1934, the farmers of eastern Ontario sold thei reggs and poultry haphazardly to itinerant buyers and to stores, getting what price they could.

The co-operatives now market the produce on a mass basis, taking into account market conditions and the current prices on Montreal markets. Average cost to the farmer for overhead expenses, including the co-operative manager's commission and shipping charges, amounts to about 2½ cents a dozen eggs.

How to Make a Splendid Cough Remedy at Home

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really splendid medicine for bad winter coughs. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives you four times as much cough remedy for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is a very effective, dependable, quick-acting cough remedy for the whole family. Quickly, you feel its penetrating effect in the air passages. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You'll be more than delighted with its quick effect in clearing up bad coughs.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, a well known and reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

"For 25 Years we have had the best results from advertising in the Local Daily Newspaper."

MR. C. M. ELLIOTT
of Elliott Brothers, dealers for General Motors cars and trucks. One of Woodstock's outstanding business men, with over 25 years of retail experience.

For over 25 years we have been consistent advertisers in the local daily newspaper. During that period we have experimented with other forms of advertising, but we have found we get the best results from daily newspaper space. We use approximately 25,000 lines in the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, for our used car and service promotion.

Almost all the products we sell are nationally advertised. When this national advertising appears in the local daily it not only tells local buyers why they should buy, but shows them where they can buy the products locally. The result is increased sales, greater benefits for both the manufacturer and for us.

Yours sincerely,

DIED

KENNEDY, Arnot.—On Wednesday, February 1, 1939, at his residence at 31 Conger street, Arnot Kennedy, in his 77th year. Funeral on Friday at 2 o'clock from his late residence; the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church officiating in the absence of Rev Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Interment at Lakefield Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

CRIBBES. — In loving memory of Glenn Earl Cribbes, who passed away on February 1, 1938.

God called him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts we love him still
His memory is as dear to-day
As in the hour he passed away.
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by Mother and Father.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. John R. Darling and family of Lakefield wish to thank all their friends for kindnesses shown, those who sent flowers, and loaned cars during their recent bereavement.

OBITUARY

HENRY WEIR KERR

The funeral service for the late Henry Weir Kerr, were conducted at his residence at 659 Water street on Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe officiating in the absence of the Rev. M. C. Parr. Mr. Kerr died suddenly on Saturday.

A largely attended funeral, it bore testimony to the high esteem in which Mr. Kerr had been held in this city, where for 16 years he was employed as a rural mail carrier. Many of his country friends were present at the funeral, others were unable to attend because of blocked roads. There was a profusion of flowers.

In his remarks Mr. Sutcliffe stressed the fine Christian character possessed by Mr. Kerr, who was known widely as a kind, helping man. A conscientious worker, a man of deep religious beliefs, a man always ready to lend a helping hand to those in need, Mr. Kerr will be sadly missed in this community, said Mr. Sutcliffe.

Peterborough people will remember Mr. Kerr as a man who was always doing kindly deeds. He was always willing to give car rides to those who could not walk, or who were aged. He was kind and loving to members of his family, and a deeply spiritual man.

Pall bearers at the funeral were F. E. Kerr, George Morrison, Jack Gough, Cecil Sisson, William Brackenbridge, and William Woods. Honorory bearers were Everett Woods, Ernest Holden, Percy White, and Harry Dawson.

Interment was at Dawson's cemetery, South Monaghan.

ARNOT KENNEDY.

The death of Arnot Kennedy, once a member of the street railway department of this city, occurred at his residence at 31 Conger Street this morning, after an illness that lasted some time. He was in his 77th year.

Mr. Kennedy was at one time a section foreman on the old Grand Trunk Railway, was later with the gas department of the Peterborough Utilities Commission, and later was employed by the street railway department, retiring about fifteen year ago. He was born in Smith Township, son of the late John Kennedy and Margaret Foster, and moved to this city more than half a century ago. All his life was spent in this area. He was a member of the Chosen Friends Society.

His wife, formerly Annie Boyce, predeceased him in May, two years ago. Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. W. J. Nesbitt of Peterborough; one son, Russell Kennedy of Toronto; and one brother, John Kennedy of Smith.

The funeral will be on Friday afternoon from the late residence at 2 o'clock, the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church officiating, in the absence of Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Interment will be at Lakefield Cemetery.

MRS. JOHN CARLISLE

The funeral of Mrs. John Carlisle, who died at Nicholls Hospital Monday night, in her eighty-second year, took place this afternoon to Little Lake Cemetery from Comstock's funeral home, attended by members of her family, one of the oldest in Peterborough, and many friends. The service was conducted by Rev. G. S. Easton, in the absence of Rev. M. C. Parr, minister of George Street United Church, of which Mrs. Carlisle had been a life-long member. The pall bearers were H. G. Walker, E. A. Peck, K.C., Felix Brownscombe, C. Staples, George Harper and W. J. Carlisle of Lindsay.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 1.— The funeral of Saunders Burleigh who for more than 50 years has been a resident of this town was held from his late residence on Canrobert street this Tuesday afternoon. Although a man of quiet disposition, Mr. Burleigh was well and favourably known throughout the entire community to which he came from Cramahe township. Raised on the farm he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Burleigh.

One year ago Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Burleigh marked their fiftieth wedding anniversary, having been married in St. Andrew's Church here by the late Rev. Hay. Following their marriage he served as a foreman in what was then known as the Trent Valley Woollen Mills for nearly 30 years. Seeking outdoor work he conducted a dairy business in town for four years and had been retired for 15 years preceding his death.

In his eightieth year Mr. Burleigh who had been ailing for the past five months died at his home on Canrobert street early Sunday morning. Surviving him besides his wife are two daughters, Mrs. F. G. DeCarroll of town, and Mrs. John A. Martin of Toronto, also a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Winnie Burleigh of Windsor. One brother, Mr. Charles Burleigh, Tuckahoe, N.Y. and two sisters Mrs. M. E. Van Tassel, Yonkers, N.Y., and Mrs. L. Hutchins, Minneapolis, Minn.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. B. Simpson Black of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church of which Mr. Burleigh had been a lifelong member. Rev. Harold B. Neal of St. John's United Church assisted in the service. Interment was at Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The pall bearers were Messers J. A. Anderson, W. W. Clark, J. R. Battisby, A. Govan, F. G. DeCarroll and Edgar McKee.

Flower bearers were Messrs Donald and Allan Martin, Francis DeCarroll, Clarke McKelvie, Bill Donald and Charles Jeffs.

Artie To 'Pound' Dodgers Into Shape

By Sid Feder
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Brooklyn Dodgers, who are good for plenty of howls, even on their serious days, have scooped the baseball world again.

Not content to rest on the laurels they achieved for introducing night baseball, parades, marching ushers, ball-throwing contests and what have you to eastern diamond circles, now they have hired Artie McGovern to give them a complete course in systematic conditioning throughout their spring training.

Artie is the 'good old doc" who annually paraded the poundage from Babe Ruth's waist line and whose tape measurements of said waist line during the Babe's heyday attracted more attention than stock market quotations.

Artie is going to take over the Gowanus Gallopers from the time the first group reports at Hot Springs, Ark., February 15 until they break camp at Clearwater, Fla., and head back north in March.

He says he plans to introduce "system' 'into the conditioning, diet and exercise to save the club for the entire season.

Works On Macphail

Artie's appointment came after Larry Macphail, genial maestro of the Dodgers, had worked out some of his off-season kinks in Artie's Manhattan gym: When the Dodgers reach Hot Springs, they will find McGovern and his staff already waiting for them.

"We'll start by putting them on a rigid diet," Artie explained today. "They'll have systematic exercise periods, morning and afternoon, which is the best method of scientific conditioning, and makes for better trained athletes.

"After two weeks at Hot Springs, the squad then goes to the training camp at Clearwater. My staff and I will be thereu ntil the team breaks camp March 11. If the idea works out, we may keep a man with the club all season to keep them in condition."

The next step, Brooklyn's patient fans hope, will be to have the club win enough ball games to wind up above sixth place.

Fighting In Burma

RANGOON, Burma, Feb. 1—(CP-Reuters)—New fighting in which an assistant police commissioner, A. W. Tydd, and 11 other persons were injured broke out today as a commission of inquiry named by the Burma government listed 220 killed and 926 wounded in disorders since last July 27.

Buckshot and tear gas were used by police to end today's riot, which began when a crowd sought to stop a bus in the eastern quarter of Rangoon.

UNION DIVIDEND

HALIFAX—(CP).—Payment of a four per cent. dividend on paid-up shares in the Province House Credit Union was decided at the second annual meeting. The Union has 287 members.

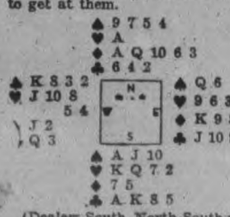
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

WHICH SUIT TO PLAY

TWO SUITS MAY be available to build up the extra trick or tricks needed to make your no trump game. Other factors being equal, go after the longer suit. But if one of those suits contains high cards which are so placed that they constitute entries for the other suit, it is usually better to play for that other suit. You are not so likely then to find yourself with some winners established which you can't use because you have no way to get at them.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

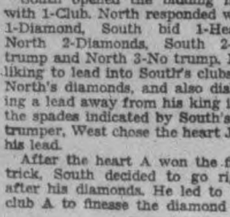
South opened the bidding here with 1-Club. North responded with 1-Diamond, South bid 1-Heart, North 2-Diamonds, South 2-No trump and North 3-No trump. Not liking to lead into South's clubs or North's diamonds, and also disliking a lead away from his king into the spades indicated by South's no trumper, West chose the heart J as his lead.

After the heart A won the first trick, South decided to go right after his diamonds. He led to the club A to finesse the diamond 10, which lost to the K. Back came a heart to the K, then two diamonds, a losing spade finesse, a heart to the Q, the spade A which luckily dropped the Q, the spade 10 and the Club K, two clubs then being conceded.

Playing that way South needed a lot of luck to barely make game. If either the spade K or diamond J had laid differently, he would have been set. He had a safer plan, however. After the heart A, finesse the spade J to the K. Following a heart return, try laying down the spade A, then the 10. This would have established the 9, no matter how the diamonds broke. Since the spade Q would fall, then after the 10, lead the diamond and let the 10 lose to the K. The heart Q would win the return, then would come two diamond tricks, the spade 9 and two clubs, making an overtrick because the spade 9 was set up in plenty of time—a reward for sound planning.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the meaning of a 1-Spade bid by North after South has bid 1-Diamond and West has doubled?

Stocks Go Up

LONDON, Feb. 1 — (AP). — European stock markets reacted favorably today to Chancellor Hitler's expression of hope for a "long peace." Security prices shot up from two to more than 10 per cent.

London led the forward movement with wide buying of north American stocks, a trend which spread to domestic issues and included all European government loans. The last were especially strong.

Berlin prices advanced sharply in the morning but receded in the afternoon while at Paris there was a continued steady but cautious rise throughout the day.

Etobicoke Beer Parlor Tour Reveals Reliefers Total Third Of Patrons

Administrator And 2 Police Check Complaints And Discover Where Money Goes; Long "Black List" To Be Direct Result

TORONTO, Feb. 2 (CP).—S. W. Eckersley, relief administrator of Etobicoke Township, adjoining Northwest Toronto, reported today that one-third of beer parlor patrons in the township last night were relief recipients.

Relief cheques were issued in the township yesterday and last night Mr. Eckersley, accompanied by two police officers, made a tour of beer parlors to check up on where relief money was going. Today he said he knew where considerable of it went.

A list of persons not to be supplied with beverages will likely be furnished Etobicoke hotels, said Mrs. Eckersley. The bad weather last night kept attendance down, he added.

"The check-up was made following repeated complaints by taxpayers to council that while they could not afford to sit in hotels drinking beer, relief recipients seemed to find no trouble in getting the money to buy beer," he said.

"Council authorized our investigation and the tour of the hotels revealed a serious situation exists, bearing out many of the complaints made to us. A report will be forwarded to the Department of Municipal Affairs before any definite action is taken.

"A close weekly check is planned by our investigators, and any relief recipient caught violating the order will be cut off relief and subsequently haled to court on non-support charges."

Million Swindle In Drug Tangle

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—(AP).—Rowley W. Phillips of Waterbury, Conn., a director of McKesson and Robbins Drug Company, said today that in his opinion the public had been victimized through the sales of $1,020,000 face value of common and preferred stock of McKesson and Robbins, Ltd., of Canada.

On his way to report to Gregory F. Noonan, United States attorney, and to testify before the federal grand jury in connection with the case, Phillips said the assets of the Canadian firm actually were worth not more than $68,000, with the remainder of the "assets" consisting of false inventories and accounts receivable.

Cash on hand, he said, amounted to only $6,800, the rest of the actuol assets, he said, represented British sales rights and guarantees by the parent company, McKesson and Robbins, of Maryland.

Last Minute News Flashes

BUFFALO, N.Y.— A mysterious bullet that shattered a window in a restroom near the office of Mayor Thomas L. Holling, native of Wyoming, Ont., was accidentally discharged by a policeman, Detective Chief John J. Whalen said to-day Chief Whalen said the officer, Patrolman John F. Vender, dropped the gun out of its holster while in the washroom.

TRENTON — A runaway horse, dragging an overturned sleigh, damaged six motor cars parked on Dundas street yesterday. The animal came to a halt after crashing through the windshield of one of the autos.

TORONTO.—Harry E. (Red) Foster, former well known rugby player and Miss Kathryn (Jimmie) Taylor, were married in New York Tuesday, it was learned here today. Both are from Toronto and the groom played with Balmy Beach, of the Ontario Ruby Football Union, before his retirement some years ago.

Demand Ottawa Repudiate Bren Contract

OTTAWA, Feb. 2 — (C.P.). — A Public Accounts Committee inquiry into the Bren contract assured, the Government is now faced with a direct demand that its contract with the John Inglis Company of Toronto for 7,000 Bren machine guns be repudiated.

In the House of Commons yesterday the Bren contract entered largely into discussion with condemnation of the negotiations and the contract itself forming the main theme of a speech by A. J. Anderson (Con. Toronto-High Park), who demanded its repudiation.

Earlier Grant MacNeil (CCF, Vancouver North), who criticized the Defence Department on the contract last week and asked for an inquiry before the Public Accounts Committee, charged he had been intimidated by an official "with some responsibility to the House" to withdraw his request for an inquiry.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King requested the name of the official, and added that if the resolution asking for an inquiry was withdrawn the Government would take it up and see the inquiry was held. No names were mentioned, but Mr. MacNeil said he would give them to the Prime Minister.

"The Government of Canada should repudiate that contract," said Mr. Anderson. "If it goes further than this the Imperial authorities will feel Canadians are not worthy of trust in matters so important as the purchase of munitions."

The Anderson speech marked the first move on the part of the Conservative Opposition against the contract. Previously it had been assailed by Mr. MacNeil and now two of the three Opposition parties are lined up in condemnation of it. Social Credit members have not yet attacked it.

No Corruption.

The contract is with John Inglis Company Limited of Toronto, and called for the production of 7,000 Bren light machine guns on a cost plus basis. Under a similar contract the same company is to produce 5,000

Ship Founders At Pier Spoiling Grain Load

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., Feb. 2. —(CP).—The freighter Borthton of Colonial Steamships, Limited, 117,000 bushels of wheat aboard for storage, sank at her berth at the west pier of the harbor here today. The grain cargo will be practically a total loss.

The vessel was noticed settling in 30 feet of water about midnight by employees of the Canadian Furnace Limited on the east pier of the wall and they notified the shipkeeper in charge of the Northton and another Colonial Steamship Limited vessel along with the officials of the company. The vessel settled slowly during the night.

J. O. McKellar of Sarnia Steamships Ltd., in charge during the absence of Captain R. Scott Misener, who has left for Sarnia and a Florida vacation could give no reason for the sinking of the craft, except that in some manner it must have sprung a leak. The Underwriters were notified early this morning and will give instructions on raising the vessel and salvaging the cargo.

There would be some salvage value in the 117,000 bushel winter storage cargo of wheat, he said.

Czechs Play Parrot, Imitating Nazi Neighbor By Embarking On Anti-Jew Campaign

PRAGUE, Feb. 2 (AP)—Czecho-Slovakia embarked on an anti-Jewish program today after the pattern of her big neighbor, Germany.

A government commentary gave the need of room for her own people as the reason for two decrees requiring immigrants who came here after Jan. 1, 1938, to leave within six months and providing for re-examination of all citizenships acquired after Nov. 1, 1918.

The measures would affect between 14,000 and 15,000 Jews, although the text did not contain the word Jew. The constitution does not provide for discrimination among people of difference race or religion, but private informants said that with few exceptions only Aryan citizenship would be recognized by the examiners. Deprived of citizenship, the Jews would then be classed as immigrants and subject to the second decree that they leave the country.

Threatened Through M.P. Says MacNeil In Bren Case

OTTAWA, Feb. 2 (CP).—Attempted intimidation of "an official with some responsibility to this House" against Grant MacNeil (C.C.F., Vancouver North) pressing his motion for a public accounts committee inquiry into the Bren gun contract, was charged yesterday in the House of Commons.

The threat, Mr. MacNeil told the House, was conveyed to him through a member of the House who had been requested by the "official" to advise MacNeil that if he persisted with his motion "certain information relating to the administration of a veterans' organization in 1925 might be published in a manner that would cause me humiliation and reflect upon my peronal honor."

Prime Minister Mackenzie King asked for the name of the official of the House cited, which Mr. MacNeil promised to provide.

"With regard to proceeding with his resolution," the Prime Minister said, "I say to him (MacNeil) that if he does not proceed with it, the government will wish to. He may be quite assured that there will be no objection to proceeding with his resolution."

Reports circulated in the lobbies last night that A. A. Heap (Winnipeg North), Whip of the C.C.F. group, was the member referred to

Great U.S. Prison Powder Keg

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., Feb. 2. —(AP)—San Quentin prison, largest in the United States, was a powder keg to-day as thousands of ravenous convicts ast idle in their cells, growling complaints about the food they refused to eat.

Several days ago mumbled criticism about too much "corned Willie"—corned beef hash—on the pirson menu grew into talk of a revolt. Yesterday the hunger strike spread in the overcrowded prison from a few hundred men in the jute mill to nearly 4,000 of the prison's 5,300 inmates.

Warden Court Smith decided to take no chances on permitting massed demonstrations to-day by the sullen convicts. He announced no one would be permitted to leave his cell unless he first agreed to eat his meals as usual.

The warden stayed in the big prison yard more than two hours yesterday, talking to groups of the men and urging all who refused their noon meal to go back and eat it. The food was left on the tables and the dining room open. Some of the convicts went back to work without eating; some remained idle, and no attempt was made to force them to their tasks.

Smith said the regular "hash Wednesday" menu was changed yesterday because of the many complaints which had reached his ears and the meal the men refused to eat was spaghetti and meat-loaf, pickles, brown bread, brown beans and tea.

As the strike grew, the noise in the prison swelled to a crescendo as convicts booed, banged their bars and kept up the nerve-racking, high-pitched yammer.

Sidley Will Case Finally Settled

RACINE, Wis., Feb. 2.—(AP).—Judge Allan Simpson to-day admitted to probate the will of Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, ending a court fight involving a share of the Horlick Malted Milk millions.

William Horlick Sidley, only son of the malted milk heiress, had attempted to break the will on the grounds that his mother had been unduly influenced by W. Perkins Bull, Toronto barrister, one of the beneficiaries. Mrs. Sidley died last July in Bull's home.

Judge Simpson admitted the document to probate after Sidley had withdrawn his objections and Bull had made a disclaimer of his one-third share of the residuary of the estate.

Can Start His Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP). — Great Britain has given the United States permission to start a trans-Atlantic air service whenever American companies are ready.

In a note dated January 28 and released by State Department today, the British Government waived a provision of the 1935 agreement between the two countries which provided air service should be started simultaneously by both of them.

Western Ontario Roads Plug Again

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—(SP)—Above-freezing temperatures were general in Southern Ontario today after a night that brought snow to block again some roads that were opened only yesterday for the first time since the blizzard of Sunday and Monday.

But the weatherman was helping clear the highways and city streets today. Snow was melting and traffic was wearing pavements clean in the cities.

The Kitchener - Galt - Brantford area had a heavy snowfall during the night. Temperatures were around 36 degrees in this area.

Ontario highways department snow ploughs were out in the Stratford area. The Mitchell-Elginfield stretch of highway No. 23 was completely blocked. Other highways were partially so. It was not snowing today and it was expected all roads would be open by tonight.

Galt said the snow blocked east and west county roads. The week's firsts now blocked those running north and south.

Kitchener said all main roads were open by all sideroads around the city were still blocked to motor car traffic. Milk and cream supplies were reaching the city by sleighs. Packing houses reported a decrease in hog arrivals because farmers can't move their stock.

Russians Break With Hungary

MOSCOW, Feb. 2 (AP)—Tas, official Soviet news agency, announced today that Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff had informed the Hungarian minister that Russia has decided to close its legation in Budapest and expects the Hungarian legation in Moscow also to close.

Tass said it "learned from competent sources" that this decision of the Soviet government was connected with "the fact that as a result of the Munich agreement Hungary lately has been subjected to strong pressure from certain states."

"The policy of the Hungarian government," Tass continued, "shows that it easily yields to this pressure and has lost its independence to a considerable degree."

Tass indicated the Soviety action was a sequel to Hungary's recently-announced decision to adhere to the three-power pact of Japan, Germany and Italy against the Communist International, which has headquarters in Moscow.

Litvinoff communicated the decision to Michael Hungerth-Arnothy, Hungary's envoy here since 1934.

A Tass statement said:—

"In particular it is pointed out that the decision of the Hungarian government to join the so-called anti-Comintern pact can not be justified by the interests of the Hungarian state itself, which by no means coincide with the aggressive aims pursued under guise of this pact by its participants, in the first place by Japan, and that this decision consequently was thrust upon the Hungarian government from outside."

Fur Prices Advance

EDMONTON, Feb. 2 — (C.P.). — Raw furs worth more than $175,000 were offered for sale to-day at the season's second auction conducted by the Edmonton Fur Auction Sales Limited. Buyers representing Eastern Canadian, New York, and London sales companies were present.

Martyn, cross fox, silver fox, red fox, otter and lynx pelts also were sold. Ermine, marten, lynx and wild mink were in chief demand by buyers, advancing 10 to 20 per cent. over previous sale prices. Wolf, red fox, cross fox, silver fox, and ranch mink moved slowly. There were no offers for white fox.

Colbornite Bachelor Benedict Widower All Within 28 Hours

Colborne, Ont., Feb. 2 (CP)

CLAUDE ROSE of this town, within 28 hours has been a bachelor, benedict and widower.

Monday morning he left home for Grafton, where at 2 p.m. he married Miss Marguerite Williams. Soon after the wedding they drove home. Their car stalled for two hours in a snowdrift, but they eventually reached Colborne at 8 p.m.

That evening the bride fell ill, and a doctor was called. At 6 p.m., Tuesday, she died of pneumonia. Today Claude Rose will mourn at the grave of his bride of a day.

Premier Negrin Urges Army To New Stand

By Robert Okin
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

FIGUERAS, Spain, Feb. 2 (By courier to French border)—(AP)—With the full backing of the Spanish parliament, Premier Juan Negrin today urged government forces on to a new stand against the Insurgent armies driving northward through Catalonia.

The Cortes, which adjourned after a dramatic meeting in an underground chamber of the ancient fort of Figueras, gave the premier a unanimous vote of confidence despite the loss of Barcelona and other recent set-backs.

The premier told the deputies a new line of defence was being erected in northern Catalonia which should check the Insurgent advance.

He said the government prepared to end panic which had shaken the civilian population and armed forces in the last week, before and after the fall of Barcelona. He attributed the panic largely to "organized lies and rumors" spread by Insurgent sympathizers.

New Line Nearly Ready

"We will fix a line the enemy cannot pass, and on that line they will break their advance," Negrin said. "Our line is now being fixed. I saw it myself yesterday.

"Men are fighting to the death. We must fight the enemy until we lose the last inch of Catalonian territory. This means prolongation of the war with all its consequences.

"If we lost Catalonia we still have the central zone."

He enumerated the government's three war aims as:—

1. A guarantee of independence for Spain and freedom from foreign influence.

2. A government desired by the people.

3. Liquidation of the war without persecution to permit all Spaniards to join in the country's reconstruction.

Only 62 deputies out of 420 who constitute the normal Cortes met.

France Seeks Border Truce To Stop Stampede By Loyalists

PERPIGNAN, France, Feb. 2. — (AP).—French authorities worked today for a "border truce" in an effort to prevent Spanish government troops from being driven across the frontier by General Franco's push toward the north.

French troop reinforcements also began moving up to the border to block by force, if necessary, the threatened stampede. Three battalions arrived at Perpignan from Central France and officers came from a dozen regiments to prepare the way for thousands more men.

France's frontier force was understood to number 10,000, with a total of 50,000 ready to cover the border if the Spanish government's Catalonian forces attempt to cross into France with their arms.

Negotiations were said by informed sources to have been started directly with the Spanish government and indirectly with the insurgents, through Great Britain, to halt the fighting if it comes much closer to the French frontier.

Agreeable To Both

French authorities considered the border truce idea solution which might be acceptable both to Franco and the Spanish government.

If Franco's trops conquer Gerona province, border sources said, the Spanish government's chances of holding out in Catalonia will fall to almost zero. In that event it was hoped the government, now at Figueras, would leave for Central Spain with what fighting men it could take by sea.

Once the government has gone, French sources said, Franco might agree to a truce not only to permit the orderly evacuation of non-combattants into France but to give the remaining soldiers a chance to surrender with their arms rather than take them across the border.

Such a truce would leave a band of territory running along the Pyrenees and foothills from Puigcerda to the sea—a band ranging from 15 to 30 miles wide.

This area would be supplied with food from France for an agreed period before occupation by the insurgents.

Dempster A Mystery To Him Says Drew Of Tory Who Will Contest Simcoe

Macaulay Is Equally Puzzled By 'Dark Horse'; "No Support From Us," Says Frost Torontonian To 'Let Cat Out Of Bag' Friday

COLDWATER, Ont., Feb. 2 — (CP). — Captain W. J. Dempster will tell from the public platform here to-morrow night why he has decided to oppose Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative Party Leader, in the provincial by-election in Simcoe East on February 27.

Annonucing his candidature here last night, Capt. Dempster, who like Col. Drew is a Toronto resident and a Great War veteran, said through his campaign manager that full details of his stand will be disclosed in the first meeting of his campaign. After the gathering here on Friday, he plans to make speeches throughout the riding.

"A large coterie of old Conservatives is standing behind Captain Dempster," said the campaign manager, L. E. Hagendorn. For the present, Captain Dempster had no extensive statement to make.

Capt. Dempster would not discuss the Conservative convention to be held at Orillia next Wednesday, when Col. Drew will be given the endorsation of the Simcoe East Conservative Association executive before the association-at-large. At the convention Col. Drew will deliver his first address in the riding since the seat was opened for him by William Finlayson.

Liberals Step Out.

Mr. Finlayson, former Minister of Lands and Forests in Conservative administrations, resigned his seat last month to enable Col. Drew to enter the Legislature as House Leader of the party, which elected him its leader in December. A few days later the Liberal Association of the riding announced it would not hold a convention to nominate a candidate in opposition to Col. Drew, falling in line with the wish of Premier Hepburn that the Conservative Leader enter the House unopposed.

No opponent for Col. Drew was in sight until Capt. Dempster came here last night from Toronto and threw his hat into the ring. Capt. Dempster didn't want to be termed an Independent Conservative candidate. He said he had been a Conservative all his life, "and I'm going to run as a Conservative."

Never a candidate for political office before, Capt. Dempster said there was "nothing personal" in his candidature "as far as Col. Drew is concerned."

TORONTO, Feb. 2 — (C.P.). — Captain W. J. Osborne Dempster to-day took on the role of a mystery man as far as Ontario Conservatives are concerned.

Capt. Dempster, a Toronto resident, announced in Coldwater yesterday he would oppose Col. George Drew, Ontario Conservative Leader, in the Simcoe East provincial by-election on February 27, and said he would run as a Conservative.

To-day Col. Drew said he wished somebody would tell him who Capt. Dempster was and what was his connection with the Conservative Party.

"I never heard of him," he said. "All I know is that he's been in the riding for two or three weeks trying to line up some opposition to me. The main desire was to find some local candidate who would oppose me. His reasons, as I've heard them make no sense to me. It is most mysterious."

Macaulay Baffled.

Leopold Macaulay, Conservative House Leader last session, said he didn't know anything about Dempster. A man named Dempster was a witness when a Legislature committee investigated Mr. Macaulay's charge that his mail had been tampered with, but the member didn't know whether this Dempster and the Simcoe East Dempster were one man.

Cecil Frost of Lindsay, president of the Ontario Conservative Association, said he knew nothing of Captain Dempster's candidacy. "He certainly will not receive any support from us."

Acting Premier Harry Nixon said the Government desired to see Col. Drew received an acclamation.

Capt. Dempster has lived in Toronto since he was born with the exception of ten years spent overseas during the Great War and in Ireland after it. He says he served with the Royal Army Service Corps, attached to military intelligence.

In 1919 he served with the White Army in Russia, spent four months in a Bolshevik jail, and was then released through an exchange of prisoners.

Endorsing Drew.

ORILLIA, Ont., Feb. 2 — (CP).— Alex Larkin, president of the Simcoe East Conservative Association, said to-day Col. George A. Drew, Ontario leader, will be the association's official candidate in a by-election on February 27 to fill the riding's vacant seat in the Ontario Legislature.

Larkin said he did not "know anything" about the annonuced candidature of Capt. W. J. Dempster, of Toronto, who said in nearby Coldwater last night he intended to oppose Col. Drew in the by-election. A constituency convention will be held next Wednesday which is expected to result in Col. Drew's endorsation

Dempster Invited

MIDLAND, Ont., Feb. 2—(CP).— Capt. W. J. Dempster, Toronto, who yesterday announced he would be a Conservative candidate in the Simcoe East provincial by-election Feb. 27, in opposition to Col. George Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, today was invited to the Conservative nominating convention

The invitation came from William Finlayson, who resigned the seat to make way for Col. Drew's entry to the Legislature.

"There has been a Conservative convention called for Wednesday at Orillia," said Mr. Finlayson. "If Capt. Dempster is a good Conservative, I suppose he will allow his name to go before the convention.

"It is impossible to say anything without knowing more about him, but I cannot believe he will be taken seriously in the riding. He is an outsider and has no claim on the constituency that I ever heard of."

Mr. Finlayson said his resignation in Col. Drew's favor was approved by the constituency Conservative Association executive and that Col. Drew still has to meet a party convention.

Youths Held For Larceny

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Feb 2—(AP). — Four youths arrested after a wild chase in what Police Lieutenant John Dietz said was a stolen automobile were held to-day on grand larceny and burglary charges.

The chase led through the south-side residential section of this city and involved firing of numerous shots by the police, Dietz related.

Lone Cow Saves Day As 200 Villagers Marooned By Storm

Black Heath, Ont., Feb. 2 (CP)

GEORGE MITCHELL'S COW was given an extra ration of fodder today following its feat of supplying milk to the 200 inhabitants here for two days. Isolated by the week-end snowstorm, residents here 20 miles south of Hamilton, depended for their fresh milk entirely on Mitchell's cow.

A huge caterpillar plough bucked its way through drifts six to 10 feet high late yesterday and a motor cavalcade bearing fresh food followed.

1,200,000 INFANT GAS MASKS

LONDON—Production of 1,200,000 infants' gas masks for early distribution has been started, Sir John Anderson, Lord Privy Seal, announced in the House of Commons today. During the last 12 months, Sir John said, 40,000,000 gas masks were distributed at a cost of £4,000,000.

Sign Of Winter

PORT ERIE, Ont., Feb. 2—(CP). —Orville Holmes predicts there will be six weeks more of real winter weather. He bases his prediction on the continued presence here of flocks of snow birds. If an early Spring were in the offing, these birds would be off to a colder clime.

Grim Reaper Gets Frances Monsieur de Paris Man Who Has Watched 300 Heads Roll

PARIS, Feb. 2 (AP)—Anatole Deibler, 75-year-old hereditary high executioner of France, died suddenly today.

The aged "Monsieur de Paris," whose family has given France her executioners since the revolution, collapsed in a subway station on the outskirts of Paris and died shortly after he reached a hospital.

Deibler had executed more than 300 men on the guillotine since he inherited the office from his father, Louis Deibler, just before the end of the last century.

A mysterious and sinister character to most of France, he was in reality a mild old man who always spoke in gentle tones of his gruesome job.

"After all I am a disciplined government employee," he once said, "a citizen who does his duty like the rest in accordance with his station."

For many years one of Deibler's great sorrows was that no one in the family was willing to take over the functions of executioner. In 1936, however, he persuaded his nephew, Andre Obrecht, to accept the responsibility of keeping the job in the family.

Britons Demand Bomb Shelters

By Guy Rhoades
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(CP).— Britons have come to the unwelcome conclusion that life on the edge of a jittery Europe cannot be lived with surety unless provision is made for spending part of it underground in emergency.

Agitation is increasing for a long-term government policy of building deep, permanent bomb shelters into which the average citizen, his wife and children can scurry if international relations go beyond the talking stage.

To the easy-going and peace-loving man-in-the-street the idea of cringing underground is repugnant, but he cannot change geography and he is begining to doubt if he can change the truculent nature of some of his neighbors.

If an unfriendly aviator flying over the great, sprawling target of this capital were to toss out a couple of tons of high explosives and steel he could almost certainly kill many and wound many more. Those he wounded would be rushed to hospitals, all above ground and easily spotted from the air. If the aviator believed it was good business to kill hospital patients he would have a second chance to get those he failed to eliminate the first time.

Underground Hospitals.

The Daily Express received a letter from 21 distinguished physicians and surgeons complaining existing hospitals would be untenable in the kind of air raid this city may expect in a new war. They asked for a plan of constructing subterranean hospitals.

Even if no direct hits were scored on surface hospitals, they said, most of the windows, sklights and other glass would be smashed. Patients lying in their beds would be cut, those in operating theatres would have their wounds filled with dirt blown in by explosions. Doctors and nurses would be unable to work properly under bombardment.

Conducts Symphony

Two Canadians Join Morgan Partners

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—(AP).—The banking house of J. P. Morgan and Company plans to admit three new partners—two of them natives of Canada—this month.

J. Pierpont Morgan, head of the firm, announced last night, pending approval by the New York Stock Exchange, the number of partners would be increased to 15 on Feb. 17 by the admission of T. C. Raymond Atkin, 46, and William A. Mitchell, 46, and Henry C. Alexander, who is only 36.

Morgan said the additions to the partnership were "made necessary by death and other causes." The new appointments are the first since Jan. 2, 1932, when there were 20 partners.

Atkin was born in Springfield, Ont., Mitchell in Hamilton, Ont. Both went to work for the Old Traders Bank of Canada, later merged with the Royal Bank of Canada, as soon as they left high school.

Both served in various branches of the Royal Bank, and both finally became inspectors in the head office of the bank in Montreal. Both entered the "House of Morgan" in 1935 and both received the titles of "Manager" in 1931.

Marmora Guild Holds Card Party

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Feb. 2.—A travelling card party was sponsored by Group 1 of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild on Monday evening. Various homes of members were placed at the disposal of the promoters and despite the inclemency of the weather fifteen tables were in play.

The finale took place in the parish hall with the serving of refreshments.

Prize-winners were: Bridge, Harry Dunlay and Miss Ida Gillen; euchre, W. R. Linn and Mrs. A. Ellis.

Trucker Escapes In 20-Foot Drop

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Feb. 2.—When his truck crashed over a 20-foot embankment backwards into the Moira River immediately south of Lazier's Dam on Highway No. 14 on Wednesday morning, Walter Way, Cannifton Road, not only escaped death, but experienced his life's greatest thrill.

Way was backing the truck up off the highway in order to turn around when it skidded into a snow bank, which gave way and the truck seemed to drop backwards right into the river. The accident was investigated by Provincial Constable W. E. Smith.

Little damage resulted to the vehicle despite its fall of fully 20 feet into the ice covered river bed.

After releasing himself from the upturned truck, Mr. Way was later rescued by nearby residents, who were forced to throw a rope over the cliff and pull him to safety.

Wreck at Milltown.

William A. Perry, Toronto truck driver, sustained severe facial lacerations, the result of flying glass when the truck he was driving was crowded off the highway near Milltown on Tuesday. The large eight-ton tractor-trailer crashed over a culvert and was badly damaged. The injured man was taken to the Belleville General Hospital by a passing motorist, where eleven stitches were inserted into the man's face.

Mr. Perry informed Constable Stark and Carruthers, investigating Provincial Police, that he was proceeding westerly and had been crowded off the highway by an east-bound truck, which failed to stop.

Police investigations revealed that the truck proceeded a distance of 278 feet along the shoulder of the highway, where it struck and broke off a Hydro pole before colliding with the cement abutment of a culvert, over which the large vehicle nosed, crashing seven feet into the ditch. The engine and cab of the tractor were both badly damaged.

A Close Call.

Willoughby Fox, farmer, is thanking his lucky stars to-day that he wears two pairs of heavy mittens while operating his buzz-saw.

Using a grease gun to lubricate the saw while cutting wood on the farm of Douglas Redner, Willoughby's hand slipped when the nozzle of the gun flew off, his hand coming in direct contact with the whirling saw.

Sharp teeth ripped through the heavy leather of the mittens, cutting them through to Fox's hand, which was not scratched.

Pair Risk Floes To Save Ship

GLACE BAY, N.S., Feb. 2—(CP).—Residents of this East Cape Breton mining town praised the pluck of two seamen who walked across almost two miles of slob ice to shore seeking aid for their ice-bound schooner, and they waited word of the safe return of the pair to their vessel.

Eli Glagdon, 30, and his 17-year-old companion, Gordon Blagdon, no relation, crossed the heaving ice yesterday to seek the assistance of a government ice-breaker in releasing the 35-ton schooner Alfreda Keeping. Aboard the vessel they left Captain Amos Keeping and six crew members.

After telephoning to authorities they set out across the ice pack again. A little group of miners and fishermen stood on the shore and watched the pair until they were lost to sight.

The vessel left Sydney Monday night for English Harbor, Nfld., with a cargo of coal. She was caught fast in the pack and drifted down the coast until the crew sighted Glace Bay yesterday.

Quebec Passes Farm Loans

QUEBEC, Feb. 2—(CP).—Extension of Quebec's agricultural loan program had the approval today of the Legislature's lower house and needed only confirmation by the Upper chamber to make an additional $8,000,000 available for loans to harassed farmers.

Swiftly and with a minimum of debate, the new grant received first, second and third reading in the legislatice assembly last night.

The rapid-fire passage of the measure came after Premier Maurice Duplessis had told the house the province's farmers were in "urgent" need of aid. They have received already $27,000,000 through the provincial farm loan board in the last two years.

Before the bill went through, T. D. Bouchard, Liberal house leader, criticized its preamble as being an "electoral document." He warned the assembly the government was "not finished voting millions to the farmers, 70,000 of whom have applied for farm loans."

Success of the plan was "assured," Duplessis answered. Some of the farmers already were paying back previous loans.

Pigeon Lake Road Is Open For Traffic

(Examiner Correspondence.)

DOWNEYVILLE, Feb. 2. — The road across the ice on Pigeon Lake is open for travel now and is bushed. It is a very short way for the people here to go to Peterborough, and many take advantage of it. The ice is 12 and 14 inches thick.

World's Largest Concrete Spans Ever Built Are Being Poured For New Toronto Subway

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—The biggest concrete bridge spans ever built in the world are now being poured, cast and lowered into position for the new subway, under construction at 18th street, New Toronto. Designed by Chas. P. Disney, bridge engineer, Central Region, Canadian National Railways, six of these huge concrete slabs have already been hoisted into position during the past three days, and the remaining four will be finished by tomorrow night. Each unit of these gigantic pre-cast concrete slabs weighs 130 tons. They are 80 feet long, almost a yard deep and six and a half feet wide. They were cast in huge forms beside the railway tracks while trains rumbled past.

"The Canadian National Railways are the originators of thus huge type of pre-cast concrete slab structures and of the method of carrying the railway track on bridges," Mr. Disney said. "By that I mean that the rails are carried on steel chairs fastened directly to the concrete. This method requires no ties, ballast or water-proofing and it provides one of the safest and smoothest-riding type of track in the world. This type of track construction is used by the National System, not only on concrete bridges, but also on their numerous structural steel bridges. Another interesting fact in the construction of this subway is that every scrap of material used was made in Canada and the work done entirely by Canadians."

Catacombs Of Drug Peddlers' Ring Yield 20 In Police Clean-up

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Twenty persons were held today for trial as United States treasury agents questioned scores in their attempts to smash the "most vicious gang of narcotics peddlers in America."

The suspects were rounded up by 40 agents yesterday in a spectacular raid on San Juan Hill, an area adjoining west 62nd street described by agents as a tunnel-infested refuge for criminals rivalling 19th century Chinatown.

With drawn pistols, the treasury agents flushed their prisoners from black underground catacombs linking a dozen abandoned tenements.

Major Garland Williams, district supervisor of the treasury agents, said 12 men—all Negroes—had been arrested on charges of selling narcotics illegally. He disclosed eight other suspects had been picked up during the week.

Williams said the eight were charged with conspiracy to peddle narcotics in North Carolina and that Dr. G. D. Gardner of Asheville, N.C. had been arrested there as chief distributor.

Narcotics valued at $3,000 were confiscated during the raid which climaxed a two-year investigation.

Cancer Experiment Spoiled By Robbers

LONDON, Feb. 2 (CP Cable). — Documentary material representing 12 years' research and which he hoped would ultimately contribute to a solution of the cancer scourge was stolen early today from the home of Dr. Anthony Magian, noted authority on the disease.

Thieves ransacked desks and drawers in the surgeon's residence. He described the loss as a "deadening blow" and appealed to the thieves not to detroy the papers. He said all records of his new treatment were gone and that if not returned it will take him years to pick up on his work.

Dr. Magian, director of St. Margaret's Cancer Clinic, has written a score of works on the subject.

The thieves scattered germ-poisoned fruit on the office floor. Dr. Magian said he could not tell whether they had eaten any of the poisonous apples and oranges with which he had been conducting experiment. If they were eaten, he said, they probably would cause acute illness and possibly death.

Dr. Magian said one robber apparently took a bite from an ornamental wax apple. Silver ornaments and other valuable furnishings in the scientist's home were ignored. Several rooms were ransacked but only the cancer case records were taken.

Pays $500 For Plane Russia-Bound But Police Spoil It

Detroit, Feb. 2 (CP)

WALTER MAROZ, 52, was questioned by immigration officers today after an all-night vigil at Detroit city airport where he insisted he was waiting for an airplane to take him to Russia. Maroz told police he paid $500 down in Chicago and was told to get delivery of the plane in Detroit.

Police searched Maroz and found $300 in one pocket and $4,268 sewn in his clothes. Members of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said they were unable to learn from him why he wanted to go to Russia.

Ottawa Ignores Manitoulin CTA

OTTAWA, Feb. 2.—(CP).— Enforcement of the Canada Temperance Act on Manitoulin Island is not the responsibility of the Dominion government and the Act is not a part of the criminal code, although its violation constitutes a criminal offence, Justice Minister Lapointe told the House of Commons yesterday. He was answering questions from Thomas Farquhar (Lib. Algoma East), who said the Ontario Government refused to enforce the Act on Manitoulin Island.

Since the C.T.A. was proclaimed in 1878 it had never been enforced by the Dominion but by Provincial and local authorities until the present instance of Manitoulin Island. Responsibility of enforcing the Act on Manitoulin Island did not rest on the Dominion, the minister said, but he hoped some arrangement would be made in co-operation with the province to meet the situation.

Ontario Stands Pat.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—(CP).—The Hepburn government is resolved not to enforce the Canada Temperance Act on Manitoulin Island despite the fact that Minister of Justice Lapointe has placed the onus on Ontario.

Hon. Harry Nixon, Acting Premier, declared to-day that despite Mr. Lapointe's contention, the Ontario government will continue the policy already enunciated, that if the Canada Temperance Act is in force on Manitoulin it must be enforced by Federal authorities or not at all.

No Shadow For Chuck So Spring Near?

TORONTO, Feb. 2 (CP).—There hardly was enough sun anywhere in Ontario today to cast a shadow, so those who believed in "groundhog day" looked forward to an early ending of the winter season.

Frank O'Donnell, head of the Meteorological Bureau here, said it was cloudy all over the province. Thus Johnny Chuch, if he happened to venture forth from his winter quarters, couldn't help but predict an early spring.

Veteran Politician Offers Some Advice

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—(CP)—For 25 years, Dr. David Jamieson sat in the Ontario Legislature as Grey South's representative and today—the day before his 83rd birthday—he gave some advice about entering politics.

"I would not advise the average man to enter politics," he said. "If you have nothing at all, or if you have plenty of time and money, go into politics. But if you have only moderate means and have to earn a living keep out of it. It gets you down."

Dr. Jamieson served 60 years as a doctor and mixed in a little dentistry. People today, he said, were better off than ever but more reluctant than ever to pay their doctors' bills.

Hunt Patients

TORONTO, Feb. 2 — (CP). — Police to-day were looking for two patients who escaped last night night from the Ontario Hospital, New Toronto. They are John Morrow, 55, Toronto, and Herbert Bouchier, Northern Ontario Indian. Hospital officials said neither was dangerous.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 2 — (C.P.). — Steady Liverpool quotations and a scattered export business proved sufficient to lift wheat futures for fractional gains at Winnipeg. Closing prices were ⅝ cent higher, with May at 63, July 63¾ and October 64 cents.

Southern houses made a few early purchases which may have represented inter-marketing spreading, while estimated export sales of Canadian wheat were placed at a little more than 100,000 bushels.

Liverpool futures lost some of their early gains when profit-taking developed late in the session and closed ¼d higher to unchanged. Firmer Australian offers and improved United Kingdom interest in Argentine wheat were credited with aiding the early advance.

Place Salaries As Overhead Board Of Works

The present estimates of the Board of Works do not show an item for salaries. On the advice of Edward Humpage, auditor of the city's finances, a change in the civic system of bookkeeping was begun last year as an experiment and has now been virtually adopted. It is designed to apply the amounts for salaries and machinery and such other fixed charges in the Board of Works Department proportionately to all services and jobs in which they are properly regarded as overhead and operating expenditure.

One advantage of the change in system is that enables the Department to determine exact costs of all work that is done. For example, if some permanent work is done on the frontage basis of cost, sidewalks, curbs and gutters and so on, the accounting will record the exact, or almost exact amount expended, taking into consideration labor paid for by daily wage, the materials and also items for use of machinery and management, just as a contractor who would tabulate if he were doing the job. It may be in the past that frontage charges against the property owner have not been as large as they should have been if the new system of accounting were in use, and that the charge against the ratepayers elsewhere in the city was too high.

Streets and Bridges

Expenditures on the city's roads and bridges last year totalled $67,695; the appropriation was $67,745; and for this year $59,500.

Snow cleaning: last year—appropriation $4,000; cost $12,067; estimate for this year $10,000.

Dust laying: last year, appropriation $7,000; outlay $6,906.25; new estimate $7,000.

Sewage disposal: appropriation last year $8,500; expenditure $8,839.77; estimate for this year $8,500.

Contingencies, proposed purchase of two ton gasoline road roller and small asphalt plant, and used car for Engineer, this year $7,000.

The appropriation for new equipment last year was $8,500 and the expenditure was $408 for Ford truck, $734 for GMC truck, $1,463 for trailer oiler, $4,454 for flusher and tank.

The excess of equipment costs over credits was $1,159.53, making the total expenditures for the year $103,727.88.

Credits amounting to $5396.36 should be subtracted from that total leaving the actual expenditure for the year $98,332.52. The appropriation was $95,745, and the overdraft $2,587.52.

LAKEFIELD

Mr. John Blakely of Lakefield is at present visiting in the Canadian West, where he will be the guest of his brothers and sisters at Saskatoon, Sask., and at Red Deer, Alta. Mr. William Blakely of Red Deer, Alta., who has spent the winter in Ontario and some weeks in Lakefield as the guest of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Blakely, left last week for his home in Alberta, accompanying his brother.

Mrs. J. A. Porter of Lakefield left on Monday for Cornwall where she will spend a couple of weeks visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sherin of Lakefield, and Mr. George Sherin of Woodbridge, Ont., left on Wednesday by motor for Toronto enroute to the south. After a motor trip through the United States the party will spend some time in Florida, where they will make Orlando their headquarters. Mr. John Sherin will accompany the party part of the way.

Mr. Harry Sherin, Jr., of Lakefield, will spend the winter in Toronto.

Devastation Left In Wake Of Chilean Earthquake

This picture of Concepcion, Chile, flown to Buenos Aires and radioed from here, gives a vivid idea of the destruction caused throughout central Chile by the recent devastating earthquake. In Concepcion alone the death toll is estimated at over 2,000. More than 60 per cent. of the buildings of the city were destroyed by the quake.

Yelverton United Church Has Been Landmark In Manvers Township

LIFFORD LINE, Feb. 2.—For seventy-five years Yelverton United church has stood as a well-known landmark in Manvers township. Seventy-five years ago this building was erected as "Newry" New Connexion Methodist church. This was not the first provision for public worship in the Yelverton community for a log building preceded the present one on approximately the same site. Richard Evans recalls the old building and remembers it being called "Hale's Church." In 1862 the new frame building was built by John Gillespie of Janetville.

The land, according to the deed now registered in Port Hope, was donated by Henry Jones in the year 1845 to the following trustees: James McGill, Henry Henders, Samuel Staples, James Fowler and Adam Maguire, "to be held in trust forever for the site of a chapel or meeting house and burying ground."

For twelve years after the building of the new church "Newry" was a part of the Manvers circuit of the New Connexion Methodist with the parsonage at Lifford. It was a large circuit and two men, a superintendent and a junior minister, served as pastors. For ten years Newry formed a part of the Janetville circuit but in 1894 it was transferred to Bethany circuit which was at that time a large field with two men. In 1910 it was seen fit to divide this large field into two circuits and Yelverton became a part of the Lifford circuit with Fleetwood making the third appointment. This arrangement existed until 1921 when Lifford circuit ceased to be and Bethany was again the name of the whole circuit. In 1925 the larger union was entered and Yelverton became an appointment of the Bethany pastoral charge in the United Church of Canada.

Many Changes

Naturally many changes have taken place during the life of this church, changes in organization, in name and in officers. Many faithful servants have been promoted to higher service with their Maker and others have entered the service here. But through every change and development, "The White Church Upon the Hill" has stood as a symbol of that great invisible church calling men to the Higher Way of Life where man is as one with God and his fellowmen.

The present oficers are: Rev. C. H. Ferguson, B.A., minister; Vance Wilson, organist; George E. Wilson, secretary-treasurer, Board of Stewards.

Mr. Roosevelt Again

President Roosevelt was in conference with his Senate Military committee dealing with future plans and the attitude of United States to events in Europe. The members at such a conference are sworn to secrecy, but the secrecy was thin stuff because in short order the world seems to have known what took place at the meeting.

The most important statement is that Mr. Roosevelt declared "United States frontiers are in France," and the literal interpretation of that is that United States is prepared to cast in her lot with France and Britain in case the democracies are attacked by the totalitarian states—Germany and Italy.

It is common knowledge that France has the consent of the U.S. government in securing large shipments of planes from factories across the border, and President Roosevelt intimates that such shipments could be made to democracies only. By the same token we take it he would refuse to sanction the shipment of planes for war purposes to countries which were not in the class of democracies.

To what extent President Roosevelt has the backing of his people in the statements he has been making and in the international course he has mapped there is no way of knowing. Certainly he is talking plainly enough, and there is nothing to indicate that he seriously objected to the conversations of a secret meeting being made known in their essential details. Whether France and Britain are justified in placing unrestricted reliance upon the present attitude of official Washington is a matter on which one might well hesitate to pass unqualified opinion. In the meantime it is doing no harm to have the dictators of the world made to understand that United States is not likely to remain out of the picture if they start vaulting international fences.

Tenants In The Majority

In an analysis of the manner in which voting power is distributed in Peterborough, F. T. Tuggey, in a letter elsewhere on this page, has made some interesting revelations. He finds that there are 12,503 persons entitled to vote in the city at municipal elections, and that the property owners are outnumbered by 3,024 votes in the hands of tenants. One might wonder why there would be so many tenants, but Mr. Tuggey answers that by having secured a list of houses in which there are from four to six votes and this comes about by having two, and in some cases three families living in one house.

We do not believe the situation in Peterborough is unusual. There were figures published showing how many people voted at the municipal elections in London, Ont., recently, and 21,365 marked ballot papers on that day, and of these 12,502 persons entitled to vote in the 12,062 were tenants. So in that election the tenants would be the dominant factor in determining the results.

Mr. Tuggey mentions that tenants, by outnumbering property owners on the voters list would be able to place debt against property for which the owners only, and not the tenants, would be liable. It is difficult to agree with that conclusion because the Municipal Act sets forth very clearly who can and cannot vote on a money bylaw. Section 283 reads this way:

> The persons qualified to vote on a money bylaw shall be those entitled to vote at an election with the following exceptions:
> a: tenants, other than those mentioned in subsection 3;
> b: farmers' sons;
> c: farmers' daughters or farmers' wives.

The tenants referred to as covered by subsection 3 are thus dealt with:

> (3) A tenant whose lease extends for the time for which the debt or liability is to be created, or in which the money to be raised by the proposed bylaw is payable, or for at least 21 years, and who has by the lease covenanted to pay all municipal taxes in respect to the property other than local improvement rates, if he makes and files with the clerk not later than the tenth day before the day appointed for taking the vote, a declaration under the Canada Evidence Act, so stating shall be entitled to have his name entered on the list of voters prepared by the clerk.

The number of tenants who could qualify under those provisions would be small. If a proposed expenditure were of the size or nature which would call for a vote of the people, and if the period named for the retirement of the debt were 15 years, then it would mean that the tenant would have to be in possession of a lease covering that period. Few tenants have any such papers, as the average lease on a house is for the period of one year and a number of tenants rent their premises on a monthly basis without any lease. So according to the provisions of the Municipal Act there is no danger of tenants, although they are more numerous now than previously, swamping the property owners when it comes to the time when a vote shall be taken on a money bylaw.

Why Bother With Them?

There are two motions before the House of Commons, one for changing the name from the Dominion to the Kingdom of Canada, and another for doing away with the Union Jack as it is today and having in its place a distinctive Canadian flag.

One cannot but wonder if the people who ask parliament to consider such matters are actually convinced that the changes they suggest would be of the least benefit, would bring any measure of assistance to the solution of our problems, or would have any helpful influence in any quarter apart from the head of the individual clamoring for the change.

If we were called the Kingdom of Canada tomorrow morning, and if the old Union Jack were made over on the same day, what better off would we be? We would still have our debts, our railway problem, our unemployment and relief business and the question of where to get the money to pay the wheat bonus.

Such changes do not mean a thing, and the wonder is that men who apparently are serious minded will bother parliament with them.

As It Used To Be

In a letter written to the Examiner, Mr. A. MacNab referred to the pother or the dither of some such thing which was raised in the newspapers because roads out in the country had become blocked by snow. Looking over a number of papers in recent days we admit there have been many columns, all about the one and the same thing—too much snow piled in the roads for cars and trucks and buses to go along as usual.

Mr. MacNab referred to the days of a generation or so ago when a heavy fall of snow or a spell of drifting was taken in the stride along with the day's work. When the farmer started down the road with a bobsleigh and team and found he could not get through then he would be apt to gaze upon a neighbor's field where the snow was less. He would let down a piece of the fence and drive along that way until he came to something like better going on the road. And that is exactly the way it was done in scores of places for scores of years. Now and then there might be a bee to take out a bad drift but no person was much excited about it. As a rule it was known the house and the farm buildings generally would be warmer when there was a heavy fall of snow because it stopped a lot of draft.

In this day we are a skittish lot of folk who want to be getting off hither and thither every day of the year. We're in a hurry, but for what reason it is difficult at times to make out. Actually there is something to be said for the day when folk used to regard a heavy snow storm and a pile of drifting as something not at all unnusual. The dither into which we work ourselves today is probably part of the price we pay for what we call progress.

It Seems All Wrong

Albert Debenham of Toronto was due to go to jail for 30 days because he could not pay a fine of $20, and the fine was imposed because he had not filled in reports about work he had been doing and returned them to Ottawa. Debenham is a carpenter but for some time he has been doing odd jobs, and it is right enough to state openly he has been hard up because he gave that rating of his condition himself.

On the day prior to the beginning of his jail term some person paid the $20 fine into court, and that ended the business. Debenham will not have to become a jail bird.

It may end the case but it should not end the questions as to why this man should have been sentenced to jail. If some person had not put up the $20 Debenham would have been in jail today. And his offence was that he did not fill out a blank form and send it to Ottawa.

We have gone quite a distance in this country when it comes to extending the range of things for which a person can be sent to jail, and we believe it is neither wisdom nor justice to have our laws so shaped that a man without funds can be sent off to jail because he did not fill in some blank forms and return them to some department in Ottawa by a certain date.

Our Strange Ways

Not likely it would be possible to accurately estimate the extent to which prices on stock markets jump up and down every time Hitler makes a speech.

In the wheat market it was considered that the Hitler speech did not look much like immediate war, and reports tell of the price dropping about 1 1-2 cents per bushel.

That might not look like very much, because if a farmer had that to sell he could think of a number of losses which would hit him harder than taking 1 1-2 cents less per bushel for his grain.

Take 700,000,000 as the number of bushels of wheat available for selling at the moment, and the 1 1-2 cents drop means a lowering to the extent of $10,500,000.

Agony and disaster and such forces send the price of wheat up. If there was war it would increase; if there were extensive crop failures which would ruin thousands of farmers the price would be on the way up. It appears that through suffering and adversity some individuals have to pay the price for a higher reward for producing wheat. And yet it is one of the most essential products in the world.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Two more men are to be added to the police force in Woodstock. But will the ratepayers not object when they find the force has been doubled?

Hitler has one slight advantage over a number of other people. When he makes a speech he is certain in advance that a large number of people are going to pay attention to what he has to say.

A foreigner in Toronto wanted to shoot himself and a woman with whom he had quarreled. He followed that foolish old custom of shooting the woman first.

New carpets and drapes have been ordered for the assembly chamber at Queen's Park. No—not to mark the return of Mr. Hepburn, for in anticipation of the visit of the King and Queen.

Nations appeared to be somewhat relieved after Hitler's speech, but they were still in the frame of mind where they kept looking at the corner where they had left the shot gun.

One report says relations between Germany and United States are now somewhat strained. Rats! It's been like that between us and the man at the bank for months past.

Nine business executives in Moscow have been sent to jail for eight months for allowing laziness in their departments. They are trying to make real Rushians out of them.

When Chief Dan Whetung of Curve Lake reserve remarked a few months ago that we'd have a good fall of snow this winter he was speaking more truth than we ever suspected was in existence.

In the latest offensive of General Franco there were 316 Italian soldiers killed and 2,000 wounded, and those 2,316 men never would have been fighting in Spain unless they were forced to go there.

Teaspoons are said to be disappearing from the House of Commons cafe. With an election drawing closer some of the members may feel they would like to have souvenirs of the time when they were at Ottawa.

It may be a little late to discover and publish the fact, but Associated Press says that during the radio broadcast of the Schmeling-Louis prize fight in June of 1936 twelve radio listeners in United States and Canada died of heart failure.

Judge in Chicago refused a divorce on the ground that husband had slipped wife, and remarked it would be better if it were more generally done. And this is the year 1939 and Chicago is in a civilized country.

A wheat conference at Regina has decided to forward recommendations to the Dominion government that the price of wheat for the coming wheat year shall be the same as at present. It would have been helpful if there had been a rider attached stating where the government should look for the money.

Mayor Houde of Montreal gives fair warning that if the province of Quebec attempts to interfere in the management of Montreal then his worship will at once take steps to have the city secede from the province. When a man feels silly it is a good plan for him to try and keep others from being aware of the fact.

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Alfalfa has a boy friend now, and there is peace upon her brow, and joy pops from her eye; she travels somewhat in a daze, and several times these happy days, she heaves a heavy sigh.

¶ Alfalfa's changed a lot I know, you see it when she'll come or go, her chin is in the air; the worried look she used to wear, it is no longer lodging there, it's vanished I will swear.

¶ At work she never did too much, but read a lot of trash and such, and let the housework slide; in knocking dust from here to there, it never was her own affair, in that she took no pride.

¶ And she was careless in her looks, when buried in some trashy books, nor was she over neat; the only time she primped up smart, was when she up and made a start, at walking down the street.

¶ Before the boy friend calls on her, Alfalfa makes a healthy stir, like winding up a spring; she has the room all spick and span, where she will entertain her man, she dusts off everything.

¶ Alfalfa's changed the people say, they notice it most every day, for now she has a man; if she will land him I don't know, but of one thing I'm sure it's so—she's doing the best she can.

Our Statesmen At Their Labor

From Parliamentary Reports

Mr. ROGERS: has the hon. gentleman the statement that was made there?

Mr. HEAPS: I have just quoted from the Montreal Star.

Mr. ROGERS: Read the statement on unemployment insurance.

Mr. HEAPS: I will read again what the Secretary of State is reported to have said:

> He pointed out that the federal government was ready to assume the cost of unemployment insurance for the whole dominion, but the main obstacle was opposition from the government of Quebec.

I wish to know whether that is a policy of the government, that is all.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: The policy of the government with respect to unemployment insurance has been that as soon as this government receives power to deal with unemployment insurance as a federal matter the government is prepared to take over the entire cost of unemployment insurance—

Mr. HEAPS: The Prime Minister is getting into a little difficulty.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: —apart from any contribution from any province at all.

Mr. HEAPS: That is qualifying the statement as contained in this paper.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: Under a contributory scheme of course.

Mr. HEAPS: But before the Prime Minister made the qualification it was stated that the government was prepared to assume the whole cost of a federal unemployment insurance scheme. That is what the Secretary of State said in this item, and that is what I want to find out.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: The Secretary of State was evidently referring to the situation as between the provinces and the dominion.

Mr. HEAPS: what he said is obvious. He was probably playing a little bit of politics.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): Why does not my hon. friend wait until the secretary of State is here? I give my word of honour that if I had to attack him I would wait until he was in his seat—and very often, he himself is not in his seat.

Mr. HEAPS: On Friday I was scheduled to speak to-day and we were talking about closing the debate to-morrow. I did not know whether the Secretary of State would be here, and if I did not get my turn to-day, I might not get it to-morrow.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): Did my hon. friend tell him that he was going to lay a charge against him?

Mr. HEAPS: This is not a charge.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): It is based on the Montreal Star and the Montreal Gazette—

Mr. HEAPS: But that is not a charge. I am not making an insinuation.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): — strong C. C. F. newspapers.

Mr. HEAPS: I have never heard such childish remarks coming from the right hon. Minister of Justice (Mr. Lapointe). I am surprised at him.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): Reciprocity.

Mr. HEAPS: Thank you. To say I am making a charge against an hon. member of this house when I quote from a responsible newspaper what that hon. member is supposed to have said—

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): I say it is unfair comment.

Mr. HEAPS: The Minister of Justice says it is a charge because I am quoting from a newspaper. In other words any hon. member of this house who quotes what another hon. member is reported to have said is guilty of making a charge.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): Make it unfair comment.

Mr. HEAPS: Then we will say it is comment, according to my right hon. friend; even say it is unfair comment. It cannot be said that it is a charge.

✧ ✧ ✧

HERE'S THE BOOK

Mr. DOUGLAS (Weyburn): I am sure the hon. member would not want to mislead the house—

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): Certainly not, but I have the book right under my hand.

Mr. DOUGLAS (Weyburn): The hon. member directed a question to me, and I should like to answer him. If he does not wish me to do so, it is all right.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): I shall be pleased to answer a question, though that is greater courtesy than is usually shown me.

Mr. DOUGLAS (Weyburn): I asked the hon. member if he would allow me to ask a question. He asked a rhetorical question about the shipment of aeroplanes. I asked him if he has looked up the licences issued last year for the shipment of aeroplanes and munitions to other countries. If he does so, he will find the answer to the statement I made.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): I cannot find any question to answer there. It has nothing at all to do with the matter; it is not relevant.

✧ ✧ ✧

RESUME YOUR SEAT

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): Well, when my hon. friend quotes a prominent man as saying it, and keeps on repeating it at every opportunity, surely he is endorsing it to some extent? If not, why does he advertise it?

Mr. DOUGLAS (Weyburn): Mr. Speaker—

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): I hold here—

Mr. DOUGLAS (Weyburn): I rise to a point of order.

Mr. DEPUTY SPEAKER: The hon. member must resume his seat.

Mr. DOUGLAS (Weyburn): But I rise to a point of order. The hon. member has deliberately misquoted me twice. I ask the hon. member, if he is going to quote, to quote me from Hansard, and not deliberately try to misrepresent the facts of the case.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): Mr. Speaker, I hold a copy of Hansard in my hand, and when I am through with it I shall be willing to pass it on to you, sir, in order to show you what I have read.

HE'LL DELIVER IT?

"I'm sorry your cheque was returned, Miss Winnington, but I'll see that it doesn't happen again."

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

APPRECIATION

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I am enclosing herewith a copy of a letter which I have written to Mr. W. A. Anderson, Reeve of Otonabee, in appreciation of the good work they are doing in keeping the township roads open. I shall be grateful if you could find space for this letter in your paper.

Thanking you, I am

Yours sincerely,
JAMES DUTTON.

W. A. Anderson, Esq.,
Reeve, Otonabee Township.

Dear Mr. Anderson: I should like to convey to you and the members of your council my appreciation of the splendid work which you are doing in keeping the township roads open for traffic during these recent days.

It means a great deal to us in our business when our salesmen, who go to the country, find the roads ploughed in such a manner as to enable them to make their deliveries without interruption. Our Mr. Harrison informed me today that your ploughs were out during the whole of last night and today in an effort to see that the roads were in such shape as to cause no cessation of traffic. I am sending a copy of this letter to the Peterborough Examiner.

Again thanking you and commending you for your promptitude and initiative in this very important matter, I am

Yours sincerely,
JAMES DUTTON.

MINORS IN BEVERAGE ROOMS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—At the recent meeting of the Hotelkeepers' Association in Toronto, Mr. James F. Cosgrave, president of the Brewers' Warehousing Company, referred to the matter of minors drinking in beverage rooms as creating a difficult situation. He said, "When a young girl of 16 suddenly becomes a woman it's difficult to distinguish ages."

The difficulty of distinguishing the exact age of either men or women in their late teens is obvious. It is a problem to which, under the circumstances, no one but the individual concerned may have the answer.

Mr. Odette, as Liquor Commissioner, has authority to make regulations governing the sale of liquor, and his regulations when approved by the governor-in-council, which is the Cabinet, have the force of law. Some time since, in an effort to meet the situation alluded to by Mr. Cosgrave, the writer suggested to Mr. Odette that a card be prepared carrying a declaration that the signer is of the full age of 21 years; and that he give to such declaration when signed the standing of an oath and direct that the hotelman or his agent, when serving liquor, if he is in doubt as to the age of those served, present this card for signature and refuse to serve them liquor unless it is signed.

This would protect the hotelkeeper and, if authorized, would in most cases deter minors from frequenting the beverage rooms.

In his reply the Commissioner commended the idea of a declaration, and suggested that he would prepare such a card—but that he would leave it optional with the hotelman to use it or not to use it. This, of course, would be to leave the regulation almost wholly without teeth, and to rob it of any practical results.

No law can be enforced without the risk of some unpleasantness, but if the authorities really desire to stop the serving of liquor to minors in beverage rooms, some such regulation would go a long way to achieving that result.

TENANTS RUN THE TOWN

Editor Examiner:

Sir,— Should property owners have more control of their property which they have invested their money in to build up the City of Peterborough? The following reasons will answer the question:

We have five wards in the City, North, Centre West, South and East.

The following will show the number of votes on the list which had the priviledge to vote on Jan. 2 1939. Taking South ward first, there are 1245 property holders, made up as follows—985 Public School and 260 Separate School supporters, compared with those other than property owners, 2,049, which show that property owners are out numbered when it comes to vote by a majority of 804 in the South ward.

We will next take Centre ward which shows there are 293 property holders made up as follows—253 Public School and 40 Separate School supporters; compared with those other than property holders, 1200, which shows that property owners are out numbered by 907 votes in the Centre ward.

We will pass on to the West ward which at the present time has seven members of the City Council. The number of property owners are as follows: 1279, made up as follows—1053 Public School supporters and 226 Separate School supporters, compared with those other than property owners, 1797, which shows 518 more votes than property owners have in the West ward of the City.

North ward with 1207 property owners, made up as follows—1064 Public School and 141 Separate School supporters, compared with those other than property owners, 1770, which shows that property owners are outnumbered by 563 votes in the North ward.

In East ward with 715 property owners, made up as follows—512 Public School and 203 Separate School supporters, compared with those other than property owners, 947 votes, which shows again that property owners are out-numbered by 232 votes which shows that the vote of the whole City as follows.

Property owners and tenants — 12 502 votes.

Other than property owners — 7763 votes.

Property owners — 4739 votes

Which shows that property owners are out-numbered by 3,024 votes.

The number of Public School supporters on the voters list 3,869 property owners.

The number of Separate School supporters on the voters list 870 property owners.

Which reveals to us that 4,739 property owners are responsible to furnish the money to care for a population of 24,000 and whatever they need, whether it be relief or other services the owners have to pay, and if they have not got any money themselves to pay the demands, their property is taken from them and no mercy shown. Is it not time that some reasonable adjustments were made to give the property owners more control of their household?

Real estate is burdened with a load which is nearly at the breaking point, and when we hear of other services which are needed to take care of the needs of the whole city, 3867 property owners are asked or will be asked to furnish nearly half a million dollars to provide the needs to furnish it, and place the debt against their property. If the need is so great let everybody pay their fair share of the cost and not burden the 3867 with it. Property is paying more than its fair share of the cost of the different services which the city needs.

In three years 650 families moved in to Peterborough and the majority of them have their names placed on the voters' list which means that they have the privilege of helping to choose the mayor and members of council of our city. The property owners have no voice about it; all they have to do is provide the money which helps feed them. When we look over the voters' list and see the number of votes in one house through the doubling up in houses of low assessment value, can it be wondered at that the property owners have lost control of our own household. As to further information I am giving some of the houses and assessment value with the number of votes in the houses.

Parnell St., six votes, tenants, and two owners have a vote, house assessment $3,100.

Lake St., six votes, tenants, and two owners, have a vote, house assesement $1,200

Bethune St., four votes, tenants, and owner has a vote.

Rink St., five votes, tenants, and owner has a vote, house assessment $1,700.

Lafayette St., Four votes, house assessment $1,400.

Downie St., four votes, owner has a vote assessment $1,700.

Queen St., seven votes, tenants, assessment $2,800.

Park St., A and B, six votes, tenants, assessment $2,600.

Patterson St., four votes, tenants, assessment $1,050.

Sherbrooke St., four votes, tenants, assessment $1,050.

Elm St., four votes, tenants, assessment $1,100.

Cambridge St., four votes, tenants, assessment $1,360.

Stewart St., four votes tenants, assessment $1,800.

Rubidge St., four votes, tenants, and two owners, assessment $2,200.

Aylmer St., four votes, tenants, assessment $1,400.

Maude St., four votes, tenants, owner has a vote, assessment $2,520.

This is but a few of the houses where there are four or more votes in one house; there are many others too numerous to mention. Can any property owners wonder why he has lost the control of his or her household as long as conditions like this are allowed to continue. Is it not time that our City Council took steps to have the municipal franchise remedied in such a way that property owners has a little more to say in running the city business? I maintain that the only people should have the right to elect a council are the people whose property is responsible to furnish the money to carry on the administration of the city.

If tenants are to continue to have the franchise it should be limited to the tenant who rents the house from the landlord and not the ones who rent two or three rooms from the tenant who is responsible to the landlord. It is time property owners began to think where we are drifting if they want to protect their own household.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

O Lord, thou hast searched me, and known me. . . . Thou hast beset me behind and before, and laid thine hand upon me. . . . Whither shall I go from thy spirit? or whither shall I flee from thy presence?

If I ascend up into heaven, thou art there: if I make my bed in hell, behold, thou art there.

If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea; even there shall thy hand lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me. If I say, surely the darkness shall cover me; even the night shall be light about me.

Yea, the darkness hideth not from thee; but the night shineth as the day: the darkness and the light are both alike to thee. . . .

How precious also are thy thoughts unto me, O God! how great is the sum of them! If I should count them, they are more in number than the sand: when I awake, I am still with thee.—Ps. cxxxix. 1, 5, 7-12, 17, 18.

TOO MUCH OVERHEAD.

Overhead is something that eats into the profits or enhances the selling price of goods.

In the case of agricultural products the grower cannot set the price at which he will sell. World markets and consumers determine what the goods from the farm will bring, so overhead costs must appear only in the operator's cost sheet, and when they are too high they are paid out of what the farmer might perchance have left for himself and his family.

This fact has been given altogether too little attention. Our splendid educational facilities and extension services have shown us how to grow bigger crops and produce well-finished bullocks, but they have refrained from introducing that troublesome factor of overhead and from bothering us with the nasty little problem of net profits.—(Farmer's Advocate)

CONVERSATION PIECE.

Attention, men! A survey conducted at Stephens College for Women at Columbia, Mo., reveals that most college girls are backward when it comes to talking.

What's this?

For generations the female of the species has been known as the sex with the voice. Think of the comedians who have won applause the literary cracks which have scored with the public on the strength of gossip gags about women.

Now Stephens comes along and upsets the applecart. Why, they say the co-eds are such poor conversationalists that "gab fests" have been organized in the dormitories to accustom the young ladies to chitter-chatter.

Advice to the married men: don't let your wife see this article. And for the young fellows, grab yourselves a Stephens campus quite before she gets her training in those "gab sessions."—(NEA Service)

A Bit of Nonsense

A POOR GUIDE

A certain minister was preaching in a strange town. During the afternoon he wrote a letter and took it to find the Post Office. He had some difficulty, and at last inquired the way of a small boy who obligingly told him.

The minister talked to the boy, and found out that he was an orphan. "Now, my boy," he said, "I should like to adopt a boy like you. If you will come and live with me I will give you a home, bring you up, educate you, and teach you the way to Heaven."

"Garn," said the boy "you don't even know the way to the Post Office."

Farm Meetings Being Held In Many Areas

The spirit of the old Farmers' Institute, of pre-war days, is stirring into new life, temporarily at least, in a series of country meetings Frank C. Paterson, representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, has arranged for a week or ten days.

"We started at Warsaw Wednesday afternoon, and had a good meeting of the Dummer-Douro Agricultural Society," Mr. Paterson said, "and we'll spend this afternoon at Douro. Next Monday afternoon we are going to Ennismore and to Lakefield on Tuesday. These meetings are called for two o'clock. Then Wednesday night we'll be at Stewart's Hall, Otonabee.

"Some of the problems that used to be discussed at the old Institute meetings are still with us. They are hardy perennials, and then we've got some new ones, such as the problem of marekting, that comes right home to every farmer. Some of our county pople have been saying at various meetings of late that farmers have got to do more thinking about their affairs, and we can try to make these meetings of some help in that respect."

Robert McKercher, one of the tutors at the Keene short school has some spare time this week, and is available to go along with Mr. Paterson. He is a young, practical farmer, with the degree of Bachelor of the Science of Agriculture, from the O.A.C., and his home is near Dublin, Ontario.

J. Horace Shaw, B.S.A., of Hespeler, has come to Keene for about a week's lectures and demonstrations of farm mechanics, including farm tractors and gasoline engines. This should be an interesting and helpful feature of the work at Keene which is now entering upon its final month.

Cripps Is Invited To Submit Entries

Fred Cripps, local photographer, has obtained invitations from ten different exhibition salons to show prints this year. The invitations, some from distant points, one being from Copenhagen, Denmark, two from Brussels, Belgium, and one from Darwen, England.

Hundreds are invited to submit prints for selection but of all submitted, only approximately 100 are chosen at each salon. It is an honor to have a print chosen for exhibition and brings international recognition to any so honored. In 1938, Mr. Cripps had 10 accepted, making a total of 16 in the past two years.

Invitations were received from SanFrancisco, Long Beach, Cal., Wilmington, Deleaware, Phoenix, Arizona, Milwaukee, Wis.; American Annual at Boston, Mass.; The Boston Salon, Boston; Darwen, England, Copenhagen, Denmark, and Brussels, Belgium.

Hoover Sees Way Opening To War

CHICAGO, Feb. 2—(AP).—Herbert Hoover declared last night that President Roosevelt's announced departures in the United States foreign policy prescribed measures which would provoke international ill will and possibly lead to war.

The use of coercion, such as economic sanctions, said the former republican president, was an integral part of Mr. Roosevelt's proposed expansion of foreign policy, and asserted any form of coercion "is the straight path to war itself."

"No husky nation," said Mr. Hoover, "will stand such pressures without bloody resistance. Those who think in terms of economic sanctions should also think in terms of war."

Mr. Hoover set forth his views in a broadcast to the council on foreign relations. General Charles Dawes, formerly vice president and ambassador to Great Britain, and many of the citys outstanding business and professional men, were in the audience.

At the outset of his speech the former president said the United States was "deluged with talk of war," that "our minds are being prepared to accept war as inevitable," but warned that it was necessary to "keep our heads."

Some authoritarian governments, he added, "are making war or are aggressively threatening other nations. The world is taut with fear." But, he added, the dangers to the United States must be appraised cooly, soberly, and without partisanship.

Mr. Hoover said the United States would willingly bear the burden of increased armament for national defence but contended the "proper degree" of military preparedness depended upon th nation's foreign policies and the source of its dangers.

Government officials have estimated that at least 30,000 persons were killed.

Mt. Julian Enjoys Euchre Party

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MOUNT JULIAN, Feb. 2—At the euchre party, which was held at Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Barnett's home, on Saturday evening, seven tables of cards were played. Mr. Raymond Lean obtained the highest score for the men, while three tied for the ladies' first prize, namely Walter Bolton and Misses Carol Thompson and Effie Kelly, with Miss Kelly finally winning. A prize was also given for the most lone hands, which resulted in a tie between Walter Bolton and Lena McCauley. Miss McCauley was the winner in this case. Tickets had been attached to the score cards, and when these were shaken and the decision made, Mr. Gilbert Northey was the lucky winner.

Mrs. Leonard Barnett has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the euchre club for this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Thompson are opening their home for the euchre party next Saturday evening.

Vestry Meeting

Few changes were made at the Holy Trinity Anglican church vestry meeting. Dave Dunford and Harold Bolton were newly appointed sidesmen, taking the places of two sidesmen, who are unable to attend church. A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. William Thompson and Mrs. Albert Reid for their gracious services as vestry clerk and auditor respectively. Miss Isabel Bolton acted as secretary for the meeting, which was very well attended, considering that some of the people walked miles or rode on an open sleigh, on a twenty-five below zero evening.

Tests will determine whether it will become standard equipment.

Deer Slaughter On At Nogie's Creek

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Feb. 2. — Archie McKinnon, Glanarm, 16 miles north of Lindsay, was found dead in bed on Tuesday morning. A bachelor, he was last seen in the village on Saturday, and when found by a neighbor, was lying in bed, his body badly frozen. Mr. McKinnon was in his fifty-eighth year. Dr. White, coroner, of Fenelon Falls, was notified of his death, but decided an inquest was unnecessary. He is survived by one sister and two brothers.

Deer Slaughter On.

According to reports from Bobcaygeon district, many deer are falling victims to wolf packs. The remains of eight deer were found in the big marsh in the district of Nogie's Creek. This marsh is a regular "deer morgue," to use the expression of a well-known resident of the district, the ravenous wolves destroying the deer in great numbers.

Young People Meet At Rush Point

The regular meeting of the Rush Point Young People's was held at the church on Thursday evening, with a good attendance. During the business part of the meeting the roll-call was answered by a favorite verse of Scripture. Then a short time was spent in a sing-song, consisting of choruses. Miss Clara Graham then took charge of the meeting. Reading, "The Story of Negro Slave, Cuff" by Muriel Menzies; violin duet, "At Calvary," by H. Buchanan and B. Baxter. A talk was given by B. Baxter, "On what foundation are you building?" on the Scripture, I. Cor., 3rd chapter, using as a text the eleventh verse.

Y.P. Union Meets In Lakefield

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 2.—The Young People's Union of Lakefield United Church held their regular meeting on Tuesday evening when Mrs. Dora MacMillan, Christian Culture convener, was in charge of the program. She was assisted by her committee, Mrs. O. Calberry and Mrs. A. Montgomery.

Robert Spence, recreation convener, was in charge of the recreation period. Then the president took the chair for the business. Final plans were made for the Valentine party to be held in the Sunday School on Tuesday evening, Feb. 14. Don Yale was elected secretary of the Y.P.U.

Mrs. MacMillan took charge of the meeting. After the call to worship she called on Mrs. G. F. Kelly who read the scripture lesson. Mrs. Calberry read the story of the hymn "Stand Up For Jesus," and at the conclusion of the reading members joined in singing the hymn. Then Mrs. MacMillan read the story of a second hymn and Mrs. Butcher and Mrs. Deck sang the selection as a duet.

A hymn, the Mizpah benediction and a contest brought the evening to a close.

Clarion Newsman Ousted By Houde

MONTREAL, Feb. 2 (CP).—A reporter who said he represented the Federated Press, which he said supplies news to Labor papers, left the press gallery in City Council yesterday at the request of Mayor Camillien Houde.

The newspaperman, whose name was not mentioned during a debate on his right to sit in the gallery, was pointed out first by Ald. Armand Taillon, who said the reporter represented the Toronto Daily Clarion, "a Communist paper." The reporter said his organization supplied news to the Clarion.

When Taillon protested the man's presence in the gallery, the Mayor claimed the incident "a political gesture against me." In the last regime a Clarion representative had sat in the gallery for some time, and there had been no protest. It was "very strange," Houde said.

"They tried during the election campaign (last December) to make me out a Communist," the Mayor said.

After several aldermen had discussed the matter, Houde walked over to the reporter and asked him to leave. He retired from the gallery.

FIRE FIGHTERS DEFEAT THE BUS DRIVERS IN A SHINNY BATTLE

Challenge Tilt Ends Up 3-1 For The Smokies

Firemen fought their way to blazing victory in a fiery battle with Busmen at the Brock Street Arena on Wednesday night. Only one man had to be carried from the building, overcome by a high stick that was trust against his nose. The score was 3-1.

Close to 200 spectators stood idly by while the battle royal went on in the enclosure. Many of them were policemen, ready for any emergency. Only serious brawl occurred at the end of the game, and it had all appearances of being a put-up job. Lucky it was for Referee Walter Jackson that he was wearing a fireman's crash-proof helmet, for in trying to break up the fight some dastardly player whacked him viciously over his steel-protected skull with a hockey stick and jammed the helmet far down over his ears.

Police asked for trouble when they watched the game in gloomy silence and then sneered "sissies."

Police Ready for Fire Easters.

"If that's all they can do we'll take the firemen on any time they say," remarked one burly cop. "Just any old time they say."

There was some skating during the game—but not very much. Most ludicrous sight of the evening was to see the Busmen propelling their goalie to and from the ice like a sack of potatoes. He couldn't skate, was barely able to stand on his feet. When the Busmen were protecting the south end of the rink it became almost an engineering feat to get the goalie in position.

Heaviest body-checker on the ice, when he wasn't draped over the boards fraternizing with a "cop," was Fireman Joe Astles, whose bulk sent apprehensive shivers through puny Busmen when he stumbled down the ice in their general direction.

Loser who will longest remember the game was a centre player named Maher, believed to have been entered as a "ringer" by the Busmen. A fireman hung a ringer on his nose with the working end of a hockey stick and he went from the game a wiser man. Bus company officials denied this morning their entry was a "ringer."

"Sure he works for us—he's on our reserve list," one of them said.

"What's a reserve list?"

"Never mind what it is—he works on it."

But even the bosses had to admit their lads took quite a beating. "What's the matter, are they still playing?" a reporter was asked at half-past nine this morning. "None of our men have showed up yet."

The game started at 11.30 at night on extremely rough ice, but that didn't bother most of the players. They'd probably only have fallen a few more times on fast ice.

Line-up:

Busmen—Skatewell Harvey, goal; Boat Deck and Wrench Fitzsimmons, defence; Mail Train Maher, centre; Rabbit Hunt and Bit 'Em Gibson, wings; Hook Bennett and Ramrod Ramsay, alternates.

Firemer—Stonewall Mason, goal; Redhot Wilson and Juice Astles, defence; Doc Carr, centre; Handsome Foster and Lightning Gimblett, wings; Blondie McKenzie and Deacon Shearer, alternates.

Note.—All positions given above are approximate.

Rookie Goes For Records

Something Different, Something New—Girl Coaches Male Basketball Squad

If the players on the Martin's college basketball team answer questions of their coach with a "Yes, ma'am!" they aren't grammatically wrong.

You see, the cach of the Martin's college men's cage team is a "she," and a pretty one, too. Her name is Elizabeth Jo Chapman.

Miss Chapman arrived at Martin's college, which is at Pulaski, Tennessee, last September as director of physical education. She coaches both the men's and the girls' team.

This is Miss Chapman's first attempt at coaching the cage sport. She holds a B.S. in physical education and has had special training in physical education at the George Peabody College for Teachers at Nashville, Tenn. She played basketball when attending the Eastern States Teachers' college.

While she is not enjoying great success with the men's team, though her record is creditable, she has a good women's team, one that is undefeated so far.

According to Keener L. Rudolph, president of the Tennessee Conference schools, Miss Chapman is well liked. The coach herself admits that coaching a men's team is a tough job, but "fascinating."

Poor material has hampered Miss Chapman's first coaching efforts, the team members being uninitiated players. But she follows the rules of most coaches, teaches her players fundamentals such as passing, pivoting, dribbling. She also hands out pep talks when needed.

Miss Chapman says it's hard for a woman to coach a men's team successfully, but she is having a busy life trying.

Spectators like Miss Chapman as a coach but so do the boys playing the game for the school. Something extra to give the "old college try" for.

Quaker Maidens Beat Electrics

Quaker Maids pulled up a substantial first half lead and held it through the final period last night, to defeat C.G.E. 10-3 in the Collegiate gym in a slow Ladies' City League basketball game. Poor passing and ineffective shooting kept the score low and while C.G.E. were never entirely out of the hunt the early Quaker lead kept them pretty much in command.

Both squads passed up endless scoring chances and out of twelve free throws they cashed in on only 1 to cut scoring to a minimum. E. Alexander and I. Young both with four points starred for the winners on the attack and M. Sullivan was best at guard. H. Bradley who scored all the loser's points and H. Harte-Maxwell stood out for the C.G.E. five. The teams:

C.G.E.—J Shadgett, H Bradley, I. Houghton, H. Harte-Maxwell, M. Wright.

Quaker Maids— E. Alexander, V. Wood, I. Young, M. Sullivan, E. O'Leary, A. Frost, D. Frost, M. Boyle, E. Harte-Maxwell, M. Snowden.

Refree—W. Thirnbeck.

Lakefield Lads Lose In Lindsay

(Lindsay Post)

Lindsay Juveniles won their second game of the season when they defeated Lakefield 5-1 at the arena Tuesday night. Scoring three goals in the first one, one in the second and one in the third period, the local kids took the game very handily.

Lakefield lacked the passing plays of the Lindsay team and were considerably outskated. Sharpe with three goals was the high scorer for the local juveniles.

Sharpe opened the scoring in the first period when he batted the puck in the net from a scramble out in front. Five minutes later the same player scored again when he shot from the corner and the puck rebounded in off an opponent's skate. Jack Connolly counted for the third time thirty seconds before the period ended when he scored on a pass from McDonald. McDonald got the only goal of the second period unassisted

In the final stanza, McQuarrie in the Lindsay nets was called on to stop several shots that looked labelled. Sharpe got his third goal of the night on a pass from Jack Connolly. Three minutes before the game ended Pearson scored Lakefield's only goal when he went in all alone to beat McQuarrie.

Line-ups:

Lindsay—Goal, McQuarrie; defence, Warrian, Sharpe; centre, J. Connolly; wings, McDonald, Karrys; subs, Ellis Kirley, Western, Nesbitt, G. Connolly, Polito.

Lakefield—Goal, Windsor; defence, Morris, Birch; centre; Bullock; wings, Cameron, Pearson; subs, Jewell, Shearer, McFadden.

Referee—R. Junkin, Lakefield.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Some of the minor pucksters around town will be getting new hockey sticks for gifts one of these days—if they haven't got 'em already. Bill Prindible, through the efforts of R. M. Glover and the O.H.A., has obtained several dozen sticks to be given the younger teams in the Southend League and Church Loop. They were recently given some pucks, also. It is nice to see some interest in the minor players here, where the future stars hail from—and there are plenty of chaps in Peterborough, clergy, business men and others, who aid the younger teams plenty in one way or another each winter. And who get no publicity, nor do they seek it. Minor hockey thrives in this city.

Young Monarchs insist that they still have a fine chance of making the group playoffs, and we're not denying it. They have a win and a tie for three points, whereas Port Hope has but two points and Cobourg four. If Monarchs can beat out Cobourg—and they claim it's in the gunny sack — they'll be meeting Bowmanville in group semi-finals, Lindsay being in top place. The local "C" crowd go to Lindsay on Friday and to Port Hope on Tuesday. Coburg comes here on the 10th. Stay in there battling, boys!

* * * * * *

Heady Young Puckist

Young Joe Rochetta of the Monarchs, centre on the first line, is a promising puck prospect. Reminds us of Ned Vitarelli, when that fiery little Italian came up from the Southend Loop to earn a junior O.H.A. berth some five years ago. Joe is a stylist, a swell skater, good stickhandler and a heady, scrappy player. Is getting over a habit of hogging the disc on rushes, but is still inclined to loaf too much. And should stay on the ice more, letting the other guy draw the penalties. But Rochetta is a colorful kid and well worth watching in a game. There are several real prospects on this "C" club.

* * * * * *

Our Colts came back from Oshawa a-boilin', claiming they got a bad deal from Referee Wortley and that the score by rights shoulda been 4-2 for Oshawa. Counters by McDonald and Williams were called back—and they say the big rough homesters got away with murder. But they're gonna give 'em a real fight here on Tuesday. Oshawa have a packed team, on ice since November and practicing regularly with the "A" crew. Colts feel they can beat this band on the smaller local surface, and we don't see why not. Coach Bill Jackson is willing to have Peg Hurst here as ref., but no more of Wortley.

The Airmen And Us

Friday night is the evening the fans are waiting for, on account of it is the Trenton Fliers here 'gainst the Petes. And these senior puck classics pack the customers in like a fire sale in Xmas week. It's a rather screwy senior schedule this semester, with anything liable to happen, and lots of it actually occurring. The battling Airmen are out to take the Petes' measure in retaliation for that setback our boys handed 'em on Quinte ice, and it'll be a tidy tussle. Personally, we feel the Petes can take the Fliers anytime, but lots of folks right here will give us an argument on it. At anyrate, it'll be a fray well worth seeing, so get your ducats on time.

* * * * * *

Not only are the Airmen out for vengeance on our gang here but they're battling for their very existence, after dropping a 7-3 one to those amazing Redmen in Belleville last night. Looks like the Thomas team have got a batch of monkey glands, whereas the Fliers are running into a low ceiling or something. Standing now has the Petes with five wins and two losses, Redmen with three and four, while R.C.A.F.-ers have two and four. After tomorrow's tilt here, Fliers and Belleville clash once again ere playoff time—which'll probably be next Wednesday eve. A win Friday for Fliers will give them a second-place tie with the Quinte crew but, if they lose, they must defeat the Redmen in the next joust to gain a draw with the Redmen. If this latter should happen, a game would be necessary to declare an opponent for the Petes in group playoffs. Yep, Friday's fray here is very important.

Well, That's Over

Drivers of the horseless carriages and some rubber-gowned smoke eaters had a challenge puck thing last e'en in the Midnight League at the Brock, a few hundred bewildered souls—no doubt feeling there is no place like home when there's no place else to go — witnessing the doings. The Fire Fighters defeated the Bus Drivers by a 3-1 score, if anyone cares; some suspicion of skull-duggery being attached to Referee Walter Jackson, who was observed wearing a firemen's bonnet. Now that this challenge matter — which stirred up quite a wind in recent weeks — is over, an excited populace can settle down once more!

* * * * * *

Two L.O.B.A. cage contests are booked for tonight at the P.C.I. gym, Belleville playing local Orfuns at 8.15 and Cobourg champs clashing with C.G.E. at 9.00. No admission charge, since the teams are loaned the use of the gym, not renting it. These games should be nifty girls' basketball battles all the way. Up there at 6.30 tonight, Quaker Debs and St. John's have a local tilt, while last night saw Quaker Maids copping a 10-3 smirk over C.G.E. damsels. Three Bowmanville teams play P.C.I. squads at the Collegiate court tomorrow in the gloaming, and three senior men's scraps are slated for the "Y" on Saturday eve.

St. Peter's Wins Over King Edward

St. Peter's O.J.H.A. team defeated King Edward in a scheduled juvenile Southend League game last night at the Sacred Heart Ring, 9-0. Fanny O'Toole played his best game of the season in the Saints' net and handily won a shutout behind the sturdy defence of Scriver, Lewis, and Prete.

In the first perod the Saints grabbed the lead when Henwood, Mason and Garvey all registered. Lewis and Gillespie went off towards the end of the frame for fighting.

In the second, St. Peter's made it 5-0 when an assist from O'Heron gave Mackness a goal and a minute later Eason took a pass from Mason and scored the second goal of this period. Mackness got penalized and King Edward threatened for a time but could not register.

In the third Ray Garvey banged in three in a row unassisted and with a minute to go Mason took a pass from Garvey and gave the Saints the victory. King Edward, although fast in spots, were considerably weak on the defence and left Goalie Shea in rather a hot spot. The teams:—

St. Peter's.—Goal, F. O'Toole; defence, R. Scriver, D. Crary; centre, Eason; wings, R. Garvey, A. Mason; subs., Prete, Lewis, O'Heron, Henwood, Mackness.

King Edward.—Goal, Shea; defence, Patterson, Roberts; centre, Dundas; wings, Gillespie and Campbell; subs., Batten, Woodgate, Agnew, Jamieson.

JOE COOPER ALEX. LEVINSKY

First player deal engineered since Paul Thompson and Carl Voss took over the reins of Chicago Black Hawks from Bill Stewart, found Alex. Levinsky hitting the downward trail as he went to New York Rangers in exchange for Joe Cooper. Madoc Scholars Whip Stirling

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Feb. 2.—On Wednesday evening Madoc High School hockey team defeated Stirling High School by a score of 3-2 in a Central Hastings Hockey Association tilt.

The game was largely made up of individual effort, resulting in a prize exhibition of shinny.

In the first period, Nayler scored from the face-off, counting on the rebound of Kellar's shot, which the goalie failed to clear. Armstrong counted twice for Stirling. One penalty in this period went to Armstrong for boarding Moon who was carried off as the bell went to end the period.

In the second period Stewart tied the score on a lone effort. Four penalties were handed out, Stirling getting three of them.

In the third period Kellar got the winning count on the nicest play of the game, assisted by Munro. Two penalties went to Madoc, one to Stirling.

For Stirling Morton was the best man on the ice, with Armstrong next. Kellar and Moon went best for the homesters.

The game was handled by Alexander of Madoc and Wells of Stirling.

The teams:

Stirling: Goal, McGowen; defence, J. Walker, Brooks; centre, Morton; wings, Armstrong, Richardson; alternates, R. Walker, Pyear, J. Andrew, Vandervoort, Bastedo.

Madoc: Goal, W. Hawthorne; defence, Moon, T. Hawthorne; centre, Kellar; wings, Munro, Nayler; alternates, Stewart, J. Thompson, W. Thompson, McCaw.

Hopers Thank St. John Corps

(Port Hope Guide)

Due to a courtesy extended to Port Hope junior hockey club in Peterborough Tuesday it was discovered by two members of the St. John's Ambulance corps of Peterborough that Orval Wainman of the local junior squad was suffering from a fractured rib. It is believed that Wainman received the fractured rib in the Lindsay-Port Hope junior fixture here, January 24.

Ed. Brandwood advised The Guide today that two members of the St. John's Ambulance Corps visited the rooms of both teams at the end of each period and went over all players to see if any injuries had been received. Mr. Brandwood understands that this courtesy is extended to both Peterborough and visiting teams by the Peterborough corps at each hockey fixture.

"It was more than appreciated by the Port Hope club," Mr. Brandwood said, "and we are going to write Peterborough and thank them for this kindness."

Following their discovery of Wainman's fractured rib, the Peterborough Corps men strapped Wainman's ribs with tape.

In Canadian Scramble

When Cecil Hart was given the bounce recently as coach of the collapsed Canadiens in the N.H.L. Babe Siebert, ABOVE, playing his third year (all good ones) on the team's defence, was appointed assistant coach or ice general or something of that nature, with Jules Dugal, former club secretary as actual manager.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

The committee has decided to cancel all scheduled games for tonight on account of the Lindsay-Peterborough Cup games.

Our boys made a good showing at the Lindsay bonspiel yesterday, B. Scott being tied for first honors, with G. Cairns coming in second place. Twenty rinks in all competed. The rinks:

D. Clarke	G. Sorenson
C. Taylor	E. Sackville
J. Cullen	C. Giroux
B. Scott, Skip	G. Cairns, Skip

At the time of writing this article we have no report from the Oshawa bonspiel and have no report from the ladies' tankard being played in Toronto.

"Chatter" Robertson still is the only undefeated rink in the schedule, coming though with a 100 to 1 shot to win by one point.

V. Currie had to go an extra end before J. J. Howden's quartette would give in.

That big 6 on the third end was enough to push E. R. Shirley over the top.

G. Hall's rink never scored until the ninth end and they stopped right there.

Both J. McWilliams and M. Cruthers had photo finishes.

Ladies Section

In the first round of the Waddell Cup Mrs. R. Turner defeated, Mrs. W. Sanderson 12-8 and Miss H. Munro won from Mrs. R. Waddell 8-7.

Scores

G. Robertson	7	H. Clegg	6

Job On The Farm

ITHACA, N.Y., Feb. 2 (AP). — Country boys may look to the city for future employment but there's still an important job to be filled back on the farm. That, believes Dr. A. G. Danks of Cornell, is administering to the needs of sick animals, a job he says has become more important in recent years. "During the depression years," Dr. Danks said, "there was no record of a graduate in veterinary medicine being on relief."

Demoted Sands, Getliffe Vow Return

BOSTON, Feb. 2—(AP).—Charlie Sands and Ray Getliffe, the Boston Bruins first-line wingers who were demoted by Manager Art Ross to the club's International American Hockey league farm at Hershey, Pa., vowed they would "be back in two weeks" when they entrained to join the minors.

"We're so sure that we'll be back in two weeks that our families are going to remain in Boston," Sands explained. They will be in the Hershey lineup against Pittsburgh Saturday night.

When he sent those veterans out on option, Ross brought up replacements in 19-year-old Terry Reardon, playing his first season as a professional, and Bob (Red) Hamill, who played several games for the Bruins last year.

Ross said he planned two new forward lines for tonight's game against the Maple Leafs in Toronto. Bill Cowley, who centred for Sands and Getliffe, will be flanked by Roy Conacher and Mel Hill, and Gordon Pettinger will pivot for Reardon and Hamill. The Kitchener kid line of Milt Schmidt, Woody Dumart and Bobby Bauer will remain intact.

The Boston manager's defiance of the "never break up a winning combination" precept resulted from his decision that the defensive work of Sands and Getliffe was not up to the standard he requires for his first-place team.

Drafting Squad Cops A 2-0 Win

Drafting Dept. defeated Tool Room by a 2-0 score in a secondary divison C.G.E. shop hockey tussle at the Sacred Heart rink Tuesday evening. Dunfield got both counters, one in the first and one in the third of a clean, hard-fought fracas. Condon, Hough, Dunfield, Conroy, Earle and Shaughnessy all turned in a neat effort. Hough aided on a goal. Mason was hard to beat in his second straight shutout. Teams:

Drafting: Goal, Mason; defence, Pakenham, Condon; centre, Hough; wings, Rooke, Dunfield; subs, Allen, Preston, Shiner, Ellis.

Tool Room: Goal, Shaughnessy; defence, Barry, Ferguson; centre, Conroy; wings, Self, Earle; subs, Benson, Crokam.

Referee, Cy Whatley.

How You May Reduce Varicose Or Swollen Veins — Heal Ulcers

A Simple Home Treatment.

The world progresses. To-day many minor ailments that took weeks to overcome can be helped much more quickly. If you have varicose veins or bunches, start to-day to bring them back to normal size and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist, and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. In a short time the veins should begin to grow smaller and by regular use soon approach normal.

People who want to reduce varicose veins or swellings, should not hesitate to try a bottle at once. It is so penetrating and economical that a small bottle lasts a long time.

Ski Notes

The regular ski instructions will be held to-night at Victoria Park, followed by a run to Nassau this time instead of Jackson Park, where the floodlights will be used. A big turnout is requested, and some workers on the ski jump are needed this evening, too.

SYL APPS IS HAILED AS ONE OF THE GREATS IN PRO. HOCKEY

Packed Defence Produces Pile-up

Packing the defence as she should be packed are the Detroit Red Wings in this picture, taken as they played Chicago Black Hawks, over whom they hold a victory jinx of some kind or other this season. Five Red Wings are attempting to stave off the attack of two Black Hawks, the latter being Cully Dahlstrom, flat on his back on the ice at the LEFT, and Jack Shill, the player farthest back and still digging for the disc. Defenders—Ebbie Goodfellow (5), LEFT; Scotty Bowman (3), kneeling; Hec Kilrea (12), behind Bowman, almost obscuring Jack Shill; Tiny Thompson, goal tender, face down in front of his goal, and rookie Gus Giesebrecht (19), getting into the fray at the RIGHT. Somewhere beneath it all is the puck.

Apps On Way To Super Star Heights Patrick And Art Ross Think; Good As Morenz Says Dutton

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(CP)—Such well-versed hockey men as Mervyn (Red) Dutton and Lester Patrick offered a tip today for those who think the National Hockey League super-star is a thing of the past and their pointer was to watch Syl Apps, 22-year-old centre of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Art Ross of Boston Bruins also voiced praise for the youngster from Paris, Ont., but it was Dutton, manager of New York Americans, who really went overboard. Recently Red said he'd give $25,000 (if he had it to give) for Apps and added any team would be foolish to part with him for that kind of money.

"Apps is one of the best players I've ever seen and that covers a lot of hockey," said Red. "I send two men out to haunt him every moment he is on the ice against us. Still he gets away."

In Dutton's mind, Apps has everything essential to the super-star—individuality, playmaking and stick-handling ability, speed and ruggedness. Red even compared him to the late Howie Morenz, immortal centre of Montreal Canadiens.

"For my money," added Red, "Apps is as good now as Morenz who was a brilliant individualist and, when he got going, hard to stop. But Apps is fast and shifty. Where Howie used to circle his nets to gain speed, Apps breaks like a flash wherever he picks up a pass and he is a good shot from either side."

Lester Would Like Apps

Patrick, manager of the New York Rangers, termed the Toronto sniper "one of the best centres in the league with a great future if he continues to develop at his present pace." Lester admitted he would like Apps on his Rangers.

"I believe the day of the super star is far from over," said Patrick, "and Apps has all the equipment to make him a super star in a few years."

Apps, winner of the Calder Cup as the season's outstanding rookie in 1936 when he joined the Leafs, is close to the current scoring leaders although he missed a couple of games because of injuries. Last year his play-making wizardy made his forward mate, Gordie Drillon, the scoring leader.

Such achievement doesn't go unrecognized by Ross, the Bruins pilot who called Apps a "brilliant youngster," and added: "He may not be the best player in the league but there are none better and a great future is ahead of him."

Players also were eager to admit Apps' hockey stature but comparing him to Morenz was another matter. Perhaps Nels Stewart, veteran Americans forward, spoke for all the old timers when he said: "Apps is a very fine young centre, apparently headed for the heights—but for me, there was only one Morenz."

Remember When—

An attempt was made in 1925 to have the United States Congress pass a bill imposing a 90 per cent tax on sales of professional ball players which realized more than $5,000, The measure, sponsored by Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia, now Mayor of New York, was defeated.

Lakefield Holds Havelock H.S. To 3-3 Tie

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 2—The Lakefield high school hockey team held Havelock high to a 3-3 tie here Wednesday night, after trailing to the tune of 3-0 for a time in the second period. It was rough hockey all the way with six penalties to Lakefield and two to the visitors.

Havelock was leading 1 to 0 at the end of the first, and three to one at the end of the second. The local lads turned on the power in the third canto and managed to tie the score just one minute before the final bell. Lakefield would have liked a chance to break the time in an overtime period, but the visitors decided against it. This is the nearest Lakefield has gotten to a win this season, having lost three and tied one of the four games played.

Haggerty, playing centre for the visitors, pushed in the first and only goal of the initial period. He was unassisted. A scrap, between McCracken and Haggerty, put both these players off for major penalties in the first.

In the second period, K. Pollock, on Havelock defence, took a pass from Jamieson, on left wing, and landed it in the net for a second tally for Havelock.

C. Pollock made the third goal on an assist from K. Pollock.

Lakefield had most of the play in the second, but didn't get around to scoring until just before the bell, when McCracken took a pass from Shearer. Score at end of second, 3-1.

Lakefield started off strong in the third and before the visitors could get near them Yale pushed in a counter, unassisted, to make the count 3-2.

It looked as though Lakefield would take a loss until one minute before the end of play, when Loyst pushed in a goal on a face-off, to tie things up.

McCutchen, Haggerty and K. Pollock showed up well for the visitors, with honors on the local team pretty evenly divided, Windsor, in goal for Lakefield, made some fine saves. The teams:

Havelock: Goal, J. Peters; defence, McCutcheon and K. Pollock; centre, Haggerty; wings, Jamieson and McLauchin; alternates, Buchanan, C. Pollock and T. Yeo.

Lakefield: Goal, C. Windsor; defence, Yale and Stewart; centre, Loyst; wings, Tanner and Hurl; alternates, Clark, McCracken, Shearer, Kendall and Arthurs.

Referee, J. Sabatino.

Penalties went to Yale (3), Stewart, McCracken and Loyst, for Lakefield; and to Haggerty and McCutcheon for Havelock.

Ambition Knows No Icy Bounds

Probably no group of athletes is more faithful to its training routine than scullers, and here's the current king of the amateur oarsmen, Joe Burk, winner of the Diamond Sculls, Canadian, United States and most other titles, out chopping ice on the river in order to get to work. Joe's big ambition now is to take the 1940 Olympic title, as well as the doubles, for which he is training with his brother, Jim.

Yanks A Shoo-in For The Flag So Joe Boasts

By Sid Feder
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 2. — (AP).—"Sylph-Like" Manager Joe McCarthy, down to a mere 186 pounds, ambled in from the banquet circuit to-day and made no bones about his calm confidence his New York Yankees are a shoo-in for their fourth straight baseball championship.

If anything, Marse Joe feels his world champions are going to have less trouble and probably are going to be a considerably better ball club with the newly-imported rookie strength, than that which waltzed away to titles in 1936, '37 and '38.

"Cleveland will be tougher," Joe said, "and Detroit should go good. Boston's question mark is young Tabor on third base, now that the Sox have traded Pinky Higgins. But I'm not kidding myself — I think the Yanks are the greatest bal lclub ever put together."

Joe figures as every manager does, that his pitching will tell the story this season. That Yankee pitching is just about as good as you'll find in the league. Joe has decided to string along with Ruffing, Lefty Gomez and Monty Pearson as the nub of his staff. Who wouldn't?

"Then we'll get a fourth starter out of Wes Ferrell, Oral Hildebrand and Spud Chandler," he explained. "If Ferrell's operataion after last season worked, he may have his fast ball back.

Chandler to Be On Deck

"Hildebrand (obtained from St. Louis Browns in the winter trading) is a great pitcher against left-hand hitting ball clubs. Dont worry about Chandler's broken ankle. He'll be on deck before we break camp at St. Petersburg."

McCarthy, is particularly "high" on his rookies, and is definitely sold on Joe Gallagher, the walloping outfielder from Kansas City.

"That Gallagher," he pointed out, "hits as long a ball as you'll find around, and thats the kind of ball we play. With Charley Keller up from Newark, well the outfield won't be in such tough shape."

With Joe Dimaggio and Tommy Henrich fixtures in centre and right fields, it appears Gallagher and Keller will battle George Selkirk for the left field spot. Then with Buddy Rosan around to help Bill Dickey with the catching chores and half a dozen rookie pitchers showing promise Marse Joe probably can spend all spring worrying about his diet.

Norwood Combines Defeat Tweed Outfit 6 To 1

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 2.— The Norwood 'Combines' advanced another step towards the Trent Valley Hockey League playoffs last evening at the Norwood arena, handing the Tweed squad a severe 6 to 1 trimming. It was a postponed game from the first of the season, and a large crowd of fans were on hand to cheer the locals on to victory. Play was fast and clean throughout, only four penalties being given.

Greatly strengthened by the addition of Doug. Brennan, ex-N.Y. Ranger, to the line-up, the 'Combines' under his steadying influence, played smart hockey, proving themselves superior in every department. Beavis turned in a great game in the nets, tossing them out from all angles, while Hagerman, Ibey, Webb and W. Rogers went best among the remainder of the squad. Bill Rogers proved the sparkplug of the 'Combines,' popping up the game with a burst of speed on his first appearance in the initial period, and skated rings around the visitors all evening.

The Tummon brothers, sixty minute men on the visiting defence, were among the best for Tweed. J. Tummon being an adept puck carrier, with 'Tip' blocking well on defense. W. Leal, Ellsbury and Wager were most effective up in front, Leal getting their lone tally of the evening.

Tweed commenced the first period with a close-checking type of play which had the 'Combines' at a disadvantage for almost half of the initial session. There was little chance for passing plays to click during this time, and both teams resorted to long rushing, the opposing goalies being tested several times.

Tweed opened the scoring when W. Leal notched their only goal of the game right after a face-off in his own territory, drifting a low one from the blue line, which slipped past Beavis.

Facing off at centre, G. Puffer got possession of the rubber and going in on the Tweed defense, passed to Chuck Puffer, who rammed it home to tie the score.

Continuing to push the play, the locals finally went in front on Hagerman's counter, which ended the scoring for the period, the count being 2-1 at this point.

Combines Hold Lead.

Resuming the attack going into the second frame, the Combines made it 3-1 when Ibey slammed a hard one past Reeves, Hagerman making the play. With seconds to go in this stanza, J. Tummon drew a penalty for tripping Hagerman.

With Tummon still warming the bench going into the final period, Norwood continued to apply the pressure, their efforts being rewarded shortly when McMullen batted a pass out to Ibey in front of the visitors' net, the latter making no mistake in ramming it home, for his second counter of the evening. Webb scored the Combines' fifth of the night two minutes later on Hagerman's play. Brennan combined with McMullen and Hagerman for the last counter. G. Puffer was penalized twice in this stanza, and Leal also got the gate, but the odd man advantage didn't make much difference to either team.

The teams:

Tweed—Goal, Reeves; defense, T. Tummon, J. Tummon; centre, Courtnyea; wings, Ellsbury, H. Leal; alternates, W. Leal, Wager, Merraw, Huycke.

Norwood—Goal, Beavis; defense, Webb, Brennan; centre, Hagerman; wings, McMullen, Ibey; alternates, C. Puffer, G. Puffer, N. Rogers, W. Rogers, Rathwell.

Referees—F. Geraldi, Tweed; R. Ennis, Norwood.

Summary:

First Period—
Tweed—W. Leal 9.04
Norwood—C. Puffer (G. Puffer) 9.05
Norwood—Hagerman 9.07
No penalties.

Second Period—
Norwood—Ibey (Hagerman) 9.35
Penalty—J. Tummon.

Third Period—
Norwood—Ibey (McMullen) .. 10.04
Norwood—Webb (Hagerman) .. 10.06
Norwood—Brennan (Hagerman, McMullen) 10.18
Penalties—G. Puffer 2; W. Leal.

SYDNEY—(CP)—John Bromwich, Australia's No. 1 tennis player, won the New South Wales lawn tennis singles championships for the second time by beating Adrian Quist 6-2, 6-4, 6-1 in the finals.

Trenton Fliers Here Tomorrow

The final scheduled O. H. A. senior "B" fixture here of the season will be played at 8.30 o'clock tomorrow (Friday) night in the Brock St. rink, Trenton Fliers meeting the Petes. With good ice assured and both clubs at full strength, it promises to be another nifty senior scrap and will probably pack in the fans again. Every senior game this season, regardless of the score or result, has been fast and exciting—and all have been well-matched. With no casualties in either lineup, the teams' strongest list of players will be in action here tomorrow evening.

The airmen have been battling lately to cop a playoff berth against the Petes, who have clinched a money spot, and the Belleville Redmen have been threatening to oust the Fliers. The Petes' main effort now is to stay on the top rung, thus getting choice of rinks when the three-in-five playoff series commences, sometime next week likely. There should be plenty of interest and color to this contest and the fans can bank on a fine evening's

Lakefield Meets Sutton On Friday

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 2.—Lakefield Legionnaires will play their return game against Sutton in the Intermediate "B" O.H.A. series in Sutton Friday night. Sutton is well up in the league and the result of Friday's game should give some indication of Lakefield's chances in the play-offs.

The date of the Whitby-Lakefield game, which was scheduled for Monday last and then postponed because of bad weather, has not yet been definitely fixed.

Adams Considers Buying Sands

DETROIT, Feb. 2.—(CP).—Manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings said to-day he would confer with Owner James Norris over the possibility of buying Charlie Sands from the Boston Bruins. Sands and another player were demoted yesterday to the Bruin's farm team at Hershey, Pa.

Adams said he was afraid Sands had been demoted only temporarily and probably the rival National Hockey League Club was unwilling to part with him.

France Finding Hitler Bogey Sticks

PARIS, Feb. 2—(CP).—When you find Herr Hitler turning up in the theatres, in the restaurants; replacing ordinary family disputes in the dining-room and crowding music out of the concert halls like a growing cowbird in a lark's nest—life is just one long monotonous din about Hitler.

That's what it is like in Paris. "What's Hitler going to do next?" It's the unique subject of conversation.

At the Mathurins Theatre just now George Bernard Shaw's play "Widower's House," translated and given the more picturesque name "Money Doesn't Smell," was a nice change—until the intermission. Nothing in Paris is quite so amusing as to watch a company of French players interpret the English. Their idea of a "stiff" Englishman is one as unbendable as a steel girder; a stupid Englishman—one without a flicker of intelligence; and a nice English girl as something decked out in satin and pale pink tulle. Otherwise the interpretation was excellent.

But at intermission Shaw hadn't a chance, though he had laid out, as you probably know, a nice cynical situation in which the hero is an owner of slum districts and squeezes the last sou out of the inhabitants. Hitler had the floor in the talk of the audience.

No reception, tea, club luncheon or casual conversation over two aperitifs in any terrace cafe is complete wihout him. "What's he going to do next?" No two people have the same idea, but one thing is sure, that feeling of joy and security which was felt for a few days after the "Munich accord" has disappeared and the average Frenchman is worried and uneasy.

"He's going to make another monopoly treaty like that made with Yugoslavia—but this time with Hungary to take all her wheat in return for manufactured products. If she won't come quietly the Fuehrer will make a deal with Czechoslovakia to take it first and pass it along."

"He's going to dominate Czechoslovakia completely and then go after Roumania's oil."

"He'll dominate the Danubian countries and then settle Poland."

"No, his next move is the colonies. Denounce the navy treaty because Britain won't cut her air force to one-third of Germany's—and then insist on her colonies."

Thinks It's Belgium.

But an interesting idea is set forth by Genevieve Tabouis, one of the popular political observers of France. She was so right in her predictions of what was going to happen—and what has happened since the first of August, that one pins her predictions up alongside the map of Europe and a copy of Mein Kempf, and watches it come true. The colonies—yes. But Belgium is to be favored with a friendly call first, she says. "It is possible the first territorial revindications (after information received from Berlin) in the formation of 'Greater Germany' will be Eupen and Malmedy on Belgium's eastern border."

She says "without giving undue importance to news which comes out of the extreme Nazi military centres we must note just the same that in this section of the party Hitler's diplomatic path for the coming months is seen in colonial revindications and centralization and demilitarization of Luxembourg, it is hoped Belgium and even Alsace-Lorraine. All this, the Fuehrer hopes to obtain without war."

Food For Hungry Little Refugee Children

Following the sweeping victories of General Franco's insurgent forces, thousands of refugees have fled to the French border in the search for a sanctuary. The French government is permitting women, children, and non-combatants to enter France, and many French border towns are crowded with the pitiful refugees. These children, being fed by French guards, are but a few of the thousands who are seeking safety on French soil.

Cancer Society Asks Cooperation Of Medical Men

OTTAWA, Feb. 2 (CP)—Cancer can be cured if discovered in time, and the best service people can render to themselves is to co-operate with the doctors in ensuring early discovery of the symptoms. This was the theme threading the addresses delivered here last night at the inaugural meeting of the Ottawa unit of the Canadian Society for the Control of Cancer.

The speakers were Governor General Lord Tweedsmuir, Dr. William Boyd, professor of pathology at the University of Toronto, H. Napier Moore, Toronto magazine editor, Dr. R. E. Valin of Ottawa and Dr. Warren Lyman of Ottawa, who acted as chairman.

All speakers strove to dispel the popular error that the medical profession knew little about the cause and cure of cancer. More had been learned on this matter in the past 35 years than in all the preceding centuries of world history, Mr. Moore said.

The governor general urged Canadians to "enlist in a fight against the disease which in Canada kills 1,000 people every month." Surgery and the different forms of radiation were the two known curatives, but to be effective the disease must not have spread too far, His Excellency said. People must have reasonable knowledge of what the symptoms are, and they must understand that life depends upon prompt measures.

Dr. Boyd outlined the scientific nature of cancer and its growth. Cancer was not infectious but was a change in the normal cells of the body by which they acquired power of unlimited and uncontrolled reproduction. It was untrue, he emphasized, that doctors did not know the cause of cancer. The fact was they knew too many causes.

Warns Against Quacks

He warned against so-called cancer cures of quacks. So far surgical removal of the tumor and radiation by x-rays or radium, or both, were the lines of attack which the medical profession followed. Above all other diseases, cancer was a condition that called for the services of the expert.

Mr. Moore commented on the peculiarity that automobile owners would immediately run their car to the nearest garage if they heard the faintest irregular murmurs of the engine, but they would not take the trouble to subject themselves to medical examination of their own bodily mechanism.

He spoke of the society's aims and urged support of them by enlistment of the Canadian people in the ranks of the association.

Dr. Lyman announced that King George had extended his patronage to the society and read a communication from Buckingham Palace to that effect.

The Chief Sticks On

TORONTO, Feb. 2 — (CP). — Swansea Village Council last night adopted a resolution dismissing Chief B. B. Martin as from January 16. On that date the Council asked the Chief to resign. He failed to do so. The Chief was alleged to have failed in raids concerning gambling establishments in the village adjoining Toronto.

Millbrook Debate Won By Springville

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 2. — Springville was awarded the decision as winners of the semi-final debate on the subject, "Resolved that state medical care should be established in Canada," the event taking place in St. Andrew's Church, Millbrook, on Tuesday evening, the local young people supporting the negative, while the visiting young folk upheld the affirmative.

Arguments on both sides were well thought out, and convincingly presented, those from Springville who debated being Clifford Johnston and Mary Staples, while Millbrook was represented by Gwen Staples and Della Mae Sisco. Judges were Mrs. Gordon McIntosh of Springville, Mrs. W. R. Howard of Millbrook, and Rev. Clarence Ferguson of Bethany. The winners go on into the next stage of the Presbytery competition.

Dorothy Smith had charge of the early part of the meeting, which was well attended, those assisting her with the worship service being William Kerr, who read the poem, "The Test"; Margaret Smith, who read Psalm 89; Marjorie and Bea McDowell, who sang, "How sweet the name of Jesus sounds"; Gordon Might, who led in prayer, and Ken Kidd, whose solo was "O Love that will not let me go."

The president, Earl Edworthy, took charge of the business, and the past president, B. B. Dawson, was chairman for the debate, Rev. A. L. Sisco being time keeper. Next week's meeting will be under the Christian Fellowship convenor, Kenneth Kidd. A recreational and social hour closed the meeting.

Foundation Of Canada Seen In Urge For Stability By Owning Home

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 2—(CP).—Col. George A. Drew, leader of the Ontario Conservative party, is convinced the foundation of a sound spirit in Canada lies in the desire to own a home within the thought of permanent stability.

"To-day," he told the Real Estate Boards of Ontario last night, "we see people not merely unwilling, but unable to buy a home, or a piece of land to build one, because of fear of what some ingenuity in creating taxes might impose."

The more he travelled throughout Ontario and the rest of the country, Col. Drew said, the more he realized the great need for more homes and home replacements. More attractive homes would have greater appeal than some of the things to which many people, particularly youth, devote themselves now.

He felt if property owners could be assured of protection against "unjust taxation," the flood gates of investment would be opened and millions of dollars would become available for construction of homes.

Taxes Curbing Loans.

Security for investors was all that was required to loose the cash held by banks, insurance companies and trust companies and with which they did not know what to do. But, under the "unjust, unscientific and extremely dangerous form of taxation which has grown up in Canada," he said, "the reasonable assurance of protection" needed to rejuvenate the building industry could not be provided.

He felt there was no justification for taxes on real estate other than those required to pay for services provided real estate and he urged attraction for private investment be set up.

The Real Estate board, at its closing session yesterday adopted a resolution urging readjustment of municipal taxation to "remove the penalty now placed on home ownership." The resolution noted Ontario had made "minor changes" in real estate taxation and asked that real estate be taxed in proportion to the services it receives.

6,000 Telephones On Local Exchange

A new telephone directory, containing over 6,000 new and revised listings, made its appearance in Peterborough today.

Mailed to each subscriber at their home or office, the new book, 15 pages, thicker than its predecessor reflects the increased telephone development that has taken place throughout Peterborough in recent years.

"Last year witnessed a gain of 86 telephones here," stated C. B. Shaver, manager of The Bell Telephone Company, "bringing the total number of telephones in Peterborough at the end of the year to 5,996. On January 3, Peterborough's 6,000th telephone was installed when a subscriber on Princess street had a telephone installed in his home."

Warns Australians To Keep New Guinea

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 2 — (A. P.). — Stanley Bruce, Australian High Commissioner in London, expressed opposition to-day to the return of Germany's former colony of New Guinea on the ground it would expose Australia to danger.

He spoke here in spite of a ban imposed yesterday by Prime Minister Joseph Lyons on ministerial comment on Chancellor Hitler's Reichstag speech.

"Australia must hold New Guinea at all costs," Mr. Bruce said. "Herr Hitler has recently stressed again the demand Germany is making for colonies, but if an enemy had air bases in New Guinea he could within a few hours direct a mass attack on the great cities along the eastern coast of Australia which are at present immune from the danger of such attacks.

"Herr Hitler's speech has done little or nothing to restore stability in world affairs, which is an essential antecedent condition for peace, and the need for preparation to ensure Australia's security still remains the most urgent task for us."

Texas Quads, All Girls Fool Everyone, Triplets Expected

Galveston, Tex., Feb. 2 (AP)

A SET of quadruplets, all lusty-lunged girl babies made their entrance into the world today and physicians gave them an excellent chance to live.

The babies' weights ranged from 3¾ to 4 pounds, 9 ounces.

The mother, Mrs. W. E. Badgett, 36, wife of a construction company foreman, was also reported doing well at St. Mary's infirmary. A blood transfusion was given her as a protective measure.

Dr. W. J. Jinkins, attending physician, possibly was as astonished as the parents at the birth. Preparations had been made for the arrival of triplets, hospital attendants said.

Virile Dances Through Ages, Man's Job

MONTREAL, Feb. 2—(CP).—Ted Shawn wears No. 9 shoes, has the build of a football player and knows just what you think of male dancers because he's been a dancer for a quarter-century. He's close to 60 years old, a fact you'd never guess from looking at him, especially on the stage.

Son of a Kansas newspaper publisher, Shawn is starting the sixth tour of his all-male dance troupe. He formerly was the husband and dancing partner of Ruth St. Dennis. Before that he studied for the Methodist ministry.

What do people think of male dancers?

"Well, at one time our audience used to be made up mostly of women who came to see a bunch of semi-nude, good-looking young men," he said. "You might compare it with what we called the bald-headed row of the old burlesque. Now we estimate our audience is made up of from 50 to 60 per cent men, many of whom are athletes or businessmen."

Shawn learned to dance for the sole purpose of regaining the use of his legs, made almost useless by illness when he was 18 and a divinity student. He got pretty good at it and for 25 years has been a star and master. His season's premiere of "Dance of the Ages" here was acclaimed by critics and public.

Shawn looks like an all-round athlete and the eight other members of the cast, he said, were chosen as outstanding athletes of their respective colleges. They do the heavy work and Shawn follows through with the theme and makes pleasingly obvious the motive of his unique presentation.

On the stage there is no scenery but heavy brown drops and green carpet. The dancers all barefoot, wear colorful loin cloths through most of the show.

Vocation for Men.

"Men love to dance but they always have been given something stupid," Shawn said. "Folk dances, for instance, were mostly for children. If you give men something virile, something in sport or labor pattern they will enjoy the strong, virile rhythm. It always has been the men who took the important part in dances, even in primitive dances. It is only in Western Europe and America where the dance is considered feminine . . .

"Women have not the physical endurance for strenuous dances. All things being equal, it is easier to teach a man dancing than a woman. And the man will enjoy it under proper instruction. He'll also find in it more balance for his muscular system than in golf, tennis. Dancing gives you anything that will any sport. And it won't 'bind' your muscles."

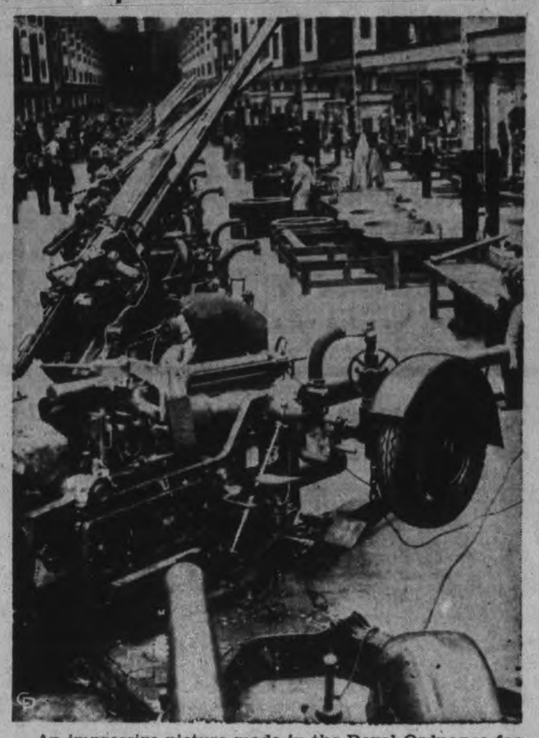
All year 'round the troupe lives together, on a 200-acre farm not far from Springfield, Mass. in the summer. They "work" the farm, and the only hired man is a cook. Otherwise, the men plough, sow the crops, do all repair work and even prepare the menus which provide for "mostly vegetables, fresh fruit and very little meat."

"In this way, our men are healthier and lead a more normal life than they would in a city. A man, for instance, who has been ploughing on the farm all summer has in muscles and in his mind the actual experience required to portray a labor motive."

Socially, the Shawn farm and troupe is a "regular communist group, in that they all share and share alike, do all the work and equally are responsible for the well-being of the organization. Obviously they are not communistic politically."

On the present-day dances Shawn at first was reticent to comment. But when he started he was most emphatic. With obvious distaste, he said: "Swing—well, that might be called a sort of folk-dance. It is a Negro dance and the Negroes should be left to do it. I admire the Negro and his originality in dance, but to see white people trying to take them off—why there's no pattern."

Britain Speeds Armaments



An impressive picture made in the Royal Ordnance factory at Nottingham a few days ago. This scene of bustling activity is being reproduced all over the British Empire, as every factory works at top speed turning out armaments in preparation for the war which is believed inevitable in Europe. The picture was made during the inspection tour of Leslie Hore-Belisha, Minister of War in Prime Minister Chamberlain's Cabinet. This factory is turning out 3.7-inch anti-aircraft guns which are shown on the assembly line.

Visit Being Planned Campbellford AYPA

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb.2.—Members of the Stirling and Frankford branches of the A.Y.P.A. will visit the local organization on February 13, it was learned at their meeting held at the home of Mrs. Art Tripp on Tuesday evening. During the brief business meeting for which President Earl Wood presided, members passed an appropriation which they will contribute towards the expenses of the delegate from this district to the Vancouver convention. A letter was read by the secretary from the Peterborough Lions' Club Boys' Band, and it was indicated that a latter date would be chosen for the proposed concert. Since the annual vestry meeting is being held on Monday next it was arranged to hold the next meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Art Tripp. Following a brief social period during which lunch was served by the hostess the meeting adjourned.

High-Powered Salesman Directs Germany's Push To The East

By Louis P. Lochner
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

BERLIN, Feb. 2—(AP)—Nobody in the German cabinet of Adolf Hitler gets more fun out of life than short, chubby, dry-humored Walther Fund, Nazi minister of economics, direct successor in that office to high-collared Dr. Hjalmar Schacht.

Germany's "push to the east" is continuing, and the driving force is not high-powered guns but high-powered salesmanship directed by Walther Funk.

Funk is the bon vivant of the cabinet, the man who admittedly loves good things to eat to drink, who is fond of care-free society, who so dotes on the fine arts that he almost became a professional pianist.

And he is a capital story teller. His is the dry humor of the proverbially-taciturn East Prussion. His stories are not wordy. The point often is somewhat hidden. All the greater is the fun of discovering Funk's meaning and realizing that he has once again "put over a fast one."

At a time when feeling was tense over the arrest of Lutheran Pastor Martin Niemoeller, he said in an aside during a conference with foreign news men. "You know, I almost became a Lutheran pastor. You can imagine where I'd be now!"

During the sessions of the international commission of ambassadors in October he inquired from Ankara, Turkey, where he happened to be visiting, "What has happened to Pilson?" When told that Pilson would remain Czech, he said, "One can tell that there are no beer drinkers on the commission."

Knows His Economics

Unlike some of his more pontifical colleagues in the cabinet, he does not hesitate to use expressions like, "when I became minister of the Reich through an accident." Funk can afford to be ironical about himself: his is a fund of economic knowledge such as few leaders in Hitler's Third Reich possess.

Fact is, he came into politics via journalism. Born Aug. 18, 1890 in Trakehnen, East Prussia, famous for its blooded horses, where his family had been for centuries, he attended the "gymnasium" at Insterburg and then headed for a newspaper career. He studied at Berlin and Leipzig.

After serving on various dailies in Middle Germany he devoted himself in 1922-23 to writing a series of articles and pamphlets on German economy. Men like Schacht, former Ambassador Hans Luther and the late nationalist leader, Karl Helfferich, sought his advice when Germany went over from an inflated currency to a stable exchange.

As chief editor of the trade section of the Berliner Boersenzeitung he became a bitter critic of reparations, foreign loans and subservience to foreign financial interests.

As early as 1931 he became head of the economic sectio nof Hitler's National Socialist party. On the day Hitler assumed power—Jan. 30, 1933—Der Fuehrer appointed him press chief of the German government.

Soon thereafter Dr. Joseph Goebbels was entrusted with founding the ministry for propaganda and public enlightenment. Funk became his State's secretary, in other words, the man next after him in the hierarchy and the man responsible for the administration of the huge ministry.

Four On Parks Board Quit In Cobourg Over Spite Dispute

Cobourg, Ont., Feb. 2 (CP)

FOUR of Cobourg Parks Board resigned last night in protest against the town council failing to reappoint Harold Staples, chairman of the board last year to the 1939 board. The resigning commissioners are Joseph Delanty, J. Davidson, Joseph Flanningan and C. Nicholls.

Members of the board lauded Mr. Staples and said that failure of the council to re-appoint him was spite.

Conant Sees Canada "Eyed" By Europeans

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Feb. 1—(CP).—Hon. G. D. Conant, Ontario's Attorney-General, thinks Canada would be "a most desirable prize for European powers" and considers that the Dominion has not developed defences "at all commensurate with our requirements in light of recent and disturbing developments." In dealing with international problems, certain "important fundamentals" must be faced by Canada, Mr. Conant told a joint banquet of St. Thomas Kiwanis and Aylmer Rotarians here last night. Airplane development makes the Dominion an "object of attack" on the Atlatic seaboard by European powers and on the Pacific coast by an Oriental power.

Mr. Conant commended the federal government for its defence appropriations but he said it was doubtful whether even this year's proposed $85,000,000 expenditure on arms "will be sufficient to meet the situation adequately this year."

To provide a "much needed" record of unemployment and to marshal the man-power of the nation in event of war, a national registration of the Canadian people should be undertaken, Mr. Conant said. He suggested some plan comparable with Great Britain's national service enrollment.

War Interlude

A bearded ancient of the town of Borjas Blancas, Spain, who had remained in hiding while the government forces held the town, came out into the open when insurgent forces, marching toward victory at Barcelona, occupied the town. Here he greets insurgent officers, tell them his story.

Loyalists Call Parliament; Will Fight On

FIGUERAS, Spain, Feb. 2—(By Courier to the French Border).—(AP).—The Parliament of Government Spain—the Cortes—assembled to-day for a secret session to display its determination for continued resistance to the insurgents.

The parliament was convoked "somewhere in Catalonia" just behind the battlefront in Northeastern Spain, where the government succeeded in establishing its lines after last week's rout from Barcelona, the former capital.

The agenda and the exact time and place of the meeting were kept secret lest insurgent air raiders break up the proceedings and endanger the lives of government leaders.

Deputies from Central and Southeastern Spain, however, were known to have flown north for the session as evidence of solidarity between the separated governmental regions and of confidence in Catalonia's security.

Mad, Doesn't Know It?

DETROIT, Feb. 2—(CP). — Detroit health authorities broadcast a warning to-day that an unidentified man is going about his affairs here unaware that he probably is suffering from hydrophobia.

Authorities said the man handled a dog that died a few days later of rabies. The man probably was bitten or scratched, officials said, in bringing the dog back to its owner. Mrs. Jacob Carol, who handled the dog, is receiving Pasteur treatments.

Petty Smuggling Of Gasoline Shows Decrease In Maritimes

FREDERICTON, Feb. 2.—(CP).—More than 1,000 New Brunswick motorists have been forced to pay customs duty, sales tax and provincial tax on gasoline they bought in Maine this year. The action was taken to prevent petty smuggling of the fuel developing to serious proportions.

For years many border residents of this province made a practice of buying most of their gasoline in Maine, where the price is lower. They would drive across the border with nearly empty tanks and return with full ones.

This practice in time resulted in large loss of Dominion and provincial revenue as well as loss to New Brunswick service stations near the border. Ottawa lost the customs duty and sales tax and New Brunswick failed to get the provincial tax, amounting to 10 cents a gallon this year.

Last spring the Dominion and New Brunswick governments agreed to join in an effort to stop the traffic. Customs inspectors at ports of entry along the border were instructed to ask all New Brunswick motorists returning from Maine if they had bought gasoline in that state.

Those replying in the affirmative were obliged to pay immediately the customs of one cent per gallon and the eight per cent sales tax. Details noted by the customs officers went to the motor vehicle branch of the provincial department of public works here. A few days later these motorists received a bill for the provincial tax.

If motorists are dishonest when questioned about gasoline purchases their reports cannot be disaproved by customs officers. However, a great decrease in the smuggling testifies to the moral effect of the campaign.

New Brunswick Sales Increase

A big gain has been shown in the volume of motor fuel sold at service stations in New Brunswick border towns. In one week, when the public knew a particularly close check was being made, 3,000 more gallons were sold at St. Stephen than in the previous week.

Other border points reported the same story. Figures show that despite heavier traffic in August the amount of Maine gasoline brought across the line in New Brunswick cars was considerably less than in June. Motorists found that after paying Dominion and provincial charges they had spent more than if they had bought the gasoline at home.

When the campaign started the department of public works compared gasoline sales at St. Stephen and Kentville, N.S., towns of approximately the same size. Kentville vendors sold 550,000 gallons last year while only 275,000 gallons were sold in St. Stephen. This was taken to indicate that about half the gasoline used at St. Stephen was purchased in Maine, with a consequent loss of $2,750 in provincial revenue.

The average "gas-runner's" cargo is five gallons. With only 1,000 motorists caught trying to import gasoline illegally this additional revenue for New Brunswick is no more than $500. A large amount was spent in conducting check-up but increased revenue from more gasoline sales along the border, in addition to the $500, leaves a balance in favor of the government.

Officials believe that a reduction in the price of New Brunswick gasoline this fall, combined with the campaign, will stop the smuggling.

Emily Cemetery Plans For More Lands

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, Feb. 2. — The annual meeting of Emily Cemetery Company was held on Monday. Owing to storms and wet meather during the past summer and fall more work had to be done at the cemetery than in other years. More flowers and shrubs were planted during 1938 than in any previous year which shows that lot owners are co-operating with the directors to make the cemetery a place of beauty.

During the year one quarter lot was sold in addition to the single graves. Perpetual upkeep was paid on one full lot and two half lots. There are now under perpetual care thirty-one full lots, eighty half lots, seven quarter lots and eleven single graves.

A committee was appointed to gather information regarding purchase of land either to north or west of cemetery to enlarge the grounds.

The following directors were appointed for 1939: R. H. Johnson, president; H. Lamb, secretary-treasurer; S. B. Carew, A. Sanderson, H. J. A. Jones, G. Griffin, E. Switzer, D. Weir and W. Magee; William Evans was reappointed caretaker and J. J. Williams and C. W. Mills were appointed auditors.

The auditors' report as follows was received and adopted:

Republicans Cry For Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP). — President Roosevelt's reported willingness for the United States to sell war materials to democracies in Europe touched off Republican demands to-day for full publicity on the administration's foreign policy.

"There is no precedent in history for taking such liberties with the internal affairs of other people," said Senator Lodge (Rep-Massachusetts) in calling for light to be shed on the treasury's stabilizatalon fund.

This fund is used to help keep the dollar stable in ralation with foreign currency.

Senator Austin (Rep-Vermont) demanded that all committee hearings dealing with neutrality, foreign policy and national defence be opened to the public.

By throwing open these hearings, Austin said, "we do not need to burn our bridges behind us."

Austin spoke after Senator Reynolds (Dem-North Carolina)) announced he had ready for introduction a bill to provide for military training of youths in the civilian conservation corps.

The idea of selling planes to foreign powers which oppose the threat of aggression by dictatorships met a varied reaction.

guns for the British War Office. Mr. Justice H. H. Davis investigated the contract as Royal Commissioner following charges made by Lieut.-Col. George Drew, now Ontario Conservative Leader, in a magazine article.

The Davis report found no evidence had been adduced of corruption and recommended future purchases of military supplies should be handled by a board, independent of the Department of National Defence. No findings were made as to whether tenders should have been called, and the Judge left this and other matters to Parliament.

Mr. Anderson based his demand alleged misrepresentations of the for repudiation of the contract on status and capacity of the Inglis plant and the business experience of Major James E. Hahn, president of the Inglis Company.

He said when negotiations started the plant was represented as being capable of producing munitions. This was not a fact. It had been closed down for some time and it contained machinery capable of making heavy equipment, such as boilers and turbines in which the old John Inglis Company Limited had carried on a highly successful business.

Major Hahn for several years had operated a concern manufacturing radios which had come into receivership and this was represented as a successful business.

Premier To Explain

The prime minister, said Mr. Anderson, became involved when through the Department of External Affairs Hahn was given the status of a representative of the government of Canada at the British War Office. This was in the autumn of 1936 when Hahn went to England with a letter of introduction from Defence Minister Mackenzie seeking information on the manufacture of Bren guns.

"He (the prime minister) lent himself consciously or unconsciously to what was going on in the Department of Defence," said Mr. Anderson. A letter was written and sent to the High Commissioner in London, Hon. Vincent Massey. Through him it was handed to the War Office. In that letter Major Hahn was regarded as a representative of this government.

"I say the prime minister as head of the Department of External Affairs should have been more careful."

Hahn was a good Canadian with a fine war record, said Mr. Anderson. Nothing could be said against him as a man but it was "a monstrous thing" to make him a government representative in connection with contracts for munition.

Hugh Plaxton (Lib. Toronto-Trinity) and Mr. Mackenzie were both chided about their poor memories by Mr. Anderson. He said Mr. Plaxton was unable to remember whether Hahn accompanied him to Ottawa on the occasion of his introduction of Hahn to Major General L. R. LaFleche, deputy minister of National Defence. Mr. Mackenzie's memory failed him about his first meeting with Hahn in an Ottawa hotel.

Mr. Plaxton had recommended a group of men to the minister and the deputy minister but named only Hahn. Later it turned out two of Mr. Plaxton's brothers were in the group.

"In the old days," he said, "we called that nepotism. I don't know what it is called today but it is nothing else but patronage being distributed to those who are related to one who happens to be a member of this House. I think it is objectionable."

Mr. Anderson said he had the greatest respect for Mr. Mackenzie and had nothing to say against him.

Caution Lacking.

"I do say, however," he added, "that as a Minister of the Crown he has not exercised that caution, that care, that regard for the welfare of Canada that he should have and with the responsibility of his office demanded of him. I consider the work of the Deputy Minister reprehensible."

Vote on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne may be reached today. It has been proceeding since January 16 and has had precedence over all other busines in the House.

Speakers yesterday were W. G. Weir (Liberal, Macdonald), Jean Francois Pouliot (Liberal, Temiscouata), Mr. Anderson, H. G. Clarke (Con., Toronto - Rosedale) and Hughes Cleaver (Liberal, Halton).

There were several references during the day's debate to the resignation of former Prime Minister Bennett as member for Calgary West. Mr. Pouliot said the former Conservative leader had left "not only color but technicolor" to debates in the House of Commons.

Mr. Clark said Mr. Bennett was one of the outstanding statesmen Canada had produced. He also paid tribute to Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, the new leader, and said the harmony and co-operation now existing in the Conservative party was greater than had ever existed before.

Mr. Cleaver scored those who had complained that the Canada-United States trade agreement had "impoverished" Ontario industry. He quoted figures to how that factory expansion in Ontario during the year 1937, after the agreement had been in operation two years, was almost as great as for the five years prior to 1935 when the agreement was completed.

Whiff For The Mayor

Threatened

as passing on the information to Mr. MacNeil but Mr. Heaps declined to comment.

It was learned that the official referred to was not one of the senior officials of the House.

Mr. MacNeil told the House that rumors had been circulated that he had withdrawn his notice of motion to have the Bren gun matter referred to the public accounts committee.

All Evidence Available

He said all the evidence regarding the veterans' matter referred to in the threat could be made available to whatever inquiry might be considered necessary.

"I would welcome and facilitate such industry, eve nthough I was not at the time responsible to the House and was upheld in my actions by the organization to which I was directly responsible," he told the House.

Mr. McNeil declared he would not submit to "what I consider to be intimidation of this nature" and intended to proceed with his motion at the appropriate time and in accordance with the rules of the House.

Later, outside the House, Mr. McNeil explained that an inquiry was conducted in 1923-24 by the Ralston commission into the administration of the Pensions Board as a result of charges made by the Great War Veterans' Association, of which MacNeil was national secretary-treasurer.

The commission, he said, upheld in the main charge that the intention of Parliament had not been carried out by the Pensions Board, and that ex-service men had been deprived of rights previously granted by Parliament.

Friction between the G.W.V.A. and departmental officials over the pensions situation was followed by a Senate inquiry into the general administration of the G.W.V.A., with particular reference to the handling of grants from the canteen fund and the disablement fund.

$10,000 Involved

That inquiry ruled that two cheques from the two funds totalling $10,000 had been deposited to the credit of the G.W.V.A. when, it was contended, they should have been credited to the Dominion Veterans' Alliance, a legislative body comprising all veterans' organizations, of which MacNeil was also secretary.

This, according to the Senate committee's report, "had the effect of defeating the intention of the minister and deputy minister of the ollance department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, and was a violation of the terms of order in council 1596 of the 16th September, 1924, and was a breach of the trust on the part of Mr. C. G. MacNeil as an official of the Dominion Veterans' Alliance," Mr. MacNeil recalled.

He said the cheques had been specifically given to finance an Ottawa adjustment bureau. As the G.W.V.A. was then operating the only adjustment bureau in Ottawa, the money was turned over to the G.W.V.A. executive.

Conduct Approved.

Immediately after the Senate committee's report was published, a resolution approving the executive's conduct was unanimously adopted by the G.W.V.A. convention in June, 1925, which Earl Haig attended.

That resolution read, in part: "While expressing our complete confidence in our Dominion office and it personnel, we in particular would register our sincere appreciation of the self-sacrifice and endeavor of our Dominion president, Comrade Sharpe, and our Dominion secretary-treasurer, Comrade MacNeil, and we cannot emphasize too strongly our debt of gratitude to them and our belief in their honesty, integrity and sincerity of purpose."

"At that time, the G.W.V.A. had several times as many members as the next largest veterans' organization, Mr. MacNeil said.

ENGINEERS' MEETING.

At the meeting of the Engineering Institute, Thursday, February 9, the speaker will be A. M. Doyle, transformer sales engineer with the C.G.E. Company. His subject will be "Lightning Protection for Power Transmission System."

BANK CLEARINGS.

Clearings passing through the Peterborough Clearing House in the month of January amounted to $2,245,382, while for the same period a year ago the total was $2,499,632. For the past week the clearings amounted to $420,882 and for the same week a year ago $550,950.

FROZEN PIPES.

Frozen pipes in a stove, caused by the electric element breaking down flooded the kitchen of a London street home this week, and the water rose three inches in the cellar. When the man came downstairs in the morning the water was running down the cellar steps in a steady stream.

A MONOPOLY.

Main streeters today were chuckling over the furore caused in Germany by Roosevelt's speech in which he declared the States would help France and England in the event of war. "Hitler thinks he has a monopoly on this sword rattling business, and he gets the jitters if anyone else tries it," was the way one man described the situation.

BATTERIES RETURNING

Bill Nash of Hood and Cummings' garage has most of his batteries back in stock again after cleaning house last week to replace batteries that had to be recharged during the cold weather. In one day he changed forty-two, the peak of the sub-zero emergency when many a car overworked its battery trying to get started.

SKIING POPULAR.

By actual count there were 140 children on skis at Victoria Park this week attending the class in instruction given free by Jack Holland of the Peterborough Ski Club. Many of the youngsters are showing great aptitude for the sport and have developed to the point where they are trying low jumps, and are skiing down slalom courses marked out by themselves.

CAR LOCATED.

Mechanics working near Mount Julian on Stoney Lake to recover the 1939 sedan lost through the ice last Sunday, brought the car to the surface Wednesday night. They were unable to swing it clear so lowered it to the bottom again so everything would not freeze up, and it is expected they will be able to rescue the car to-day. The men built a derrick and platform to assist in raising the vehicle.

ATTENDANCE NOT HURT

Blizzards of the past week and more may have kept some people away from work, but they did not seriously affect attendance at the rural schools in Peterborough county, according to Leo Copp, public school inspector. Children fought their way through drifted roads, few were absent because of weather. Not a single classroom in any of the rural schools in the county had to be closed down this winter.

BIG SKATING PARTY

Largest skating party the Brock Street arena has known this winter was on hand from the Collegiate Wednesday night as scholars held their annual ice party. The skating crowd was so dense, the ice so jammed, specators sensed the moving figures as an endless chain that came to a halt only when the music stopped. Restaurant proprietors came in for their share after the party, when every eating place in the city was jammed to the doors.

IDEAL PLAYGROUND

Seventeen school boys were noticed skiing down the west side of Armour Hill on Wednesday after school. They sped down the hill across a large clear section, then down an avenue of elms at the foot of the slope, finally clearing a snow jump. Elms are growing so close together at the foot of the hill, some transplanting will have to be done, and Ashburnham residents would appreciate it if a space was left which would allow the smaller children a place to ski.

BLIZZARD WELCOME.

News reports that another cold wave and blizzard was approaching from the west brought grins of delight to the members of the Peterborough Ski Club. They believe one more heavy snowfall would make skiing conditions ideal for the meet to be held here on February 11 and 12.

WILL GET COPY

The police commission decided Wednesday that a copy of Chief Newhall's annual report should be sent to the city council, a step not usually taken. Both Judge Smoke and Mayor Hamilton thought the council should have the benefit of the report.

SOME SHORT SPEECHES

It is announced there will be a few short speeches at the Peterborough County Conservative Association's dance and rally in the Canadian Legion Hall on Friday night. George S. White, the Conservative candidate in Hastings-Peterborough, Senator Iva Fallis and a few others will speak briefly. A large attendance from all over the district is predicted.

Two-Way Police Radio System Included In Estimates As Passed By Police Commission

An item of $2,500 for the provision of a two-way police radio system, embracing two radio cars, was included in the $32,825 total decided upon by the board of police commissioners, Wednesday, as the amount necessary to operate the police department during the current year.

The total is an increase of $3,000 over last year's amount. Incidentally an overdraft of $23.69 was shown in 1938, although as Judge Smoke explained at Wednesday's meeting this was due to the action of the council in raising the salary of the chairman and in providing $100 salary for Magistrate Gee as a member of the commission.

The meeting Wednesday was a special session, called for the sole purpose of considering the estimates and no other business was taken up.

Present were Judge Smoke, chairman; Magistrate E. A. Gee, and Major James Hamilton, and all three were strongly in favor of the proposed police radio system.

Council Sold on Idea.

"The council is pretty strongly sold on it, too," remarked Mayor Hamilton. "The only trouble is the outlook all round is not too good and the council may have to cut out some of the things it would like to do if the tax rate is not to go up.

"It will cut down crime," Chief Newhall said.

The estimates, as submitted by Chief Newhall, were closely scrutinized and several reductions were agreed upon in an effort to trim the amount as low as possible. Three hundred dollars was sliced off the item for clothing and equipment and $100 off the incidentals. Chief Constable Newhall's salary was restored to $2,600, but the $100 gained by the chief there was lopped off again when the grant for his expenses to the annual convention was cut down by the same amount.

At the suggestion of Judge Smoke, who said that members of the council had expressed an opinion that Magistrate Gee's salary as commissioner was not enough because of his expenses in coming here from Lindsay and the amount was fixed a $200. The salary of Police Matron Maguire was increased to $800, a boost of $100, on the recommendation of Chief Constable Newhall, although the chairman pointed out that $800 was more than had previously been paid to any police matron here.

Salary Schedules.

The only other changes in the salary schedule are those made necessary by the fact that during the year Officers Clark, Rogers and Sexsmith attain the rank of first-class constables, and Officers Murphy and McGillen each second-class ranking; the first three reaching the $1,500 mark, and the other two $1,350.

The estimates as finally arrived at were:

Salaries	$24,850
Police Commission and Secretary	550
Telegraph and telephone	400
Clothing and equipment	1,400
Upkeep of station, light, heat, etc.	500
Printing, stationery	200
Postage	75
Incidentals	200
Upkeep cars, motor cycle, etc.	1,800
Insurance on cars, motor cycle	250
Chief Constable's expenses, convention	100
Two-way radio	2,500
Total	$32,825

To Store Machines

Mayor Hamilton at Wednesday's meeting of the police commission which was held in the police court because the committee room was in use suggested the gambling machines that have been kept in the court room for months should be stored somewhere else. "I am sick of seeing them here," he said. It was pointed out that no confiscation orders had been issued to cover the machines but nevertheless Chief Newhall was told to have the gadgets removed from the court room.

Peter Galvin Elected Head Of Taxpayers

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ENNISMORE, Feb. 2. — At a meeting of the parishioners of St. Martin's parish held in the interests of the Catholic Taxpayers' Association, the following officers were appointed to the local executive: President, Peter Galvin; vice-president, M. J. Cavanagh; secretary, Marguerite Mulvihill; treasurer, A. W. Crough. M. J. Cavanagh will also represent the Ennismore division of the association on the diocesan executive.

Y. P. Club Meets.

The regular meeting of the Young People's Club was held in the parish hall on Thursday evening. Nomination of officers for the coming year were made, the election to take place later.

Euchre Club Meets.

The members of the Euchre Club, which was organized some time ago in the eastern section of the township, were entertained recently at the homes of Kenneth Kyle, Herbert Hennessy, and Richard Hickson. On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Kyle, as the hosts, extended a very hearty welcome to the members. Prizes for cards were won by Julia Marie Hickson, and E. L. Maloney. Assisting Mrs. Kyle with refreshments were Mrs. J. Holland, Mrs. Richard Hickson, and the Misses Margaret Sullivan and Julia Marie Hickson. At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hennessey a most enjoyable social evening was spent. With twelve tables of cards playing, the ladies' prize went to Margaret O'Donoghue, with E. L. Maloney again the lucky winner of the gent.'s prize. A novelty booby prize won by Angus Twomey afforded a great deal of fun for those present. Assisting Mrs. Hennessey and the Misses Frances and Lillian with the serving of lunch were the Misses Helen Maloney, Julia Marie Hickson, Margaret Crough, and Margaret O'Donoghue. On Friday the club members were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hickson, when the card prizes were won by Mrs. William Brick and Jerome Hoar. An added attraction was a number of violin selections by Pat O'Brien of Peterborough. Lunch was served by Mrs. Hickson and Miss Julia Marie, assisted by Mrs. Peter Galvin, Mrs. Ed. Crough, and the Misses Rita Crough, Helen Maloney, Teresa Holland, Margaret O'Donghue and Margaret Crough.

Visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hickson on Friday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maloney, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Cavanagh, and the Misses Stella Heffernan, Loretto Cavanagh, and Lillian Cavanagh, all of Peterborough.

Windsor Still Hunts 7-Holdup Bandit

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 2.—(CP).—Windsor police questioned three suspects to-day as they continued to search for the bandit who staged seven hold-ups last week-end. The bandit has been inactive for three nights.

Victims of the hold-ups were to visit police headquarters to-day in an attempt to identify any one of the arrested trio in a police line-up.

Search for the bandit extended toward Toronto after S. B. Robinson of Windsor told police he picked up a young hitch-hiker en route to Toronto and as the man left the car, the wind blew his coat aside and showed he carried a revolver.

Snow scenes at Windsor Castle in England were photographed for the King, who will have them bound in an album.

Manual Training Going To Be Taught Boys Attending Five Of Otonabee's School

A new venture in the education of children in rural schools has been launched in Otonabee township. For the first time in the history of Peterborough county manual training will be taught to boys.

The experiment is being launched in the five Otonabee schools that were recently consolidated under one school board. George Munro, 580 George street, Peterborough, has been appointed by that board to act as manual training instructor.

Leo Copp, public school inspector, said there is a strong possibility such instruction will be started in other sections of the county. Because classes are so small in each school, it is not practical to hire a teacher unless schools are grouped together under a consolidated board.

Winter's Beauty This is the sort of sight that awaits the man fortunate enough to be able to tramp down country roads and lanes these fine winter days. In the silver blue of the snow, in the deep blue of shadow, in the stark erectness of trees lies a beauty that is unique to Canada; and in the far-reaching silence that sweeps on for miles and miles across field and forest, is complete contentment for one who sits on a rail fence smoking a pipe, his dog at his feet.

Report Wolves Plentiful Methuen Twsp.

Wolves are reported so plentiful in Metheun township, in the neighborhood of Kosh Lake, that a big drive may be organized, with the blessing of the Fish and Game Department, to reduce the number of these pests. A Havelock posse had planned starting for the district today, but the weather conditions were against the expedition.

"The wolves are runnng night and day," one man told the Examiner, "and they are operating in packs of ten or twelve. They must be doing a lot of damage among the deer, and the settlers are concerned over the danger to their livestock."

One report states that a man who was cutting ice on Kosh Lake last week lost a horse when it was attacked and killed by a wolf pack.

Reports from Metheun confirms other stories received by the Examiner, that wolves are operating further south than usual in Burleigh township as well. As a result the deer are moving south and are seeking refuge on islands on the north shore of the east end of Stoney lake. Three were seen one morning last week crossing the ice in Young's Bay.

Oshawa Rink Wins In Curling Bonspiel

TORONTO, Feb. 2—(CP).—Two Galt rinks, skipped by H. Steinall and P. G. Elliott, defeated Rev. James McEwan and H. Patterson, Unionville, 36-15 in the finals for the Globe and Mail Trophy at the High Park Curling Club, yesterday.

Steinall conquered McEwan, 22-15 and Elliott outscored Patterson, 14-10.

In the finals for the Governor General's Trophy, A. Dobson and H. Suteliffe, Oshawa, defeated J. C. Young and J. E. Smith, Richmond Hill, 38-30.

The Oshawa rinks ousted a pair of Forest skips, W. Govenlock and W. Mackenzie, 29-28, in the semi-finals, Govenlock losing 16-8 to Dobson and McKenzie defeating Sutcliffe, 20-13.

In the other semi-final Smith and Young bested James Borneman and James Heels, Gravenhurst, 32-26.

Newsreels Paying $2,500 For Site

OTTAWA, Feb. 2. — The sum of $2,500 to $3,000 will be paid by a number of newsreel companies for one-day rental of the roof of a shop at 34 Elgin street, for the purpose of filming the unveiling of the National Memorial by His Majesty the King on May 20.

It is learned negotiations will be completed within a few days for utilization by the companies of the flat top of the building, which commands an excellent view of the Memorial.

Probably three cameras will be used at this point, one of them a telescopic instrument for the taking of close-ups. Negotiations are under active way for hiring of other buildings in the vicinity for a similar purpose.

Windows of shops and other buildings near the Memorial are also being booked up like hot cakes by prospective spectators who believe in making sure of their places early.

Bear At Filtration Plant Remains Asleep So It Looks Like Six Weeks More Of Winter

It looks as though Peterborough is going to have another six weeks of winter before the break-up, despite the fact a bear would have great difficulty throwing a shadow to-day. The big bear at the Filtration Zoo never even poked his nose out of his bed to-day.

For to-day is "bear day." In less virile communities it is known as 'groundhog day," but in Peterborough we stick to the big fellow for our weather indications. Had he only come out to-day he would have seen no shadow and the monster ski meet would probably have been ruined. It is suggested in some quarters that officials of the Winter Sports committee have tied the bear up in his den so he can't come out. For unless he saw his shadow to-day, winter would end soon, but because he didn't come out at, all, winter will go on as usual.

"He went to bed away back last November and we haven't seen a sign of him since," said William Hunt, who divides his time, acting as chief operator at the filtration plant and overseer of animals in Ross Dobbin's zoo. "The two young ones have never deened up at all. They come out every day." But we can't take weather observations from young fellows like that; no, indeed, weather prophets must be old and wise. So you can keep out your winter overcoats for another six week at least.

Rabbit Hunt Is Being Organized

An organized rabbit hunt, the first of its kind ever to be held in this district is being talked up by several of the leading rabbit hunters in the city, and it is hoped to have officials of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association do the organizing, and launch the affair as part of the Winter program.

Last Saturday, Jack Shaughnessy and four of his colleagues from the C.G.E. went jack rabbit hunting but only gathered in three. This group is reported to be ready and willing to take part in another drive if more hunters are interested. Bob Runnett and Charles Carson, both do considerable rabbit-hunting, favor the plan.

Must Obtain Permission

Permission should be obtained to hunt over a wide area from the farmers on whose property the rabbits are doing damage, and the marksmen could be transported in trucks or private cars to the scene. A few who have discussed the plan favor dogs in the roundup, while others who perhaps don't mind a little more exercise claim it should be a still hunt.

It is believed that if events of this type were run off, new members would be attracted to membership in the Fish and Game Association, and the rabbit hunt itself would cost the association nothing, as each hunter would supply his own gun and ammunition. It would, however, add a nice touch if someone was detailed to kindle a fire at the scene of operations and provide hot coffee for the hunters during and after the field work.

The Taxi Areas

Some taxi men reported Wednesday that they had complaints from fares living west of Monaghan road because that portion of the city west of that thoroughfare had been included in No. 2 area and the higher tariff of rates applies there. The complaint was that practically all the rest of the city, including the extreme eastern section was in No. 1 zone and had the benefit of the cheaper rates.

West Ham United Defeats Hotspurs

LONDON, Feb. 2—(CP Cable).—Successful at the third attempt, West Ham United won the right to meet Portsmouth in the fifth round of the English football cup, by defeating Tottenham Hotspurs 2-1 in overtime on Arsenal's ground at Highbury today.

In the first of the fourth-round battles the teams drew 3-3 at West Ham, the second match at White Hart Lane ending in a 1-1 stalemate. The contests proved a great attraction for Londoners, 143,982 persons passing through the turnstiles at the three grounds.

Other soccer matches played today resulted as follows:

English League—Division II

Norwich City 1, Sheffield United 2

Division III—Southern Section

Walsall 0, Mansfield Town 0.

Newport County 2, Notts County 1

HAVELOCK COURT

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., held court in Havelock this afternoon when a number of charges of possessing radios without the necessary license were listed. Pleas of guilty were expected in most of the cases.

A certificate has been awarded to Capt. J. G. Armstrong, adjutant, qualifying him as Major.

The Rambling REPORTERS

DON'T DISTURB HIM.

If you walk into Dick Raine's store on George street and find him twirling two strings with weights on the end of them, don't disturb him. Just wait patiently, and try not to question his mental capacity.

For Dick is very busy these days—he finds it difficult to crowd in the time necessary to do business—attepting to conquer a new game that for some reason or other is called the "north and south" game. An accomplished player, they say, can hold one string in each hand, twirl the weights in opposite directions, bring them together in such fashion as to have them wind up until the two weights come together. Dick claims he succeeded once, but he has no witnesses. So now he doesn't bother trying unless someone else is in the store.

Pin Ball Games Operated In Belleville

Travellers calling on business men and shopkeepers in this city reported today that pin ball games with automatic pay out chutes were still in operation in many Belleville stores, and were evidently being tolerated by the authorities. They add that no arrests or warnings have been given the owners so far as they know.

A few games most of which are the single ball type have had the pay-out chutes locked and the player if he scores a win collects from the owner, rather than have the money or slugs drop down into a receptacle where it could be lifted out. Others however, according to the salesmen, which were listed as illegal because of the automatic pay-out are said to be back in circulation.

In Peterborough, shop keepers and pin game owners have followed the dictates of the criminal code and have no machines operating that are equipped with pay-out chutes, and to all intents and purposes are merely for amusement. Whether a player collects if he reaches a certain total or score is not known, but at any rate all of the old type machines have disappeared.

Bolton Is Freed On Two Counts

"This is February 2; go outside and see if you can see your shadow," was the Candlemas Day advice Magistrate E. A. Gee offered, Ivan Bolton, Harvey township resident, in police court this morning after informing him that he was free so far as the two charges laid against him of stealing flour and matches from the Dominion Stores and sugar from E. F. Mason were concerned.

When the cases were called today Crown Attorney McElderry announced that he did not propose to offer any evidence.

"There has been a conviction against the principal offender," he informed the Magistrate.

"The crown does not propose to offer any evidence against you; what have you to say about that?" asked Magistrate Gee.

"I don't just understand?" was the reply.

"It was explained to him that what was really meant was that the charges against him were dropped and he was at liberty to go, and with a broad smile he intimated he was satisfied with that disposition of the case.

"This will be a lesson to me to keep out of other people's cars," he said. "I'll walk after this; it's cheaper."

H. S. Balfour appeared for Bolton at this morning's proceedings.

Girl Is Injured When Her Head Breaks 'Shield

When her head went through the windshield of the car in which she was riding after the machine had crashed into the rear end of another automobile at George and Lake streets at 10.45 o'clock Wednesday night, Hazel Scott, 23, of 162 Dublin street sustained severe cuts on the face and head and had a tooth knocked out.

John Carey, 513 Reid street, the alleged driver of the car in which Miss Scott was a passenger reported at the police station at 3 o'clock this morning, after police had been hunting for him for some time, and was placed under arrest on a charge of reckless driving.

The accident happened when a car driven south on George street, had started to make a turn east on Lake street. The machine in which Miss Scott was riding on the front seat was also travelling south and plunged into the other automobile turning it almost completely around so that when it came to rest it was facing north. Miss Scott's head came into contact with the windshield and shattered the glass and she sustained severe cuts, a particularly bad one on the upper lip. She was taken into Marino's store and medical assistance called. When officers W. A. Clarke and C. J. McGillen arrived to investigate the accident, the alleged driver had left the scene, police report.

This morning Carey appeared before Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court to face a charge of reckless driving and without plea or election was remanded at the request of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., until February 8. Bail was fixed at $500.

Both cars were considerably damaged by the crash, the rear end of Mills' automobile and the front of the Carey car suffering.

Son Is Charged Injuring Mother

"The mother was so badly hurt that she is unable to come to court this morning so I have to ask for a remand," Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., explained in police court today after Jack DeCarlo, 543 Parnell street, had been arraigned on a charge of assaulting his mother, Mrs. Mary DeCarlo, of the same address. DeCarlo was arrested early this morning after police assistance had been called.

"Have you consulted a lawyer?" Magistrate Gee asked the accused.

DeCarlo replied in the negative.

"A remand will give you a chance to get into touch with one," said His Worship in sending the case over until Monday next.

Crown Attorney McElderry asked for $500 bail.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

READ THIS FIRST:

Elsie Ritter, a beauty shop operator, taking the place of a friend for a week in the private salon of Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Sr., finds herself involved in a mystery when the eccentric old lady is found dead under one of the hair driers after Elsie had left the room for a few moments. She is further humiliated when she learns that one of the servants in the Manor's household suspects her of taking Mrs. Witherspoon's emeralds, which are missing. Certain members of the Witherspoon family and some of the house guests strike Elsie as queer, and she is surprised when the old lady's son, Horace Witherspoon, advises her to say nothing of the missing jewels for fear of publicity and the police. The coroner arrives for his investigation. Phil Benson, Elsie's friend and a reporter, comes for an obituary for his paper and Elsie shows him around the mansion. Mrs. Witherspoon's funeral is held the next day. Elsie is at her wit's end when Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Jr., dies suddenly while under the same ill-fated drier in the salon the next morning. The police arrive and launch an investigation. The coroner pronounces the second death a case of murder and says he suspects poison.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

"YOUNG WOMAN," Dr. Didmore spoke sternly to Daphne, "someone has deliberately and premeditatedly murdered your mother. Surely if an autopsy will aid in solving the mystery of her death, you will not object?"

"Oh, leave her alone, can't you?" snapped Richard. "Do your dirty work, but leave my sister alone!"

Dr. Didmore ignored this outburst. "May I remove the body?" he inquired of Chief Ellis.

"Go ahead. Tom and Charlie still upstairs?"

"They are."

"Tell them to stick around until I come up."

"Very well." The medical examiner bowed to the room at large. "Good afternoon," he said politely, and I supressed an hysterical desire to laugh. He might have been taking his leave from a tea party, so prim and precise he was.

Chief Ellis cleared his throat: "I'm going to question each of you. It will be well if you tell the truth. If any of you know anything that bears upon this crime, speak up when your turn comes. I'll begin with Miss Ritter." He moved to my side. "What time was it," he asked, "When Mrs. Witherspoon came into the salon?"

She came into the salon," I replied shakily, "at nine o'clock."

"And at what time did you discover that she was dead?"

"It was between eleven o'clock and eleven-fifteen."

"Are you sure of that?"

"Yes. I looked at my watch when I tied her into the drier. It was exactly eleven o'clock."

"And in fifteen minutes she was dead?"

"Ye-es. Her hair was still damp when I lifted the hood."

"I see. Any questions, Karns?"

"No, chief."

"Was Mrs. Witherspoon in poor health?" He had not finished with me.

I shook my head. "She appeared perfectly well."

"Did you leave the room while the deceased was there?"

"I never left the room at all," I replied with a clear conscience.

"Any visitors come in?"

"No — yes! Miss Witherspoon came in for a moment."

"And what time was that?"

I frowned, trying to recall. "It must have been about nine-thirty or thereabouts. I had just started to wind Mrs. Witherspoon's hair."

"Right?" He shot the question at Daphne.

"Yes," she said slowly. "I wanted—"

"Never mind explaining now. I'll get to you later." He returned to me. I was feeling calmer now, though none too cheerful. I could not forget the emeralds, the missing green stones. Sooner or later, their disappearance would come to light. And when it did—well—fireworks for little Elsie!

"Well?" said the chief, and I came out of my trance to find him bending over me.

"Well, what?" I said, and my tongue was dry against the roof of my mouth. But I never found out what he had been going to ask me, for the door opened and a tall, gaunt figure in a striped cotton blanket tottered in. It was Eliza, a ghastly, palsied Eliza with the light of fever burning in her sunken eyes.

"She did it!" she said loudly. "Ask her! Ask her where she hid the jewels! Ask her!"

I sat motionless. I could not take my eyes from her. I tried to shout a denial. I tried to escape those burning, accusing eyes. I could only sit rooted to the spot while the pulse in my throat throbbed like a trip hammer and the blood of my body coursed to my brain, leaving me limp and helpless.

✧ ✧ ✧

"Come Miss Ritter!" Chief Ellis mopped his perspiring brow.

I sighed tiredly. For over an hour he had been plying me with questions.

'I tell you I don't know," I repeated for surely the hundredth time. "I don't know."

"Come now, Miss Ritter." He yawned widely. "There's no use being stubborn—"

"Stubborn!" Anger lifted my weary spirit. "You call it stubborn to refuse to confess to a crime I never committed?"

"Easy." The shadow of a grin lighted his weary face. "Maybe you think I'm rough, but I'm only trying to get at the truth."

"Well, why don't you, then?" I demanded, irritably. "Why don't you find the real criminal? I didn't poison Mrs. Horace and I didn't steal the jewels! I never set foot in this house until last Friday, and I never want to set foot in it again!"

His grin widened. I did not like his grin. His eyes were hard and suspicious. He said mildly: "I'm not trying to trap you, Miss Ritter, but you must admit that the jewels are missing and that you had the best chance to steal them. And you must admit that the deceased met her end in your presence and yours alone."

"She could have been poisoned before she ever entered the salon," I reminded him hotly.

"That remains to be seen. If you haven't been arrested yet, you can thank the medical examiner. I'm waiting for his report."

"Oh!" I stared at him. Until that moment I had not really believed that I was in any danger. Innocent persons, and I was innocent, were not put into jail! But they were! My heart froze. I again was seeing a bold, black headline that had attracted my attention one day as I passed an uptown newsstand:

KILLER CONFESSES CRIME
FOR WHICH INNOCENT MAN
HANGED IN CONNECTICUT

"Say, chief!" Officer Karns, who had been stationed guard over the rest of the household in the drawing room while his superior questioned me, popped his head into the room. "Phil Benson is out here. Wants a story for the paper."

"O. K. Send him in."

Phil Benson! My fears faded. I wanted to laugh and shout and sing. Phil was here! Everything was going to be all right. Phil would save me! I rushed to the door and threw myself headlong into his arms as he crossed the threshold.

"Elsie!" he exclaimed. "What's wrong?"

"Oh, Phil!" I cried, and laid my head on his shoulder and burst into sobs of sheer relief.

"Do you know this girl, Benson?" The chief was curious.

"Of course. Elsie is a good friend of mine."

"He's going to arrest me! He says I murdered Mrs. Horace and stole the emeralds and—and everything!"

"Well"—Chief Ellis looked to the floor—"I haven't arrested her yet"—

Lack of Education Spoils Your Chances

"Of course I didn't get the job," thinks George bitterly. "I never went to college!"

Like so many young men, George doesn't realize it's not the college degree that matters. Employers are looking for the alert, informed mind—and with today's free resources for education you can develop your own mental powers in a home college course.

Pick out subjects that will push you along when you apply for a job —economics, business management, finance. Get books from your library or inexpensive editions, read a little each day.

Brush up on general information too. Educated people, you'll notice, talk well on many subjects. Does the college crowd disuss the movie "The Citadel"—which has a doctor for the hero? You can give interesting bits about a real doctor's problems —when you've read such biographies as "An American Doctor's Odyssey."

What are the differences between insurgents and Loyalists in Spain? What is the "Open Door Policy" for China? Your newspaper, radio can tell you.

Build your own college background with simple study plans described in our 32-page booklet. Lists good books on history, art, literature, all the major college subjects — approved by the Committee on College Reading.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, February 3.

Great energy and initiative mark this day's doings, judging by major planetary operations, although this high-pressure attack may not always lead to the wished-for achievement. There is a menace of trickery, shrewdness, and misconstrued writings or documents at the root of tangled transactions, which may be land at the door of lawyers or other go-betweens. Watch these, change with prudence and due consideration, turn to aggressive action with determination and it is probable that a definite goal is within grasp.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves keyed to high activities in putting over important projects with much vim and determination plus well-constructed plans. But detrimental influences in connection with promotion or developing these propositions may be wrapped up with lawyers, agents or with misconstrued or distorted correspondence or documents. Be vigiland in this, make changes sagaciously and perhaps high-pressure tactics may win out.

A child born on this day may be capable, enterprising, audacious and disposed to tackle and create big things. Still, it may be unsettled and given to sudden changes and reversals, through the spirit of high adventure and bold initiative. It may have a conspicuous pioneer spirit.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—We have made many sacrifices to give our daughter, who has an exceptionally good mind, a fine education, and our disappointment is not in what she has done at college, where she has made a fine rating, but in her vacations when she comes home. It is always an ordeal because it is a wild round of her rushing from lunch to lunch, dinner to dinner, party to party, movie to movie, and automobile rides, etc. She seems to have a mad desire to see all of her old friends in the few days she is with us and when she is not with them our house is overflowing with boys and girls. Nice young people, and we want her to have a good time, but we would like to catch a few glimpses of her and have a few words with her, which we never have. She never has time to sit down and tell us something of her college experiences that we long to hear. Aside from a few crumbs of conversation between dates, we are no wiser than we were before she came home as to what she does. She doesn't even appear at meals except occasionally. It is go, go, go all the time. How can we arrange it so that on her next vacation we may see something of her? THE PARENTS.

ANSWER:

You can't. It is an utter impossibility. Human ingenuity balks before the helpless task of trying to calm down the exuberant spirits of a young girl just having her first fling and making her want to sit down and have a nice, long, cozy chat with Mama and Papa instead of going out on some gay party.

I don't want to be discouraging, but the first coherent, intelligent conversation you will have with your daughter will be after she is married, has had a baby and has settled down to the real business of living. Until then you will never see her except when she is flitting from place to place. The principal communication you will have together will be "gimme-gimme" on her part and "don't-don't" on yours.

But take heart of grace. Don't be too disappointed in your daughter and don't be discouraged. You are just facing for the first time what all the other parents of pretty and popular girls have to go through. Probably there isn't a father and mother in the world who haven't looked at their Mamies and Sadies when they were boy-crazy and gadding-crazy, and when the only things on earth they were interested in were dancing and movies and tearing madly around in jalopies, and when they had time to talk to some pimply-faced lad for hours, but couldn't give Papa a few minutes, without wondering why on earth they didn't drown them in the bathtub when they were born.

But they get over it and turn into sensible women. That is one of God's miracles at which their parents never cease to be surprised. It is hard, of course ,for fathers and mothers ever to face the truth that their children are not interested in them as they are in their children; that while they long to be with their children, their children are bored by them and yearn to get away to youngsters of their own age, who speak their language and want to do the things they do. But it is one of the inescapable facts of life that we have to accept with what philosophy we may.

But, in reality, your daughter wanting to spend all of her time playing around instead of being with you doesn't show that she does not love you and appreciate you. It only means that she is at the age when a good time means more to her than anything else in the world. Let her enjoy herself while she can. Youth is so short.

• • • • • •

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl of 14, very large for my age, and school just about drives me wild. I am in love with a married man who says he loves me. I have not told my mother about it, and I have to see him on the sly, and I feel that I cannot go on like this forever. What must I do?

LOUISE.

ANSWER:

Tell your mother all about it and perhaps she will be able to send you off some place where you will be safe from this married man and have a chance to get over your childish infatuation.

Don't you realize the danger you are in? Don't you know enough about men to know that any married man who would make love to a 14-year-old child is the lowest type of villain, and that he should be taken out and shot like a yellow dog? It is bad enough for a married man to try to win the heart of a woman when he knows he can't marry her and when he knows his attentions compromise her, but it is infinitely worse when he makes love to an ignorant, unsophisticated girl child, and ruins her life before it has fairly begun.

Let me entreat you again to tell your mother all about this affair and beg her to save you from yourself.

• • • • • •

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—It is the old story again of the philandering husband. We have been married ten years and have two fine boys. There have been other flirtations during these ten years, but my husband has got over them. However, this time it seems to be more serious, though he doesn't want a divorce on account of the boys. Also, he doesn't believe in divorce. So with this definitely decided on we would always be together in the same house, and it breaks my heart to be so near him knowing that he doesn't care for me and loving him the way I do. Can I make him fall in love with me all over again? Or will I have to stand by helpless and just take it on the chin? ALICE MAY.

ANSWER:

I doubt if a philanderer is ever cured by anything but age or rheumatism. As long as they have the power to attract women, or the money to buy them, or the strength to chase them, they cannot see a fluttering skirt without getting up to follow it.

There is no way to stabilize a philanderer any more than there is to give a butterfly a sedentary nature. All they know of love is the excitement of pursuit, and once they have won a woman they are tired of her. So it is useless for a wife to wear herself out trying to hold a husband who cannot be bound, or to attempt to rekindle in his heart the little fire of affection that has burned itself out. All she can do is either to leave him, or make up her mind to take it on the chin, as you say. And, as a general thing, this is the best way, especially if there are children.

New Storm Coming

CHICAGO, Feb. 2 — (AP). — The snow-clogged Middle West braced itself to-day for another wintry onslaught as the storm raced across Northern United States from the Rockies.

Early to-day the disturbance was general over the Western Plains States, and by to-morrow the weather bureau said, the storm would be felt as far east as the Atlantic seaboard.

Chess Training

HASTINGS, England, Feb. 2. — (CP). — For chess players a brisk sprint, a cold plunge or a workout in the gymnasium is advocated by Dr. Machgielis Euwe, former world champion.

"To keep in the championship class under present-day conditions a player needs to train as though he were entering an athletic contest," said the Dutch wizard.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

Knarf and Hanid were eager to visit their friend, Ting-a-Ling, who lived at the bottom of the Blue China Plate. They were wondering how he was getting along with his strange new pet, Boo-Hoo, who was a dragon.

There aren't many people these days, you know, who have dragons for pets. Dragons are very big, and very scarce.

They found their Chinese friend sitting in his parlor, looking particularly happy. "Boo-Hoo is a great help to me," he told the two shadow-children after he had greeted them.

"Does he really help you?"

A Fine Pet!

"Of course. Just feel how warm and cosy it is in my house to-day. Boo-Hoo takes care of the furnace."

"He does!"

Ting-a-Ling smiled. "In fact," he

"In fact, he is the furnace."

added with a sly wink, "he is the furnace."

Hanid and Knarf couldn't understand that. So Ting-a-Ling said: "Come along. I'll show you." He led them down into the cellar. As they opened the cellar door they felt a great blast of flame and smoke. The two shadows started back.

"There nothing to be afraid of," Ting-a-Ling assured them. "Boo-Hoo wouldn't hurt a fly. Don't mind that little fire and smoke. That's Boo-Hoo's way of keeping my house warm. Please come in."

Lying on Floor.

This time they followed Ting-a-Ling into the cellar. They found Boo-Hoo lying on the floor, his tail coiled 'round and 'round. Beside him lay an immense heap of coal and wood.

"You see," Ting-a-Ling explained with a smile, "having a dragon for a pet is a great improvement. He saves me the trouble of having a furnace to heat my house with. That means I don't have to use my furnace at all. I save lots and lots of coal and wood. Do you see that pile of coal and wood?"

The shadows nodded.

"Well, at the end of the winter the furnace would use it all up. Now I don't have to give it to the furnace at all. Boo-Hoo takes good care of it himself."

At that instant Boo-Hoo showed how he took care of the pile of coal and wood. He opened his mouth and with one huge gulp swallowed it all. However, it wasn't quite enough for him. He also swallowed the bin, all the wooden shelves, and quite a good deal of the walls.

"Yes," said Ting-a-Ling as he and his two visitors hastily got out of the way before the hungry dragon should decide to swallow them, too, "Boo-Hoo is certainly a great improvement around a house. I don't know what I'd do without him."

But Hanid and Knarf wondered what most folks would do with him.

Looking Back On This Date

Today can be considered the birthday of the Canadian red ensign, which, although a sea flag, is so often used on shore in the belief that it is the national flag of Canada. It was on Feb. 2, 1892, that the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, under power invested in them by the Imperial Merchant Shipping (colors) Act of 1889, issued their warrant authorizing the merchantmen of the Dominion to use the red ensign of her majesty's fleet, with the Canadian coat-of-arms on the fly.

Canada was the first overseas possession of Britain to be granted this concession. Since then, it has been given also to the other self-governing dominions, but they have all evolved flags of their own so that Canadian merchant vessels are now the only ones which use the British red ensign.

Many vessels that ply to Canadian ports and are generally regarded as Canadian, are, however, registered in Great Britain, and, therefore, they fly the British shipping flag with the Canadian red as a compliment.

While on the subject of flags, many English-speaking Canadians complain of the habit the people of Quebec province have of flying the French tricolor alongside or in place of the Union Jack or the Canadian red ensign. The fault, if any, is that of the British government and not of the French-Canadians, because in 1854 during the Crimean war, when Britain and France were together fighting Russia, thousands of French flags were sent here and placed side by side with the letters "V" (for Queen Victoria) and "N" (for Napoleon III) between them. Many leaders of Quebec though, especially among the clergy, protested but sentiment overcame the protests.

Thus it was the British who first introduced the tricolor of the French revolution into Canada, and laid the foundation for a custom which has now developed into a habit in some of the French sections of Canada.

NO MORE PILES

Get Quick, Pleasant Relief.

Probably not one person in ten knows the cause of piles is inside—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about piles and is the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give more than temporary relief — they do not remove the cause.

Your piles can not be relieved until you have corrected the condition which causes them. That is why an internal medicine like HEM-ROID should be used.

HEM-ROID is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, who early in his professional life made many tests to relieve piles by correcting the cause. His medicine succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, eases the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel, and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

So if you have failed to get the relief you want from your sore, painful piles, and would like to give HEM-ROID a trial, you have our promise to return your money, if just one bottle of this prescription does not give pleasing results. McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist can supply you with the genuine HEM-ROID.

CAMPBELLFORD

Real Progress Is Revealed Church Meeting

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 2.—It was the fine cooperation and spirit of harmony existing among the various organizations which had been responsible for the splendid financial reports presented before members of the congregation on Tuesday evening, declared Rev. Harold B. Neal, pastor of St. John's United church. Voicing his appreciation for the active support offered by so many of the congregation Mr. Neal declared that twenty-nine new members had joined the church during the past year. "Nineteen of these had joined on profession of faith and 10 by certificate," he said.

Preceding the reports given by officers of the various organizations a brief devotional period was conducted by Rev. Neal to whom later in the evening a resolution sponsored by J. D. Mills and M. S. Mowatt expressed appreciation for his splendid services and untiring efforts, was passed. The motion also included Mrs. Neal and organist and choirmaster Harold Kitney.

Presenting the treasurer's report J. D. Mills declared that all obligations had been taken care of during the year despite a slight decrease in envelope contributions. The sum of $545.00 had been paid on the principal of the mortgage and $124 interest.

J. A. Irwin, J. D. Miller, S. A. Maguire and H. B. Longmore and Dr. H. O. Richardson were on motion re-elected for a term of four years as members of the Board of Stewards.

The Woman's Missionary Society report presented by Mrs. A. D. Bennett. More than a hundred pounds of good second hand clothing had been sent in bales to the west and to the mission schools. A considerable sum of money had been likewise sent in aid of the missionary cause.

Mrs. A. E. Burgiss in her report of the year's activities in the Mizpah Mission Circle indicated a membership of thirty in the society which had raised all money by free will offerings.

Seventeen meetings were held by the Mission Band during the year and a number of the members had a record of perfect attendance it was claimed in the report of the secretary-treasurer, Miss Jessie Gratton. "Money raised by the Band showed an increase from the preceding year," said Miss Grattan, who praised the work done by the group leader, Mrs. A. G. Watson and the secretary, Miss Dorothy Greig.

Largest Organization.

With energetic officers the Woman's Association, one of the most active organizations in the church and embracing a larger membership than all others, indictaed that approximately $1,000 had been raised during the year. In addition to the money spent on improvements and upkeep of the parsonage, $124 had been paid on the interest and $545 on the principal of the church mortgage. In charge of the flower fund, Mrs. F. N. Brown and Mrs. M. S. Mowatt disclosed flowers, plants and bouquets had been sent to sick members.

A large portion of the funds raised by the Young People's Union had been raised by a play, crokinole party and collections during the meetings and a balance had been carried forward after meeting the obligations of the year. Miss Ruth Palliser the president, who gave the general report of the society also gave the report of the missionary treasurer, Miss Evelyn Scotts, which department contributed both to the general missionary fund and to work among the Indians at Alderville.

In the absence of Donald Bennett, Harold Kitney gave the Sunday school's report. Enrolment at the Sunday school is 209. In the home department there is a membership of sixteen in charge of Mrs. H. Bakes.

There are thirty-eight members of the Girl Guide Company including two Guiders and a Company leader. Seven Guides were enrolled during the past year and awards of stars and badges had been given to a number of members. During the summer they joined members of the Belleville group for a rally. Other work done by the group consisted of planting flowers at the cenotaph and supplying candy and fruits for the Christmas baskets prepared by the church. Miss G. Payne is the officer in charge.

Discussion groups in the 'Live Wires' group of Trail Rangers had been led by Major G. H. Free, M. C. Mowatt and C. Redden during the year. The membership of the group is twenty-two. The officers are: Chief Ranger, Harold Neal, Jr., secretary, Jack Thompson, treasurer, Douglas Free, mentor, Rev. Harold B. Neal, assistant, Charles Jeffs and Jack Thompson.

Clerk of the Session, H. M. Donald, indicated an increase in membership during the year with the sixteen removals by death and certificate being balanced by the twenty-nine additions. At the suggestion of Rev. Neal a minute's silence was observed in memory of those of the congregation who had been called by death.

A brief program was given during the evening, including a piano solo by Miss Elsie Rannie, reading by Miss Nellie Hooper and contests sponsored by Messrs. G. W. Lucy and A. D. Bennett. Following lunch the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" brought the evening to a close.

Champions To Vie For Figure Skating Crown

Keen competition is expected for this year's North American figure skating championships, being held in Toronto. Not only will Canada's best at the twirl and twist pastime compete but Uncle Sam's best, including the champions, will try to take the titles across the line. TOP picture here was taken just after the U.S. championships were decided and shows Robin Lee, 19-year-old, five-time winner of the American crown, sipping from the victory bowl with Joan Tozzer, two years younger, who took first place in the U.S. ladies' singles. Coming straight out of the picture in a graceful manner BELOW the U.S. champs is Eleanor O'Meara, of Toronto, one of Canada's best, who was third in the recent Dominion championships. LOWER LEFT, the favorite for the men's singles crown, Montgomery (Bud) Wilson, of Toronto, who won his ninth Canadian crown this year, and hopes to make it the same number in North American titles. The pretty miss at the LOWER RIGHT is Mary Rose Thacker, of Winnipeg, 1939 Canadian women's singles champion, who will try to make it a double in the international competition.

Marmora Laymen Hold "Story Night"

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Feb. 2. — The regular meeting of St. Paul's Laymen's Association was held in the Parish Hall on Wednesday evening, under presidency of H. B. Smith.

Word having been received early the same evening that the guest speaker, Mr. Scott, of the Hydro office, Belleville, could not be present, the secretary-treasurer addressed the association on some features of the old Rhondda and Swansea Bay Railway in Wales and some experiences of his while in the service of that company in the years 1906-1911.

Charles Cummings also regaled the audience with some stories of his experiences following enlistment for service in the Great War.

The meeting closed with a round of stories by the members and the serving of refreshments.

Bonarlaw Poetess Wins Distinction

BONARLAW, Feb. 2.—Mrs. Dave Wellman, of Bonarlaw, has had a poem entitled 'Little Jessie' accepted for publication in the crown anthology of verse, a standard compilation of contemporary poetry.

The inclusion of the poetry is a result of the author's participation in a $250 prize poetry contest sponsored by the Crown Publications.

This volume will contain the representative work of this country's eminent contemporary poets. The inclusion of the author's work is a distinct sign of literary recognition. The crown anthology of verse will be on the market early in 1939, at which time the prize winners will be announced. Mrs. Wellman is the author of 'The Fatherless Lad' which has been accepted for publication by the Columbian Music Publishers in Toronto and is now being set to music. She also wrote the following poems: 'The Old Elm Tree,' 'The Moira River,' 'The Heart of a Woman,' 'Days of My Childhood' and many others.

Final arrangement will be made at the Women's Institute meeting on Thursday for the annual euchre and dance to be held on Feb. 14th, cards from 8 to 10 o'clock.

Miss Maud Isaac of Calgary is visiting at the home of her brother, Mr. L. R. Isaac.

The young people will present their two one act plays in Gore's Landing on Feb. 17th.

Mr. Cecil Harvey of Peterborough visited at his home here on Sunday.

Miss Bertha Shearer returned to Cobourg on Sunday after spending two weeks at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. McNeil of Toronto are spending the remainder of the winter at their home here.

Peru spent $6,000,000 on highway construction last year.

MADOC

The ladies' Bowling and Bridge Club were entertained on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. R. S. Beatty and several tables of bridge were played. Mrs. G. C. Moon was the proud winner of the evening's trophy for the highest score.

The young people's ski club entertained their members and friends at an impromptu dance on Friday evening in the Orange Hall with a good attendance.

Mrs. H. Countryman of Tweed spent the weekend with her aunt, Mrs. Chris Henderson in Madoc.

Mrs. G. O. Griffith and son, Thomas Nickle Grifith, left on Friday to return home by way of Toronto to Glen Ridge, N.Y., after spending a week with her mother, Mrs. T. L. Nickle and family in Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Follis of Bancroft were visitors at the home of Mrs. T. L. Nickle during the week.

Mrs. George Taylor of Trenton returned to her home on Monday last after spending some time with Mrs. C. Henderson in Madoc.

Mrs. W. Cross of Madoc is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Eric Cross in Simcoe.

Mrs. S. S. Ashley has returned home after spending a few weeks with her relatives in Fort Worth, Texas and attending the funeral of her brother, John Thompson, who died very suddenly at his home in Fort Worth, Texas.

Mr. Arthur Bird had a narrow escape on Tuesday afternoon when he succumbed to gas poisoning as he stepped from his truck at Naylor's garage. It was discovered that gas leakage caused a near fatal accident from carbon monoxide gas. Latest reports are that he is slightly improved today. Mr. Murray Smith who was driving was badly affected too, but is much improved today and able to be at work during the afternoon.

Ice cutting and hauling from Moira Lake to Madoc village is being rapidly pushed this week, and merchants are very busy laying in ice supply for the coming summer season.

Messrs. D. Whytock and C. S. Nickle are busy with the audits of the municipal books for the past year. Mr. Don Whytock is also busy with the audit of the Stirling village accounts.

Quake Reduces Concepcion To Shambles

Thousands were killed and millions of dollars in property damage done by the recent Chilean earthquake, one of the most violent in the history of the South American republic. Concepcion, one of the hardest hit cities, was left a shambles by the 'quake. The ABOVE ruins are all that is left of one of the city's biggest department stores.

Sucessful Tea Is Held By Madoc Girls

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Feb. 2.—The Girls' branch of the W.A. of St. John's Anglican Church held a most enjoyable and successful afternoon tea in the Town Hall, Madoc, with an unusually large attendance.

Preceding the tea a very interesting and educational address on interior decoration was given by a prominent member of a decorating firm from Belleville, which was listened to with much pleasure and appreciation by all present.

Tea and dainty refreshments were served by the young ladies of the Auxiliary and all enjoyed the social hour over the tea cups.

Financial results were highly satisfactory to the young ladies who have recently presented the church with two dozen of the new hymn and prayer books for general use and are planning to re-decorate the church at an early date.

Rev. and Mrs. W. G. Hope Swayne were present and greatly assisted the hostesses in their pleasant social gathering.

We Noticed

....That according to Emile, the upward trend in women's coiffures is here to stay. Emile is a hairdresser from New York, and he ought to know. This week he addressed a convention of the Ontario Hairdressers' and Barbers' Association in Toronto, and when this opinion was launched it left some of us feeling a trifle upset—our reward, I suppose, for naughtily hoping we could relax a trifle and forget about being so eternally feminine!

❖ ❖ ❖

....He claims that the depression bob was only a style because women could not afford time or money to have their hair dressed (apparently good times are here again!) and says he does not consider a woman properly dressed, either for the street or a ball, if she does not wear her hair up. So it looks as if we shall continue to struggle for hours over a hairdress that a short year ago meant nothing more than a couple of licks with a comb.

❖ ❖ ❖

....Here's a ray of hope, however. It is rumored that masters of the coiffure are laying plans to help us out with a new style which will be more easily managed during the hot weather. The hairdress will consist of short, adaptable curls all over the head to be brushed up and fluffed out a bit. But there are to be no long bobs, and no curls thick at the nape of the neck.

C.G.I.T. Girls Stage Jolly Sleigh Party

Taking advantage of the recent heavy snowfall, the senior group of the Canadian Girls-in-Training of George Street United Church staged a jolly sleighing party. A number of friends were invited to join them. Weather conditions were ideal, and as the drive took a circuitous route round the outskirt of the city the horses with their heavily-laden sleighs had to plough through heavy snowdrifts, which gave the party quite a thrill.

The girls and their friends enjoyed all the old-time fascination which this happy sport, with its accompaniment of musical sleigh bells, recalled.

After the drive one of the party, Miss Marquerite Ash, acted as hostess to the group, and hospitably entertained at her home, Aylmer Street. Music, dancing and delicious refreshments were a happy climax to the party. The young hostess was assisted in serving her guests by her mother, Mrs. J. A. Ash, and Mrs. Lloyd Ash.

Prayers Are Offered For Foreign Missions

The Women's Missionary Society of Mark Street Church was well represented at the first meeting of the new year, on Tuesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. E. Rowland, was in the chair, and the first vice-president, Mrs. H. Alton, conducted the devotions.

Sentence prayers were offered by the members for the welfare and progress of foreign missionaries, and a paper on "Man's Worth to God," prepared by Mrs. Tinker, was read by Mrs. H. Alton. A concise report of the Presbytery meeting, held in George Street church, was presented by Mrs. C. Larmer. A missionary duet was sung by Miss Jean Alton and Miss Gladys Brown, and the meeting closed with prayer by the president.

Mission Circle Girls Are Interviewed.

An interview with girls who represented various characters from the study book "The Church Reaches Out," conducted by Miss Jean Hair, was an interesting feature of the Frances Watt Mission Circle meeting of Knox Church Wednesday evening, when the girls met at the home of Miss Irma and Lois Darling, 181 Stewart street.

Representing a nurse, a teacher in the school room, a lighthouse keeper's wife, etc., the girls answered the questions in a manner which illustrated just how far and successfully the United Church was reaching out to the far corners of the West, and into Northern Ontario, with its help in educational, spiritual and medical work. Posters showing the country covered in this way were on display. Parts were taken by Miss Dorothy Battle, Mrs. E. Smith, Mrs. Poolman, Miss Eunice Thexton and Miss Marjorie Thexton.

Miss Irma Darling, president, was in the chair, and led the devotions; prayer was given by Mrs. E. Smith, Mrs. H. Murduff, Miss Irene Battle, and the scripture reading by Miss Maxine Elliott.

During the social half hour which followed the meeting, tea was served by Miss Maxine Elliott, social convener, and her committee.

'38 Club Girls Meet In Y.W.C.A.

A happy, informal group of young business girls gathered in front of the fireplace in the Y.W.C.A. Green room last night for the twice-monthly meeting of the '38 Club.

As guest speaker of the evening, Mr. A. R. Kennedy, spoke to the members, taking his young listeners on a tour of France and Germany, where he compared the habits and customs of the two countries, remarking that he failed to understand how a German people with whom he had talked several years ago, and always found courteous and friendly, a people whose outlook on life, and whose taste in music and art he greatly admired, could change almost overnight into the cruel, heartless race pictured by the present day current events. Mr. Kennedy was presented by the president, Miss Mary Wallace.

Plans were made for a banquet to be held in the Green room on the evening of February 15. Coffee was served after the meeting by Miss May Wilson, assisted by Miss Mabel Nickson, Miss Ada Spencely and Miss Jerry Lasher.

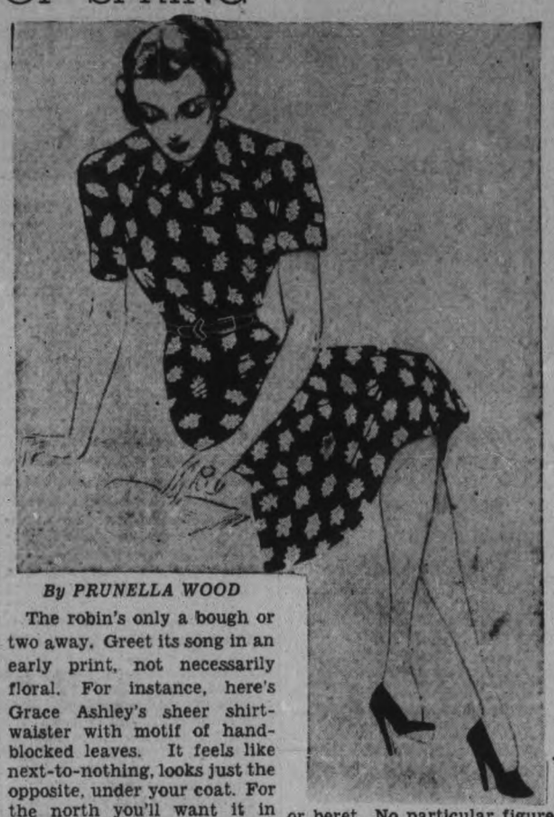
Mrs. F. Barrett Is Hostess To Church Group

Mrs. F. Barrett of Parkhill Road was hostess to Group F of George Street Church at a meeting on Tuesday night, with the leader, Mrs. A. F. Lane, presiding. Thoughts on the new year were given by the members in response to the roll call. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. R. Ferguson, and sentence prayers given by Mrs. V. Boorman, Mrs. I. Fanning, Mrs. V. Elliott.

Two delightful readings entitled "Mother" and "Flo's Letter" were given by Miss Helen Lyons. A paper dealing with the missionary work in Indian was presented by Mrs. H. S. Powers. Mrs. M. A. Morrison was guest speaker, and dealt in an informative manner with the topic of "Christian Stewardship."

A vote of thanks to the hostess was moved by Mrs. H. Morton and Mrs. Girven. Tea was served after the meeting by Mrs. Barrett and members of the refreshment committee.

THE FIRST LEAVES OF SPRING



By PRUNELLA WOOD

The robin's only a bough or two away. Greet its song in an early print, not necessarily floral. For instance, here's Grace Ashley's sheer shirtwaister with motif of hand-blocked leaves. It feels like next-to-nothing, looks just the opposite, under your coat. For the north you'll want it in black, luggage or navy background and light foliage. If you're attacking southern problems, take it away in white background, dark leaves, and top it with a white sailor or beret. No particular figure requirements (diet or budget) are essential for these classics.

A successful chemical experiment—pure dye chiffon mixed with acetate—is the new material sketched today.

Otonabee Chapter Reports Year Of Great Progress.

That the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. has completed its twenty-fourth year with a substantial sum in the treasury, and a record of creditable achievements during 1938, was revealed at the monthly meeting in the Y.W.C.A. green room, when the annual report was presented by Mrs. K. S. Wightman.

The chapter held eight regular meetings and one executive meeting in the Green room of the Y.W.C.A.; one at the Kawartha Club, and one at the home of Mrs. W. Comstock during the year. Flowers were sent to eleven members who suffered illness, and a silver tray was sent to Mrs. J. A. Robinson in grateful recognition and appreciation of her long and faithful services as treasurer. A rummage sale was held under the direction of Mrs. W. Comstock, Mrs. B. Jackson, Mrs. F. L. Robinson and Mrs. G. A. Borland, and a dinner was given in honor of Mrs. Lumbers of Toronto, National President I.O.D.E. at the Empress Hotel, which was attended by chapters en masse.

Subscribed To Local Charities

A monthly sum was subscribed to a needy family; donations were made towards the funeral expenses of a homeless young man; four collegiate students were supplied with text books, and contributions were made to the Red Cross, Girl Guides, Relief of Northern Fire Sufferers, Y.M.C.A., six additional thermos were given to Nicholls Hospital, colors were given cadets for inspection day, four chapter members, Mrs. D. W. Clark, Mrs. H. Beal, Mrs. J. Baird and Mrs. R. J. Wolstenholme gave their services to the Canadian Legion on Popy Day. Chapter objectives were loyally supported by subscription toward the endowment fund, St. Helena School in India, Gordon Scholarship fund, and a wreath was placed on the cenotaph on Armistice Day.

Mrs. F. L. Robinson, representing the Chapter at the annual Provincial convention in Hamilton, brought back an enthusiastic report. A sum of money was given the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational school, as an Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. Scholarship Fund.

Socially, 1938 has been for the Chapter a successful year. Two well attended community bridges were held, and two teas, one at Mrs. J. R. Marshall's home, and one at the home of Mrs. A. Edmonds. Bridge preceded a meeting held at the Kawartha Club in October, which was followed by a tea. Guest speakers were Mrs. Lumbers, Miss Kathleen McCarthy, Miss Rachel Young, Dr. Lorna Cotton Thomas.

New Officers Appointed

Mrs. H. C. Sherwood presented a report of the nominating committee, which was read by Mrs. Jackson as follows: Honorary Regent, Mrs. R. R. Hall; regent, Mrs. F. L. Robinson; first vice-regent, Mrs. B. Jackson; secretary vice, Mrs. G. A. Borland; secretary, Mrs. B. W. Harvey; treasurer, Mrs. W. A. Davern; flower convener, Mrs. G. A. Borland; Echoes secretary, Mrs. N. Andrews; standard bearer, Mrs. D. Bell; educational secretary, Mrs. K. S. Wightman; pianist, Mrs. B. Jackson; councillors, Mrs. W. Comstock, Mrs. H. Beal, Mrs. A. E. Edmonds, Mrs. J. Baird, Mrs. R. J. Wolstenholm, Mrs. A. E. Dryland, Mrs. F. Burnham, Mrs. G. Coleman, Mrs. J. H. Vallery, Mrs. S. Mitchel.

Mrs. Robinson took the chair and welcomed the new members. Arrangements were made for the members to have one or two tables of bridge during the month of February. It was moved by Mrs. K. S. Wightman, that the chapter secure a hope chest and sponsor the sale of tickets.

With The Girl Guides

On Monday only about half the company braved the elements, so instead of the usual meeting, the room was prepared for the annual meeting on Thursday. Please make an effort to be present at eight o'clock in the Lyceum, all mothers' auxiliary members. Will all leaders have reports ready.

Guiders will be interested to learn that Mrs. Whalon, our district captain, was highly commended by headquarters for her work in connection with guiding, and was appointed sub-trainer for the division.

Mrs. D. Loucks Elected Regent I.O.D.E. Chapter

Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E. members held their annual meeting at the nurses residence, Nicholls Hospital, on Wednesday evening, with the regent, Mrs. H. Keefer, presiding.

The annual reports were presented, showing that splendid progress had been made by all branches of the Chapter's work during the year. Two new members were welcomed into the Chapter.

The correspondence included a letter from a teacher of a northern school adopted by the chapter, in which she expressed thanks for the box of gifts and handwork supplies sent at Christmas time. Miss Edith Young presented the report of the nominating committee, and the following executive came into office by acclamation: Regent, Mrs. D. Loucks; first vice-regent, Miss Mabel Patterson; second vice-regent, Mrs. R. W. Franks; recording secretary, Mrs. C. Upper; corresponding secretary, Miss E. Bain; treasurer, Mrs. R. Lewis; Echoes secretary, Mrs. F. Hooper; Educational secretary, Mrs. T. J. Carley; Standard bearer, Miss M. Inches; secretary for child and family welfare, Miss Doris Burgess; councillors, Mrs. S. Braund, Mrs. V. Canning, Mrs. H. T. Cranford, Mrs. Cassan, Miss M. Greer, Mrs. G. Ham, Mrs. Al. Sharpe, Mrs. H. Steggles.

Mrs. Keefer, retiring regent, thanked the members for their loyalty and support during her term of office. Mrs. R. White presented her with a gift as a slight token of gratitude.

Mrs. D. Loucks, the new regent, then took charge of the meeting and thanked the members for the honor bestowed upon her in electing her regent, assuring them of her most faithful efforts, and expressing confidence in their continued co-operation.

Miss Myra Baird expressed the thanks of the chapter to Mrs. Leeson, the hostesses of the evening, Miss Inches and Miss Young, and the retiring executive. The meeting closed with the service of refreshments by Mrs. S. Putenham and her group.

SLATE BLUE FOR SKIING

Next to navy, slate blue is becoming the color for ski wear, replacing previous classic colors of other years. Slate blue is liked because it serves as a good background for bright accessories, looks attractive against the white background of the runs and is beckoning to faces reddened with cold and exercise. Some favor lighter tones of slate blue for the linings of slate blue ski togs, but contrasts are also used, such as a light red. Slate blue is reported also to be replacing previous classic colors of blue in separate cotton wind breakers.

Do You Know?

A little flesh scraped from the inside of a potato and applied to a burn, is an old-fashioned remedy that still proves to be one of the best treatments? Bandage carefully after the mixture has been applied.

The flavor of roast meat, if it is to be served cold, will be preserved if it is wrapped in a damp cheesecloth while the meat is still hot?

If your clothes have been splashed with mud, let the mud dry on the garments, then try brushing with a stiff whisk broom. If this does not prove effective, try scratching it off with the edge of a penny. This is just as sharp as is needed, and will usually do the work without injuring the material.

Canary's Song Depends On State of Health

If you have a canary bird, it is very important for the health of your pet to keep it in a suitable position. The outward signs of health in song birds are activity and song. A mopey bird is a silent, miserable pet.

It is a great mistake to hang a cage at a window where the inmate is subjected to draughts and violent changes of temperature.

A cosy recess away from the window—not in a direct line between the window and door—should be chosen, and the cage should be placed on a table within a few feet of the floor. Do not hang the cage near the ceiling of the room, as in this position the bird is subjected to excessive heat and a vitiated atmosphere.

The proper feeding of birds is also of importance if they are to remain healthy and to give of their best with their sweet song. Few people take the trouble to inquire about feeding when purchasing a new bird.

Do not kill your birds with kindness by giving them slices of cake, sugar, bananas and other indigestible foods.

TAKE THE LEAD OUT OF YOUR LEGS
Get Oxygen in Your Blood and You'll Get the Pep that Sends You Bounding Up the Stairs

People who smother to death die because oxygen has been completely cut off from them. Just as surely you are slowly smothering if your blood lacks red corpuscles. Red corpuscles are your oxygen-carriers. They carry the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Without enough oxygen-carrying corpuscles, your kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels slow down. Your skin gets pale, flabby, often pimply. Your nerves may become jittery — you tire quickly — feel depressed.

What you need is Dr. Williams Pink Pills. These world-famous pills help make more and better red corpuscles and thus increase the oxygen-carrying power of your blood. Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today at your druggist. See for yourself how quickly this time-proven blood-builder will help give you back your pep. Copr. 1938, G.T. Fulford Co., Ltd.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Woman New Head Of London's Huge Household

By MOLLIE McGEE
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

LONDON, Feb. 2—(CP). — London has given one of its highest honors to a woman. Mrs. Eveline Lowe, quiet, energetic middle-aged widow, has been appointed chairman of the London County Council. This office was formerly held by Lord Snell and Mrs. Lowe's year of office is in the Council's Jubille year.

To realize the importance of Mrs. Lowe's appointment is difficult for those who do not know the colossal amount of work that is accomplished by London's controlling body of 144 members an dthe enormous field they govern.

Transportation—trans, buses and underground trains—hospitals, public institutions, schools, sanitation, maintenance of streets and public buildings, lighting, health and building inspection, fire equipment, police, construction of new housing schemes, all these matters are supervised and under the management of the councillors whose meetings affect 12,000,000 people.

Long Experience.

The slight, practical-minded woman who will now preside over the gatherings held in a room not unlike that where parliament assembles, is fully aware of her responsibilities. Elected first by the Labor vote, she has been a member of the council since 1922—representing West Bermondsey, a working class district—was chairman of the Education Committee for three years, and for one year, 1929-1930, was deputy chairman of the council.

"I am very glad if my appointment will give women an opportunity they had not had before," Mrs. Lowe told reporters. There are 27 women already on the council, for it was one of the first public bodies to admit women, early in the century, and has always given them equal footing with men.

Even so, this appointment as a recognition of ability has created a precedent that will have a far-reaching effect at a time when women in the civil service are fighting for the right to hold high executive positions, and women in legal professions requesting the opportunity to show their proficiency as King's Counsel.

Mrs. Lowe started her career as a school teacher. She married a doctor with a practice in one of the poorer sections of London. His partner became the member of parliament for the district and through them both Mrs. Lowe learned not only of the conditions surrounding the poor, but of how they could be remedied.

Progressive Staff.

Mrs. Lowe has unusual aptitude in judging character. After her service on the Educational Committee she became chairman of the Establishment Committee in charge of the appointment of all staff and personnel. Many of her appointees are among the men and women who have done so much in the last five years to make the London County Council famous for its progerssive attitude and efficiency.

Other of Mrs. Lowe's appointments includes service on the London Advisory Committee for Juvenile Employment, the Child Guidance Council and the Burnham Committee on Teachers' Salaries.

Editorial comment in the press was highly complimentary to the new chairman. The News-Chronicle devoted a leader article to her, heading it, "A Good Choice," and continuing, "The nomination of a woman as the next chairman of the London County Council will win widespread approval, particularly as that woman is Mrs. Eveline Lowe.

"The fact is that London has the finest system of municipal education in the world is due in no small degree to Mrs. Lowe's untiring efforts during her years as chairman of the Education Committee."

The Star commented, "Both courage and imagination were called on to elect Mrs. Lowe as the first woman chairman of the L.C.C. in its Jubilee year. Women have gained valueable experience of London government since the days when the right of three elected women had to be fought in the law courts, and London has learned to respect their ability."

The Daily Sketch referred to her as "A 'Woman of the Peaple' new head of the enormous 'household' of London."

LET IT RAIN, LET IT POUR

By ALICE ALDEN

Something new under the sun, or rather, under the clouds, is a finish, Zelan by name, which is not only water repellant but also resists stains. It is nice for general wear, for campus, for travel, for sports. Cotton and rayon fabrics, clothes, curtains and other materials are now Zelanized. Zelan makes possible this two-in-one reversible reefer rain coat. It's tailored in shetland wool on one side, and in treated Egyptian cotton on the other. This practical coat, to be had in a number of colors, is shown here in rich brown combined with soft tan.

Word "Luck" Often Overused

Maybe we had better be a little careful about using the word 'luck" in our homes. Children pattern themselves after their parents. Henry, hearing his father say over and over that he was born under an unlucky star, may come to believe that his own misfortunes are due to the disfavor of the gods. And as he grows up, he may be too discouraged to get up on his legs and try very hard, if he thinks that he is selected for disappointment.

The body is exactly what it eats and breaths. The spirit is exactly what it absorbs. Effort and a stoical attitude to disappointment are best. And then more effort. This is character building. And it brings more returns than anything else in life.

Grapefruit Jelly Is Delicious

This is a delicious preserve, either for breakfast or tea; it is also excellent chopped up and added to fresh fruit salads. Wash 6 large grapefruit, peel yellow rind off thinly, cut fruit across and squeeze out the pulp and juice, separating pips and putting them along with the white pith in a separate basin. Now add 6 pints of water, putting half in each basin, and leave to soak for 24 hours. Put contents of first basin into preserving pan. Strain the other one and throw away pips and pith. Simmer gently for 1 hour, then strain, return juice to the pan, and add 6 lbs. sugar. Boil quickly for 10 minutes; pour into hot jars and seal down.

QUESTION: This is the first time I have ever written to you but I have enjoyed your cookery page very much and get so many new recipes and ideas. Now I am writing to ask you if you can send me a recipe for Rum and Butter Syrup (used for making milk shakes). I would be very glad and grateful if you could help me in this instance.—A. K.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

Rum And Butter Syrup

Foundation simple syrup: Three and one-half pounds white sugar, 1 quart water. Boil these together for 5 minutes. While still hot to this add 2 drachms of citric acid, ½ oz. rum and 4 tablespoons butter. Stir until well blended. If this hardens too much when cold add boiling water drop by drop until of right consistency—enough boiling water added and stirred in will keep it from hardening even when cold.

We hope this recipe suits your purpose and that we may help you again.

QUESTION: Would you please send me recipe for pineapple custard made with milk or cream and cornstarch (no flour), using crushed pineapple. Must have a rich pineapple flavor and to be made in double boiler. I have made it but the pineapple seemed to curdle it. I do not want to use water. Your recipes are delightful. Thanking you.—(Mrs.) D. H. S.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter. Kindly send stamped addressed envelope when you desire answer by return mail.

Pineapple Cream Pudding (Or Custard)

In top of double boiler scald 2 cups whole milk (or 1 cup milk and 1 cup cream). In a bowl mix together 4 tablespoons cornstarch with 2-3 cup sugar, then add 2 eggs and beat together very well. Slowly add the hot milk to the egg mixture, and when they are blended return all to double boiler and heat stirring until mixture thickens. Remove from heat—and add 1 cup well drained preheated crushed pineapple, stir well and serve either hot or cold. Many prefer a cream pudding made like this—but I prefer to leave the eggs out of the mixture until the cornstarch has been cooked at least 20 minutes—proceed as above leaving out eggs—stil until thick and let cook in double boiler, stirring occasionally, for 20 minutes. Then pour hot mixture over beaten eggs, return to double boiler and stir 2 minutes, then remove from heat, add heated pineapple and it is ready to serve hot or chill in stem glasses.

We hope this recipe is what you want and that we may help you again.

QUESTION: A year or so ago I cut the enclosed from the cookery page and I have never used the recipe because I have never been able to get either the mould or roller. This week I was fortunate enough to get a roller and upon reading the recipe over today I just don't understand whether the whites of the eggs are used or not, and what quantity of melted shortening to use—the amount not being mentioned. Thanking you. B. M. M.

ANSWER: The recipe for Springerle that you enclosed with your letter is not similar to my file copies so I am giving you the following one which has been used by me several times.

Springerle
(Genuine German Recipe)

Four eggs (yolks and whites separated), 1 teaspoon aniseed, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons milk, 2 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon butter, 2 cups fine sugar (berry sugar is preferable), ⅛ teaspoon salt. Beat the whites and yolks separately as stiffly as possible. Slowly sift the sugar into the whites as you beat and keep beating until very stiff—then carefully combine the whites and yolks. Mix together the flour and baking powder and sift them. Sift the flour mixture into the egg mixture alternately with the milk, mixing carefully between additions. Then add the aniseed and butter and salt. If a stiffer dough is desired more flour may be added without injuring the batter or flavor. Chill. Then roll out, and impress springerle roller over dough, cut out squares, chill and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. until light golden. Most makers of Springerle chill the rolled out dough overnight.

DOUBLE DUTY DRESS

By ALICE ALDEN

You can get away with a very simple afternoon dress, but the chances are that you'll want to take advantage of the trend toward more important-looking styles. For example, the kind of dress which Madeleine Carroll wears, first for cocktails, then on to informal dinners. Although it's the familiar Algerian silhouette, it gets around the usual wide belt—so disastrous to many figures—by shirring just above the waistline. Gold embroidery trims the becoming neckline, a change from the more severe cowl, and emphasizes the pockets.

Table Manners Of Olden Days

In an old castle in France they used to show—and probably still do—what must be one of the world's biggest carving-forks. It is a great two-pronged affair, large enough to hold a joint of enormous size and it belonged once upon a time to a king known as Henry of Navarre.

Even in those far-off days it was a curiosity—partly because forks of any sort were hardly used at all in Europe during the Middle Ages. A few people had them, but they were kept for special occasions and special purposes.

Italy was the first country to take to them, and the custom spread from there to France, and England—but only gradually. For a long while forks were looked upon as strange and foolish things, used by foppish and fussy people.

Even in Queen Elizabeth's time it was the usual thing for everybody—including the royal lady herself—to eat with the fingers, and to pop choice morsels of meat and vegetables straight into the mouth after picking them up in that fashion. And, since food was sometimes very hot ,and likely to burn the hand, it was a common custom to wear buckskin gloves while sitting at table.

At certain times and in certain places, forks have been forbidden by law—as senseless things and a waste of good money. In old plays, you sometimes came across bitter jests against people who used them.

When forks did become more popular, they were mostly made of steel or iron. They had two long prongs, set wide aparts, and short bone handles. Silver forks were looked up on as a sign of great wealth, and they often had fancy designs.

By and by a third prong was added, and later still a fourth, and then forks really were forks. Then it began to be the fashion to have one for each member of the family, instead of two or three for the whole lot, and the shovelling of food into the mouth with knife and fingers came to be looked upon as bad manners.

COLLINS, Mrs. T. P.—At St. Joseph's Hospital, Thursday, February 2, Mary Collins, widow of the late Patrick Collins, in her 68th year; beloved mother of Marita, Geraldine and William J. Collins. Funeral notice later.

IN MEMORIAM

FOSTER.—In loving memory of Mrs. Agnes Foster, who passed away one year ago to-day.
Yes, she sleeps but not forever,
In a lone and silent grave;
Blessed promise she shall waken,
Jesus died the lost to save.
In the dawning of the morning,
When the troubled night is o'er
All the buds in beauty blooming,
Will rejoice to see her more.
—Ever remembered by her Husband.

FOSTER. — In loving memory of Mrs. George Foster, who passed to her rest one year ago February 2, 1938.
In our home she is fondly remembered,
Sweet memories cling to her name;
Those who loved her in life sincerely,
Still love her in death just the same.

Fens Flooded

ELY, England, Feb. 2 . — (CP-Havas). — The Fens, low-lying region of south-eastern England, were threatened with serious floods today as a result of continued rains which have swollen rivers beyond normal in many parts of the country.

More than 60 houses are submerged at Littleport. Other towns and villages prepared to evacuate their inhabitants.

Australia will enlarge its Royal Air Force to 18 squadrons.

Class Officers Are Installed

Mrs. Alex Rosborough lent her pretty home, at 120 Gladstone Ave., Wednesday night, for the meeting of her class members, The King's Own, of St. James' United Sunday school, with about thirty-five present.

The success of the evening was assured when all entered wholeheartedly into the devotional business and social sessions. Mrs. J. Freeman conducted the worship period, with the singing of hymns, and the Scripture reading, which Rev. Mr. Craik closed with prayer.

The new officers for 1939 were installed by the pastor, and the charge given in a real challenge, to both lay members and officers, in this impressive service, when all consecrated themselves anew to the "King's Own" work, all joining in the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The splendid new executive includes in its staff the following:

Past president, Mrs. A. Rosborough; president, Mrs. Percy Van Nest; 1st vice-president, Mrs. G. Harris; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Stanbury; secretary, Mrs. E. Kitney; treasurer, Mrs. Clarke.

Committees—Program: Convener, Mrs. E. R. Frost; devotional, Mrs. Hess and Mrs. J. Freeman; visiting, Mrs. Breadman; telephone, Mrs. Way; quilts, convener, Mrs. E. Eakins; social, convener, Mrs. G. Rowe; and Mrs. H. Bannon; afternoon meetings, Mrs. Meeks, Mrs. Morrison; sunshine convener, Miss M. Robinson; pianist, Mrs. H. F. Doig; teacher, Miss Mary Collins.

The brief business session was speedily run through, and, led by Mrs. Bert Pitchford, a most entertaining program was enjoyed, including a duet by Mrs. J. M. Arnold and Mrs. A. H. Davis. A clever contest, based upon the names of class members, afforded much amusement, and was won by Mrs. A. H. Davis.

Mrs. Rowe, with her hospitable committee, made the members at home, while she dispensed the delicious refreshments. Sincere thanks to Mrs. Rosborough, as hostess, were voiced on behalf of the class, by Mrs. Doig and Mrs. Heard, to which everyone present joined in endorsement.

The next meeting will be in the form of a birthday party, when each member will be expected to bring as many pennies as there are years in her age.

Mrs. Arnold gave the class a cordial invitation to hold this meeting at her home on Morrow street.

They Grabbed It

TILTON, Ill., Feb. 2 — (AP). — Two men grabbed Franklin Jacks as he stepped to the street after closing the store he manages. They robbed him of $25. The name of the store which Jacks had just closed—"Grab-It-Here."

GIVEN TWO YEARS

TORONTO.—Convicted of robbing two Ellis Hosiery Shops and a Taylor cleaning store, Max Yarmo, was sentenced today to two years less a day in the Ontario Reformatory, plus three months indeterminate.

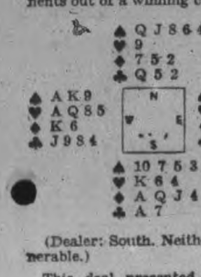
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

A DENIAL OF STRENGTH

FOLLOWING AN informative or takeout double of your partner's opening suit bid, there is no need for you to bid if your hand is strong. Either redouble to tell your partner about your strength, or else pass and let the opponents bid themselves into trouble. If they do not happen to bid something you can double, then you can come in with your own bid. Your having passed in the first place tells your partner you were pretty strong, and had no reason for sticking in a bid on your first turn to try to keep the opponents out of a winning contract.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

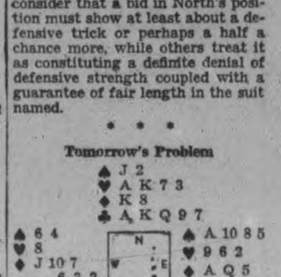
This deal presented a case in which the dealer seemed to forget the logic of doubles and ensuing calls. South bid 1-Diamond, West doubled and North bid 1-Spade, not only to warn his partner of his general weakness but to prepare for a possible sacrifice against a threatening heart game. East passed this and South raised to 2-Spades. When West and North passed, East cut in with 3-Hearts. West raised it to 4-Hearts and South doubled.

After the heart game was made, plus an overtrick, South berated his partner for bidding on such a weak hand, in the first place, and for leaving in the double in the second place. North countered by saying that his bid had warned South that his hand was worthless defensively and that South should not have made a penalty double unless he could defeat the contract single-handed.

Such arguments will always come up, so long as some players consider that a bid in North's position must show at least about a defensive trick or perhaps a half a chance more, while others treat it as constituting a definite denial of defensive strength coupled with a guarantee of fair length in the suit named.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

Why should South not make an opening bid on this deal?

Campaign Grows

CHICAGO, Feb. 2—(AP)— A city-wide campaign against syphilis in Chicago entered its third year today with a goal of 1,000,000 blood tests in it.

Directors of the first drive of its kind in the United States said that in two years the mass effort had:

1. Brought syhilis out from the whispering stages and made it a common topic of the day.

2. Increased the number of blood tests for the disease nearly six times to 352,479.

3. Doubled the number of cases reported to 18,497 and thence under medical surveillance.

CAMPBELLFORD

Major G. H. Free Elected Head Of School Board

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 2.—Additional office space for the three male assistants on the High School teaching staff was suggested at the board's inaugural meeting, at which Major G. H. Free was elected chairman for the year. Addressing the board, following his elevation to the office of chairman, Major Free thanked members for their confidence in placing him at the head of the board. He also extended a warm welcome to Ralph Locke, the only new member. A. J. Armour and W. D. Wood, appointees of the County Council, retired this year under the new plan adopted, by which only one appointment is to be made each year. A. G. Thompson, the remaining representative of the County Council, was returned to his position of chairman of the bus committee and was also made vice-chairman of the board.

F. C. Bonnycastle was elected chairman of the finance committee and W. Roy Loucks will assume the chairmanship of the property committee, which was held last year by Major Free. Dr. H. O. Richardson will head the internal committee.

On motion of F. C. Bonnycastle and W. Roy Loucks, R. Weston was reappointed as the representative on the library board.

Rotary System

Addressing members, Principal E. H. Greig, stated that a complete rotary system had been instituted in the school since the beginning of the new year. "And I am very well pleased with the way it is operating. It is a benefit to the pupils since now each subject will have its own particular class room and when pupils become accustomed to carrying around the additional books they will no doubt appreciate the advantages of the system. It would be advisable to have more bulletin board space in at least two of the class rooms, to be used for display of pupils work, and also for certain project work.

"With three male assistants now on the staff, I have been asked to bring the matter of additional office space to the attention of the board," state Mr. Grieg. "These teachers should have a place to keep their supplies, a room also large enough to be used as an office."

It was suggested that the cupboards in the master's laboratory, now used to house various ornithological exhibits and mineral specimens, should be removed to the upper hallway and leave space for the additional office. A doorway will have to be cut from the main hall into this room so that teachers will not have to pass through a class room in order to reach their office.

"Are these partitions not all tiled," questioned Mr. Henson.

"I don't know how big a job this is going to be but I will investigate the matter,' replied Mr. Loucks.

Relating to members that he and the secretary had met with the council and placed before them their estimates for the year, F. C. Bonnycastle, advised that "We met with considerable opposition as was expected. It was impossible to give an accurate estimate as we do not know what our grants will be,' he continued.

It was claimed that the county attendance was about forty-five per cent, or approximately the same as it has been in previous year. The aggregate attendance at the High School had increased by one-tenth.

In order to put a stop to vicious rumors, of the type that were being circulated when a member of the staff was absent owing to illness in the early part of the term, W. Roy Loucks asked that a motion be passed requiring that any teacher who was absent for more than three days should present a doctor's certificate for the information of the board. It was also added to the motion that Principal Grieg should keep an accurate account of the attendance of all members of the staff.

"This will create a hardship on some teachers who probably wouldn't engage a doctor," a member suggested.

"If a teacher is ill for more than two days she needs a doctor,' put in Mr. Kelleher.

"I quite agree with you," concluded Mr. Loucks.

Hope Of Peace Rises Following Hitler's Speech

World hope of peace was raised in some quarters following Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's address to the Reichstag in which he employed a much more conciliatory tone than was generally anticipated by other European powers. Chancellor Hitler is pictured here delivering his address with General Herman Goering seated directly behind him. Goering was unanimously re-elected president of the Reichstag.

King And Queen Are Facing Year Of Engagements

By HOWARD BERRY
Central Press Canadian Writer

LONDON, Feb. 2.—This year is likely to be the busiest King George VI and Queen Elizabeth have ever experienced — not even excluding Coronation Year.

King George

While details of the tour of Canada, the United States and Newfoundland show that so much has to be fitted into the time available that three periods of complete rest have been arranged during the tour to give their majesties a chance to remain fit and well, this 16,000-mile tour across the new world is only one item—although the most important—in the royal year.

In addition, King George and Queen Elizabeth, will carry out scores of engagements of different kinds at home during the next twelve months.

One Tour Outlined

One tour, in the northeastern area around Newcastle, Yorkshire, has already been announced.

It will be made after the launching by his majesty of the new British battleship, King George V on Feb. 21, and it is possible that other visits to distressed areas may be planned for later in the year.

Following this tour, there is the state visit of M. Lebrun, president of the French Republic and Madame Lebrun, who will be the guest of the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace from March 21 to March 26.

A glittering round of festivities have been arranged in honor of the distinguished French visitors, and the King and Queen will participate in nearly all of them.

Although the usual routine of the London season has, naturally, been upset by the visit of their majesties to the American continent in May and June, a number of royal and state functions will take place as usual.

Two Courts To Be Held

King George has given orders that two courts shall be held in March, before he leaves Britain, and two more, probably in July, after his return. As the result, the debutantes of 1939 will not be deprived of their opportunity of making a curtesy before the King and Queen.

Queen Elizabeth

When the royal court returns from Sandringham early next month, the King and Queen will set aside much of their spare time for preparations for the American tour, and the King, too, will have every detail of the program for the United States, Canada and Newfoundland visit, submitted for his approval.

Two investitures at Buckingham Palace, when the recipients of the New Year's honors will be invested with their insignia, and at least one levee at St. James' Palace, are other items in King George's program before he leaves Britain for Canada in May.

Lad Gets 2 Years

TORONTO, Feb. 2 — (CP). — Owen McNeil, 17 homeless boy, who attempted to hold up the Dominion Bank at Scarboro, Toronto suburb, with a toy pistol on January 17, today was sentenced to the Ontario Reformatory for two years less one day, plus six months indeterminate.

"I am taking your youth into consideration and I am not going to send you to the Penitentiary," said Magistrate J. L. Prentice.

TWEED

Gets Three Months On Liquor Count

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Feb. 2.—Ernest Lessar, Bannockburn ,was sentenced to serve three months in the common jail after being convicted of violation of the Excise Act, when he appeared before J. L. Lloyd in county police court. The jail term was in default of the payment of a $100 fine levied. Lassard was arrested by the R.C.M.P. when found in possession of sixteen bottles of illicit liquor recently. The R.C.M.P. presented and prosecuted the charge and gained a conviction upon Lessard's plea of guilty as charged.

Tweed Badly Bogged

Borne on high winds, one of the worst snow storms in years struck Tweed and district late Monday afternoon and continued for twenty-four hours, drifting roads, and blocking traffic. Drifts from two to six feet were common in many parts of the village, and car traffic was practically at a standstill. Traffic on No. 37 between Belleville and Tweed, was slow, with some drivers reporting that five hours was required to complete the trip one way. Drivers had to take to the ditch to negotiate drifts which blocked the highway, and many cars on the road were stalled, some for several hours. However, the Department of Highways plough opened the roads late in the afternoon. Bus and train service was on schedule, and all rural school buses made their trip on time. Approximately nine inches of snow fell during the storm, one of the heaviest falls in recent years.

Fortunately no serious accidents, however, resulted as a result of the storm.

Rioters Fined

LONDON, Feb. 2 — (CP-Havas). Fines ranging from 10 to 40 shillings were imposed on leftist demonstrators who appeared in Bow Street Police Court to-day on charges of resisting the police. About 50 in all were arranged as a result of demonstrations last night in front of Parliament and in the West-end in favor of lifting the arms embargo on government Spain.

Leduc Lays Ouster To "Big Interests"

QUEBEC, Feb. 2 — (CP). — Exposed to th scrutiny of the Quebec Legislative Assembly to-day was F. J. Leduc's long-awaited version of his removal last summer from the Duplessis Cabinet in which he had been Minister of Roads since the election of the Union Nationale Government 18 months before.

The Roads Minister's ouster had to be carried out, because he refused to resign, through an unprecedented resignation of the whole Cabinet of Premier Duplessis and its immediate reformation without Leudc.

At the time the Quebec Premier, who temporarily took the roads portfolio, said the ouster had been in conformity with the "Union Nationale policy of enduring no abuses" from any quarter.

Not his highways administration but his financial and political enemies brought about his removal from the Cabinet said the former minister who sits in the Legislative Assembly for Laval County.

The province's roads program during his 18 months' direction had been "honest and sound," but "big interests" came into the picture and "great pressure was brought against the Prime Minister." Leduc claimed.

Premier Duplessis had told him requesting his resignation there was a "stack of evidence" against him and that evidence was "calumny after calumny" by the men about the Union Nationale Leader, Leduc charged.

150 M.P's Enough Says Spence Urging Economy

OTTAWA, Feb. 2—(CP). — Dave Spence, Conservative Member of Parliament for Toronto-Parkdale, speaking last night during the Throne speech debate, said the cost of government should be cut down. If the British North American Act were revised membership in the House of Commons should be reduced from 245 to 150 and the Provincial Legislatures should be cut in half. County councils then could be cut likewise.

"It is not alone the money that is paid to those men here that runs up the cost," he said. "It is the money that is spent in their ridings pleasing them, building post offices costing $50,000 in towns of 700 or 800 people."

Robert W. Gladstone (Lib. Wellington South) made a plea for more business-like methods of government and for revisions in Parliamentary procedure which would enable members to study and devise constructive solutions for problems which now receive scant attention.

Some Real Discussion.

"Political speeches should give way to business deliberations," he said. "Some means should be found of adjourning the prevailing type of bickering discussion to enable us as earnest-minded Canadians, to talk back and forth without Hansard recording, exchanging views, offering suggestions, arriving somewhere, one would hope, for prompt legislative action."

Wider markets would help eliminate employment but more was needed. The crushing overhead in which cost of government was a heavy item bore down on agriculture and industry alike. High cost of production would shut Canada out of export markets.

Yet Members of Parliament did nothing but talk and talked too much on matters of minor importance while larger issues received insufficient attention. The railway problem was almost taboo in the House.

Mr. Gladstone said his criticism was meant to apply to the system under all governments and not specially under the present government. He wondered if the party system did not tend to dictatorship within democracy, if leaders were not so idolized at that that autocratic methods were condoned.

Scores of questions could be studied constructively by small groups of private members, such as the method of collecting radio licence fees and financing the radio system, the method of paying rural mail carriers, and the financing of public buildings. In connection with the latter, the post office department paid no rent for the building it used and when it reported a surplus it was largely fictitious.

Too Much Show.

"There are government offices in Ottawa," he said, "where one official occupies as much space as the general managers of three or four large industrial concerns that I might name."

Protests against the cost of government were not directed at the number of members of parliament, but at the multitude of clerks, stenographers, inspectors and other employees carrying on practically identical services in many centres of government.

In parliament too much depended on the initiative of the cabinet. More independence on the part of members could be brought about by doing away with the rule which made resignation of the government necessary after defeat in the house on a minor issue. This should only follow an affirmative vote of want of confidence.

Blame for the inactivity of private members fell on the party leader, and each one of them had a responsibility for forward thinking directed to a reduction in the cost of government.

"The distress of the people demands that a new fresh group of say five or seven members be set to work immediately to represent us all in definite planning. It matters little whether they should be undersecertaries, ministers without portfolio or simply an advisory group so long as they have opportunity and ability to think ahead for us along new lines."

Police Ruse Nets Aged Moonshiner As He Prepares For Gun Battle

VANCOUVER, Feb. 2—(CP). — Robert Dunn, 60-year-old settler of Roberts Creek, 40 miles north of Vancouver, was being brought here today aboard the Royal Canadian Mounted Police boat Imperator after his capture yesterday in the cabin where he had barricaded himself.

Chief Petty Officer J. Olsen, R.C.M.P., and Constable A. M. Bestwick of the British Columbia police raided Dunn's premises Sunday and reported they found a still. A warrant was issued for the settler's arrest under the excise act.

However, when the officers went to arrest Dunn yesterday morning he warned them away and said he would shoot anyone who opened his door. He was armed with a shotgun and rifle.

The officers left him alone and in the meantime reinforcements with tear gas were sent from Vancouver and adjoining coast points.

In the dark last night police again visited Dunn and Sergeant T. D. Sutherland of the provincial police, who knew him, engaged him in conversation.

Olsen and Bestwick crawled through a window of the same room. The elderly man apparently did not hear them until they closed in on him. No tear gas was used.

Finally he made his way into the hall. Ladies screamed as the goat meandered to the front. The animal was locked in the hall basement until the ball was over.

Left the Army With Rheumatism

Now Fit to Join Again

Twenty years ago, he left the army, constipated and rheumatic To-day, he is fit and nimble — a merry, romping granddad, 61 years young.

"I came out of the army with rheumatism," he writes. "It was especially bad in my feet. I started taking Kruschen Salts, and in a few months I found relief from my rheumatism. I became nimble on my feet. Now, at 61—weighing 168— I am cheerful, energetic, and always ready to play with my grandchildren."—F.E.B.

Many people grow old long before their time because they neglect one vital need of health—the need for internal cleanliness. Eventually they adopt the healthy Kruschen habit. Then, probably for the first time in their lives, they start getting rid every day of waste matter from the system. The result is renewed health and vigour. Ailments due to a clogged system vanish, youth returns, and life becomes really worth living.—adva.

SYNTONA MEDICINE BRINGS REMARKABLE RESULTS FOR ANOTHER GRATEFUL LADY Suffered From Rheumatism and Headaches Due to Continued Stomach Ailment

COULD NOT EVEN COMB HER OWN HAIR

Here is the interesting experience of Mrs. John Speck, as told to the Syntona Man.

"For years I suffered with stomach disorders. Food didn't agree with me and caused awful attacks of gas and indigestion. I used to get dizzy spells and frequently had splitting headaches. Then I got crippled up with rheumatism and was almost helpless. I couldn't even comb my own hair, and my kidneys troubled me so much that I couldn't be left alone at night. I always seemed to be constipated and could get no relief.

"I read in the paper about what Syntona had done for people whom I know and I decided to try it. Right from the first, I could tell it was helping me and now I feel so well in every way. I can get around and do my work just as well as I ever did. I can eat without suffering afterwards. I am free of those awful headaches and dizzy spells. I am so happy about the way Syntona has helped me. I want others to know about it, too."

West Ontario's Worst Fraud Puts 3 Generations Of Family Behind Bars

Four Men Sentenced For Joint Conspiracy Aimed To Collect Millions By Loans On Proposed Anti-Knock Dope

CHATHAM, Feb. 3 (CP).—A scheme branded "the greatest fraud game ever put over the people of Western Ontario" and out of which the perpetrators hoped to gain millions, today brought reformatory sentences to four men, representing three generations of a London family.

The men were sentenced by Judge J. J. Coughlin yesterday on conviction of a joint charge of conspiracy in connection with raising funds through loans supposedly to back an anti-knock compound for gasoline.

Terms of two years less a day in the Ontario Reformatory and similar indeterminate sentences were given to Gerald Wyant, 23-year-old amateur chemist; his father, V. T. Wyant, and his grandfather, Samuel Willis. Thomas Agnew was given one year determinate and one year indeterminate.

Gerald Wyant, who hoped to reap vast fortunes from his chemical formula, was described by Judge Coughlin as a young man who "needs time to cool off." Defence counsel argued that young Wyant had a formula which had interested oil companies and they had every reason to believe it was a commercial feasibility.

"Big Firms Interested."

The Crown argued that V. T. Wyant and Samuel Willis particularly and Agnew to a lesser degree had obtained loans from people on the misrepresentation big interests in the United States were interested in the anti-knock compound formula for natural gas.

"This is a story of the greatest fraud game ever put over the people of Western Ontario by a group of unscrupulous promoters based on the modern boy wizard of chemistry," Crown Attorney A. D. Bell said in his argument.

Following convictions on conspiracy counts, all but Agnew entered guilty pleas to numerous specific charges pending which alleged false representations in connection with the moneys raised by the loans.

Sentences of two years less a day determinate and similar indeterminate terms were given to run concurrently with those imposed for conspiracy. Arrangements for Agnew to face the specific counts have not been made as yet.

Cave-in Is Fatal To Owner Of Gravel Pit

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 3.—John Meir, 61, died early this morning, 12 hours after he had been buried to his shoulders in a cave-in at his gravel pit.

Tons of frozen gravel imprisoned the man and his son worked feverishly for more than 15 minutes digging him out before rushing him to Campbellford hospital yesterday afternoon. Severe head and abdominal injuries brought death at 4 o'clock this morning.

Meir, a native of Switzerland, was digging gravel from a pit on his farm at the time of the accident. His son, Jack, was driving the truck into which he was shovelling the gravel and suddenly he saw his father buried in a slide. Only his neck and head remained free when he started to dig his father out. The aged man never lost consciousness throughout the ordeal, he said later.

The son said a shovel with which his father had been digging had broken across the man's abdomen from the weight of the gravel. He was also struck on the head, sustaining a long scalp wound.

Dr. E. A. Stuart, coroner, said there will be no inquest.

John Meir came to this country from Switzerland 11 years ago, and settled on a farm a mile north of Campbellford. He had been a market gardener and operated a gravel pit. During the past two years he had operated a mink farm as well.

His wife and one son survive in Campbellford, while another son is in Switzerland.

Spain The Key To Roman, Nazi Desires

"Troops To Stay Till Britain, France Yield"—Lloyd George

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(CP-Havas).—David Lloyd George said here today that Italo-German forces will remain in Spain until Great Britain and France have granted demands of Germany and Italy.

Speaking at a meeting of the Council of Action, he questioned the import of peaceful statements made by Chancellor Hitler in his speech Monday.

"Read that speech again," the war-time prime minister said. "What does it really mean? Is the German Fuehrer's belief in peace based on his knowledge that he and his partner, Premier Mussolini, have no intention of pressing by force territorial claims which will be unacceptable to Britain and France, or is it attributable to the conviction, rooted in experience, that these powers will once more surrender abjectly to demands made on them by military dictators?"

"Our trustful Prime Minister feels assured that as soon as the Spanish civil war is over with General Franco on top, the German and Italian forces will be withdrawn completely from Spain.

Not Fighting For Nothing.

"I predict to you now that those most formidable and indispensable elements will not retire until France and Britain have accepted in substance the demands now being made on them by Hitler and Mussolini, who are not fools enough to have thrown themselves into the Spanish quarrel and fought in it for 2½ years at great risk and cost to themselves without securing some advantage out of it.

"Guns on the Strait of Gibraltar and on the Pyrenees, airdromes on French lines of communication in the Balearics and the Bay of Biscay, secure for the dictators strategic and therefore diplomatic superiority of the first order over the democratic countries.

"They can at any moment close the gates of the Mediterranean against us and also imperil our traffic along the African coast. Our poor lion will hardly extricate himself without losing some of his mane and several of his teeth. That's what Hitler means by a long peace."

Referring to Czecho-Slovakia, Mr. Lloyd George said:

"Hitler has not merely taken that part of Bohemia which is occupied by the Sudeten Germans. The whole of the country belongs to him. He will make a military road across it if there is any other country he wants to grab. It is entirely a vassal state to the German Moloch."

Roosevelt Brands As A "Lie" Statement He Said U.S. Frontier In France

Made Up By Legislative And Press Agitators, Is Still Opposed To Alliances; Rome Hints At Defence Lines On Panama

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP).—President Roosevelt termed a "deliberate lie" today a statement that he had said the American frontier is on the Rhine.

The President, at a press conference at which he restated the United States' foreign policy informally, also described as a lie the report that he had said the American frontier was in France.

Mr. Roosevelt declared some reports of his conference with the Senate Military Committee last Tuesday had given an erroneous impression of the United States' policy. He added most of them had been manufactured by some legislative and newspaper-owner agitators and they were a deliberate misrepresentation of existing facts.

The United States' foreign policy, the President said, has not changed and would not be changed. He reiterated it to be:

1. Opposition to any entangling alliances.

2. Maintenance of world trade for all nations, including the United States.

3. Americans are in sympathy with each and every effort to reduce or limit armaments.

As a nation the United States is sympathetic with the peaceful maintenance of political, economic and social independence of all nations in the world, he said.

No New Policy.

That, the president emphasized, was very simple and there was absolutely nothing new in it.

Mr. Roosevelt said the people were beginning to realize that the things they have read from agitators of the legislative and newspaper owner variety in connection with the defence and foreign policy programs were pure bunk.

These agitators, he said, were appealing to the prejudices and fears of the people and were acting in an "unamerican" way.

The president's lengthy discussion of foreign policy followed a question which suggested that some people were confused about what actually took place at his conference with the senate military committee and also his meeting yesterday with a house of representatives appropriations subcommittee on the army bill.

Mr. Roosevelt said his foreign policy had been completely covered in his messages to Congress.

He added the people were confronted by the simple fact that many people, some members of the House and Senate and some newspaper owners, were deliberately putting before the public a deliberate misrepresentation of facts.

All Erroneous Reports.

The president said he had 14 or 15 newspapers before him which gave erroneous reports of what took place at the conference with the senate committee. He added that the original reports were qualified by such phrases as "it is learned" and it is understood" but that future editorials and news stories treated the original reports as fact by not repeating the qualifications as to authenticity and failing to mention contradictions.

The public, Mr. Roosevelt said, knows pretty well that when they read such reports that they are not news but merely rumors.

Asked about the "American frontier is on the Rhine" statement, the president, with a smile, said some boom got that off.

He noted that this report had been attacked in Germany and Italy and applauded in France and Great Britain but that both the attack and the applause had been based on misstatement of fact. The president added he would like to trace the person who gave out that report.

Before the press conference, Mr. Roosevelt's reported determination to aid European democracies revived talk that the administration soon might try to modify or repeal the neutrality act.

A Roman Threat

ROME, Feb. 3—(AP).—Germany, Japan and Italy will have to counter any extension of United States frontiers into Europe by pushing their own defence lines not only to the Panama Canal, but also to the Rio Grande, Virginio Gayda, fascism's chief newspaper spokesman, said today.

At the same time the United States embassy asked the Italian government for an explanation of bitter personal attacks on President

London Bombing Renewed; Five Injured

LONDON, Feb. 3 — (CP). — Bomb explosions in two subway stations in the centre of London to-day signalled the renewal of a series of outrages attributed by Scotland Yard to Irish Republican agitators.

The blasts occurred almost simultaneously about 6 a.m. in the Leicester Square and Tottenham Court Road subway stations, a quarter of a mile apart. Bits of metal found in the Tottenham Court Road subway, believed to be pieces of an alarm clock, were turned over to experts for examination.

Squads of Scotland Yard detectives and police blocked the entrances to both stations, turning away thousands of puzzled office workers. London's complex transportation system was thrown into a snarl.

A ticket collector and another person at the Tottenham Station was seriously injured and five persons were hurt at Leicester Square.

Walls Shattered.

So strong was the blast in the Tottenham Station that telephone receivers in a long row of booths were blown from their hooks. Dynamite had been placed in the luggage room, the glazed walls of which were shattered. Woodwork was sent hurtling throughout the big station. Glass windows of ticket booths were broken and water from burst pipes flooded the station.

The explosion at Leicester Square also occurred in the luggage room. Glass show windows in the adjoining waiting room were shattered as were windows across the street.

For three weeks police of England, Scotland, and Wales have had a 24-hour guard on railroads, airports, electric and gas systems, and other vital centres following the original outbreak of explosions.

One blast apparently was aimed at Prime Minister Chamberlain's son, Frank, while he was a guest at a hotel in Tralee, Eire, Jan. 20. A bomb exploded at the rear of the

BETHANY, Feb. 3. — The sudden death of Mrs. Thomas Colville at her home on the Tenth Line of Manvers on Wednesday night came as a shock to the community. On instructions from H. R. Deyman, Crown Attorney, Cobourg, a post-mortem examination was made by Dr. H. A. Saved C.N. Billion In Economies 1930-35 Says Manion

OTTAWA, Feb. 3—(CP).—But for economies initiated by him as Minister of Railways from 1930 to 1935 the Canadian National Railway deficit would be $20,000 000 a year greater than it is, Conservative leader Manion told the House of Commons last night. The C.N.R. deficit in 1937 was $42,000,000.

Providing an exciting climax to the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, the opposition leader crossed swords with another former minister of railways, Finance Minister Dunning, who declared "the administration of a great public institution demands a degree of restraint to which none of us in this parliament has yet proved equal."

"I am prouder of the work I did for the Canadian National in my five years as minister than of anything else I have done," Dr. Manion said.

The debate arose over Dr. Manion's expression of resentment and complete denial of charges that as minister of railways he had "sabotaged" the C.N.R. and taken the first steps toward amalgamation. The charges were made earlier by Ralph Maybank (Lib. Winnipeg South Centre.)

"There are always one or two even in small groups who insist on flinging mud," said Dr. Manion. "But I do not intend to let anyone fling mud at me in the hope some of it will stick without attempting to correct their statements."

No Truth In Claims.

There is no truth in Mr. Maybank's charge he had "sabotaged" the C.N.R. as Minister of Railways or caused any employees to lose their jobs, Dr. Manion said.

'If I had done those things I would be unworthy to sit in this House. If any man in this house or out of it wilfully sabotaged the C.N.R. he would not be worthy of the name of Canadian."

Since then similar charges had been spread across the country on the radio. During the London by-election last Fall a deligious service had been held at a plaque commemorating the late Sir Henry Thornton, former C.N.R. president, in the station. This was a sacrilege, organized for political purposes. The object of all these moves was to capture the Labor and railway votes in big railway centres such as London and Winnipeg.

But for his efforts at economy the present annual deficit of the C.N.R. would be $20,000,000 greater, Dr. Manion said. He had opposed amalgamation arguments and so far as he was aware only one man in Parliament had advocated it. He referred to Trade Minister Euler.

Hepburn Heads Home With 19-Day Sea Cruise Ahead

Sydney, Australia, Feb. 3. (CP-Reuters)

PREMIER Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario sailed for Canada today in the liner Mariposa after a visit to the Commonwealth.

In farewell message Mr. Hepburn pleaded for a more frequent interchange of visits between responsible leaders of the British dominions to promote empire unity.

The Mariposa is due at San Francisco Feb. 21. It will call at Auckland, New Zealand, enroute.

Favor Insurance Sweep-Financed

REGINA, Feb. 3 (CP).—A health insurance scheme financed by a Dominion - Provincial sweepstake that would make possible distribution of $14,000,000 annually, was advocated in the Saskatchewan Legislature last night by Frank S. Krenn, 26-year-old Liberal member for Watrous.

The plan, for which he submitted details, would provide for a total of 179,000 individual prizes ranging from 40 $25,000 prizes, 50 $20,000 prizes, 100 $10,000 prizes, right down the line to 100,000 $10 prizes.

Under the scheme $1 tickets would be sold to residents of the province every month. These tickets, in addition to guaranteeing residents a chance at the draw, would also entitle them to benefits under the proposed state medicine scheme.

To supplement funds raised by the sale of sweepstake tickets Mr. Krenn suggested a one per cent. import and export tax imposed by the Federal Government and a one per cent. income tax, both personal and corporate, which, combined, would raise $30,000,000.

Sale of the sweepstake tickets in the United States and in Canada would bring in an additional $35,000,000 to 40,000,000, so the total sum involved in the scheme would exceed $70,000,000, he said.

Mr. Krenn was prepared to gamble that 75 per cent. "of the audience here" had bought sweepstake tickets. Life was a gamble, he said, it was even a gamble to get up and deliver a speech in front of a hostile audience.

Gas Stations, Cabins Banned Along Four-Lane Highways

Toronto, Feb. 3 (CP)

C. A. ROBBINS of the Ontario Highways Department said in an address here last night that the province will not permit construction of service stations, tourist cabins and sign boards on the new four-lane highways. "Ontario's new roads are being built with the idea of retaining the beauty of the countryside as much as possible," he said.

8 Firemen Buried As Roof Tumbles

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Feb. 3 — (AP). —The plight of eight firemen buried in the fire-scarred ruins of a five-storey office building was described by rescuers as "hopeless" when the structure's two remaining walls fell inward to-day.

"We've just about given up hope of getting any of them out alive," declared Frank Savage, District Fire Chief.

Collapse of the two side walls of the building piled tons of additional debris upon the trapped men, who were righting the blaze from the third floor when the roof collapsed and carried them with it into the basement.

A ninth fireman, trapped in the wreckage with the eight still missing, was rescued an hour after the collapse and taken to a hospital, critically injured. Two others were treated in hospitals for minor injuries received earlier.

Mooney Wants To Shake Wife

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—(AP). —Mrs. Rena Mooney said to-day that Tom Mooney, pardoned recently after serving more than 22 years in prison, had demanded that she divorce him.

Mooney would not comment immediately but indicated he might issue a statement later.

Mrs. Mooney declared she would fight any divorce action.

Mooney was convicted of murder after the bombing of the 1916 preparedness day parade here. His wife said she had aided him throughout the years in his efforts to obtain freedom, which culminated in a pardon by Governor Culbert L. Olson.

"Right after he was released from San Quentin prison Tom demanded that I get a divorce," Mrs. Mooney said. "His excuse was that we had drifted apart during the years he was in prison.

"It's pathetic. He made the demand in the presence of his attorney.

"But I should say I won't give him a divorce. We've been through too much to think of divorce."

No Nazi Raps

BERLIN, Feb. 3—(AP).—Flippant remarks about the Nazi regime in cabarets was the undoing today of Werner Finck, well-known German actor and announcer.

He and four other cabaret artists were excluded from the Reich's culture chamber by propaganda minister Joseph Goebbels, head of the chamber, which controls theatres, movies, and other phases of German cultural life. The order means they cannot appear on any stage in Germany.

Peasouper In London

LONDON, Feb. 3—(CP-Havas).—A thick blanket of fog covered London and its suburbs today, disrupting train schedules and street traffic and causing suspension of the Tilbury Ferry service. Visibility in Sutton, southwest London, was about 15 feet.

Britain Hunts Dozen Dictators To Manage Civilian Defence

LONDON, Feb. 3. (A. P.). — Sir John Anderson, Lord Privy Seal and Minister of Civilian Defence, began a search today for 12 "Dictators" to be responsible for Civilian Defence in Great Britain in the event war isolates the central government.

The plan was developed so fast that most of the local councils, which guide the country's air raid precautions in peace time, got the first intimation of it when they read the newspapers. Sir John hopes to have all details completed by March 1.

England, Scotland and Wales will be divided into 12 sections, each with a regional commissioner, who will direct the defence in his area in cooperation with central head-quarters. In case his section is isolated he will take complete charge.

Sir John said he "wanted men with big names" for his "dictators" but that they must have something behind them." Each commissioner will have a war staff consisting of air raid precaution officers and government departmental officials. His peacetime duties will be to speed up and coordinate civilian defence.

The industrialists advisory committee meanwhile reported to Prime Minister Chamberlain yesterday that rearmament is making rapid progress in all directions. The committee, which was set up to improve collaboration between the defence services and industry, said it was impossible to convey the magnitude of the rearmament effort to the general public "without divulging figures which would be detrimental to the national interest."

The government expects to double its output of military aircraft in 1939 and by 1940 there is a possibility that Great Britain will lead the world in production of bombers and fighting planes.

The cabinet gave consideration to the rearmament program at a special meeting yesterday.

In the House of Commons Prime Minister Chamberlain, speaking on a proposal to provide pensions for needy former members of parliament, said Great Britain never could become a dictator country.

Adoption of a one-party system in Britain, he said, "Sooner or later must give rise to revolt and perhaps revolution."

Town 100 Miles Away Builds Bridge Of 'Honeymoon' Debris

Picton, Ont., Feb. 3 (CP)

BUILT entirely from planking and timbers from the famous Falls View bridge which collapsed at Niagara Falls last year, a new 15-foot span has been constructed in Prince Edward County 15 miles west of here.

The bridge which crosses Hillier Creek, near Hillier village, contains 720 feet of lumber and 520 feet of girders which were washed ashore in Pleasant Bay last summer. The lumber drifted out of the Niagara River, into Lake Ontario and eastward to the bay, close to 100 miles in all.

Calf In Montreal

MONTREAL, Feb. 3. —(CP)— Treffle Rheaume looked out of his window early today, rubbed the sleep out of his eyes and looked again. But there it was—a fine black and white calf prancing around in his backyard.

He summoned police officers who removed the animal to a pound. There isn't a farm or a slaughter house within miles of Rheaume's Amherst street home.

Drunk Drivers Cross Up Law By Selling Cars So Windsor To Hold Next Till Trial

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 3 (CP) —Windsor court officials announced today drunk drivers would remain in custody and be tried as soon after their arrest as possible. Crown Attorney James Allan announced the change after the second driver in a week announced he had sold his car between the time he was arrested and the case disposed of.

George Oxford, 35, pleaded guilty to day to drunk driving and was sentenced to 10 days in jail. When the court ordered his car impounded for three months, Oxford said he had sold it. He had been arrested Dec. 17 and the case remanded several times.

"The result of this will be that persons arrested for drunk driving will stay in custody and be tried the next day after they are arrested," Allan announced.

Allan said he would consult highway department officials on whether they could order the car impounded even if it was sold.

Mac-Paps Back From Spanish War Report Bayonet Thing Of Past

HALIFAX, Feb. 3. — (CP). — Veterans of months of fighting on the government side in the Spanish civil war, 292 members of the Mackenzie-Papineau Battalion, arrived back in Canada today in the liner Duchess of Richmond.

The party was met by Rev. R. H Thomas of Toronto, chairman of a national committee named by the Friends of the Mackenzie-Papineau Battalion, and Jack Taylor of Toronto, executive secretary of the organization.

A. A. MacLeod of Toronto, who handled arrangements for the return of the soldiers, said he received a cable on the ship's arrival today that 137 of their comrades had made their way from Spain across the border to France last night.

MacLeod said the veterans would be provided with necessary clothing on the special train which will take them to Montreal and Toronto.

Major E. Cecil-Smith of Toronto, commander of the party, described his charges as "pretty glum" about the government's loss at Barcelona.

Not Greatly Elated.

DETROIT, Feb. 3 — (C.P.). — Inspector William L. Potts, who invented the world's first four-way traffic light, retired to-day from the Detroit Police Force after 28 years' service. Potts installed the first four-way traffic light in 1920 at Woodward and Fort Streets here.

Night Court For Larger Centres Of Ontario Favored As Convenience By Conant

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 3 (CP)— Attorney-General Gordon Conant said today he was ready to consider a Windsor request for night sessions of police courts in the larger Ontario cities.

"I'm disposed to say that if existing machinery could be adopted to night sittings without increasing the cost, the plan should certainly be considered," said Mr. Conant. "I am inclined to think there is a place for night courts in the larger centres.

"The courts exist to serve the people and they should be conducted in a manner calculated to avoid unnecessary inconvenience and expense to individuals involved in minor cases."

Mr. Conant observed that the Ottawa family relations court under Judge McKinley had been holding night sittings and apparently this was a great convenience.

Manion Wants Debate On Bren Case

OTTAWA, Feb. 3 (CP)—Debate on the throne speech over, members of parliament will start work today on the bulky order paper and begin the real work of the session. Next major debate will be on the Canada-United States trade agreement, expected to come up for ratification early next week.

Climaxing the long debate on the throne speech, in which more than 100 members participated, Conservative Leader Manion and Finance Minister Dunning last night crossed swords in an exciting debate over their respective records as ministers of railways in previous governments.

Voting on the amendment and sub-amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne was only a formality.

The Conservative amendment charging the government with failing to take adequate measures to relieve conditions of distress was defeated by a vote of 155 to 55, with the Conservatives, Social Credit and C.C.F. groups voting against the government.

The sub-amendment moved by the C.C.F. and calling for government control of financial institutions was defeated by a vote of 189 to 23 with the Conservatives voting with the government against the Social Credit and C.C.F. groups.

Sub-amendment was voted first and gave Dr. Manion his first opportunity to take part in a division since he became leader, by a twist of circumstances his first vote was with the government, J. S. Taylor (Ind. Nanaimo) and A. W. Neill (Ind. Comox-Alberni) voted with the government in both divisions.

C.N. Shops for Muntions?

Earlier in the day Hon. J. Earl Lawson(Con. York South) attacked the government on its administration of radio and urged the utilization of C.N.R. shops for manufacture of munitions.

He said equipment for Canada's expanding defence program might be manufactured in the idle and partly idle shops of the C.N.R., providing employment for idle shopmen and reducing the overhead burden of the railway system.

Mr. Lawson urged the appointment of a committee to study his proposal as he admitted he lacked the technical knowledge to determine the extent to which idle railway shop equipment could be used for such a purpose.

Mr. Lawson declared the proposed committee inquiry into radio administration would be useless unless witnesses other than employees of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation were heard. He had left the committee last session because he was not permitted to call witnesses outside of the corporation, and denied access to minutes of the board of governors meetings.

Other speakers in the closing hours of the debate were Hughes Cleaver (Lib. Halton), A. J. Bonnier (Lib. Montreal-St. Henry), Vincent Pottier (Lib. Yarmouth-Shelburne-Clare), Dr. J. K. Blair (Lib. Wellington North) and Gordon Isnor (Lib. Halifax.)

The Building Boom

Mr. Cleaver of the House could contribute to the reduction of unemployment. He said the government had gone as far as it could in encouraging the building industry and it was up to private members to get their home communities to take advantage of the National Housing Act and promote the building of new homes.

Second For Juliana

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Feb. 3.—(AP).—Crown Princess Juliana expects another baby "about the middle of August."

An official statement to-day said she would rest, upon medical advice, "in view of the well-founded hope that the happy event is to be expected about the middle of August."

The Royal family will visit Switzerland late this month.

Princess Juliana married Prince Bernhard in January, 1937, and they have one child, Princess Beatrice, who was a year old Jan. 31.

6 Soviet Aviators Lost In The Arctic May Still Be Alive

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—(CP).—Hope that six Soviet aviators lost in the Arctic after a forced landing 18 months ago may be still alive was advanced to-day by Vilhjalmur Stefansson, noted Canadian explorer, who argues in his newly published book, "Unsolved Mysteries of the Arctic," that members of lost Polar expeditions have been known to survive as long as four years.

The Russian flyers, headed by Sigismund Levaneffsky—the "Soviet Lindbergh," left Moscow for Fairbanks, Alaska, on Aug. 12, 1937. Radio reports show they got along without trouble until they were beyond the North Pole and well on their way toward Alaska.

Stefansson asserts in his book "that the course of the Russian plane lay over a frozen sea" and it is definitely known "that no life had yet been lost in airplanes in any icy part of the Northern sea before Levanesffsky and his colleagues took off from Moscow," although scores of descents, forced or voluntary, had been made.

The explorer, who was born at Arnes, Man., admits the possibility that the plane had already reached the mainland when the accident occurred and that all the members might have been killed in a crash in the Alaskan mountains.

However, on the assumption that the plane made the descent on sea, Stefansson writes that the airmen could last out several years if the icepack did not break up and drift.

to be back in Canada, but showed no great emotion. Two, however, gave vent to their feelings of joy and pranced around the ship in paper hats.

The ex-soldiers of Government Spain wore ill-fitting clothes and berets. The first thing they asked newspapermen who boarded the ship was: "What's the news?"

Major Cecil-Smith said the soldiers were organized into companies on the way over "just for convenience." The companies generally followed provincial lines. One of the Prairie companies he said laughingly, was called the 'Social Credit Group."

"It is pretty different from the last war," he said. "We found the bayonet a thing of the past."

To his mind, improvement in ammunition was one of the features. The rifle, however, had not been improved greatly. The soldiers had used some Bren machine guns.

As the boys prepared for their first Canadian meal—breakfast on the ship—Cecil-Smith said the food in Spain was not too bad. "There were very few days we didn't have a hot meal."

Some carried their world goods in cardboard boxes. Others had the regulation suitcases—a little battered—and one bore an expensive gladstone bag. Most of the men wore ill-fitting foreign-made clothing. Their shoes were more or less uniform—rubber soled.

His Souvenir

One of the gayest was Alex Lewis of Toronto who grinned as someone pointed to the cardboard box he carried for luggage.

"Got your souvenirs in that?" someone asked.

Lewis hesitated, the grin faded and he pointed to his shoulder. "Here's my souvenir," he said and passed on.

Major Cecil-Smith said the news of Barcelona's fall was pretty tough."

One Nova Scotian in the group was 20-year-old Gerald Shea of Glace Bay, who sailed from Vancouver with 11 others under an assumed name to join the government forces. The Canadians were fed regularly, he said, but were given "allowances" instead of pay.

Fred Baxter, of Fredericton, who fought in the great war, is on his way to Toronto to find a job after 19 months in Spain.

His youthful appearance belying his 42 years, Baxter has his right leg criss-crossed by bullet wounds he received on the Aragon and Ebro fronts.

"I went to Spain to kill off as many of them (Fascists) over there as possible; that's all the less to kill when they get here," he said.

Aviation Effective

He found a difference between the 1914-18 conflict and the Spanish civil war. "The last war was an artillery war, this is an aviation war, and I'd say aviation is a damn sight more effective."

Of all aboard, the most overjoyed outwardly was 18-year-old Vincenso Ruggieri of Guelph, Ont., youngest member of the battalion. He wanted to get back to Guelph and didn't mind saying so.

Ruggieri was wounded in the chest but he laughs that off now. "I'm O.K. All I want now is to see my people, have a good rest and get a job. Then, I'll forget all this."

Later with regimental flags stirring in the faint breeze and a Canadian ensign at their head, the Canadians marched down the gangplank and into immigration quarters. They were examined and then passed on to a special train that will reach Toronto Saturday.

Some were willing to talk to reporters and some weren't. The latter feared publicity would bring them only closed doors when they sought their old jobs or searched for new ones.

One Wheeled Off.

Only one was carried off in a wheelchair. He was Edward Potvin, 38, of Edmonton, who was wounded Aug. 30. A bullet entered his left shoulder, passed through to his right side and touched the spinal cord on its way.

All had the same explanation for enlisting. They wanted "to see Spanish democracy victorious." Nearly all would go to war again if it were one affecting democracy — or Canada.

Major Cecil-Smith of Toronto said they got the clothing they wore —including his own—out of Barcelona in trucks the night before insurgents captured the city. He was wearing a dark coat, obviously too tight across the shoulders, and trousers that did not match.

Financier Freed

Clarence Hatry, international financier, the collapse of whose great financial empire in 1929 horrified all Britain and which is credited with bringing on the great Wall Street crash of the same year, has been released from Maidstone prison, according to reports from London. He was sentenced to 14 years' imprisonment in 1930 for forging £1,000,000 worth of securities.

Lindsay Fours Eliminated

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—(CP).—Rinks from Toronto Curling Club and Barrie will meet later to-day in the final round in the Ontario Tankard bonspiel. In the semi-finals this morning the pair of Toronto rinks eliminated two Lindsay rinks by a total 37-16 count and the Barrie curlers defeated a pair of rinks from the Kitchener Curling Club 29-23.

The winning Barrier rinks were skipped by G. O. Cameron and Sol Meredith, the former defeating Bert Hall of Kitchener 14-11 and Meredith skipping his four to 15-12 win over A. E. Dunker.

Hall, skip of Ontario's representative in last season's Macdonald Brier Dominion championship competition, was defeated on the last end in his match with Cameron, the latter scoring four to overcome an 11-10 advantage which the Kitchener rink held at the conclusion of the 14th end.

In the other semi-final, J. M. Rothschild of Toronto, defeated W. Langdon of Lindsay 18-10 and C. R. Redfern downed H. C. Forsyth 19-6.

London and Meaford curlers will meet in the Burden Trophy final, also later to-day, as a result of wins in the semi-finals this morning. The Burden is a consolation trophy for rinks eliminated in the earlier stages of the Tankard play.

Two London rinks, skipped by Dr. J. A. Wright and F. C. Wilson, defeated a pair of rinks from Orangeville 28-14. The losers were skipped by Dr. S. T. White who lost to Dr. Wright 14-8 and C. V. Jeffers who dropped a 14-6 decision to Wilson.

Meaford eliminated Cobourg by a total of 32-25 score, W. Pilgren winning from Judge L. V. O'Connor 16-12 and William Braithwaite defeating W. Potts' Cobourg four 16-13.

Kingston's "Valiant" Lauded By Skillan

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 3.—(C.P.).—Four short plays were presented on last night's program of the Eastern Ontario Drama Fesitval. One was chosen by adjudicator George Skillan for out-and-out commendation; the other three were left—with hardly a word of comment.

The actor-adjudicator labelled as by far the best production" of the night the Kingston Drama group's presentation of "The Valiant." Seldom in his comments at the regional festivals thus far has Mr. Skillan been so lavish in his praise.

He called the play "a very good piece of work altogether" and said its chief appeal for him was the maturity of the acting and the way the Kingston group combined flexibility and reality in their roles. He commended the entire cast and director Thomas G. Adams for their work.

But, of the other three plays—including one written by a Canadian —Mr. Skillan had little or no comment. These were "Such Harmony," written by W. Eric Harris of Sarnia, Ont., and presented by Queen's Dramatic Guild; "To the Dead Man," by the Young Thespians of Belleville;" and "Tails Up," by the Cornwall Dramatic Society.

Mountie Arrested

HALIFAX, Feb. 3—(CP).—Police today held Frank McIntyre, 24-year-old member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police marine section, on a technical charge of committing damage following a fracas last night in the Wolverine hall in downtown Halifax. Officers alleged he flourished knife in one hand and a billiard cue in the other, holding police and crew members at bay. McIntyre was taken into custody after Sergeant MacLellan and Constable Martin enter the club by the rear door and approached him from behind.

Wheat farmers of South Africa are protesting that the new Wheat Control Board has so much red tape that they are getting enmeshed in it.

Five Hurt As Car Shunts 10-Ton Plough 11 Feet

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 3.—(CP)—When the car in which they were riding crashed into the rear end of a standing snowplough on No. 20 highway about five miles west of Smithville early today, five persons, all of Brantford, were injured. The force of the impact was so great that it knocked the plough, weighing more than 10 tons, ahead almost 11 feet.

The injured were attended at the office of Dr. J. H. Leeds, Smithville, and were later taken to their homes in Brantford by a department of highways employee. They were: William J. Mooney, 36, owner and driver of the car, lacerations to head and face, both knees injured; Grace Brooks, 25, leg injuries; Marcella Merrill, 8, severe scalp lacerations and leg injuries; Eva Gillan, 24, head and leg injuries; Grace Chapman, 18, lacerations to head.

The plough was headed east and had been cutting back snow drifts from the shoulder of the highway. The paved portion of the road is entirely clear of snow but was somewhat icy where the accident occured.

Gleaners Class Presents Play

A real treat was in store for a large audience at Mark Street United church last night, when the curtain was rung up on a three-act play entitled "Aunt Tilly Goes to Town," presented by the Gleaners' class. The Sunday school hall was well filled, and those in charge are hoping for an even larger turnout to-night, when the last showing will be given.

The play was well acted and showed signs of expert coaching. Each player took his or her part well, knew the lines to perfection and was familiar with the character being portrayed. It was a finished, polished performance, and one that gave great enjoyment to the audience.

A comedy, the play concerned itself with two spectacular mix-ups. One of these occurred when Aunt Tilly, played by Mrs. H. G. Cheel, picked up the wrong suitcase. The other concerned a Chinese idol that became broken when an unfortunate young man, Marvin Tucker, played capably by Neil Alton, was in the vicinity. It was this young man's misfortune that he was never able to keep out of trouble, and most of the action in the play centered about him.

However, events finally worked out to a successful conclusion, in fact so successful that at the end of the whole affair three marriages were in the offing. The play was directed by Ed Shortt, and was evidence of his ability to get the best possible performance out of each of the actors. The cast included, besides Mrs. Cheel and Mr. Alton, Mrs. E. Austin, H. G. Cheel, Mrs. Gilmour, Rita Wright, Mrs Earl Borland, D'Arcy Windsor, Tommy Parker, Mrs. Hugh Mackey and Mrs. A. Murray. It will be repeated this evening.

Schooner Wreck Costs One Life

CHATHAM, Mass., Feb. 3.—(AP).—One man was lost and eight others were rescued by United States coast guards early to-day when the 135-foot British motor vessel Lutzen went aground in fog on the easterly side of Cape Cod.

The missing man was identified as Baxter Bailey, 28, of Trinity Proper, Newfoundland. He was swept overboard when the Lutzen's dory capsized in rough seas as the crew left the vessel.

A companion, who was pitched into the sea at the same time, saved himself by grasping a rope attached to the Lutzen and hanging on until rescuer. He was the vessel's mate, Newton Halsyard, 33, of St. John's, Newfoundland.

The 135-foot vessel, bound from St. John's under command of Captain R. J. Randell, 34, of St. John's, piled ashore two miles north of Old Harbor coast guard station, near Nauset Beach, at about 1 a.m.

The Old Harbor's surf boat took off the others aboard her: Captain Randell, C. R. Moore, James Gibbons, Arthur Amanson, Frederick Candow, all of St. John's, Joseph Carew, Cape Croyle, New Foundland, and Clayton Pelley, Port Union, New Foundland.

The attacks were part of an intense hostile press campaign provoked by versions of the president's meeting Tuesday with a senate committee, which quoted him as saying that the frontiers of the United States were in France.

(The president today said reports which quoted him as saying either that United States frontiers were in France or were on the Rhine were lies.)

"Since Roosevelt wants to push his offensive into the heart of Europe up to the Rhine and Alps," Gayda wrote in Il Giornale D'Italia, "it is natural that the defence to counterbalance it be extended up to the Rio Grande as well as to the line of the Panama Canal, which has been developed by the United States as one of its bases for manoeuvres between the Atlantic and Pacific."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 3 — (C.P.). — Wheat futures, after a drab session influenced more by lack of offerings than by steadiness on outside markets, to-day closed ¼ cent lower to unchanged, with May at 62⅞, July 63½b, and October 63⅝ to 64.

No export business in Canadian wheat was confirmed and apart from a few minor purchases by mills and Southern interests, operations were routine, and local in character.

Firmer Canadian offers and the sale of two Australian wheat cargoes to Shanghai advanced Liverpool prices early in the day, but disappointing inquiries for wheat checked the rise as English values closed ¼d down to unchanged.

Pastor To Answer Manion's Charge

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 3 — (CP).—Rev. P. D. Cameron, pastor of Egerton Street Baptist Church, said today he would reply on Sunday from his pulpit to an assertion in Parliament by Conservative Leader Manion that a religious service at a plaque in memory of the late Sir Henry Thornton here recently was "sacrilege."

"There was nothing sacrilegious about the service at all," Mr. Cameron said, referring to Dr. Manion's comment that it was held during the recent by-election campaign.

"It was a positive, constructive, and unbiased patriotic message of appreciation of the contribution made by the man, Sir Henry Thornton. I'm sure there was no thought of political purpose behind it."

In his speech yesterday in the House, Dr. Manion said the service was organized for political purposes.

Old Kentucky CIGARETTES

Old Hickory Stick Never Idle Long Enough To Be Dusty Veterans Of Franklin School Say

Eighty-five years ago a log house was built at the top of the Devil's Elbow a high hill on the Cavan-Manvers boundary and the children of the pioneers who cleared the land and settled the section received their early education in this building, the first Franklin School. Ten years later the building was abandoned and another structure built at the foot of the hill, where the present school now stands.

Vivid memories are recalled by a few of the old timers still living near Franklin who acquired knowledge in the little log school house, where Mr Morrow, the teacher held sway with a hickory stick that never was idle long enough to become dusty. The interior of the building was fitted with seats for the pupils. They sat side by side on long planks, and another plank was elevated and set on a slant to form a desk for the slates.

At the front of the room was a blackboard, and there were two windows on each side of the building. To get into their seats the pupils stepped over each plank until they arrived at their proper place. A huge wood stove was placed in the centre of the room, and fed with maple sticks four feet long.

Bear Invades School

One day the 27 pupils had a happy time when they arrived ahead of the teacher and on looking through the window discovered a large black bear wandering around the room. Bruin beat a retreat when the pupils and dogs set up a clamor and the job of being educated proceeded apace.

Each pupils owned a reader and slate and studying was done out loud, the pupils gluing their eyes on the reader and droning away like a hive of bees while the Master paraded up and down with hickory stick aloft ever ready to whack the shoulders of anyone who lagged or nodded. Later the Master acquired a whip and as there was no clock in the room, noon hour was announced by three strokes on the door with the whip. Mrs. Staples of Bethany recalls that Mr. Middleton succeeded Mr. Morrow and Dr. J. J. Tilley, the inspector made two trips a year to the hall of learning.

The log school soon became inadequate to house the ever increasing number of pupils, and the settlers decided a school on the brow of the high hill was exposed to the elements more than was necessary so chose a site at the base of the slope. A short distance west of the Manvers boundary on the 11th concession half an acre of ground was purchased from a Mr. Fallis. The section extended from the farm now owned by D. Lowes on the south to the Emily-Manvers boundary on the north. The building was of brick and according to reliable records was built three quarters of a century ago.

The children played in the hollow just east of the building and when they needed a drink of water went to the well on the farm of Mr. Lee. A few years later a well was sunk on the school property. There was no fence to mark the boundaries of the school yard and the children had plenty of room for recreation. Maple trees planted in the early days are now mature and thriving shade trees on the property.

Attendance Irregular

Sixty-five years ago, there were 80 pupils but many came to school in the Winter months only, this being particularly true of the older girls and boys. The style of teaching remained the same, fear ruled the classroom, and the three R's were drilled into the students to the tune of the hickory stick. Spare the rod and spoil the pupil was apparently the motto of the school teachers, one of whom was heard to remark to a troublesome urchin one day, "I'd lick you if you were as small as my thumb or as big as Goliath."

Rev. Mr. McMullen was the first teacher to add a little music to the daily routine, but volume rather than tone was the keynote of the music, and if the pupils sang lustily the teacher was satisfied. The Christmas concert was the highlight of the year, and the time when proud parents came to watch their children parade across the stage to sing or recite.

Stumps Are Removed

Twenty years after the school was built the trustees hired John McCrory to use his stumping machine in removing about thirty large stumps that dotted the school yard. Work proceeded and the pupils marvelled at this invention which made a hard task easy. In 1908 a stone foundation was put under the building, new brickwork was done and a new floor laid and other improvements carried out to keep abreast of the times.

Enquiries reveal that the families living in the district when the first school was built included the following, Robt. and Raf. Lee, Wm. Boggs, Bigelows, Griffins, Murphy's, Lowes, Blackstocks, Grahams, Andersons, Whites, Fallis, Jamesons, Windrims, Veals, McGuires, Woods, Lytles, Pritchards, Thompsons, O'Briens, Twiggs, Cairns, McCrorys, Moores and McMasters.

34 Teachers Served

Teachers who have taught at the school since it started besides those already mentioned included, Mr. Pritchard, Edward Hart, Mr. Keeley, Rev. Jas. McMullen, I. Graham, Thos. Kennedy, Herman Hart, James Berry, who later entered the ministry, and John Green who also became a clergyman, Ferdinand Gillis, Dr. Arthur Jameson now of Millbrook, Miss Ida Staples, Thos. Trent River Ladies' Aid Raised $443 During Past Year

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 3—The annual meeting of the United church congregation was held Wednesday night. Owing to bad roads, there was not a large attendance. Rev. A. McLauchlin, pastor, was in charge with Mr. R. W. Umphrey acting as secretary.

The Sunday School report was given by Mr. Umphrey. A aotal attendance of 3,194; collection of $91,20; and 110 on roll was reported.

An excellent account of the year's activities of the Ladies' Aid was sent in by the treasurer, Mrs. Thomas K. Thompson, and read by Mrs. Thomas J. Brown. This report was the best one given for some time. Receipts totalled $443.63; expenditures, $369.41 (including $110.00 paid recently to the church board of management), leaving a balance of $74.22. The members are planning to have the interior of the church redecorated, and with a healthy balance on hand, they feel encouraged to continue on with renewed efforts to have the work done this year.

Session Report

Rev. A. McLauchlin gave the session report. There are 90 families connected with the church, with 114 members. Members of the session revised the session list on Wednesday and it is thought advisable to elect a clerk of the session, who is required to keep a record, which is to be submitted to the Presbytery yearly.

The Young People's Society report was incomplete owing to irregularities of meetings held during the year. However, the meetings have been resumed with a newly-appointed executive.

R. W. Umphrey, the church treasurer, reported the total receipts $1,090.16, (including envelopes, $385.31). Total expenditures, $1,075—with a balance of $14.48.

John Ruttan gave the auditors' report.

Mr Ruttan, as teacher of the Young Men's Class, (organized), reported $31.34 receipts, and expenditures of $24.46. Mrs. Gordon Shearer, teacher of the King's Daughters Class, gave a verbal report including collections of $19.33.

Election of Officers

For stewards three were eligible for re-election. Those elected were Mrs. H. B. Wood, Fred Longmuir and Harold Thompson For elders, two were eligible for re-election, Mrs. Bert Robson and K. Watters both were returned for three years. Mrs. John Scott was appointed to replace Mrs. Frank Davidson, who has moved to Campbellford.

Members of the parsonage trustee board remain the same, George Van Volkenburg, G. Shaver and John Lawson (Hon. trustee) R. W. Umphrey, who has served faithfully the office of treasurer for three years, expressed his desire to resign. A successor will be appointed during the month. Envelope steward, Mrs. Thomas J. Brown.

The meeting closed with the benediction by Rev. A. McLauchlin.

SNAKE FALLS IN MOTOR CAR

Driving peacefully along a road in the district of Tondern, Germany, a motorist was hit on the head by a snake, evidently dropped by a flying bird, the reptile sliding into his lap, then to the floor, where the man knocked it unconscious and took it to a zoo.

LONDON, Feb. 3—(CP Cable). — Sir Reginald Dorman-Smith, newly-appointed minister of agriculture, received the seals of office from the King at Buckingham Palace today while British farmers studied his parliamentary promise of direct, swift action to restore prosperity to the agricultural industry.

Making his first speech from the treasury bench in the House of Commons last night, Sir Reginald made it clear that his general policy would take the line of guaranteed prices, or "price insurance" as he preferred to call it.

Under this system, which is already in effect on milk, wheat, and bacon, the gap between market price and the set price is filled by the government. The Canadian government follows th same system for wheat.

Sir Reginald, who is a former president of the National Farmers' Union, succeeded W. S. Morrison in the pre-sessional cabinet reshuffle. For months the government's farm policy had been assailed from scores of platforms in agricultural communities. In appointing Sir Reginald, prime minister Chamberlain in effect gave the farmers' union which had been leading the criticism, a free hand to see what it could do.

Barley and Sheep First

It is generally expected the new minister will institute "price insurance" for barley and sheep as one of his first moves. He mentioned these products as illustrating the violent price fluctuations he wishes to prevent.

A few hours before Sir Reginald spoke a delegation of 1,000 farm folk marched along the Thames embankment carrying placards urging the government to "save agriculture." A bigger demonstration had been planned but Sir Reginald's appointment dampened enthusiasm for it.

In the House, the minister said there is no more important task "than that of ensuring that under all circumstances there will be adequate supplies of food in times of emergency."

However heroic they might be, he said, no people could fight on empty stomachs.

Should Make It Plain

The administrator of relief in Etobicoke township, which adjoins the northwestern section of Toronto, made a tour of beverage rooms in the evening following the day when relief cheques had been issued.

The inspector admitted the bad weather may have kept the attendance down but he and the two police who accompanied him found that one-third of the number of patrons were individuals who were securing relief from the township.

Presumably the same thing has been going on for some time because it is not at all likely that just at this particular time these individuals would all develop the habit of going to the beverage rooms to spend relief money.

There is a quick and certain method of dealing with such a situation and one of two things should happen:

Whether the same thing is going on elsewhere we do not know, but people who are accepting money for relief should be given to understand that funds which are contributed to by all sections of the community are to be used for purchasing necessary articles and not to satisfy the appetites of those who desire beer for which they themselves cannot pay.

Such people are apt to put the whole system of relief into disrepute; they make it harder for honest people who are making a proper and legitimate use of the relief they receive; they make it difficult for those who by their own efforts and planning have managed to stay off relief. It should be established in letters a foot high if necessary that the general public when putting up money for relief purposes is not contributing one red cent for the buying of beer, wine, or any such thing.

Answer This Question

A traffic officer noticed a car being driven at great speed on the highway north of Toronto, so he followed. At times he had to step up to 80 miles an hour to keep the car in sight. When he overtook the vehicle two passengers jumped out and ran up a farm lane. In the end two young fellows were arrested, and they are charged with stealing a car and stealing gasoline.

But there was something else. The officer found two .38-calibre revolvers fully loaded. The young fellows who were arrested gave their names and said they came from Kitchener; their ages were 17 and 19.

Above all else we would like to see a full statement explaining where these youths secured two .38 revolvers and the shells to go with them. That we believe would be as useful as anything which might be told about the theft of a car or the stealing of some gas to make it go. The reason for having particular interest in the manner of securing these revolvers is this: Weapons of that nature cannot be purchased on the same basis as one secures a pair of shoes or a suit of clothes. It is not possible to go into a hardware store and tell the man there you want a revolver.

In the first place it is necessary to make application to the headquarters of Provincial police in Toronto, stating reasons why the individual considers he should be allowed to own or carry a weapon. Then the application is forwarded to the chief of police in the applicant's community and it is his duty to check up and return a report on the would-be purchaser. On the report of the local police will depend whether you get a revolver or are refused the right of purchase. If the report is favorable then a permit is forwarded from the Provincial police office and that in turn is taken to the hardware man who secures the weapon from the wholesale. The Examiner in making inquiries on this matter was informed by several dealers that they did not believe there was a revolver in any of the stores here as they are no longer kept in stock.

That is the reason for the question: Where did these two youths from Kitchener come into possession of two .38 revolvers, fully loaded? Is there some traffic in arms on which the police have not yet placed their hand? There are many — too many — revolvers in the country and they are not being carried by people who have secured permits, neither have they registered their weapons with the authorities. There should be plain insistence that these young men tell definitely and accurately where and how they came into possessions of weapons. That knowledge is of more importance than finding out when and how they stole a motor car—something which is already known.

Germany Makes Use Of It

Making a statement is one thing, and having all the people understand it the same way is another. A good enough example of that is apparent in the recent pronouncements of President Roosevelt in which he apparently meant to convey the impression that the democracies of the world were prepared to stand together, and his remarks were as much addressed to Germany and Italy as though they had been placed in an envelope and addressed there.

France and Britain were pleased with the text of the Roosevelt idea. Germany and Italy were not.

So what do the clever propagandists of Germany do with the Roosevelt address? They begin at once to make it serve their own purpose. They were at their business shortly after the message was released to the world. They were in fact starting to tell their people something like this: "Now we have another enemy against us. United States is ready to launch an attack and therefore we must become more prepared; we must have more planes, a greater navy and a greater army if we are to be safe."

That is exactly the interpretation which is placed on the Roosevelt message in Germany, although the United States president had no intention of starting war against Germany or Italy. His message was admittedly plain talk, but by the time it reached the German people and was interpreted as official Germany wanted it done it had become an open threat of attack upon the land of the Nazis.

Would Rather Go To Jail

When Magistrate Walker opened court at Walkerton he found half a dozen young men there. One case was rather unusual. George Haugh, 18 years of age, was charged with being a vagrant. That is, he had no visible means of support. According to the evidence this young man came from a farm not far removed from the Walkerton district, but for some time he has been "on the road." The Magistrate inquired why he did not go back and stay and work with his father, and the reply was this:

"I would rather go to jail than work on the farm."

The result was he was sent to jail for 30 days, and we cannot understand for a moment why any normal young man of 18 years wants to stay in jail instead of being on a farm.

Nor can we entirely agree that the likes or dislikes or the whims and fancies of such a young man should be the last word in determining what he is going to do. It may be it exemplifies in the last degree the working out of the principle of democracy and what some theorists may refer to as self determination, but it also gives this young man of 18 an opportunity to say that he shall become a bill of expense on the county for the next 30 days, and that he shall refuse to go to work on a farm for the shallow reason that he does not like working on a farm.

The Examiner is well aware of the fact that in this country we place a great deal of emphasis on the liberty of the individual, but it is also plain as a pikestaff that when a young man of 18 who could go and work on his father's farm elects to live in jail or wandering around the country getting his meals by asking other people for them he is not having much regard for the liberty of the community in general. If a young man who does not want to work on a farm prefers to spend his time in jail then there should be a woodpile and a saw horse there and he should be introduced to such equipment and made to turn in a good day's work at it.

The Right Kind Of Speech

R. W. Gladstone, M.P. for South Wellington, spoke in the House of Commons; he is a Liberal in political affiliation and a manufacturer in Guelph by occupation. Mr. Gladstone was not interrupted by the Speaker to inform him his 40 minutes had elapsed because he was through in half that time, and we regard his address as the best given in the House for a good many days because he was saying something that the people of the country, regardless of their political preferences would want said.

The man from Guelph did not believe that wider markets would cure the trouble we face in Canada because there was so much overhead and so much taxation and so much cost of government that the price to the consumer of manufactured goods was being driven beyond the consumer's ability or willingness to pay. He put his conclusion this way:

"High costs of production will shut us out of export markets. Well, what are we going to do about it? If we follow the course of the last session we will talk and talk. We talk so much about minor matters that there is little time or place for business-like consideration of the larger issues."

Touching on some of these important matters which have been shoved here and there for years, Mr. Gladstone went straight at the matter this way:

"The great railway problem is almost taboo in the house except when we are called upon to absorb the annual deficit of about $50,000,000 of the Canadian National Railways. Let me make it clear that my observations and criticisms throughout are intended to apply to all governments over the long past and not only to the government of the day."

Worth remembering right here that Mr. Gladstone is a member of the government which he was criticizing. He was not at all enamored with the idea of it being announced that the Post Office department was operating on a surplus basis, when the department provided none of its own buildings, paid nothing for interest, heat, janitor service or repairs, and he was not impressed by the manner in which new government buildings were being erected. We quote:

"There are government offices in Ottawa where one official occupies as much space as the general manager of three or four large industrial organizations I could name. If we listened with our good ear we ought to be able to hear the demand coming from every part of Canada for lowering the cost of government. The protest is not only against too many members in federal or provincial houses; it is as much and possibly more against the multitude of employees, clerks, stenographers, inspectors, supervisors, technicians and others developing and carrying on practically identical services in many of the centres of government."

Coming to the suggestive side of his argument, Mr. Gladstone was certain there should be more work for the private members of the House. He said: "Somewhere our system is wrong. It lends itself to too much speaking and not enough business-like deliberation. This has been true of all governments regardless of what party was in power." And in that contention the man from Wellington was so right that there is not room for argument. He spent no time at all trying to have it recorded that the Liberal party was all right and the Conservative party all wrong. He saw each party making the same blunders in succeeding years, and he saw the people of the country desiring relief from excessive government machinery and costs. If we interpret the thing correctly Mr. Gladstone wants parliament to operate on a business basis the same as any other concern which has to seriously face the question of making it pay or else going out of business. It was just such a speech that the country has been waiting for.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Hitler has a sister-in-law living in London and her first name is Bridget. If Mr. Chamberlain with his umbrella cannot make Hitler behave it might be well to send Bridget.

Toronto man is in trouble because he raised a $2 bill to make it a $20 one. His defence was that he had done nothing, only he seems to have done it in the wrong place.

Answer to Inquirer: If you are writing a letter to a member of parliament during the time the House is in session it is not necessary to put a postage stamp on your envelope.

One Canadian fighting with the loyalists in Spain has found that his cousin is in the Franco army. Those chaps could have saved a great many miles of travel by staying at home and fighting it out.

It cost Detroit $70,000 to remove the snowfall of one week. In our days on the Tenth Concession a heavy snow fall was considered a splendid covering for the winter wheat, and also good for the clover.

Toronto police chasing a man for stealing a car found him hiding under a bed. Those police in the big town must be up and coming fellows, otherwise how would they ever have thought to look under a bed?

Methods of vivid description are developed at an early age. We listened to one lad of 12 years or so telling of some lady who evidently did not rank high in his affection. This way: "She looks like a worm might look if the worm ever growed up."

A man in Sherbrooke, father of 27 children, all living, attended the 24th wedding of members of his family. If this gentleman has all the grandchildren sitting on his knee he had better get himself made over into something like a hat rack.

TEA

(By A.R.K.)

¶ My Aunt Lucile's a thrifty soul, who sinks in no financial hole, she pays for what she'll get; she's careful every working day, and rather makes a boast to say, she never goes in debt.

¶ When Aunt Lucile goes to the store, she knows just what she's looking for, she picks out things with care; she knows the prices they should charge, can tell at once if they're too large, she smiles when they are fair.

¶ When Aunt Lucile comes home with tea, she works it harder than should be, of tea she drinks a lot; the teapot sits upon the range, and when she craves a little change, adds water to the pot.

¶ If folks drop in to have a chat, to keep the day from sounding flat, the tea cups come out soon; she stops from all her little chores, but then I know the tea she pours, was what she made at noon.

¶ She does not waste the tea leaves then, when she can get no more from them, nor fling them from the door; she sprinkles them both here and there, around the sofa and the chair, then sweeps the parlor floor.

¶ I'm sure the man who sells her tea, is not as rich as he should be, finances none too strong; and Aunt Lucile don't help a lot, the way she nurses on that pot—and makes it last so long.

Who Is Making This Address?

From Parliamentary Reports

In case the reader may have a little difficulty in telling who is supposed to be making the speech—or in other words who "has the floor"—it might be mentioned in advance that Mr. Glen is the gentleman who is supposed to have been making an address in the debates at Ottawa:

Mr. COLDWELL: May I ask what the hon. member proposes to do about these problems?

Mr. GLEN: I stated at the beginning that I was dealing with the proposals and the platform of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, and I am asking for their explanation of their own platform. I am not sure they can give it, but I shall be very glad to hear it if they would.

Mr. COLDWELL: I think the hon. gentleman has heard the explanation of these proposals in the house from time to time.

Mr. WALSH: May I ask the hon. member a question?

Mr. DEPUTY SPEAKER: Order. The hon. member may ask a question only with the permission of the hon. gentleman who has the floor.

Mr. GLEN: What is the question?

Mr. WALSH: I would ask the hon. member if he subscribes to any one or to all of the suggestions he has just read.

Mr. GLEN: My viewpoint is very well known, but I am dealing now with the platform of the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation, and asking the members of that party to explain their program as they have laid it down.

The total cost of these proposals cannot be computed, of course, because a great many of them would be estimates only; but I think I am within the mark in saying that at least $500,000,000 more would have to be ingathered by the Minister of Finance (Mr. Dunning) in order to meet these proposals; and if the revenue of to-day is not great enough to carry the country's expenditures, what possible hope is there that these things can be carried out by the government of the day?

Mr. POOLE: Could these proposals not be financed by the method suggested by the Minister of National Defence (Mr. Mackenzie) in Vancouver, by the issuance of $500,000,000 in currency?

Mr. EULER: You could not do that every year, could you?

Mr. GLEN: Unless the hon. member for Weyburn (Mr. Douglas) obtains the fountain pen of Mr. Aberhart in order to create the money, I do not know where it is to come from.

Mr. COLDWELL: The pen of the Minister of National Defence, or the Prime Minister's

Mr. GLEN: I find one very serious omission, Mr. Speaker, in this program of the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation. I do not find in it anything with regard to the socialization of land. I know that is rather a delicate question so far as the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation are concerned, but with such high minds and pure motives they will surely let the country know, as it is entitled to know, definitely and concretely, where the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation do stand on the question of the socialization of land.

Mr. COLDWELL: If the hon. gentleman wants an answer, I shall give it to him. We do not believe in the socialization of land because it is not a monopoly.

Mr. BOTHWELL: When did you strike it out of your platform?

Mr. COLDWELL: It never was in.

Mr. GLEN: I understand that the leader of the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation would call himself a socialist. I do not think he would deny that, and as I understand socialism one of the fundamental and intergral parts of the program of socialism is the socialism of land. It has been said that there are only two sources of wealth, land and labour, and some would add capital; but I know this, that from the land all things come and to the land all things must go I have asked on the platform in the Brandon by-election, and on many platforms in Manitoba, for the reason why the socialist party in this House of Commons have not in their platform the socialization of land.

Mr. COLDWELL: I have answered the question now.

Mr. GLEN: Is it because there is a disunity of thought within the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation party?

Mr. COLDWELL: No.

Mr. GLEN: I do recall this, that when the platform of the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation was being drawn at Regina, the hon. member for Grey-Bruce (Miss Macphail) was present with her delegates from Ontario; and it is commonly said and alleged that when the question of the socialization of land was being proposed to be incorporated in the platform, she indicated that if it was incorporated she would retire with the delegation from Ontario. I know that in other and subsequent conferences of the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation the same proposition has been put forward and they took the excuse, as given a moment ago by the hon. member for Rosetown-Biggar (Mr. Coldwell), that because it was not a monopoly they did not include it in their platform.

Mr. COLDWELL: Not an excuse—the reason.

Mr. GLEN: May I suggest this, that there is so much disunity within the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation party with regard to this particular question, that from the political standpoint they dare not put it there or they would lose the votes of the farmers.

Mr. COLDWELL: May I ask the hon. member a question? Does he not think it inadvisable—

Some hon. MEMBERS: Order.

Mr. DEPUTY SPEAKER: I cannot allow this unless the hon. member who is now speaking gives permission.

• About Getting There On Time

A woman juror reported 22 minutes late in a Brooklyn trial the other day. The judge looked into the record, found she had been late every morning of the hearing, and so declared a mistrial. The woman said she felt "terribly" about it all, but what with getting breakfast for the family and seeing to her young son's cold she had missed the train. The judge reminded her of the waste of time says the Ottawa Journal, and money caused by her conduct and—what a punishment!—ordered her name struck from the jury lists of Brooklyn.

But really was there anything surprising in the fact of a woman assuming a court would wait for her? There seems to be a tacit understanding that a woman never is "on time" for an appointment. If she says she will meet her husband at Blank's at 4.30 to look at rugs usually there is a mental reservation, understood on both sides, that she may not appear before 4.45 or 5.00. This is so much a matter of course that the subject ranks among the stock jokes.

It does not begin to tell the whole story, however. In the matter of appointments men cannot pat themselves on the back and say they are without fault. Perhaps the woman chronically late has learned the habit from a husband who says he will be home to dinner at six and, detained by a couple of old friends, wanders in happily at a quarter to seven—or telephones that he has to work late at the office.

The fact is men have such a bad record in this respect that they are in no position to throw stones. Everybody who has had much to do with courts has known of trials delayed and busy men put to great inconvenience because lawyers—and even judges—were not present at the appointed time. Men as often as women, we would think, are late for appointments with their doctors or dentist, their lawyer—as many men as women are late for church.

So let us have a fellow feeling for this embarrassed woman of Brooklyn. There, but for the accident of geography, might be any one of us!

• Borrowing Money From Uncle

IN A LETTER published in the Star on January 26, "F. B. C." complains that there is what he calls propaganda about the deficits of the Canadian National Railways. He states, I believe accurately, writes Dalton Little in the Montreal Star that the C. N. R. has never shown a deficit on its operating expenses, but he is not accurate when he implies that it is not known that the annual railway deficit arises from the interest on the railway debt. Anyone who has a superficial acquaintance with the railway problem knows that it is the necessity for meeting interest on the debt that creates the problem. Any surplus hat the system can show after meeting operating expenses in any year relieves the taxpayer, by that amount, of what he must contribute towards the interest payments. In two years, 1926 and 1928, the operating surplus was sufficient to take care of interest on that part of the debt held by the public. In all other years since the system was established, the operating surplus has been inadequate.

The problem is perhaps more understandable if we reduce the scale from the hundreds of millions involved in C. N. R. accounting to something nearer an average citizen's comprehension. Suppose I buy a business for $10,000, borrowing the money at 5 per cent. As I have no assets myself, I persuade my rich uncle to endorse my note. At the end of the year, after paying my rent, clerks' wages, and other operating expenses, I find I have an operating surplus of $400. But the bank wants its $500 interest in full, so again I have to call on my uncle to put up another $100. It is quite irrelevant from the point of view of either the bank or my uncle for me to point with pride to my $400 operating surplus. It is equally irrelevant for me to contend that the business was not worth the $10,000 paid for it.

For a few years my uncle might be content to let the situation alone meeting the deficits without complaint. But then he would tire of the continual drain on his resources, and would begin to examine the details of the business to discover if there was some way of putting increasing revenue or decreasing expenses.

The Canadian taxpayer, who has unwillingly been cast in the role of rich uncle to the C. N. R. is surely justified in demanding a careful examination of the whole railway situation to discover what can be done to improve it. There is nothing unfriendly to the C. N. R. in such a demand. If the annual deficits can be reduced or eliminated, it is worth while to make the attempt. The result will be to the benefit of C. N. R. employes as well as the general public.

CITIZEN'S GROUP FOR RAILWAY ACTION.

Secretary-Treasurer.

• Ten Points Worth Knowing

1.—That one of the surest ways to invite death is to run your automobile motor in the garage with the doors closed? Deadly carbon monoxide gas is invisible, odorless, tasteless.

2.—That open flames should never be used to thaw frozen pipes inside of any building? Wrap the frozen pipe with cloth and pour hot water on it until the ice gives way.

3.—That 97 of every 100,000 babies meet with a fatal accident before they are one year old? Chief causes are mechanical suffocation, burns, scalds, poisonings and fire.

4.—That since the days are shorter this time of year, chances of traffic accidents are increased? Two-thirds of traffic deaths occur at night. Increase your caution.

5.—That most cases of asphyxiation and suffocation occur in winter? Furnaces and heaters give off injurious gases. Heavy blankets are put on sleeping babies. Learn the Prone Pressure Method of Resuscitation. It will pay big dividends.

6.—That the area of skin burn is of far more seriousness than the depth? Dangers to life from burns are (1) severity of the pain, (2) loss of fluid and (3) absorption by the blood stream of products of tissue destruction.

7.—That hot ashes, coals and open fires cause millions of dollars of fire destruction each year, as well as a heavy toll in death and painful injury? Use metal receptacles for ashes and a screen for the fire place. A little spark can start a big fire.

8.—That the worst period for colds starts this month and continues until Spring? Don't let your resistance run down, wear proper clothing, stay out of drafts, see your doctor at the first symptoms. Get plenty of sleep, drink plenty of water.

9.—That turning the wheels of your automobile in the direction of a skid will whip you out of the skid? Better still, drive slowly so you won't skid.

10.—That rubbing a frozen part of the body is apt to damage the tissues and result in gangrene? If the hand is frozen, hold it next to the skin in the arm pits or between the thighs. Or the frozen part may be thawed gradually in snow, cool air or water. Keep away from the fire and warmly heated rooms. Rubbing with snow is especially bad.

• Bravery Has Not Perished.

WHENEVER we get a bit discouraged about the human race, says the Buffalo Courier-Express, something like the Cavalier episode comes along to restore our confidence in the courage, unselfishness and innate decency of the individual beings making up that race. We constantly are hearing that the old human race isn't what it used to be—that part thereof is hardening into savagery and another part thereof softening into decadence. But the story of the Cavalier says that such talk simply isn't so.

When the big flying boat fell into the stormy Atlantic and was smashed by its impact against the waves, the first thought of each of the thirteen persons aboard seemed to be for his or her comrades in mortal peril. After the wreckage of the boat had gone down and three men had been swept to death, the attitude of the ten survivors, clinging to the precarious raft which they had fashioned by joining their life preservers together in a "daisy chain," was "all for one and one for all."

Individual acts of heroism were plentiful. When the flying craft hit the water, the captain gave his life preserver to a woman passenger She reciprocated by holding him above water for hours after he had lost consciousness. When the rescue tanker Baytown appeared, after another ship had passed without discerning the survivors, the radio officer of the Cavalier left the lifebelt raft to swim out in an effort to guide the rescuers. Behind him splashed a brother-officer seeking to frighten away sharks.

But it was a spontaneous act of collective courage that saved the lives of the ten. The lifeboat from the tanker was guided to the rescue by the voices of the survivors bravely raised in song.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Let not your heart be troubled: Ye believe in God, believe also in me. . . . If ye love me, keep my commandments. . . . He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me; and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him. . . .

As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you: continue ye in my love. If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love.—John xiv, 1, 15, 21; xv, 9, 10.

✧ ✧ ✧

And this commandment have we from him, That he who loveth God love his brother also.—I John iv, 21.

ON EXTRA TIME.

From Hansard

Mr. DEPUTY SPEAKER: I regret to interrupt the hon. member, but I must remind him that he has spoken for forty minutes.

Mr. LOCKHART: May I have just a minute or two to finish?

Mr. DEPUTY SPEAKER: With the unanimous consent of the house.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Go on.

Mr. LOCKHART: I say that $300,000 has been expended on the armoury in Hull, which someone has described as a glorified club room. I was not there, but I have been talking to men who were present at the opening on Saturday last. Well, I suppose there will be no relief in Hull now, but I suggest that it would have been a great deal better to build one thousand working men's homes in Canada at $3,000 each than to put all the eggs in one basket. It creates an overhead when you erect buildings of that kind.

Mr. MACDONALD (Brantford City): What about the armouries in Calgary?

Mr. LOCKHART: There are some armoury buildings on the way, I understand.

Mr. MACDONALD (Brantford City): What about the old British flag-waving?

Mr. LOCKHART: That is all right; some of my hon. friends may be waving it yet.

Mr. MACDONALD (Brantford City): We shall be glad to wave it.

Mr. LOCKHART: The hon. member for Brantford City (Mr. Macdonald) would be wise if he did wave the flag because he comes from a very patriotic city.

Mr. MACDONALD (Brantford City): I say we shall be glad to wave it.

SIDESHOW.

We know a girl who has spent the past three months having some very intricate bridgework installed. The last time she visited the dentist, for a final checkup, he told her, with a good deal of embarrassment, that he had a great favor to ask her.

Seems he was so proud of the job that he wanted to exhibit it at a dental clinic. The girl amiably agreed to appear, and says now that it was really lots of fun. She sat on a platform with three or four other dentally notable people, opening her mouth for all comers.

"Do you mind?" they would say, and she'd say, "Not at all." Then they would produce pocket flashlights and peer in at her teeth, with little cries of admiration. This girl says she'd never had any other feeling just like it. — (New Yorker)

Parsonage At West Huntingdon Is Damaged By Blaze

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Feb. 3—What might have been a serious blaze was prevented by prompt action of neighbors residing in the vicinity of West Huntingdon United Church parsonage, when flames, orignating from a blazing chimney, threatened to get out of control.

Helpers rushed to the parsonage, and after fifteen minutes battle with the blaze, succeeded in reducing it, but not before some damage was done to the upper part of the building.

The parsonage is occupied by the Rev. W. R. Tristram and family.

Pulp Moving Out

Balsam, spruce and poplar, more familarly known to lumbermen as pulpwood is being shipped out of the northern municipalities of Hastings County in larger quantities this year than for some time, according to Reeves William and Joseph Davis of Monteagle and Bangor townships respectively.

American markets, to which a large percentage of the pulp is being shipped, favor the fifty-two inch length while the home markets want their pulpwood cut in forty-four inch lengths.

One farmer in the Monteagle township district has this season already, cut and shipped three carloads of pulpwood, single-handed, while others are changing work in order to facilitate cutting and shipping.

23 Inches of Snow

In the summary of the weather statistics for the month of January, a total of 23.7 inches of snow was recorded, while the total precipitation was 3.23 inches, being .17 inches below the monthly average of 3.40 inches. The highest temperature for the month was 47 degrees, recorded on the 5th; and the lowest temperature of 27 below zero was recorded on the 27th of the month. Precipitation was recorded on 24 days of the month.

Roads Still Heavy

Roads through this section are still very heavy and even large trucks have found difficulty in breaking through and many drivers declared that it was only with the aid of shovels and in some cases the passing tractor that they were enabled to make the trip. Overnight snow and a moderate rain on Thursday increased the hazards of motoring in this district.

Trainman Hurt

F. Bolton, who was until last week, a member of the local C.N.R. train crew, was slightly injured when he fell while switching cars at Strathcona. His injuries, were, however, of a minor nature.

Miss Their Train

CERBERE, France, Feb. 3.—(CP). —The Spanish government last night sent a trainload of 19 members of its disbanded international brigade into France by way of Cerebere but 99 Canadians among them were too late to catch their boat home.

The Canadians missed a train which would have connected them with the Liner Duchess of Atholl, sailing this week-end from Great Britain.

Elevator Strike Hits New York

The spirit was willing but the dainty "puppies" of these girls couldn't take it when they decided to walk up to their destination in a New York skyscraper after elevator operators had walked out on strike. Three hundred buildings in the midtown area of the city are affected by the walkout.

Mother Gets Break To Enter U.S. Legally

DETROIT, Feb. 3 — (CP). — Mrs. Margaret McKinnon, 35, formerly of Sydney, N.S., was given a 30-day extension today to enable her to remain in the United States legally.

Mrs. McKinnon entered the United States illegally in 1935 and married. Her husband, Canadian-born, had taken out his United States papers, but they did not include his wife. He died.

She visited Windsor relatives to attend a funeral and when returning to Detroit, they refused her admission. She became frantic and she told authorities she would die rather than remain away from her four children, who were in Detroit.

Mayor David C. Croll intervened and had United States authorities admit her until she could get citizenship papers.

101 Years On Tuesday

BRANTFORD, Ont., Feb. 3 — (CP). — Mrs. Mary Mattice of Jarvis will celebrate her 101st birthday on Tuesday.

"Since the telephones came in," said Mrs. Mattice, "people aren't nearly as sociable as they used to be. In the old days people used to take their work and go visiting with their neighbors. They liked each other's company and companionship. Now instead of visiting you they just give you a ring on the telephone and talk for a few minutes."

Chosen Cinderella

Janetville Congregational Meet Shows Church In Fine Condition

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Feb. 3—The 77th annual congregational meeting of the Janetville United church, took place in the church on Tuesday evening, when, despite snow-filled roads, a goodly number was present, and enjoyed the pot luck supper provided by the ladies

Rev. M. A. Bury presided for the business session, which opened with the hymn "Faith of Our Fathers." Mrs. M. Armstrong was appointed secretary.

Mr. Bury reported that all regular services had been held during the year, except one during the icy spell in February. There were eight deaths, one marriage and two baptisms. A moment of silence was observed in tribute to the departed. There are 135 members on the roll, with 20 non-resident members.

A vocal trio was rendered at this time by Don and Jim Burn and Billie Armstrong, accompanied by Miss Bessie Howe.

Sam Stinson, envelope steward, reported the total receipts of the year to be $1,200.33.

Treasury Has Balance

The church treasurer, Mrs. R. J. Burn, reported a balance on hand of $46.34, which will be applied to a note in the spring.

R. J. Burn, treasurer of the Sunday School, reported $152.92 as total receipts, with a balance of $6.47.

The W.M.S. reported a membership of 25, who raised and sent their allocation of $90.00. A bale, valued at $100, was also sent to the West.

Mrs. Bury reported the Mission Band as having 12 members, and $10 sent away last year.

The Y.P.U., under the presidency of Mrs. P. Hamilton, had 42 paid members, and out of their total receipts of $34.78, $21.00 was donated to the church board.

Mrs. A. Heaslip, treasurer of the W.A., had a most gratifying report. The receipts for the year were $664.85, which included $151.40 from the fowl dinner; $123.50, sale of baking at the lake; and $112.00 from the sale of cook books.

The W.A. has a balance on hand of $171.44.

Miss Bessie Howe was appointed organist and choir leader with Mr. P. Hamilton to assist as leader. All the other officers were re-elected. The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer.

HIGHEST IN HISTORY

FREDERICTON — (CP). — Production of 4,440,558 pounds of butter in New Brunswick last year was the largest in the province's history. Cheese production amounted to 549,427 pounds, a slight decrease from the previous year.

Information About The Canadian Young Men Sought By Y's Men's Club Of Melbourne

A club whose members are apparently of an inquiring bent of mind is the Y's Men's Club of Melbourne, Australia.

At last night's dinner meeting of the Peterborough Y's Men a letter was read that would give such indication. The secretary of the club "down under" said he had already written to more than half the branches of the club in the world, hoped to reach all of them.

He asked that members correspond with the Melbourne club, and he listed the information desired. He asked that all available tourist literature be sent, so that members might know the country; that copies of the local paper be sent, so that members would be able to see how the news is presented to the general public in this country; that Y's Men's activities be forwarded; and that general Y.M.C. literature be included. He particularly asked that information be given as to what the young men of Canada are thinking, what they are saying, about world and spiritual matters.

In return he offered to supply the Peterborough club with information of a like nature about Australia.

Lakefield Institute Urges Making Swamp A Park

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 3.—"Dick, the Amateur Gardener" will lecture in the Memorial Hall, Lakefield, on on Wednesday evening, March 8, under the auspices of the Lakefield Branch of the Women's Institute. Final arrangements for the program were made at the February meeting of the Institute which was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Bullock, Catherine street, on Wednesday afternoon.

"Dick, the Amateur Gardener," well known horticulturist and popular radio speaker, is in great demand as a lecturer, and the Institute is pleased to have secured his services.

About twenty-three members attended the February meeting, which was a happy and informal gathering.

The president, Mrs. S. Higgins, occupied the chair for the business period. Mrs. S. E. White read the treasurer's report which showed a balance on hand of $4.42. Correspondence from a number of shutins who had received Christmas greetings from the Branch was read. Mrs. W. A. Payne, who was absent through illness, enclosed $1.00 to assist with the work of the society.

It was decided that the woollen quilt which the Institute has on hand, should be sent to a needy resident at Curve Lake.

A committee was appointed to take charge of final arrangements for the coming lecture. The members are: Mrs. Stanley Higgins, Miss Margaret Sanderson and Mrs. Roy Bullock.

Some Real Suggestions.

Members responded to the roll call with suggestions for community improvements. Some of the suggested improvements follow:

1. That the snow plow be out earlier so that school children may go to school without tramping through snow drifts.
2. That the swamp beside the railway track be cleared and made into a park.
3. That the swamp be properly drained so that children would not get wet going to school.
4. That the swamp be cleared and a pathway built through it, connecting Baptie's Lane with Concession street.
5. That a safe swimming pool or bathing beach be installed, suitable for children.
6. That the law re cutting of weeds be rigidly enforced.
7. That there be a community rest room for the convenience of tourists and farmers.

Mrs. W. E. Gillman, who attended the Local Leaders' training school recently held in Peterboro, gave her concluding lecture on the 'Care of Clothing.' She stressed particularly, mending and spot removal, after giving a brief resume of the points covered in her two previous lectures.

A demonstration of invisible mending of a table linen was particularly interesting, and a method of patching heavy materials having a pattern was shown. The patch was placed on top of the material and the edges of the patch were frayed. Then these raveled edges were woven into the material so that the pattern remained unbroken. A suggestion for mending children's stockings which are darned on the knee, was to cut the stocking off on the bias, just below the darn, and sew the upper part of the back to the front, using a special stitch which will give slightly as the knee is bent.

The proper way to replace the foot of a stocking was shown. The method is to cut the sole all around up into the heel and to stitch the new sole in by sewing machine.

The removing of rust stains from linen with oxalic acid was explained. Care must be taken to wash out the acid thoroughly to prevent destroying of material by this means. Ink stains are removed by the same means. Folders with complete instructions on spot removal were distributed to each of the members.

A demonstration on how to pack a suitcase will be given at a later meeting, Mrs. Gillman promised.

Members of the society will be given an opportunity to show what information they have gleaned from Mrs. Gillman's addresses, when a demonstration is given by members of the various branches to test the points learned from the local leader. The date for this demonstration has not yet been set.

A display of old valentines brought out one exhibit of particular interest. It was a quaint card over 60 years old contributed by Mrs. Art Montgomery of Lakefield. The valentine had belonged to Mrs. Mostgomery's mother, having been sent by Mrs. Montgomery's father before their marriage. The card was very dainty, boasting silver lace medallion, and a greeting printed on pink silk.

Refreshments were served and a vote of thanks extended to Mrs. Bullock for her hospitality.

HAVELOCK SQUAD BEATEN 5-2 BY HASTINGS IN ROUGH GAME

Close Checking Marks Game On Hastings Ice

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 3—Hastings copped a 5 to 2 decision over Havelock here last night in an East Peterborough Rural Hockey League game. It developed into a rough game with two fights occurring and Hastings having a big edge in the play.

The game started with both teams taking long shots. After four minutes of play Pollock gave Havelock the lead when he beat Kelly with a hard shot. After 16 minutes of play Pollock got his second goal when it deflected in off Crate's skate. G. Scriver for Hastings drew the first penalty of the game for tripping. Hamilton got Havelock's first penalty when he was put off for charging.

Hastings sent every man up to start the second period and after three minutes of play McKee scored for Hastings on a pass from G. Scriver. Hastings tied it up after seven minutes when G. Scriver scored on a pass from Faux. Crate was penalized for charging and while he was off Lemoire scored on a pass from G. Scriver to give Hastings the lead just before the period ended.

Lemoire and Lade were put off in third for fighting during which the fans stormed the ice in what promised to be a free-for-all. While they were off G. Scriver gave Hastings a two goal lead when he scored his second goal of the game on a pass from McKee. Varty and Stickles were given the gate as the fights continued. Brownell was given the gate when he tripped Hagerman. Crate passed to T. Scriver who scored Hastings fifth goal. G. Scriver, McKee, Lemoire and Crate looked good for Hastings with Hagerman, Pollock and Hill, Havelock's best.

The teams:

Havelock—Goal, Hill; defence, Lade and Hamilton; centre, Hagerman; wings, Pollock and Williams; subs, Varty, E. Gordon, H. Gordon, Ellis and Griffith.

Hastings—Goal, Kelly; defence, Faux, Stickles; centre, G. Scriver; wings, McKee and Lemoire; subs, Blackbourn, Crate, Washburn, Brownell, T. Scriver.

The summary:

First Period

1—Havelock—Pollock 4.00
2—Havelock—Pollock 16.50
Penalties—G. Scriver, Hamilton.

Second Period

3—Hastings—McKee G Scriver) 3.00
4—Hastings—G. Scriver (Faux) 7.15
5—Hastings—Lemoire (G. Scriver) 12.00
Penalties—Crate, Lemoire.

Third Period

6—Hastings—G. Scriver (McKee) 8.00
7—Hastings—T. Scriver (Crate) 14.00
Penalties—Lemoire, Lade, Varty, Stickles, Brownell.

All Saints Wins Over Trinity 8-0

All Saints blanked Trinity Juveniles, 8-0, last night at All Saints' rink in a Church Hockey League game. Both were short-handed but the winners had more of their better players present, Trinity being minus regulars and had a first-game goalie. Evans shone for the winners with four goals, while Macheur had two and Morley and Ackford, one each. Webster went best for the losers. The win puts All Saints alone in third place, back of Mark St. and Park St. The teams:

All Saints: Goal, Spooner; defence, Morley, Abraham; centre, Ackford; wings, Reid, Evans; sub, Lacheur.

Trinity: Goal, Lehman; defence, Harrison, Hall; centre, Webster; wings, Stanley, Bradley.

Referee, Ken Johnston.

Gene Sarazen, ABOVE, one of golfdom's carry-overs from the twirling twenties and the days of Hagen and Jones, every now and then decides to get something off his chest. His latest effusion concerned British pros, particularly aloof Henry Cotton, and their demands for a guarantee to come over and disport themselves on American links. He and other Americans "made the British championships a real event" so John Bull's best should be glad to come over and "win some honor for their own country," said Gene, the gentleman farmer. Which may or may not bring on a discussion.

Quaker Cagers Split A Pair

Quaker teams split a pair of decisions in last night's Ladies City Basketball League games at the Collegiate gym, Quaker Debs dropping the first to St. John's 16-9, while the Aces making their first appearance smothered C. G. E. 23-6. St. John's win in the first game placed them in a first place tie with Westclox.

St. John's took a big 8-4 lead at the half and although held on even terms in the slow third quarter, ran it up again in the dying minutes and were going away at the end. The winner's passing was good and their more efficient shooting under the basket was the deciding factor. Quaker Debs having a large part of the play but shooting very poorly in close. They lost a splendid chance to close the gap in the score when they made only one in ten free throws warded them. St. John's failed to count in the seven chances they had to score from free throw line. A. Bowler again led St. John's on the attack, making 10 points, the high score for the night, with E. Clarke and J. Castle also prominent. R. Farr and H. White starred for the losers. The teams:—

Quaker Debs—M. Duncan, J. McLean, E. Roberts, M. McGuire, H. White, R. Farr, B. Fenner, A. Laing, J. Metcalfe, A. Frizzelle.

St. John's—A. Bowler, T. Laws, J. Castle, D. Groombridge, E. Clarke, J. Sargison, E. Foster, G. Galley.

Referee—W. Thirnbeck. Umpire — J. Cooper.

A New Entry.

Quaker Aces, a new entry into the League, took a commanding 14-2 lead in the first half to smother C. G.E. 23-16 in a clean fast second game. Quaker's attack was smooth, their passing and shooting good to enable them to run it up against an in-experienced C. G. E. quintet. Led by H. Cole they had a big part of the play, took more advantage of their scoring opportunities and checked more efficiently to clearly earn the decision. They had an 8-0 edge in the opening quarter, a 6-2 margin in the second, and led 18-4 at the three-quarter mark. H. Cole was the high scorer and individual star of the game making 14 points, with D. Weese with 5 and J. Fowler also starring. H. Bradley with 6 points and H. Harte-Maxwell at guard were best for the losing C. G. E. squad. The teams:—

Q. Aces.—E. Kirn, P. Lawless, M. Hooton, H. Cole, H. Howden, D. Weese, J. Fowler.

C.G.E.—H. Bradley, I. Houghton, H. Harte-Maxwell, M. Wright, R. Devlin.

Referee, W. Thirnbeck. Umpire, J. Cooper.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

It requires no great strain on the memory to recall the days when the Trenton Fliers were good, doggone good, but are those days gone forevah? (The Airmen will love us for this!) Barely two winters ago, as the crow flies, the R.C.A.F.-ers were poison to the Petes. And others. They romped through their grouping to a title and looked stylish in doing it. And last winter, it required a smart local squad to nose 'em out in the fifth playoff game by a tight score before Peterborough won the group title. But this year, the Airmen, after an impressive start, have dropped several games—both to the Petes and to the Belleville Redmen. And the bolstered Bellevillains right now are giving the Fliers a heck of a fight for the other playoff spot—the Petes having one cinched. Yessir.

* * * * * *

And tonight the Fliers are here to meet the Petes in a do-or-die duel at 8.30 in the Brock. The Fliers are trailing Belleville by half a game. If they win tonight, they're tied up with Belleville—and they've one more scheduled scrap with the Thomasites. If they lose here tonight, the best way they can wind up the schedule is in a draw with Belleville, provided they beat 'em early next week—and their chances aren't any too good. So they just gotta win tonight, you might say, to retain a respectable chance of copping a playoff berth. "If we can't beat out Belleville for the playoffs," one of the Fliers told us Monday in the Quinte city, "we oughta quit the game." Well, they may have to do it.

* * * * * *

Both Lose Stars

It is true the Fliers lost several starry stalwarts this year, gees like Ernie McNeeley, Lalonde and Partridge. But the Petes lost such guys as Calladine, Vitarelli, Brennan, Barnes and Williamson. But the locals obtained a coupla good imports—where the Fliers' new gees have so far been only so-so—and brought up several darn' good intermediates. The Petes are clicking now and playing fine hockey, and we'd bet on 'em here tonight. But a lotta local folk feel the Fliers are still a tough squad when the chips are down, and they're inclined to see a Fliers' win this eve. At anyrate, it'll be a grand hockey game, no doubt o' that.

* * * * * *

Both squads play hard, classy senior "B" hockey, and they play for keeps. The Fliers appear to have more color and style, but the Petes have it over them in speed—and the Buckaroos seem to last better. We caught a peach of a plugged-up cold last Monday night to brave a blizzard and drive to Belleville to see the Petes and Fliers clash — when we could have got the game story by wire next a.m. easily—so ya know how we feel about these tilts. Wouldn't miss one for anything, and some 1,500 fans here feel the same. When the Starr-Tompkins-Kingdon line gets sweeping in on Gibson, or the Lecompte-Legris-McNeeley trio tears in on Harding, you're seeing some flashy, exciting hockey. And no fooling.

* * * * * *

The Quinte Slant

From Belleville: "Perhaps Belleville and district hockey fans will now abandon certain rumors relative to the tossing of local senior hockey games, especially after the decisive manner in which the Redmen grounded the Air Force pucksters Wednesday. The score of 7-3 was indicative of the play—the Redmen led from the barrier to the wire, and always seemed to hold the result in the palms of their hands. The ice was fast, so was the game, which was marked with continued hard and close checking. Like the Petes of Monday night, the Redmen went out and checked the Fliers' offensive plays in the centre zone and, what was neglected in that area, was most capably taken care of by St. Louis and McCreary on the defence, and the outstanding work of Ken Watt in the Belleville nets. He starred no matter which side of the fence you were sitting on." Thomas thinks his team can take the Airmen in Belleville next Tuesday.

* * * * * *

This morn we received a warmish epistle from a trio of hockey fans—and a checkup shows they are fair stenos in a southend firm. The demure damsels seem to think we are not giving enough publicity to one of the handsomer members of the senior Petes this season—though we've had his picture in the paper and boosted him several times. Goodness knows, we have nothing against the guy and will run his photo again first chance we have—and have an artist work in a nice little halo around it, too! Yep, girls, he's a good player and rates maybe a few more mentions—but why not just tell us without jumping down the bottle-scarred—no, no, battle-scarred throat? How would ya like it if we presumed to tell you how to take down shorthand and how to type your office letters better? But then a scribe's slips are public property. Anyway, thanks for the interest, your letter, and for signing it, too.

Rubbing It In!

Out at Omemee last night, the local Aces went wild again to run up an 18-2 score against the Lindsay lads. Mortimer, Wright and Heal were the main snipers, with about four tallies and several assists each. Wasn't much of a contest, the Aces playing a ganging-up style even when well in the van. It's between them and Omemee for the gro up title, the winner going into intermediate "B" playdowns—but not for a week or two yet. Millbrook and Omemee have a fixture in Omemee on Monday e'en.

Belleville and Cobourg girls' cage teams disappointed a fair crowd of fans at P.C.I. gym last night, when they postponed their L.O.B.A. tussles, owing to slippery roads. Orfuns and C.G.E. then arranged a scheduled game, but it fell through, too, when C.G.E. couldn't floor a full squad—some of the players being on the sick list. Two local lasses' city loop contests were run off, St. John's beating the Quaker Debs by a 16-9 score and Quaker Aces copping a 23-6 verdict over C.G.E. colleens. Senior boys and girls teams of Bowmanville High and a junior boys crew from there play three P.C.I. qsuads in C.O.S.S.A. contests at the Collegiate gym here tonight. With three senior men's games at the Y.M. gym on the morrow after sunset.

Bantam Contest Is Defaulted

Two scheduled bantam Church Hockey League games last night at All Saints' rink were not played. When the ice was not cleared off in time, the All-Saints'-St. John's joust was postponed, and will be staged tonight at seven. The other game between Knox and St. Paul's was won by the latter on a default. The Knox squad showed up half an hour late, hearing some gossip that their game was delayed an hour—but failing to check up with their manager or the league secretary.

More Butter Stored

OTTAWA, Feb. 3 — (C.P.). — Creamery butter held in cold storage in nine principal cities totalled 24,161,126 pounds on February 1, compared with 12,633,752 pounds on February 1, 1938, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported to-day. Cheese holdings amounted to 20,221,532 pounds against 17,613,905; cold storage eggs were 453,278 dozen against 505,307, and frozen eggs 1,987,292 pounds against 1,981,144.

Schmeling And Wife Deny Having Trouble With German Authorities; Not Quitting Ring

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 — (AP). — "Yah, I can beat Choe Louis: I know I can," said Max Schmeling. The reporters looked at each other and smiled, but not so Schmeling could see them. He still has the immense pride of a fighting man, and he does not joke about the ring. He would like a fight, two fights. He wants to close his record with a victory.

"I do not come seeking fights. Perhaps I can get some. I think I can beat these heavyweights. You do not laugh when I say I can beat Louis. But I think you do inside. I wanted another fight after he beat me last June I would like it very much now.

"One reason I have come back is to see my friends here I have relatives, too—a brother in New Jersey. If I can get some fights I will stay longer. My plans now are for only 14 days in this country.

"These rumors about my being in a concentration camp are silly, ridiculous. I am not what you say in bad with the government. Chancellor Hitler sent me a telegram after the Louis fight."

Ontario Tankard Semis Open On Toronto Ice

TORONTO, Feb. 3 (CP)—Top-notch wielders of broom and stone converged on Toronto today as play opened in the semi-finals of the Ontario Tankard Curling Bonspiel. Four double-rink matches were scheduled for before noon, while finalists were to meet later in the day.

Semi-finalists in the Burden Trophy competition for the 'spiel's consolation prize, also opened play here. The burden contenders were winners in competition among first-round losers in the group finals for the tankard competition.

H. C. Forsyth and W. Langdon represent Lindsay in the tankard struggle, while a strong Kitchener squad, headed by A. E. Dunker and Bert Hall, is expected to be a powerful contender. Sol Meredith and G. O. Cameron carry the Barrie standard. Toronto's hopes are pinned to J. W. Rothschild and C. M. Redfern of Toronto Curling Club.

The Western Hopes

Orangeville's Burden Trophy competitors are headed by J. Jeffers and Dr. White. Dr. J. A. Wright and A. J. Stewart of London, W. Pillgren and W. Braithwaite, Meaford, and Judge L. V. O'Connor and W. J. Potts, Cobourg, complete the list of consolation semi-finalists.

The tankard play started at Victoria Club rink, while Burden semi-finals opened on Royal Canadian Club ice. Both finals are slated for the Victoria Club, unless Toronto wins its way into the finals, in which case the tankard may be won on neutral ice.

Sixteen district play-offs were held in the first round of the competition, and the winners met in four group finals at Lindsay, Galt, Kitchener and Oshawa. The winners in each entered the tankard semi-finals, while the first-round losers played off to decide the semi-final contenders for the Burden Trophy.

Hockey Shorts

TORONTO, Feb. 3 — (CP). — Charlie Querrie, Toronto sportsman, presented Art Ross with a silver-plated monkey wrench, into which a watch was fitted, before Ross led his Boston Bruins into battle with Toronto Maple Leafs in a National Hockey League game here last night.

The presentation, held in the press room of Maple Leaf Gardens was to commemorate an occasion in Boston Gardens more than 10 years ago when Querrie, then a hockey manager, was with Toronto St. Pats for a game against Bruins there. That night a Boston fan threw a wrench at Querrie as he sat on the Toronto bench. It missed.

TORONTO, Feb. 3 — (CP). — Bingo Kampman and Busher Hollett, rival defencemen of Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins, respectively, emerged from last night's National Hockey League contest with severe injuries.

Hollett is believed to have fractured a rib but nothing definite will be known until an X-ray is taken to-day.

TORONTO, Feb. 3 — (CP). — Manager Art Ross of Boston Bruins said last night he had no intention of selling Charlie Sands, one of the wingmen he dropped from his National Hockey League club this week. His remark was prompted by the fact Manager Jack Adams of Detroit had professed a desire to buy the Port Arthur product.

Sands and Ray eGtliffe were sent to Hershey to replace Red Hammill and Pat Reardon, who were brought up to the Bruins.

TORONTO, Feb. 3 — (CP). — Manager Art Ross of Boston Bruins, who introduced helmets to hockey, plans now to equip his National Hockey League satellites with aluminum boot and back-of-the-leg protectors.

Ross, who led his Bruins to a 2-1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs last night, announced the Boston team would be provided with the new aluminum protectors when the two teams meet again in Boston next Tuesday.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (C.P.). — Suffering from grippe, Earl Robertson, New York Americans goaltender, was taken to hospital an hour before last night's National Hockey League game with New York Rangers in Madison Square Garden. He was replaced in the nets by Alfie Moore, brought up from Hershey Bears of the International American League.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

Healthy scores were knocked off at Duffus' Alleys during the last few evenings when the C.G.E., City, Automobile, Quaker Oats, Westclox Office and Mercantile leagues ran off their weekly schedule games.

In last night's City League the K. of C. five turned back Fowler's Barbers 4-0, Grafton's swamped Duffus' Recreation by over 500 pins for a 4-0 decision and the Capitol Grill downed the I.A.C. 3 to 1. The result gives the K. of C. sole possession of first place.

On Wednesday night the second division Automobile League teams threw a big surprise when they stepped out and sunk a few of the leading outfits. Chryslers downed the Bulcks 6 to 2. Graham and Pontiac teams got a great kick when they whitewashed the Ford and Automotive No. 1, 8-0. Nash and Hudson barely got out with their hides when they backed into the red hot Chevrolet and Automotive No. 2 teams; the count was 6-2 for the former.

Eddie Johnston of the C.G.E. climbed away up to 806 to top the individual scorers. Bill Stanbury of the City League rolled off 800; Horace Guppy of the Westclox Office 799 (317). The best single went to Oscar Perdue of the Quaker Oats when he connected for a 372 game in his 710. Other men with 700 or over included: from the C.G.E.—Bill Harris 794 (371), Jack Playford 793, C. A. Low 758, W. A. Westram 753 (323), R. Hall 772, Reg. Dyer 732 (312), Joe Lalonde 721 (301), Bill Carter 717 and "Silver" Shaughnessy 706. Gray Copping lined off 708 in the Motor loop while the City Leaguers saw Leo Martyn mow down 790 (344), Bud Weese 762, Roy Lewis 713 and Fred Martin 708. The best individual score for ladies was charged up by Miss Margaret Parker of the Mercantile League 594 (224).

St. Paul's Juniors Defeat All Saints

St. Paul's Juniors defeated All Saints, 2-1, in a neat Church League puck tilt last night at All Saints' rink. J. McMillan scored in the first on a lone rush and Csumrik made it 2-0 in the third on a solo effort. Williams scored in the final minute to avert a shutout. McBride played a fine game in goal, especially as his rivals ganged up near the end. His defence helped him a lot. The St. Paul's forwards checked tenaciously, though outspeeded, Watson in particular. McDougall was best for All Saints, as Williamson, Deering and Lacey also looked good. The win for St. Paul's ties up the junior series, one game each in a five-game series. Slow ice bothered All Saints. The teams:

St. Paul's: Goal, McBride; defence, M. McMillan, Csumrik; centre, J. Easton; wings, Watson, Dundas; subs, T. McMillan, G. Easton, Milburn, Lockington.

All Saints: Goal, Lacey; defence, Leether, B. Smith; centre, McDougall; wings, Abraham, G. Smith; subs, Williamson, Deering, P. Morley, B. Morley, Carpenter.

Referee, Ken Johnston.

Port Hope Squad Wins

PORT HOPE, Feb. 3. — Port Hope Juniors defeated Cobourg Juniors Hockey Club by a score of 10 to 7 in a fast junior exhibition benefit game here last night. The game was a benefit fixture for Jack Bradley, local Port Hope junior player, who was injured in a Port Hope-Cobourg fixture on January 1. Bradley received an injured left cheek, and an operation was necessary.

Aces Win 18-2 Over Lindsay

Peterborough Aces continued their winning streak in the District Hockey League last night in Omemee with another one-sided victory, defeating Lindsay by an 18-2 score. A small crowd of fans saw the powerful Petes sweep into an early lead and then pile up the count with a ganging-up style of hockey to make it too one-sided to be really interesting. The game was fast and clean.

Aces took a 6-0 margin in the first frame, had a 5-0 bulge in the middle chapter and showed a 7-2 edge in the wind-up heat. Mortimer led the way with five counters and several assists, while Wright and Heal had four goals each and aided in several others. Practically every player on the Aces' squad figured in on the scoring, while Hancock and Houston notched the losers' two markers. All the Aces looked good, but had a soft evening of it. The teams:

Lindsay— Goal, Mark; defence, Growden and G. Williams; centre, Houston; wings, J. Begley and R. Williams; alternates, Hancock, Murtha, Balfour and P. Williams.

Aces—Goal, Currie; defence, Vitarelli and O'Leary; centre, Cournyea; wings, Wright and Heal; alternates, Hill, Mortimer, White and Connelly.

Referee—Art Williamson, of Omemee.

Lindsay Captures District Tankard

OSHAWA, Feb. 3. — Two Lindsay rinks skipped by W. Langdon and H. C. Forsythe, won the Eastern Ontario section of the Ontario Tankard competition when they defeated two Kingston rinks skipped by George Hanson and Fred Lumb, 37-17, in the finals here last evening.

Eight rinks, two each from Kingston, Lindsay, Stouffville and Cobourg, started play, with Lindsay defeating Stouffville 33-15, and winning over Cobourg 30-20. The Burden Trophy, consolation prize, went to Cobourg when rinks skipped by Judge L. V. O'Connor and W. P. Potts defeated Stouffville rinks skipped by S. Armstrong and M. Watt by a total score of 28-21.

Dominion Figure Aces Facing Peppy U.S. Stars

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—(CP).—Dominion figure skating champions, crowned here last week, to-day faced keen international competition as they sought to add new laurels.

The draw for the North American championships which open at the Granite Club to-day finds the first four ranking blade stars from the recent United States and Canadian singles championships. The finest teams from both countries will also seek honors in the pairs and fours.

The teen-age girls will hold the spotlight in the women's singles championship. Boston's 17-year-old Jean Tozzer, United States' titleholder, will match her ability with a Canadian girl, one year her junior—Mary Rose Thacker of Winnipeg. Mary Rose headed a fine field to win the Dominion honors.

Montgomery (Bud) Wilson, defending men's champion, who skated to his ninth Canadian title Saturday, will carry Canada's chief hope. Ralph McCreath and Jack Vigeon, fellow members of the Toronto skating club will lend him support to face the fine American field headed by Robin Lee of St. Paul, Minn.

Audrey Peppe of New York, who has been practising in Toronto all week, hopes to overcome the slight edge Miss Tozzer has held over her in United States' competition during the last two years. Norah McCarthy, Eleanor O'Meara and Dorothy Caley, Toronto stars, complete the Canadian list.

American fishing tackle may be introduced into Sweden.

BRUINS DEFEAT LEAFS 2-1 WHILE RANGERS SWAMP AMERKS 7-0

Bruins Stop Leafs In Toronto By 2-1; Rangers Blank Amerks 7-0; Hawks Step Up, Lace Canadiens 4-2

By Robert Clarke
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

The boys who like to beat the drums have gone overboard this season for the Bruins of Boston and almost overlooked, comparatively speaking, the doings of Lester Patrick's New York Rangers. It seems a bit strange when the record of the Rangers is taken into consideration.

True enough, the Bruins have led the National Hockey League almost since the start of the season, rolling up 22 victories and two draws on the credit side in 31 starts. But in all that time, during which they found almost very other team in the league easy pickings, they have been unable to gain much ground on the Rangers.

The league standings showed today that the Bruins head the league by seven points over the Patrickmen, but they also show that the Rangers have two games in hand and that the goal records of the two teams compare favorably. The Bruins have scored 86 and have been scored on 41 times, while the blueshirts have scored 84 during the time their opponents have tallied 51.

Even in comparing the season's play between the two teams the Rangers don't lose face. They have met four times and each club has won twice. Thus the Rangers have made a better showing so far against the Bruins than any other N.H.L. club. The Bruins have won 4-2 and 3-0, and the Rangers have won 1-0 and 2-1.

Dave Kerr

Even in the matter of shutouts the teams are closely matched for Frank Brimsek of the Bruins has seven to his credit to be joint leader with Turk Broda of Toronto Maple Leafs in this respect, while Dave Kerr, netman for the New Yorkers, has six to his credit.

Kerr gained his sixth blanking last night as the Rangers swamped their intra-city rivals, the Americans, 7-0, at the same time as the Bruins were topping Leafs in Toronto 2-1. In the only other game for the night Chicago Black Hawks brightened their playoff hopes by trimming the last place Canadiens 4-2 in Montreal. Victory sent Hawks five points up on Canadiens and into a fifth place tie with the idle Detroit Red Wings.

From the start of the first period it was a steady goal parade for the Rangers as they found the mark against slender Alfie Moore, goalie of Hershey's International-American League team who was substituting for sick Earl Robertson. In the opening period Cecil Dillon and Bryan Hextall beat Moore, who also is the N.H.L. spare goalie. In the second Neil Colville and Lynn Patrick scored, while in the final period Wilbur Hiller and Phil Watson, and then Neil Colville again, shot home goals.

The victory sent the Rangers three points up on the third place Americans.

Woody Dumart supplied the goal that brought Bruins victory over the Leafs. All the scoring took place in the second period, with Murph Chamberlain sending the Leafs ahead only to have Gordon Pettinger tie it up, and Bobby Bauer and Porky Schmidt made the play for linemate Dumart to get the winner.

Canadiens played at home for the first time since the recent change in club managership which saw Manager Cecil Hart deposed and his place taken by Secretary Jules Dugal, aided by Captain - defenceman Babe Siebert. The Habitants fell before the sparkling play of the veterans Johnny Gottselig and Mush March, and youthful Joffre Desilets.

Diz Desilets

Gottselig, only recently supplanted as N.H.L. scoring leader, took over the top spot again with a goal and three assists. He now has 29 points compared to 28 for Tommy Anderson of Americans. Desilets, a former Canadien, scored twice and aided in two others while March got a goal and an assist. Herb Cain and Rod Lorrain got the Montreal scores.

Turning point in the game came in the second period when a penalty to Cliff Goupille left Canadiens shorthanded and the Hawks pumped in two goals. Desilets got the first and March the second. It left Canadiens down 4-1 with little chance to recuperate against the strong defensive tactics of the Hawks.

Two Boston Stars Sent To Minors In Shake-up

CHARLIE SANDS

RED HAMILL

RAY GETLIFFE

Merely being on top of the N.H.L. standings doesn't satisfy Art Ross, manager of Boston Bruins. The team has to be measuring up all round and great was the surprise when he announced that Ray Getliffe and Charlie Sands, left and right wings respectively on the line with Bill Cowley at centre, were being sent to the Hershey team in the International-American League. Ross said he was disappointed in the play of both and that the opposition was scoring too freely when they were on the ice. To take their places he brought up Terry Reardon, 19, and Red Hamill, 22, from the Hershey club.

Southend Victory In Cup Tilt To Be Probed

LONDON, Feb. 3—(CP Cable). — The hectic third-round English Football Cup battle between Southend United and Chesterfield played on the former's ground, January 16, is to be the subject of an investigation by a football commission. Dramatic scenes occurred near the close of the overtime contest, won 4-3 by Southend.

During the last few minutes of the overtime period two penaltes were awarded against the home team, one being converted, L. A. Bolen, Southend forward, was ordered from the field for offensive remarks to the referee, and as the game ended the crowd swarmed on the field. These and other incidents will be probed by the commission next week.

Cup and league soccer are the attractions in the United Kingdom's sport program at the week-end. In Scotland, 24 teams battle in the second round of the Scottish Cup while the 88 clubs that make up the four divisions of English big-time football clash in league contests.

In a match played a few days ahead of schedule, St. Mirren qualified for the third round of the Scottish Cup by defeating Edinburgh City 3-1 Thursday. Alloa advanced in the competition by drawing a second-round bye.

Rangers To Draw Crowd.

Biggest crowd of the day is expected at Ibrox Park where Glasgow Rangers oppose Hamilton Academicals. The Accies have never forgotten the gruelling final in 1935 when the light blues triumphed 2-1. It was the nearest Hamilton had come in the fight for the cup. Three years previously Rangers beat them 5-2 in a semi-final match.

Thirteen Scottish First Division teams remain in the running for the cup. The Second Division is represented by six squads and the round is completed by five minor-leaguers.

South of the border, keen rivalry for league leadership still exists between Derby County and Everton. Speculation over week-end games favors Derby, pacemaker by a one-point margin. While the County is due at Blackpool, Everton opposes its neighbor, Liverpool, in a struggle expected to attract a capacity ocrowd to the latter's ground.

Birmingham and Norwich City figured in important transfer deals during the week. The Midlanders obtained Arthur Turner, Stoke City centre-half, to strengthen their defence. It was said £5,000 ($23,500) changed hands. A. J. Jewell, prominent referee recently appointed manager of Norwich City, obtained the transfer of J. Acquroff and W. Graham from Bury and they will play against Tottenham Hotspurs Saturday.

Schmeling Seeks "Some Fights"

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Max Schmeling, former world heavyweight boxing champion, arrived from Germany today emphatically denying that he or his wife had any trouble with German authorities, or that he had any intention of quitting the ring.

"I'm ready to fight Joe Louis again, but first I want to meet one or two of the leading title contenders," he said as he left the Normandie. Schmeling's hopes of regaining his heavyweight crown were given a decided setback last summer when he was knocked out in two minutes and four seconds of the first round by Champion Louis.

He tossed aside with an emphatic "Nein" any suggestion that he had been sent to the United States by the German government to quiet rumors that all was not well between him and his wife and the Nazi authorities.

"I just came over to say 'hello' to my friends here and pay a little visit," Schmeling said. "The whole story about my trouble with government leader was a lot of bunk. And the report that Propaganda Minister Goebbels was beaten up by some friends of an actress is absolutely silly.

"I was never reprimanded or detained in any way by the Nazi party, and I never said I would break Herr Goebbels neck if he paid attention to my wife."

Mrs. Schmeling, Anny Ondra of the German films, couldn't make the trip with Max because she is under contract to start work on a new picture March first. "But I promise I'll bring her along on my next trip," he said.

Fliers And Petes Playing Tonight In Senior Battle

Senior "B" standing:

Team	P	W	L	TF
Petes	7	5	2	1
Belleville	7	3	4	1
Fliers	6	2	4	2

Trenton Fliers and the Petes clash here at 8.30 o'clock tonight (Friday) in the Brock St. rink. It is a highly important fray as the Airmen are battling to stay in the running for a playoff berth. They have a good chance of being rubbed out by Belleville early next week. The Petes are sure of a playoff berth but can deal the Airmen a serious blow here this evening if they defeat the R.C.A.F. bunch.

Both squads will be at top strength and the desperate Fliers will be zooming in dangerously all night in an attempt to hang a defeat on the Petes, after the locals' easy win over them last Monday. It promises to be a wide-open, bitter battle, packed with spills and thrills, and should draw another huge crowd of fans. This is the last game of the schedule here, and possibly the Fliers' last showing of the year in this city.

Steers And Hogs Close Down On Week's Sales

TORONTO, Feb. 2 (CP)—Trading on Toronto livestock branch this week followed an erratic course. Steers and heifers opened 15 to 25 cents higher from last week but finished 50 cents lower, calf prices were strong to 50 cents higher and hogs fluctuated 10 cents cwt., closing 15 cents lower. Lambs started the week 25 cents lower but recovered by the close.

Cattle price decline on Tuesday followed receipts of news that the export cattle quota of 60,000 head for the first quarter of the year had been filled.

Export buying was active Monday and Tuesday and prices were higher on all steers and heifers. Choice heavy steers sold up to $8 with weighty steers from $7.75 downward. Good butcher steers and heifers made $6.75-$7. Butcher cows opened at $5 for tops and good bulls sold up to $5.25.

Export buying stopped abruptly after Tuesday and the market slumped 25 to 50 cents cwt on all grades of killers. The close was weak at $7-$7.35 for best weighty steers with butchers mostly from $6.50 downward. Good cows closed at $4.25-$4.75. Bulls closed at a top of $4.50 cwt. Fed calves, on last sales, were from $6-$8 cwt.

Stockers Steady

The few stockers offered sold steady at $5-$5.60 cwt. Milker and springer trade was dull at around $70 for tested tops.

Choice veal calves held strong from the opening at $11-$11.50 with common lights downward to $6 cwt. Export buying was keen.

Hogs opened 10 cents lower at $6.95 off-trucks for bacon and recovered at $9.75 on Tuesday. The close was weak with most sales at $9.50 and with only a few reaching $9.65. Sows ended at $6.75-$7 off-trucks.

Lamb receipts included 2,000 from the west. An offering of 1,350 western lambs sold on Monday at $8.50 cwt, and some 600 head traded the following day at $8.75. There were no sales of any account after Tuesday.

Sheep held a steady course at from $2.50-$5.50 cwt. according to quality with light western ewes making the top prices.

MORE ABOUT—

Saved C.N.

The surest way to destroy the C.N.R. was to play politics with it," Dr. Manion warned. He charged the recently announced expenditure to complete the Montreal terminal was for the purpose of "catching votes."

The Conservative leader denied he had persecuted the late Sir Henry Thornton, former president of the C.N.R., and claimed they had been good friends to the end.

It was when Dr. Manion was listing extravagances of the C.N.R. under the Liberal regime and charging that "practically all defunct and down-at-heels railways in Canada were loaded onto the system," that Mr. Dunning was brought into the discussion.

Listing those railways added to the system while he was Minister of Railways, Mr. Dunning defied the House to say they should not have been taken over. If there was one question that required "heart-searching consideration on the part of all it was this great public utility."

Nothing To Do With Jobs

Dr. Manion said he had no more to do with jobs on the railway than the present Minister of Transport (Hon. C. D. Howe). Jobs were under the sole control of the management.

"I did interfere at headquarters and endeavor to bring down executive salaries and I got them down," said Dr. Manion.

Headquarters salaries had been cut by more than $1,000,000 a year and the service had been improved. No interference with wages had been attempted or had been possible. One man drawing $62,000 a year for which he did nothing was dismissed. Several other Americans on the staff drawing high salaries had been let go.

Some railway shops had been closed but the government had nothing to do with that. On the contrary, he thought the government had arranged for loans of hundreds of thousands of dollars to both railways in order to keep the shops open.

The Conservative party had always opposed amalgamation. In the Canadian National-Canadian Pacific act of 1933 the Conservative government inserted a clause against amalgamation. The party platform declared against it.

In fact, said Dr. Manion, none of the present Liberal ministers had said anything about amalgamation recently. They were silent on the question.

Supporter In Euler

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said he was against it.

"Well perhaps I have stirred something up," said Dr. Manion. "The only member in this House who even came out for amalgamation is the Minister of Trade and Commerce (Hon. W. D. Euler)."

"Always under public ownership," said Mr. Euler.

"Well I don't know what difference it makes to a man who loses his job whether he loses it under public ownership or private ownership," said Dr. Manion.

The bills for the amalgamation of telegraph and express services were brought forward by him at the joint request of the presidents of the two railways, Dr. Manion said. He had advised them to bring them in as private bills but they said they were too big for private bills. In any case as minister of railways he had no choice but to act on the joint request of the railways.

When he had informally submitted the telegraph and express company amalgamation bills to the railway committee, objection to their introduction in parliament came from only two members, a New Brunswick Conservative and a British Columbia Liberal.

On June 21 Dr. Manion attempted to introduce the bills in the House. Objection was raised by the then opposition leader, W. L. Mackenzie King. He had objected to introduction without notice. They were brought up again four days later and withdrawn because it had been found they were not justified and there was no agreement between the railways to support them.

"There were those of us who thought enforced co-operation might be worth considering," Dr. Manion said, "but we were told the Canadian Pacific would absolutely refuse."

The Thornton Case

He referred to the so-called "crucifixion" of Sir Henry Thornton.

"That phrase has been used on many occasions and I was accused of killing Sir Henry Thrnton. As a matter of fact he resigned and died a year later of cancer.

"There was never a hard word between us and we were good friends to the end although I did accept his resignation. Sir Henry was a very able man in some ways. He brought an esprit de corps to the Canadian National that was very valuable. But he had the fault of not knowing the value of money.

"Sir Henry was a man of dominant personality and took control of the Board of Directors. There was great extravagance."

One great extravagance was the proposed $50,000,000 terminal in Montreal on which $17,000,000 was spent before work stopped in 1930. Dr. Manion recalled that when there was a by-election in Montreal a year ago State Secretary Rinfret and Works Minister Cardin had promised to "fill up the hole on Dorchester street." Recently it was announced that $12,000,000 would be spent completing the terminal over a period of three years.

"They won the election and now they are providing for the general election." While he realized the situation in Montreal should be cleaned up, Dr. Manion said "I don't like playing ducks and drakes with the Canadian National for political purposes."

The Way To End the C.N.R.

"I tell this government that the surest way to destroy the Canadian National Railways is to go on playing politics with the system"

Dr. Manion returned to discussion of extravagances and repeated that Sir Henry had not known the value of money.

"What is the value of money?" asked J. C. Landeryou (SC Calgary East).

"I can quite understand the honorable gentleman asking that because if there is anybody on God's green earth that does not know the value of money it is the Social Creditor," said Dr. Manion.

"I was looking for light and that was a cheap political answer," Mr. Landeryou protested. "The Opposition Leader has not answered my question.

"Ask Mr. Aberhart," Dr. Manion suggested.

Finance Minister Dunning said Dr. Manion had pointed to increases in the debt of the C.N.R. in the period from 1926 to 1930 but had not mentioned the increase in revenues, which was more rapid than the increase in the debt. Dr. Manion had not stated the increases in the railway's ability to carry inetrest charges.

This did not mean he defended everything that was done by the government, by the C.N.R., C.P.R., and almost every other business during that period. Members of parliament were continually demanding expansion and new branch lines and no members were more insistent than the Conservative opposition.

Only three railways were taken over during his term as minister of railways, the Gaspe Line, the Inverness railway and the Quebec Southern. No political pressure was exerted in connection with the Quebec Southern as Dr. Manion had alleged and Sir Henry Thornton had asked that it be done.

Pressure On Thornton

"I have read the file and there was pressure and Sir Henry Thornton opposed it for a long time. I can name the minister who exerted the pressure," said Dr. Manion.

"That railway is a paying proposition today," said Works Minister Cardin.

"It is not," said Dr. Manion. "And the House knows now who applied the pressure."

"If there was pressure on Sir Henry Thornton I did not know it," said Mr. Dunning.

The minister said he could sympatize with Dr. Manion's resentment at the charges about which he complained. In 1927 and 1928, he himself had been accused of holding up a big C.N.R. expansion program because of friendship towards the C.P.R.

"That is one of the things that are inseparable from public ownership under the control of a democratic assembly. We just have to take it," he added.

Dr. Manion had criticized certain election promises, but in the 1930 election the Opposition leader had promised Manitoba voters the Mafeking cutoff would be built if the Conservatives were elected.

"I made no such promise," said Dr. Manion.

W. J. Ward (Lib., Dauphin) interruped to say he had heard Dr. Manion make the promise, and Dr. Manion challenged the member to produce any report of it.

"It does not matter," said Mr. Dunning. "I do say that the administration of a great public institution demands a degree of restrait to which none of us in this Parliament has yet proved equal."

All parties when in opposition belabored the government of the day for its administration of the railways. The C.C.F. group was not more virtuous than the older parties in making what political capital could be made of the railway.

'In these troubled days," he added, "there is no subject in connection with which we all require more heard-searching than this great public utility."

Surveys U.S. Press

Arriving in America for a vacation, C. S. Went, general manager of the London Times, is seen as he arrived in New York. During his visit to the United States Mr. Kent will study the methods of leading American newspapers.

Manion Wants

sum, he said the town council was able to get building operations started on a considerable scale. He suggested political discussions about unemployment be halted and that all members provide leadership in promoting construction in their constituencies.

"The Bren gun contract was on a cost plus basis," said Mr. Lawson, "if it was improvident we should have no more of them If the contract was a prudent one then how much more prudent it would be to give similar contarcts to our railway on a cost plus basis."

He assailed the "bureaucratic and undemocratic attitude" of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and said George McCullagh, publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail, had "made a monkey" out of the Corporation.

The Corporation said Mr. McCullagh, because of his wealth, could not be permitted to buy time on a network but permitted him by the use of more wealth to accomplish the same purpose by sending recordings of his speeches out to a group of individual stations for broadcasting.

Another Protest.

A year ago, said Mr. Lawson, he had been accused of bigotry for protesting against the banning of a Protestant minister from the air because of certain rumors. Now he had to protest against the banning of a Catholic priest, Rev. Charles Lanphier of Toronto.

This priest, he said, was banned because on a Sunday he delivered a sermon against communism, when on the following Monday communist candidates were seeking election in the Toronto municipal election. He was banned for the specific breach of a specific regulation and no complaint could be made on that score but the Corporation now proposed to permit him to return to the air on certain conditions.

Father Lanphier had been asked before and was again being asked to agree not to speak on politics or controversial theories of economics.

"If he is not to be allowed, because he is a religious teacher, to broadcast in his sermons any matter touching upon politics or controversial theories of economics," Mr. Lawson asked, "why has the C. B. C. allowed the broadcasts which have been taking place for two or three years on behalf of social credit in Alberta?"

Wants Bren Debate.

Indication much will be heard about the Bren gun contract came when Conservative leader Manion objected to the passage of a motion to refer the contract to the public accounts committee without debate. The motion was proposed by Grant MacNeil (C. C. F. Vancouver North) and Prime Minister King said it could not be debated before the speech from the throne was dealt with but might pass without debate.

"It is not a question of accepting or withdrawing the motion," said Dr. Manion. "But it is not going through without debate. My submission is that this is such an important question the place to discuss it is not behind closed doors in a packed committee."

He added he did not use the expression offensively but meant there should be a discussion in the House rather than in a committee on which would be four or five Liberals to one opposition member.

The Prime Minister informed Dr. Manion debate on the United States trade treaty would not begin until

21 Up In Court

Today's violence followed appearances in London and Manchester police courts yesterday of 19 men and two women on charges of conspiracy to cause some of the earlier explosions.

Cars filled with police preceded and followed the van which took the prisoners to the London court, as a precaution against possible attempts to liberate them.

Police read into the evidence a proclamation alleged to have been found on one of the defendants calling upon England "to withdraw her armed forces" from Ireland and for the Irish people "to assist us in the effort we are about to make in God's name to compel that evacuation and enthrone the republic of Ireland."

Joseph Eyre, ticket colector at Tottenham court road, was taken to the Middlesex hospital with a fractured left leg and lacerated left arm. He lives in north Kensington. Another injured person was identified as a booking office clerk named Cook.

Those injured at the Leicester Square station and admitted to Charing Cross hospital were: Albert Edward Brice, milkman, suffering from shock and abrasions; T. Moran, shock; Arthur Lloyd, abrasions and arm injury; C. E. Roberts, shock, and Thomas Bartlett, scalp wounds. All save Brice were discharged after treatment.

Caught by Full Blast

Brice, placing a milk bottle inside the door of the checking room when the Leicester Square station explosion occurred, received the full force of the blast. He was bleeding profusedly when taken to an ambulance.

In response to a request from Labor leader Clement Attlee, home secretary Sir Samuel Hoare made the following statment in the House of Commons:—

"I am informed that at about 6 a.m. today serious explosions occurred at the tube stations at Tottenham Court road and Leicester Square. I regret to say that two persons were seriously injured and considerable damage done.

"The explosions were apparently due to bombs with time fuses, which were left in the cloak rooms overnight. Investigations are being actively pursued."

Losing Head 2nd Time Says Berlin Of U.S.

BERLIN, Feb. 3 (AP).—Chancellor Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, joined in the Nazi press attack today against President Roosevelt for what was interpreted here to be a pledge by the United States to back European democracies in defence against Fascist states.

Hitler's newspaper said of the president's discussions on defence with the United States senate military affairs committee on Tuesday:—

"At Roosevelt's behest, North America is about to lose its head for the second time" (referring to American entry in the Great War.)

"Is Roosevelt's threat the American people's answer to the fuehrer's will to peace?"

Centring on President Roosevelt's closed conference with the senate committee, the Boersenzeitung charged the president was "a great democratic champion of Bolshevism" who had not "recovered from his exasperation over the peaceful tendency of the Munich agreement."

Paris Ring Smuggles Jews From Germany

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 3—(AP).—Counsel for a German-Jew awaiting a hearing on a charge of entering the United States from Canada illegally last night quoted his client as saying Jewish people in Germany were being smuggled out of the country by an international ring operating in Paris.

Counsel Gordon Gannon said Isadore Celnik, 35, told him how he sneaked across the German border into France after being held in a German concentration camp for weeks.

Gannon quoted Sleni kas saynig he then joined a group of other German refugees and made a deal with an agent of the smuggling ring to be smuggled into Canada for 2,000 marks.

Celnik was arrested by immigration agents as he landed on the American side of Niagara river in a rowboat.

GIVING JUDGMENT.
Magistrate O. A. Langley is in Campbellford to-day giving judgment in a police court case, the evidence in which he heard a week ago.

ROTARY SPEAKER.
I. E. Brock, advertising manager of the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Company, will be the speaker at the regular luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club on Monday.

TRAFFIC OVER LAKE.
Considerable traffic is reported to be crossing Rice Lake from Harwood to Hiawatha and on to Peterborough in recent weeks. A road has been "bushed" across the ice.

CASES ADJOURNED
Charges against several men of riding bicycles on North Monaghan sidewalks contrary to a township bylaw were again adjourned when they were called before Magistrate Langley this morning.

SKATING CANCELLED.
There will be no skating at the Jackson Park rink tonight, officials announced to-day. Ice at one end of the rink has dropped several inches, allowing water to flood over the surface, and making use of the rink impossible.

APPLIES FOR INCREASE
In a letter to the Board of Health Thursday, Dr. G. Murray Fraser, M.O.H., applied for an increase of salary from $2,500 to $3,000. His application was referred to the finance committee of the council.

REVUE NETTED $304.46
The Y's Men's club earned $304.46 profit on their recent revue, Treasurer Graham Eastwood told members at their weekly dinner last night. Ticket sales totalled $796.53; they netted $401 in advertising; and expenses were $912.07.

TO BE HOSTS TO HI-Y CLUB.
The Y's Men's Club will be hosts at their weekly dinner meeting next Thursday night to the executive of the newly-formed Hi-Y club, whose members are of high school age. The annual dance of the Y's Men will be at the Legion Hall on February 24, it was announced.

SET FOR THURSDAY.
A charge of drunken driving against T. E. Chapman, following a traffic accident last Saturday night was adjourned until next Thursday when called in police court this morning. The Crown asked for the delay and T. J. Carley, K.C., who appeared for Chapman, had no objection.

A FALSE RUMOR.
There are no regulations requiring pasteurized butter, or rather that pasteurized cream be used in the making of butter, Dr. G. M. Fraser told Mayor Hamilton at the Board of Health meeting yesterday. The notion seems to have been circulating among producers. Mayor Hamilton and members of the council have been getting enquiries.

SAW WINTER ROBIN.
Cliff Hancock of Smith township, reports that he saw a robin last week, but he doesn't regard it as a sign of Spring or anything else except that this redbreast mised the migration boat last fall and has been content to winter in the snow belt instead of the sunshine country around the Gulf of Mexico or wherever robins hibernate.

NEW POULTRY FARM.
Three local men have purchased nine acres of land just north of the city and plan a mammoth poultry farm. 5,000 hens will be purchased soon and work has been started on hen houses. Three modern bungalows for the joint owners of the project will also be constructed on the property. It is hoped to have everything ship shape before the first of July.

SKI JUMP IS ON.
Ski fans who made useless trips to the Nassau jump last Saturday in the hope of seeing Peterborough Ski club members perform, only to find the meet had been called off, will not be disappointed this weekend. Officials say the jumping will be carried out tomorrow no matter what the weather is like, because the following week will see the Ontario championships. The jump is in readiness now for tomorrow's jumping. Motorists who drive to the foot of the hill are advised to take the east fork in the road to the jump.

SKEET CLUB ACTIVE.
An invitation by letter to all members of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association to visit the shooting range of the Outboard Marine Skeet Club and take part in knocking down clay pigeons was read at an executive meeting last night. There is a glass front rest room and good accommodation for spectators or for any member of the Association who wishes to shoot. Any member may shoot as a guest on three occasions but must take out membership after that if he wishes to continue. A nominal charge is made for ammunition to cover cost of the pigeons.

Ask Government To Increase Wolf Bounty $10

Near wholesale slaughter of deer by wolves in the northern part of Peterborough County in recent weeks prompted the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association to draft a resolution urging the Provincial Government to increase the bounty on the animals from $15 to $25.

Ravenous timber wolves running in packs left the carcasses of eight deer lying in the marshes near Nogie's Creek this week according to residents of Bobcaygeon, and many settlers in the district report that the howls of wolf packs on the hunt have been heard many times since Christmas. Yesterday it was reported that a farmer cutting ice at Kosh Lake, in Methune Township northeast of the head of Stoney Lake left his horse for a few hours and when he returned a wolf pack had killed the animal and eaten most of it.

More evidence that the depredations of the wolves is general is indicated by reports from Lakefield and Young's Point that deer are seeking shelter on the islands in Stoney Lake and as far south as Lake Katchawanooka, many of them having been spotted as they crossed the ice.

Killed Two Wolves.

Jim Geraghty, prominent business man and a veteran deer hunter, urged the members to seek an increase in the bounty for the wolves. He explained that while the party of deer hunters with whom he hunted last fall in Parry Sound were out they killed two wolves. "The Parry Sound section where we hunted was over-run with wolves; they were running with the dogs and at night we heard the choruses from all corners of the compass," he said.

"It was the first time of all the years our club has hunted the district that the wolves were so plentiful. They seemed to have a contempt for hunters this year. The one I shot committed suicide; he stood looking at me, and it was a simple thing to dispatch him." This incident, according to Mr. Geraghty, was very unusual because although it is common to hear wolves, it is quite another thing for a hunter to get one in the sights of his gun.

"A wolf is the canniest animal in the Canadian woods, he is much smarter than a fox, and not even a veteran trapper can go into the woods and make money hunting wolves when the bounty is only $15. The pelts are practically useless. We have not been able to dispose of the two we obtained on the deer hunt," he stated.

He explained further that beaver and otter are protected by regulations and a man going into the woods would have to rely almost entirely on the wolves he shot to make a living. "It would certainly take a real woodsman to make any money at all," was Wallace Harvey's comment.

Machinery Complicated.

"I had more trouble catching the magistrate than I had getting the wolf," Mr. Geraghty said, and went on to tell the members that when he did get the magistrate, the latter refused to sign the necessary papers until the pelts were produced, which meant another trip. The members of the executive agreed that the machinery for obtaining the bounty was much too complicated and should be simplified. The motion framing the resolution was moved by Mr. Geraghty and seconded by E. A. Outram.

"It is unfortunate that Manitoba and Quebec pay only $15 bounty, the same as Ontario, because if the bounty is increased in Ontario there is always the danger that pelts would be smuggled in from the other provinces," Fred Marshall remarked.

One member recalled a case where this had been done several years ago, and the offender was caught by the R.C.M.P., convicted and fined $300.

The members were unanimous that immediate steps should be taken to encourage trappers and woodsmen to go after the wolves, because positive evidence was available of the loss already sustained in Peterborough County, while the experience of Mr. Geraghty indicated there was quite an increase in the number of wolves in the Parry Sound district.

The resolution will be tabled at the annual meeting of the Ontario Federation of Anglers at the King Edward Hotel in Toronto next Tuesday when five members of the local association will attempt to show the need for immediate action on this question.

Three Plead Guilty To Taking Muskies

"I was just catching one to eat," Norman Young, 29, of Fenelon Falls, told Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of having illegally caught maskinonge in Harvey township during the closed season.

Young was fined $10 and costs, and as he was unable to pay will go to jail for ten days.

Two other men, Eldon Thibideaux and Howard Nicholls of Bobcaygeon entered written pleas of guilty to the same offence and paid $10 and $2.50 costs.

The charges were laid by Overseers Wallace Scott and A. M. Hodgson, who caught the three men on January 19, fishing through the ice on Nogie's Creek and using snares to catch muskies.

It Could Be the Hunter Street Bridge

Released by Ontario's Minister of Public Works, Hon. T. B. McQuesten, this architect's sketch shows the proposed new $4,000,000 international bridge to replace the famous Honeymoon Bridge at Niagara Falls, which was destroyed by ice jams last winter. The proposed bridge would be built with public funds by an international commission and would be known as the Rainbow Bridge.

Cyanite Mining Is Described To Cobourg Club

COBOURG, Feb. 3.—Some very interesting facts bearing on the production of Nepheline Cyanite in Methune Township, Peterborough County, were given to members of the Cobourg Rotary Club at its luncheon meeting by J. Duncan, assistant secretary of the Canadian Nepheline Company, of Lakefield. The speaker was introduced by J. T. M. Ashley.

In his address the speaker declared that as far as he knew the company by which he is employed is the only nepheline producing company in the universe. Large deposits of ore have been found in Russia, India and Canada with smaller deposits in New Jersey, New Hampshire, Virginia and Montana. Of these the Canadian deposit is the only one that enjoys an extensive commercial development.

Regarding the deposit in Methune Township, Mr. Duncan said there is no doubt that the supply of ore will be sufficient to last a lifetime. Some five million tons were available when the first five claims were staked. Since then some fifty-three other claims have been added with a substantial increase in the possible tonnage.

It was explained that the nepheline cyanite ore in Methune Township has been found to be very pure and uniform. Its origin dates back several hundred million years and it is an igneous rock formed by heavy pressure and extreme heat. It is being accepted by the glass industry as it contains a very low content of iron and introduces elumina into the glass vats as well as being much more fusible than products used formerly in glass manufacture. Its use in the production of glass gives an added brilliancy and more durability.

Describing the mine near Lakefield, Mr. Duncan said that there are three open faces two of which are being used at present. Each face is some sixty to seventy feet high and one hundred feet wide. After blasting the rock is crushed and later haulted twenty-six miles to the mill at Lakefield.

It was further stated that the Canadian company supplies fifty per cent. of the need of Canadian glass companies, although the biggest outlet is to the United States glass firms. The company has a mill at Lakefield with a production of fifty tons a day and another mill at Rochester with a production of two hundred tons a day.

Man Pleads Guilty To Stealing Overcoat

Harry Sipes pleaded guilty in police court this morning to stealing an overcoat from O. J. Friskin, to the value of over $25 and was remanded by Magistrate Langley until Tuesday for sentence.

Alfred Freeman, charged with vagrancy, and who pleaded not guilty also was remanded on bail of $200

Chief Constable Newhall said that Freeman had been with Sipes and another man Thursday night. Sipes and the other man had only recently been released from the Ontario Reformatory at Burwash and had been drinking. The other man had sold his overcoat to get money for liquor and then to get more money Sipes had stolen an overcoat from the Empress Hotel.

Progressive Euchre Party In Norwood

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Feb. 3.—A progressive euchre party sponsored by the Donegal Hockey club was held in King's Hotel on Thursday evening and proved successful. There were 13 tables of euchre played. Lunch was served by the hockey boys at the close of the games. During the lunch hour the prizes were distributed to the winners. Ladies' first and second prize went to Mrs. Bert Lochead. Men's pizes went to Alfred Thompson and Wm. Montgomery. Consolation prize went to Gid Brown. Percy Elliott won the Lucky Cup prize.

Clashes Are Numerous As Board Strikes Estimates For Year

Providing for the engagement of a nurse to take charge of the well babies clinic, and a smaller amount for tuberculin test of all secondary school students in the city, the Board of Health Thursday afternoon recommended to the finance committee of the council estimates of $13,000 as compared with $12,000 in 1938. The expenditure last year totalled $12,323.47.

City Treasurer Shaver said the expenditure in 1937 was $8,723, and in 1936 it was $9,704.

"You can't get away from the fact that we've been eight months without a well babies' clinic," was the cryptic remark by Alderman Stocker, who was re-elected chairman on Mayor Hamiltons motion, seconded by Alderman Dutton. Other members present were Alderman McCannan and Dr. J. M. Fraser, M.O.H.

Alderman Stocker argued sharply that the Board's estimates should not be increased over the amount last year. When the expenditures of three or four years ago were recalled, Alderman Dutton said there was lots of leeway for the several proposed service improvements.

"Last year was an abnormal year," he commented, and Alderman Stocker's remark was, "I'd like to know what you call a $13,500 year?" The first total suggested was that amount, but it was reduced to $13,000.

"Abnormal," was Alderman Dutton's reply in one word.

Off to a Bad Start

The Board seemed to get off on the wrong foot at this special meeting, which was called for the purpose of passing the estimates. Minor notes of friction sounded through the first half hour, and shortly after he had nominated the chairman, Mayor Hamilton leaned toward Alderman Dutton and was heard to say, "I'm not going on like this. We ought to ask for his resignation."

Alderman Stocker heard or sensed something adverse, for he said, "I'm handing you facts and you can't stand them."

"Not facts," Alderman Dutton replied, "just statements."

Dr. Neal's Complaint

A letter from Dr. Frank Neal, complaining that several patients he was treating had been advised to report to the chest clinic, now nearing the end of its local engagement in the city hall.

Dr. Fraser said the Public Health Nurse, Miss Kearney, had presumed too much, "and if sufficient care had been exercise dthe mistake wouldn't have happened."

"I don't think it amounts to anything," said Alderman Stocker.

"Irritating things like that do not make for harmony," Ald. Dutton suggested.

"I don't think Miss Kearney would have told Dr. Neal's patients to attend if she had known," said Ald. McCannan.

Dr. Fraser—My instructions were that private patients were to be disregarded.

Ald. Stocker—It all proves this girl is on the job.

The rasping of contrary opinions in that opening discussion set the blue key note for the meeting.

Alderman Dutton moved, seconded by Mayor Hamilton, that a letter be sent to Dr. Neal expressing regret about the incident of his complaint, "and assuring him that the Board of Health has no desire to interfere with his or any other doctor's private patients." Another resolution directed that no "private patient" of a doctor be invited or requested to attend a chest clinic without his assent.

Purchase of Gasoline

Proposed purchase of gasoline for all civic cars from municipal tanks, tightened the atmosphere again. Mayor Hamilton said the police department objected because the yard on Townsend street was not open on Sundays. Alderman Stocker suggested that the police were unwilling for the reason that their mileage could be calculated from their gasoline bills.

"It's not that at all," Mayor Hamilton replied, with a burst of impatience. "We can get their mileage any time we want it from their voucher slips."

Dr. Fraser explained that the $300 for tuberculin testing of students of the Collegiate Institute and St. Peter's High School would pay for X-ray photographs which would be included in the testing. The Ontario Department of Health would assume the rest of the cost and details. From departmental experience, 300 positive results were the average from the examination of 1500 persons, and that was the number of students who should take the tuberculin test as a public health precaution.

Drunken Driving Charge Withdrawn

Andrew Moffatt of Mimico pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving on George Street, when he was arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court today. The charge was the result of an early morning accident on George street between London and Dublin streets, when the car driven by Moffatt crashed into a taxi cab and both vehicles received considerable damage.

Moffatt, who was defenced by T. J. Carley, K.C., had previously pleaded not guilty to a charge of drunken driving and that charge was withdrawn this morning.

On the reckless driving count, Magistrate Langley imposed a fine of $20 and $9 costs but made no order in regard to the driving permit of the accused.

Crown Attorney McElderry told the court before sentence was passed that there had been some evidence of liquor in the case.

Factory Bylaw Ready For Hamilton Twp.

Hamilton Township Council will likely decide on Monday to submit to its ratepayers a by-law providing for a fixed assessment of the plant the Aluminum Company of Canada proposed to build on a property of eighty acres east of Cobourg. It will provide for an assessment of $75,000 of land and buildings and $45,000 bussiness assessment, a total of $120,000. Cobourg is anxious to have the by-law submitted at as early a date as possible.

The company has asked for a guarantee of fifty houses. Forty of them were pledged early this week, and it was expected that the others would be assured by to-day. It is understood that the new factory will employ two hundred men of whom fifty would be skilled mechanics for whom housing accommodation becomes an immediate necessity. The other employees are to be engaged locally. According to reports from Cobourg the Aluminum Company is planning to go into the manufacture of airplanes, of which the wings and other parts are now made of aluminum. Their primary plant is at Arvida, Quebec, with offices in Montreal, and a factory in Toronto, where an extensive line of aluminum products is manufactured.

Cobourg papers intimate that the company's decision to locate there will depend on the passing of the fixed assessment by-law and also on the local undertaking to provide fifty houses for employees. One report comments: "It would appear that Cobourg is being very favorably considered as the location for the plant, and that decision will be taken shortly."

Musical Travelogue To Be Given In City

With a fine series of natural color motion pictures of the British Isles from Devon, Cornwall and Ireland to the Burns Country and the Trossachs, Harold Eustace Key, conductor of the Mendelssohn Choir of Montreal, has a very charming musical travelogue to present in St. Andrew's United Church, corner Brock and Rubidge Streets, at 8 p.m. February 7.

Heavier Minimum Penalties For Fish And Game Laws Urged By Local Association

Heavier minimum penalties for infractions of the Fish and Game laws will be sought by the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association through the Ontario Federation of Anglers at the annual meeting of the latter on Tuesday next in Toronto.

"The minimum penalty at present is $5 and this is much too light, Fred Marshall, president of the Association, remarked. With the few officers we have the odds are all in favor of the poacher, and often after a great deal of careful investigation and work, an offender gets off with a $5 fine and leaves the court room laughing. All the man has to do to recover his fine, is to catch a few more lunge and sell them."

It was reported at the meeting, that last year officials of the Department had voiced favor of a plan to stiffen the penalties, and Peterborough are merely supporting this suggestion.

The local organization will also ask that each fish taken in contravention of the law be listed as a separate offence, the same as game birds are, under the provisions governing them. This is expected to act as a further deterrent to those who persist in taking game fish out of season.

Ban Spears

Another resolution seeks to make it illegal to have a spear suitable for the spearing of fish in one's possession. Under existing regulations, it is an offence to use a spear at any time in the waters of this county and adjoining counties. Even the taking of coarse fish with a spear is forbidden, and last night the executive felt it should be an offence to have one. The game laws make it illegal to have a gun in one's possession on a game preserve, or in the woods, without a permit, but under the present law a man may have a spear in the boat and if he has not been catching fish with it, it is not an offence.

Regret was expressed by Fred Marshall that two very active members of the Association had tendered their resignations, Clint Heath and A. R. Kennedy. Last year Heath was chairman of the membership committee, so it was decided that for the time being the membership committee would be a committee of the entire executive. On motion of Chris Graham and Jim Geraghty, Frank Barrett was named as an executive member.

The Carp Menace

This year a resolution is going forward to Department of Game and Fisheries, seeking to have the government biologists make a further study of the habits of carp, with the hope of controlling them before they make their way into the waters of the lower Kawarthas. Wallace Harvey and J. Geraghty supported the resolution.

Mr. Geraghty, who is a deer and moose hunter, spoke in favor of having the two main sporting organizations amalgamate for greater strength and to further the aims of both. A resolution, asking that the Ontario Hunters' Association and Ontario Federation of Anglers, with perhaps the Association of Ontario Naturalists, all unite under a common name.

Other resolutions, which will be carried to the annual meeting of the Ontario Federation of Anglers next Tuesday, are as follows:—

That the open season for lake trout, pickerel, be from May 16th to September 30th, provided, however, that in water inhabited by bass or lunge, no one shall fish from a boat or other floating device from October 1st to May 15th, both days inclusive. This means that fishing for pickerel from May 16th to July 1st could be from the shore, or dam or pier and no boat could be used.

That no lunge be taken under 24 inches in length from tip of tail to tip of snout.

It was pointed out in one resolution, that for the one fisherman of 25 years ago, there were a hundred today and more effective methods for the taking of fish had been devised with a consequent depletion. Because of this the members felt the restocking work must be pushed and open seasons shortened in the cases of certain varieties of fish.

New Challenger

Fire Department winners of the annual ice classic with the Bus Drivers, scarcely had time to doctor their bruises when a new challenge was hurled at them. This time it is the husky employees of the Peterborough Utilities Commission headed by one Harry Spargo, who is said to have seen the Fire Department-Bus Drivers game and reported back to his gang that either team is a pushover for the Utilities.

July 1 Favored For Opening Of Lunge Season

Executive members of the Peterborough fish and Game Protective Association voted unanimously last night to have the members of the County Council's special committee of game and fish conservation taken into the city organization as members of the executive.

A motion moved by Jim Geraghty and seconded by Wallace Harvey, voiced the pleasure of the executive members at the action of the County Council in appointing a committee of its members to cooperate throughout the county. The secretary was instructed to write Warden Milby, expressing the pleasure of the members and their willingness to cooperate to the fullest extent.

Harry Kingdon, chairman of the restocking committee, showed a list of lakes and streams for which requisitions of fry had been made to the department, and when it was explained to him that Reeve Curtain of Galway was seeking information on restocking, it was suggested that requisition forms would be given to Reeve Wallace Shearer, chairman of the county committee, so that any one of the heads of the northern municipalities could make their own requisitions.

After some discussion, the members voted to support a resolution setting the open season for bass and lunge from July 1st to September 30th, both dates inclusive.

Chris Graham, vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Anglers, and member of the xecutive committeen of the Peterborough Association, will carry with him all resolutions from the local club next week. He said this Association is expected to lead the general discussion at the meeting.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

READ THIS FIRST:

Elsie Ritter, a beauty shop operator, taking the place of a friend for a week in the private salon of Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Sr., finds herself involved in a mystery when the eccentric old lady is found dead under one of the hair driers after Elsie had left the room for a few moments. She is further humiliated when she learns that one of the servants in the Manor's household suspects her of taking Mrs. Witherspoon's emeralds, which are missing. Certain members of the Witherspoon family and some of the house guests strike Elsie as queer, and she is surprised when the old lady's son, Horace Witherspoon, advises her to say nothing of the missing jewels for fear of publicity and the police. The coroner arrives for his investigation. Phil Benson, Elsie's friend and a reporter, comes for an obituary for his paper and Elsie shows him around the mansion. Mrs. Witherspoon's funeral is held the next day. Elsie is at her wit's end when Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Jr., dies suddenly while under the same ill-fated drier in the salon the next morning. The police arrive and launch an investigation. The coroner pronounces the second death a case of murder and says he suspects poison. The chief of police threatens to arrest Elsie when she cannot explain the disappearance of old Mrs. Witherspoon's jewels. Then Phil Benson arrives.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER NINETEEN

"WHAT'S THIS all about?" Phil demanded of Chief Ellis. "You don't seriously suspect Elsie, do you?"

"She's mixed up in the murder," Chief Ellis insisted. "She has a lot of explaining to do."

"Don't listen to him!" I dried my tears. "I'll tell you everything!" And I repeated my story of the morning's events. When I had finished I felt much better. It was up to Phil now, and he was a darned sight smarter than the whole Lawnville police force. That I knew!

"You don't think I did it, do you?" I demanded as he remained silent.

"No, No, of course not. But surely you see, darling, that it does look bad for you. Plenty bad! We must find out who did poison Mrs. Horace and who did steal the emeralds or"—he paused, and my heart slid to the bottom of my boots—"never mind," and he smiled and squeezed my hand, "we'll find out some way."

"I'll find out," Chief Ellis corrected. "You leave things to me."

"That's just what I'm going to do," Phil cracked the palms of his hands together. "I'm going to get Mac McIntyre out here!"

"Mac McIntyre!" I echoed. "Who is he?"

"Never mind!" Phil was leafing through the phone book. "What th' hell is his number?"

"Listen here Benson!" The chief of police sounded perturbed. "There no need to call McIntyre in on this!"

But Phil was not listening. He was talking eagerly into the mouthpiece of the telephone.

"He's coming right out!" he shouted presently, banging the receiver. "And, baby, that's a break! Mac will get to the bottom of things in no time."

But who is he?" I persisted. "I never heard of him."

"Who is he?" Phil laughed excitedly. "He's a hometown lad who made good in the big city! Head of the Chicago homicide squad!"

"Is he in Chicago now?"

"Hardly. He's right downtown at the hotel. Got shot up in some gangster affair a month or so ago, and he's back in Lawnville to recuperate. But give a fire horse the smell of the hose and he'll come running. He jumped at the chance to get in on this business."

Chief Ellis objected: "You have no authority to call him in on this case! I'm chief of police in this town."

"Don't be that way, Ellis," Phil chided him. "He's not going to usurp your authority. Besides, Elsie is entitled to hire herself a private detective if she wants to."

I protested: "I can't afford a private detective."

"You can't afford to go to jail! Don't worry sugar, just leave things to me."

"All right," I said. Leaving things to him suited me perfectly.

"You two come with me," Ellis ordered. "I'm going to question the others and I want you with me."

"O. K." Phil lighted a cigaret. "Lead on!"

The drawing room was the size of the library, although much lighter and brighter. The furnishings were formal. Gilt tables and chairs and stiff settees covered with cloth of gold. Dull saffron drapes caught the sun's rays and diffused a pale, golden light throughout the room. Paintings hung upon the walls; a floor-to-ceiling mirror embellished with fat, gilt cupids reflected the scene.

"I'm going to ask each of you where you were at the time of the crime," Ellis said, walking to the center of the room. "I know," he added, as a murmur of protest arose from his listeners, "I know none of you were in the salon between eleven and eleven-fifteen, but I want to know where else you were. Now we'll start and go around the room."

"Where were you, Mr. Witherspoon, during those fifteen minutes?"

"I spent the entire morning in the library," Mr. Horace replied, quietly.

"Did anyone see you there?"

"No; I was quite alone."

"Do you have any idea who murdered your wife?

"I have not." And I admired the manner in which he received that brutal question without flinching.

"She had no enemies?"

"I can't think so; she was well liked by all."

"Do you think she committed suicide?"

"I don't know! I don't know." The little man held his body rigid. "I had rather believe that she killed herself than that she was murdered."

"Did she ever to your knowledge threaten to kill herself?"

"No, No! But she was easily depressed and subject to spells of melancholia."

I sat up. The suicide angle dumfounded me! I had never thought of suicide and yet—yet it was possible! I was the only person who knew positively that I had not administered poison, and if I had not, who had? The further I went the more tangled I became. Perhaps Mrs. Horace had decided that life was not worth living. Still, a woman who contemplates suicide does not usually undergo the agony of a permanent wave to look pretty in her coffin! That part of it did not make sense. I gave up trying to figure out the whys and wherefores, and focused my wandering attention upon the chief of police.

"Mother did not kill herself!" cried Daphne, her eyes bright pools of horror. "She couldn't bear to think of death. It frightened her horribly!"

"Is that so?" Chief Ellis stared at her. "What do you know about this business, Miss Witherspoon?"

"I?" She bit her underlip as the color drained slowly from her face. "I know nothing about it," she stated clearly.

"Yet you were the only person to visit the salon while your mother was there?"

"If you say so."

"Just what was the object of your visit?"

Daphne's mouth curled slightly. "I had no object," she said glibly. "I dropped in to see how the permanent was progressing."

"So you knew she was going to have a permanent?"

"Yes, I knew."

"Who else knew of it?"

Someone knocked a book from the top of a table. It crashed loudly to the floor. The chief's eyes located the culprit and glared at him. In that instant that his gaze shifted from Daphne Witherspoon to her brother, who inadventently had dropped the book and so caused the disturbance, in that instant I glimpsed something that started a train of thought in my mind I would have given anything to ignore.

For no reason at all, perhaps because I was watching her so closely, I did not shift my gaze from the girl to the boy. And because of this I saw something which the others missed.

I saw Daphne Witherspoon as she pondered the policeman's question. I saw her open her mouth to reply and close it again. I saw her remember some one thing to which, until that moment, she had attached no significance, or had completely forgotten. Some one thing that struck her dumb so that she stood stricken, pale as marble from lips to brow.

"Well?" Ellis returned to her.

"I'm afraid I missed the question," she said with apparent indifference, but her hands in her lap were clenched and interlocked.

"I asked whether anyone else in the house knew of the permanent," he repeated, frowning as if he were not greatly pleased at the way things were shaping—or not shaping.

Daphne hesitated so briefly before replying, so briefly, that it was barely noticeable she hesitated at all. "I really couldn't say," she said, and her voice as she mouthed the lie was unfaltering. I felt myself getting sick. Daphne, that bright-haired young thing!

"Do you mean you don't know?"

"Yes."

"Miss Ritter!" He shouted my name so unexpectedly that my blood seemed to turn to water.

"Ye-es?"

"I want you to repeat as nearly as possible the conversation that took place between Miss Witherspoon and her mother this morning in the salon."

"Why — why — I wasn't paying much attention."

Chief Ellis would not be evaded He demanded: "Did Miss Witherspoon say anything that might lead you to think she had persuaded her mother to have a permanent?"

"Well"—I tried to swallow and choked—"she did say so, yes."

"What was it she said."

"That she had been trying for a long time to persuade her mother to have a wave."

"So" He had scored his point. I felt sicker than ever. I braced myself for a third question, but he turned from me and back to the girl.

"Did you say that?"

Daphne shrugged. "Possibly, I don't remember."

"My dear man!" Mr. Horace intervened. "Don't you think you are making a mistake? Daphne was devoted to her mother."

Chief Ellis replied: "I'm not accusing your daughter, Mr. Witherspoon. All will be questioned before we're finished."

"You're making a damned jackass of yourself, that's what you're doing!" Richard leaped to his feet.

Manners Help Family Win Social Standing

What a help socially to be one of a family known for its well-bred behavior! The Smiths observe the fine points of etiquette in company and at home.

When they meet the important Mrs. Jones at the club, Mrs. Smith knows it's correct to introduce her daughter before her husband, so she says, "This is my daughter Faith, Mrs. Jones." Women, even young girls, are always introduced before men.

Mr. Smith she introduces with "Mrs. Jones, may I present my husband?" She'd never refer to him as "Mr. Smith"—except to servants or tradespeople.

The Smiths make such a charming impression that Faith will surely be asked to the dance Mrs. Jones is giving for her daughter.

And Faith will fit easily into the Jones circle. She's accustomed to courtesies from men, for Mr. Smith opens doors for his wife and daughter, helps them with their wraps. When Jones, Jr., sends flowers, Faith will telephone at once to thank him.

Give yourself and family "social security." Our 32-page booklet, ETIQUETTE: THE CORRECT THING TO DO, gives smooth manners for the whole family. Tells what's expected in public places, at dances, the theatre, when travelling, at bridge.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of ETIQUETTE: THE CORRECT THING TO DO, to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Woman's Ability To Cry Often Gains Her Point, But Just As Often Does Great Damage Because They Are Signs of Selfishness

PROBABLY no other gift that heaven can bestow upon a girl is so valuable as the ability to weep without her nose getting red. It is an asset upon which she can always depend in need. For if given eyes that can become wells of grief that overflow in crystal drops that do not even wash the make-up off of their owner's cheeks, a woman can get away with murder, as is amply proven by the number of ladies who float safely past the electric chair on their tears.

Why tears have this strange and mysterious power upon us, we do not know. For, in reality, we all have a contempt for whiners and complainers. Also, we know perfectly well that nine times out of ten tears are a racket of which we are being made the victim, yet when we see a woman weeping into her handkerchief we don't say: "Moron! Coward! Weakling! Don't be a cry-baby. Act your age. Get up and do something about whatever ails you."

On the contrary, we "poor darling" her and pity her, and let her sob on our shoulders until we have got rheumatism in them and she has got out of us whatever she wants. Drying a widow's tears is the most costly and hazardous undertaking in which any man ever engages, as many a gay and carefree bachelor has discovered. What there is in a woman's tears that paralyzes our judgment and turns our spinal columns into mush, science has not been able to determine, but it is there all right. And it enables any little two-by-four woman, with the brain of a canary bird, who is a free weeper to outwit the most astute man, to change a bemedaled war hero into a trembling coward, to cause honest men to become thieves and strong men to work themselves to death to try to stop the flood she poured over them.

We see this happen every day. We know plenty of men who are married to women whom they have never loved and never had the slightest intention of marrying until Ethel or Sally or Maud turned the hydraulic pressure on them and landed them at the altar before they knew it. They could have withstood any other sort of force, but when a pretty little thing clung to them and cried for them, they didn't have the heart to refuse her.

And look at the henpecked men we know, the poor, downtrodden creatures who say "our" pants and dare not call their souls their own! Are they dominated by Amazons who crack the whip over them and make them jump through the hoop at their command? Rarely. The lady dictators of the home seldom rule with an iron rod. They do it with their tears. They use the water cure on their husbands whenever they show any signs of rebellion, and they collapse into a sodden mass of acquiescence.

A man can fight with a wife who fights back. He can argue with one who is open to reason. But he is helpless before one who just sits down and opens the flood gates until she drowns out his last ounce of resistance and makes the home such a damp, dismal, uninhabitable place that he gives in to get out of it.

But the worst weepers, the most conscienceless ones and the ones who do the most harm are the mothers who rule their children through the tyranny of tears. Mother doesn't want Sally to marry the fine young man she is engaged to, and she cries and cries and cries until she forces Sally to give up her lover and settle down into a dreary spinsterhood. Mother doesn't want John to leave the old farm, or little village, to go where fortune calls him, so she shuts the door of opportunity in his face by bursting into tears every time he says anything about leaving her.

Many mothers enslave their children to them by their ability to sob every time their children make an effort to get out from under their thumbs and have a little life of their own. If the youngsters want to step out, if they want to have friends, they have to wade through mother's tears to do so, and it isn't worth the price. They give in and drown in salt water. Of course, tears are always a coward's weapon, but when a woman uses them she is pretty sure to win the fight.

And your little darling will be just thrilled with this new woollen skater-skirt jumper dress with a "snug-me-tight" jacket-top. It's exactly like grown-up sister is wearing for school....ice-skating and roller-skating. The jacket-top makes it so cosy and warm besides being such a popular fashion. Match or contrast the jacket-top to the jumper skirt with suspenders in monotone woollen....or combine a plaid and monotone woollen that picks up one of the colors of the plaid. The separate buttoned-down-the-shirt type blouse may be of woollen or of cotton. She can wear the jacket-top over some of her other frocks of cotton or of woollen. Wear it with other skirts and top the suspender skirt with sweaters.

Style No. 3087 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1¼ yards of 39-inch material for blouse; 1½ yards of 39-inch for skirt and 1¼ yards of 39-inch material for jacket.

The Stars Say...

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, February 4.

A day of strange, sudden, unpredictable occurrences is read from this very intriguing layout of the planetary forces. Results may be radically disruptive or devastating, although surprising denouements may in the end prove highly advantageous and breath-taking. Such a whirl of disruption and good fortune might possibly be attributable to an unexpected inheritance or to the startling coming to life of some dead issue or long-static situation. Be wary; use strategy where it will serve best.

Those whose birthday it is are justified in getting ready for some sort of whirlwind visitation, for there may be sudden and surprising upheavals with devastating and staggering denouement. It might be an unexpected inheritance or some other windfall. It will demand definite change, involving perhaps domestic or emotional strain, or inharmony with superiors, but there is assurance of a grand culmination and congratulations.

A child born on this day may be audacious and adventurous, fond of drastic action and probably sensa- may be studious, steadfast, and rational ambitions. Nevertheless, it sponsible, industrious and resolute, making a career of no mean significance. It may gain by bequest, trust or windfall of some sort.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

The other morning the two children went over to the aquarium where Alphonse, the goldfish, was swimming around. They stood over the top of it and looked down.

The moment they did so their two shadows—Knarf and Hanid—found themselves inside the aquarium, sitting on the pebbles at the bottom. Shadows don't mind being under the water, you know. They instantly turn into water-reflections.

Alphonse swam over to them. "Good-morning," he said very pleasantly. "It's nice of you to drop in. Would you like to take a little ride?"

"A ride?" the two shadows asked.

"On my back," said Alphonse.

Hanid Rests.

Knarf wanted to do it right away.

Away went Alphonse.

But Hanid said: "It might look funny if the children noticed us riding on your back. I'll just sit here and rest."

So Knarf got on Alphonse's back. "Hold tight!" said Alphonse.

The goldfish put up his back fin and Knarf leaned against it as hard as he could. He pressed his knees against Alphonse's sides. As they passed one of the little under-water plants the shadow-boy picked a tiny thin stem. He leaned over and drew it through Alphonse's mouth. He held both ends in his hand.

"Now you're like a water-horse!" he cried.

Away whent Alphonse as Knarf shouted: "Gid-dap!" He darted in and out among the plants and the rocks. He dipped and he swerved. He flipped and he flapped.

That Was It!

"Maybe we're frightening him by staying so close to the aquarium," they thought. So they walked away.

And the instant they did—pouf! right out of the aquarium sprang Hanid. And Knarf, though he tried to hold on to Alphonse with all his might, popped off his back and shot through the water and landed all of a heap on the carpet outside.

"Drop back again soon, for another ride. I enjoyed it very much!" Alphonse called to him from the front window of his water-house. But Knarf wasn't sure whether he would or not. How would you like to go riding on a goldfish's back?

Looking Back
On This Date

Sixty years ago today (Feb. 3, 1879), the Church of England in Canada suffered a great loss by the death at the age of 79 of the Rt. Rev. Alexander Neil Bethune, second bishop of Toronto. He was the first Canadian-born bishop, having seen the light at Glengarry in the manse of his great father, the Rev. John Bethune, founder of Presbyterianism in Upper Canada.

Dr. Bethune was a Scot of the second generation. Like Dr. Strachan, he was born into the Presbyterian church, but largely through his mother's influence became attached to the Anglican church in his youth, being ordained deacon in 1821 when only 21 years of age. For many years he was rector of Cobourg and principal of the Theological institute, the first training school founded by Archdeacon Strachan. He was also for many years editor of The Church, a publication which had wide circulation and was regarded by many as the mouthpiece of the great Strachan

Alexander Bethune was a powerful preacher, a first-class administrator and much more conciliatory than was Strachan, yet never yielding his determination to defend his church. In 1847 he was named Archdeacon of York (Toronto) and was regarded as Dr. Strachan's chief lieutenant, so that it was no surprise when the latter chose Bethune to be his coadjutor just before his death in 1867.

Bishop Bethune has no niche in the history of Canada like that occupied by his predecessor. He left politics alone, and for 12 years administered the diocese of Toronto with ability and without friction, at a time when the split was developing between the Evangelicals and those inclined to more ornate services, a legacy he left for his successor, Bishop Sweatman, to cope with. The Bethune family has given many noted sons to Canadian service. Among them, the second bishop of Toronto takes high rank. His biography of Bishop Strachan should be much consulted this year when the Church of England in Canada is to celebrate the centenary of the founding of the first diocese in Upper Canada.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water, and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing, or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.—(Advt.)

HOW IS YOUR DIGESTION?

IF you are troubled with gas, sour stomach, or heartburn, your digestion probably needs assistance. A tonic that tends to improve the digestion is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It stimulates the appetite too, and as a result you feel more vigorous. Lorne Tourel, 292 Berkley St., Toronto, Ont., says: "Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery helped to stimulate my appetite and toned up my stomach in great shape. After eating I would belch gas, also had sour stomach, and the 'Discovery' relieved me of this condition and made me feel better in many ways." Buy Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in liquid or tablets at your drug store.

4-Hour Tie-up

ORILLIA, Ont., Feb. 3.—(CP). — The Canadian National Railways line was tied up four hours a mile south of here early to-day by two broken trucks on an express car. The broken trucks were on the express car immediately behind the tender on Train No. 3, the Toronto-Winnipeg flyer that left Toronto at 10.30 p.m.

Train No. 47 that leaves Toronto 45 minutes later for Timmins was delayed three hours. An auxiliary train from Allandale, divisional headquarters, replaced the broken trucks.

Mrs. Gandhi Arrested

RAJKOT, India, Feb. 3.—(AP).—Police arrested Mrs. Kasturibhai Gandhi, wife of Mohandas K. Gandhi, when she arrived in Rajkot State to-day to participate in a civil disobedience campaign. Mrs. Gandhi came here despite a previous police warning she would be arrested. She already has served six periods of imprisonment for political activities.

A Divorce Cure

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 3. — (AP) — "Old fashioned wood shed paddlings," thinks Judge Henry Goett, might result in fewer divorces—especially among 'teen age couples. He told a couple wrangling in his court over who should get a divorce: "The best thing that could happen to you is for your parents to take you out in the woodshed and give you an old-fashioned paddling."

Flyer Resigns

OTTAWA, Feb. 3 — (C.P.). — George M. Ross of Ottawa, widely known in flying circles in Canada and the United States, has resigned as general executive secretary of the Canadian Flying Clubs' Association, it was learned to-day. He had held the post since 1930. No successor has been named.

St. David's Welsh Society Is Entertained

A delightful musical evening was enjoyed Wednesday night when St. David's Welsh Society members and their friends were entertained by St. George's Choir, and graciously presented for their hosts a program which opened with a Welsh hymn. Numbers on the program included a vocal solo by Mr. A. Kirkcaldy; vocal duet by Mrs. W. J. Davies and Mr. A. Kirkcaldy; vocal solo by Mr. J. Cairns; quartette composed of Mrs. J. Cairns, Mrs. W. Davies, Mr. Kirkcaldy and Mr. J. Cairns, and a vocal solo by Mrs. W. J. Davies. Mrs. E. Pearse was pianist. Prior to the program the choirmaster, Mr. Jack Branson, introduced the president, Miss M. Sims, who extended a welcome to the guests.

Rev. T. H. Floyd, rector of St. George's Church, thanked the society for the fine program, and extended a welcome to the members to attend St. George's Church on the Sunday nearest St. David's Day, which falls on March 5. Mr. V. Mills, president of the Welsh Society, expressed the appreciation of its members to the hosts.

Community singing was led by Mr. Jack Branson, and tea was served by Miss Helen Crowe and her social committee. The Welsh National Anthem and God Save the King was sung at the close of the evening's entertainment.

Eason—Nelson

At a quiet wedding ceremony in the Keene United Church manse on Friday afternoon, January 27, Rev. J. S. Ferguson officiating, Miss Edith M. Nelson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Nelson of Keene, was united in marriage to Mr. George Alan Eason, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Eason.

The bridal couple were attended by Miss Evelyn Nelson, sister of the bride, and Mr. Richard Eason, brother of the groom.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents, and later Mr. and Mrs. Eason left by motor for Toronto.

We Noticed

. . . . If you are thinking of summer as a time when you "let down your hair" and relax from your position as a model to dainty femininity, it looks as if you'll have to change your plans, girls. According to all the early indications, women are going in for being more definitely feminine than ever—fashions, manners, and even makeup are being revolutionized. . . . . Bathing suits with puffy sleeves and bloomers, sunbonnets to duck Old Sol's rays, soft-color combinations such as pink and green (to remind you of apple blossoms and romance), delicate tones of makeup and very flossy afternoon dresses are the harbingers of an ultra-feminine era.

✧ ✧ ✧

. . . . Still carrying out the "dainty maiden" idea are the new colorings. Cyclamen is combined with aquamarine, magenta pink with green, clear lime with medium fuchsia, soft pinks and odd blues with fuchsias, pink and greens. If you are one who simply cannot do without navy blue for spring, have it, providing you combine it with the new geranium red. But the softer pinks, with a tinge of purple, will be far more fashionable.

ONCE IN A BLUE MOON

By ALICE ALDEN

Once in a blue moon the all-around suit appears on the fashion horizon. By this we mean a suit that looks good at luncheon or cocktails, for a stroll in the city or in the suburbs. Kitty Carlisle has discovered such a treasure in a model from Hattie Carnegie. The dress is of soft nubby wool in a rich chocolate shade. It has a high neckline, wide shoulders and long, tight sleeves. The bolero is of sheared beaver, has pleated shoulders and wide three-quarter sleeves. With simple accessories, the suit would be grand as a travelling outfit.

50th Anniversary Of Hospital Is Commemorated

Commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the building of Nicholls Hospital, Women's Auxiliary Tea of Thursday afternoon was the first function held by the Auxiliary since its announcement of the drive for funds to purchase hospital equipment and furnishings. During the afternoon hundreds of ladies interested in the objective of the organization were received by the president, Mrs. J. G. Wharry, at whose home on 403 Monaghan Road the tea was held, and by Mrs. E. M. Leeson, superintendent of Nicholls Hospital.

A cheerful grate fire burning in the living room augmented the welcome extended to visitors by Mrs. S. J. Graham, Mrs. John Comstock, Mrs. N. Warrander and Mrs. R. Ross, and in the dining room, where the tea table was lit with white tapers in silver candelabras, and lovely with a low silver bowl of snapdragons, daffodils and freesia, Mrs. H. A. Morrow, Mrs. J. McCulloch, Mrs. Ivan Lillico, Mrs. H. M. Yelland, Mrs. F. M. Dela Fosse and Mrs. R. M. Waddell presided over the silver tea services. Assistant tea hostess were Mrs. D. T. Girl Guides Have Had Successful Year

A very successful meeting was held last evening by the members of the Mothers' Auxiliary, to the Girl Guides in the Lyceum Club room. Mrs. R. Whalon, District Captain, graciously welcomed the mothers, and introduced to them the new president, Mrs. F. W. Gray. In acknowledging the honor granted her by her election to the office of president, Mrs. Gray remarked that with the co-operation of every member, the coming year could not be other than a happy and gratifying one.

During the business meeting the retiring president, Mrs. M. Henry, occupied the chair. The annual report presented by the treasurer, Mrs. B. Ottewell, indicated a fine year of financial progress. Miss E. Dainard, secretary, tendered her resignation. During the evening reports were taken for the press by Mrs. J. Gray.

Before giving a review of Guide work activities for the year, Mrs. Whalon explained that the work of the Auxiliary could be more efficiently carried on if it were divided into four individual groups, one for each company, the whole to be known as the Local Association. Mrs. F. W. Grey was elected president of the groups.

Guider activities, Mrs. Whalon said, included attendance at three different churches in the city; at the Armistice Day parade; guiders were guests of the Legion Hall; two skating parties and two sleigh rides were enjoyed; the Catholic guides attended a Eucharistic congress at Sacred Heart Church; guiders were hostesses to Lindsay guides and scouts; a rummage sale was held, and a very successful cookie day. The guides were especially requested to be on hand during the parade on the day of Lord Tweedsmuir's visit to the city.

Tag days included the Humane Society; the Blind; the Canadian Legion, and both orphanages. The girl guides gave a theatre party for the orphanages, also.

Miss Irene Houghton reported a successful year for the Brownies, and Miss Mary Stewart thanked the mothers for their co-operation. Announcement was made that the Salvation Army Guides are now affiliated with the local guides, and a fine year of progress under the new ruling was reported.

Appreciation of the help given by mothers during the year was expressed by Mrs. Whalon, particularly for their assistance with refreshments and camp transportation. She asked that the girls give a one dollar registration fee towards camp activities, and stated that the fees would be forfeited for non-attendance at camp. This arrangement was decided upon because of continual disappointments and considerable unnecessary expense because of guiders who registered and did not attend.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by several of the girl guides.

The Philippines Government will launch several more industrial projects.

Rose of Jerico Native of Desert

The rose of Jerico or Resurrection plant is not mentioned in the Bible, though one of the books of the Apocrypha speaks of the "rose-plant in Jerico." The Standard Bible dictionary says this may possibly be the real rose, first introduced in Palestine probably during the persian or Greek era.

What is called today "rose of Jerico" is a homely crucifier, an Anastatica hierochuntina (writes a correspondent to the Detroit News, which in a moist atmosphere opens the petals of its corona and in a dry atmosphere closes them.

This plant is a native of the sandy deserts from Arabia and Syria to Algeria, is an annual and grows about six inches high. Soon after flowering the leaves fall off and the branches roll up into a ball that looks like wickerwork, and that contains the seeds or fruit.

Woman Lives In One Room

"Good health and prosperity." To the woman proposing this toast in the back bedroom of a cottage at Dewlish this year, means about 12 months of imprisonment in the tiny room that for 54 years has been her whole world, writes an English correspondent.

She is Miss Harriet Critchell, 85 years old. She was carried to her bed in March, 1884, with spinal trouble, and has not left the room since.

She sipped a glass of port while relatives crowding the room and overflowing into the next one, drank to her.

Each year for 54 years most of them have attended a birthday party in her bedroom to wish her happiness.

What more could they wish her? Health? It is too late for that, after half a century in bed. Wealth? That would be no good to her now.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Just get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a reliable "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life.

Pinkham's is WELL WORTH trying.

Trinity Church Raised $18,500 In 1938

The annual congregational meeting of Trinity United church was held on Monday evening with an excellent representation of the congregation present The ladies of the Women's Association served dinner.

Miss Isabel Duthie and Mac Gordon contributed solos which were much appreciated.

After the dinner was served the Rev. G. S. Easton took charge of the meeting and opened with devotional exercises. Mr. Easton gave a very fine review of the work of the church from the standpoint of the minister and offered some timely observations for future advancement. The membership showed an increase of 69 new members and the total resident membership now stands at 725.

Reports were presented covering every organization of the church from the treasurer of the official board to the mission band. Each report told its own story of work attempted and accomplished; of lives touched and helped; of faith and hope for the future. The total amount raised by all the organizations during the year amounted to $18,500.00, of which $5,664.00 was for missionary and benevolent causes. The contributions to the M. & M. Fund again exceeded the objective by a substantial sum.

W. G Morrow spoke words of appreciation for the choir; W. D. Campbell for the Women's Association; Harold Rehill for the platemen and ushers, and R. F. Downey for the Sunday school.

Those present expressed their appreciation of the work of Mr. and Mrs. Easton and all looked forward to another successful and happy year under the able leadership of their minister.

Hett Cancer Claims Are Investigated

TORONTO, Feb. 3 (CP).—A special commission appointed by the Ontario Government to investigate and report upon cancer treatments met in camera at Queen's Park today to consider claims of Dr. John R. Hett of Kitchener, Ont., that he had devised a treatment which had met with considerable success.

The commission, under the chairmanship of Mr. Justice John G. Gillanders, announced after the meeting it had heard a detailed explanation of his methods from Dr. Hett and later had heard evidence of several of Dr. Hett's patients who said they had benefitted from the treatment.

Cats Suffering From Influenza

An epidemic of influenza is rampant among the cat population of this city, and most of the animals affected by the ailment die within two days. The disease was first noticed in Oshawa where it swept the cats, and Humane Society officials destroyed every animal that became afflicted.

For the past two years the disease has given trouble to the members of the Peterborough Humane Society and Dr. Thomas Johnston reported today that an average of 35 cats a month have been destroyed because they were ill. Three months ago 56 animals were killed in one month. During 1938 Dr. Johnston's record reveal that 240 cats were done away with and the great percentage of these were afflicted with influenza.

Human Beings Immune.

The disease causes the animals to remain sitting or lying in one position, from which it is difficult to have them move, and usually they die on the third day. In other cases the head of the animal becomes covered with a skin affliction akin to eczema. The heads are actually a mass of tiny sores.

To date Dr. Johnston has taken no chances on having the disease spread from one animal to another but has immediately destroyed everyone brought to his attention. Last week he picked up eight cats in one day, and electrocuted all of them.

So far as can be learned the disease is not transferred to humans but is affecting only the cats.

OBITUARY

MICHAEL LAWRENCE FOLEY

The funeral of the late Michael L. Foley was held from 227 Antrim street to the Church of the Sacred Heart where Requiem Mass was sung by the pastor, Rev. J. J. O'Brien who also delivered a very appropriate address to the congregation present.

The children's choir of the Sacred Heart school assisted with the singing.

The floral tributes and spiritual offerings as well as the attendance at the funeral gave silent evidence of the esteem which deceased had enjoyed during his short life.

Interment took place in St. Peter's cemetery where Rev. J. C. Moloney conducted graveside services. Pallbearers were Lawrence Gordon, Joseph Jones, Henry Jones, Howard Bettes, Wilfred Heffernan and Frank Johnson.

ROBERT JOHN STEELE

The sudden death of Robert John Steele, 514 Park street, occurred in St. Joseph's hospital on Thursday. He was in his 74th year.

Born at Minden, Ontario, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert John Steele and had lived in the vicinity of that community practically all her life. His wife, formerly Abigail Jones, died nearly a year and a half ago.

Mr. Steele was a farmer all his life, was well known throughout the district in which he lived. He was a member of Minden United church.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. R. McClennan of Peterborough; and five sons, Arthur and Harold of Toronto, and Cecil, Roy, and Thomas of Minden.

The funeral service will be held on Sunday afternoon at Minden United church, Rev. Mr. Fleming officiating. Interment will be at Minden cemetery.

MRS. EDWARD RIGBY

The death of Mrs. Edward Rigby, 414 Water street, occurred at Nicholls hospital this morning after an illness that lasted about a month.

Mrs. Rigby was born Mary Elizabeth Rutland, in Stoke-on-Trent, Staffordshire, England, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Rutland. She had resided in Peterborough since 1924, coming here from England. She was a member of St. John's Anglican church.

Surviving are her husband and two sons, Sidney Rigby of Montreal, and Rev. Edward Rigby of Coboconk; also two brothers, Charles and Edward Rutland, in England; and two sisters, Florence and Ester Rutland, in England.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later. The remains are resting at the Funeral Home of A. Comstock and Sons, 305 Water steet.

MRS. T. P. COLLINS

Mrs. T. P. Collins, 437 Stewart street, died in St. Joseph's hospital on Thursday after an illness that lasted eleven weeks. She was in her 69th year.

Widely known in this community, and held in high esteem by countless friends, Mrs. Collins had lived all her life in this district. She was born Mary Hoolihan, daughter of the late Daniel Hoolihan and Bridget Angelesey, of Young's Point. She was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral and of the Altar Society and Catholic Women's League.

She was a widow of Thomas Patrick Collins, who operated a grocery store here for many years, and one of whose clerks was to become Senator F. P. O'Connor.

Mrs. Collins was known as a kindly woman who formed many and lasting friendships. Her church was always close to her heart and she worked for its good at all times.

Surviving are two daughters, Marita and Geraldine, both at home; and one son, William J., in Detroit. Also remaining are two sisters, Mrs. E. LeBarr of Peterborough and Mrs. F. M. Kelley of Chicago; and four brothers, Samuel Hoolihan and Edward Hoolihan, both of this city, and William Hoolihan and Thomas Hoolihan, both of Minnesota.

The funeral service will be held on Saturday morning from the late residence at 8.45 o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral where Solemn Requiem High Mass will be celebrated at 9 a.m. Interment will be at St. Peter's cemetery

Increase In Tax Rate For 1939 To Meet Strenuous Objection From Finance Chairman

"No matter what reports have been published about the city's estimated expenditure for this year, we are going to make an earnest endeavor to keep the tax rate down to last year's rate or lower," Alderman Cotton, chairman of the finance committee, declared to the Examiner today.

'I am speaking of course only for myself, but I feel certain all the members of the council feel the same way.

This is no year to bring more taxes on the people. The Board of Education is asking for an increase that amounts to half a mill. I'd like to see a new pumper for the fire department. No one supports the Department more consistently than I do. Then, the police are asking for radio equipment, and on top of everything there is the relief problem.

"If things are not necessary I think we should let them be for this year. In 1940 we are going to get rid of a lot of debentures, and we certainly hope conditions will be better, and we might be able to get some of the things we are talking about.

"In this connection, I'm expressing only my own idea, and I have no intention of trying to speak for the other members of the council."

Alderman Cotton intimated that he was going to put up strenuous resistance to any tax rate boost that might loom.

Ski Notes

The club jumping championship will be held tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon at Nassau, commencing at 2.30 p.m. We mean business this time. Crews have been working on the jump this week and it is now in first class condition.

We want a large gallery to see our experts "do their stuff." So, come out to Nassau tomorrow afternoon and bring your friends.

There will be skiing at Bethany on Sunday and if you have not been out there yet you've missed something. We have some of the finest slopes in Ontario for all types of skiers and we know you'll want to get an advance look at the hills where the Ontario provincial championship downhill and slalom events will be run next weekend. There is still some work to be done in preparation for this big meet so if you're asked to lend a hand please do your share.

Tonight Harry E. (Red) Foster will start telling the world, via radio, all about the provincial meet. You can do your share, too, by broadcasting the news to all your friends and relatives.

Campbellford Boys Trim Hastings 21-2

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 3—Displaying plenty of reason for their superiority, Campbellford juveniles ran wild when they clashed with Hastings in their opening game here last night. Ganging up on the Hastings' collection, the locals administered a 21 to 2 shellacking. The local's triumph was in no small way due to the coaching of Harold Dunk.

Plunging into the lead at the start of the game the winners had the score at 7 to 0 before Edwards counted for Hastings. O'Rourke, Thompson and Storie were the chief snipers for the Campbellford outfit, each getting credit for four goals. Lambert took second honors, tallying three, while McGregor and Fraser each counted twice and Moore and Milne getting the remaining two. Gowan netted the visitors second counter of the evening half way hrough the second stanza. The teams:

Hastings: Goal, West; defence, Faux, Scriver; centre, Turner; wings, Edwards, Wilson; alternates, Johnson, Brinklow, Gowans, Crowley, James Smith.

Hastings Bantams Drop Close Game

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 3—Coach Harold Dunk's Bantams won from Hastings' 5 to 4 in their first game in the Bantam O.H.A. series here last night.

Campbellford jumped into an early lead, Jack Smith getting the only counter in the initial period, which ended 1 to 0. Both teams played clean hockey with the locals carrying the game into Hastings territory during most of the game.

During the second period, Petticrew and Harrington counted for the visitors and Barton and Bartley tallied for the homesters, ending the period with the locals still in the lead.

During the dying moments of the final frame, Harrington managed to slip one past McComb to tie up the score, forcing the game into overtime. Bertrand and Dunk pushed the score up to 5-3 before Petticrew notched the final counter. Only the nice work of Neil McKenty, in the Hastings net, kept the final score down. Lefty McCoy, who handled the game, gave but two penalties during the contest. The teams:

Campbellford: Goal, E. McComb; defence, J. Coxwell, G. Runions; centre, Peloquin; wings, K. Dunk, D. Bartley; alternates, D. Free, L. Dunk, L. Farrell, J Smith.

Hastings: Goal, Neil McKenty; defence, Jim Petticrew, J. Harrington; centre, L. Petticrew; alternates, S. McKenty, V. Galvin, M. Nelson, G. Scriver.

War Far Away Dr. Barr Tells Y's Men's Club

"It is my considered opinion that war is about as far away as it possibly can be," was the amazing statement made last night by Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, addressing the Y's Men's Club members at their dinner meeting in the Y.M.C.A. "I would say that we will not have a war for at least ten years to come," he said.

Dr. Barr based his assertion on Germany's lack of raw materials and the control by democracies of the great majority of the world's gold supply. England, the United States, and France hold 77 per cent of the world's gold bullion, he said. Germany, faced with a shortage of raw materials even in peace time, would, in event of war, be forced to borrow money from the very powers against whom she was fighting, he pointed out. "That is a fact about which we are rather kept in the dark," he said. "We need not be afraid of war at all."

So far from war is the world today, that Germany's next step will be, in his opinion, to borrow money from Great Britain in order to save her economic equilibrium. And it was his belief that such a loan will be made by Great Britain when Hitler asks for it—not from fear, but in an attempt to ease Germany's strain.

Should another war come, it was his belief that Italy will be on the side of Great Britain and France rather than on the side of Germany. His opinion was that another war would see much the same alliances as in the Great War, for "Germany has always been the bad boy of Europe," and as such she would be isolated by other nations. Italy's relations with Great Britain show definite signs of becoming more cordial, as was revealed in Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's latest radio address, he said.

Lauds Neville Chamberlain

He paid glowing tribute to the ability of the British Prime Minister. "The policy of appeasement of Neville Chamberlain is one of the greatest diplomatic feats the world has ever seen," he said, and in his opinion Chamberlain "is one of Great Britain's most able prime ministers."

During the course of his address Dr. Barr analysed the speech this week by Chancellor Hitler, stating that it had been worded with consideration both for its possible effect on the German people and on other nations of the world. "When Hitler speaks, he has one eye on the German people, the other on the rest of the world."

Full of veiled suggestions, without a single concrete demand, it was in his opinion a speech calculated to keep the spirits of the German people high, without arousing antipathy in other lands—a speech good for both home and foreign consumption.

Dr. Barr defended Great Britain's policy of non-intervention in Spain with the assertion that a Loyalist victory would mean a wiping out of religion in that country. Had Chamberlain intervened, he might possibly have brought about a general Euopean war, might have forced Great Britain into alliance with the very forces that are attempting to bring about the destruction of the church. The church, he said, stands for democracy. With its fall will come the fall of democracy, as in countries where democracy has fallen, so also has the church. He believed that a policy of non-intervention was the only one possible to Chamberlain in view of those facts.

Dr. Barr was introduced to the club by G. H. Roper, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A., and Bill Taylor moved a vote of thanks. President James Goldie was in the chair.

Automobile Has Left Far Behind Sentiment Of Opposition Which Once Greeted It

The automobile has left far behind the sentiment of opposition which first greeted it. A reminder of the spirit of resentment that was almost universally aroused when the horseless carriages first appeared on the highways is found in the following resolution adopted by the council of the village of Omemee on March 3rd 1908: "Moved by Councillor William Cottingham and seconded by Councillor Robert W. Wilson and resolved, that this council views with alarm the frequent and increasing passage to and fro over the public roads of the municipality by automobiles at an excessive rate of speed and the consequent increased liability to accidents caused by same in the frightening of horses and otherwise, that therefore this council hereby protest against the use of public roads by said automobiles, deeming same to be a public nuisance and detrimental to the interests of the farming community, both financially and otherwise, and further that this resolution be engrossed in duplicate and one copy of same forwarded to J. H. Carnegie, the Member for this riding for presentation to the Legislative Assembly, now in session, with the request that legislation be introduced to prohibit the use of said automobiles on the public highways of this province."

CAMPBELLFORD

Case Is Diagnosed As Scarlet Fever

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 3.—"Only one case may be definitely diagnosed as scarlet fever" declared Dr. F. de F. Free when questioned by the Examiner regarding the present "epidemic". "A second case is being treated as scarlet fever but reports that there are as many as 12 are entirely false." Classing the present as a "sporadic" outbreak the M.O.H. stated "nearly every year there is a case here and there and we are trying to locate the source of the infection." Since neither of the present cases could be traced to the schools it is not likely they will be closed "but if conditions grow any worse we would consider taking aetion."

Millbrook Church Wipes Off Note Ends Year With A Balance

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 3. — Rev. A. L. Sisco took the chair for the annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's United Church held on Wednesday evening. A meeting of the Session preceding the public gathering.

In his report the minister mentioned especially his appreciation of the harmony and co-operation which had been accorded him, and which had prevailed throughout the entire year in all organizations of the church. Four baptisms, as against two the previous year; seven weddings, with four in 1937; and 11 funerals, while there had been 21 the year before, were figures given preceding the request to stand while the list of those called home during the year was read.

Dr. A. Jemison, clerk of the Session, presented the report from that body, the union prayer services of the three local churches in January; the two anniversaries, that of the Senior Men's Bible Class and of the church, in May and October respectively; with outstanding preachers; also the Sunday School anniversary, and the fact that the young people and the teacher of the men's class, F. L. Edworthy, had supplied the pulpit during the pastor's holidays; the fine service given by the junior and senior choirs, with their leaders, Mrs. M. McDowell and Mrs. H. W. Johnston, and the organist, Miss E. L. Hetherington; the three Communion services of the year, with 210 communicants at Easter, the largest number since Union, and 163 as the average on Communion Sunday in the twelve months; the participation in the Christian Fellowship Crusade last fall when members of the Session visited every family connected with the church; distributing cards with subjects for prayer and meditation; the new Communion table purchased as a fitting memorial to the late Rev. Joseph and Mrs. Wilks; the new carpet for the altar and pulpit platform; and the congratulations extended to the pastor on the completion of his course for the degree of Bachelor of Theology at the Auburn Theological Seminary, N.Y., were among the points stressed.

Pay Off $300 Note.

The treasurer's report was given by G. E. Burnham, showing total receipts of $3,491.02; expenditures, $3,422.49, balance on hand of $69.53; a note of $300 had been paid off during the year, and the bequest from the late Mrs. Wilks' estate had been $980.95. From the weekly envelopes the givings had been $1,300.58.

Mrs. J. McKnight reported for the Woman's Association, which had held 10 regular and 5 special meetings, had 57 on the roll, and raised a total of $631.77; expenditures, $520.98, and from the balance on hand had that day voted $100 to the Committee of Stewards, leaving a small amount in the bank.

W. F. Fallis spoke for the Sunday School which had 21 teachers and officers, and an enrollment of 206; 18 awards had been given for scholars not missing a Sunday, and the verses memorized were nearly four times those learned in the previous year; attendance was slightly better when the school meets in the afternoon than in the mornings, which is during the summer months; over $205 was spent for papers and lesson helps, and both the temperance and missionary departments had functioned effectively.

Ernest Powell gave the financial report of the school, showing total raised $365.69, expenses $309.50, balance $20.20. From this, however, some accounts had been paid, including the Book Room in Toronto, leaving a clean sheet, but reducing the amount in the bank considerably.

Leadership Training was outlined by Miss E. L. Hetherington, who told of a successful school held last spring at Centreville, with 40 to 50 enrolled, 23 receiving credits, and one pupil, Mrs. Howard Brackenridge, completing the course and having her diploma. The local class under Rev. A. L. Sisco will begin next Monday evening, and several other points report classes started, with another school in prospect for March.

An interesting story of activities for the Y.P.U. was brought by B. B. Dawson, with 31 regular meetings, 53 enrolled, and an average of 31 each week. Ten dollars had been given the M. and M. Fund, all four departments had functioned with marked success, and first place in the Presbytery, with Class A rating, had been achieved with the religious drama, "Joseph of Aramithea"; three pictures, shown on the east wall of the school room, had been won at the district picnic in three successive years, as evidence of the physical side of the work; a sunrise service had been held on Easter Sunday morning, delegates had been at the Oak Lake camp last summer; and the annual banquet had also been a helpful undertaking. Total receipts $114.05, expenditures $107.87, including $30 to the church funds, balance $6.18.

W.M.S. Raises Allocation.

For the W.M.S. Mrs. Ross Edmunds brought a report, telling of 12 regular meetings, with an average of 25; two thankoffering meetings with special speaker in the spring; observance of the World Day of Prayer in association with the other two Auxiliaries of the village; 34 annual members, 22 life members; allocation of $200 raised plus the required increase, $205 being remitted to the Presbyterial treasurer; $420 was a bequest from the estate of the late Mrs. Wilks, and this had been sent to headquarters at Toronto.

The Golden Links Mission Circle had a successful year as told by the president, Miss Phyllis Kidd; the full amount of the allocation, $50, had been raised plus the increase asked, and $51 sent to the Presbyterial treasurer. Eleven meetings had been held, with an average of 11; a picnic had proved an enjoyable outing at the home of the former president, Mrs. H. Brackenridge, and an evening gathering with the Auxiliary had also been helpful.

Mrs. Percy Stinson brought the story of the Mission Band, which had 20 members, with an average of 16; total raised $25. The pastor reported a total church membership of 446; 15 new members in 1938; and through deaths and removals, a loss of 94.

Messrs. J. H. George and H. A. Earle were promoted from the Session to life members of that body, both being in ill-health, but having given years of faithful service. W. E. Ball, J. L. Byam, and George Patterson, whose term had expired after five years, were re-elected for the same period of time, and J. McKnight and W. H. Coombe elected to take the place of the two made honorary members. The Board of Stewards was elected as follows: P. I. Bentley, F. L. Edworthy, T. Douglas, B. B. Dawson, W. A. O'Brian, W. C. Fallis, W. Elson, A. J. Henderson, G. E. Burnham, and P. Stinson.

The congregation stood while tribute was paid to the memory of the late recording steward, W. G. Hetherington, who had filled that office since 1894; and a committee, Dr. Jemison, W. O'Brian, P. I. Bentley, and Rev. A. L. Sisco, was appointed to draft a resolution, and make fitting record on the church minute book. W. F. Fallis was appointed delegate to the Ontario Temperance Federation convention at Toronto in March, and Mr. Stinson took the chair while the pastor left the room, and a resolution was rescinded that previously had been placed on the church books demanding a vote at the end of a five-year pastorate whether the congregation wished a continuance of the pastor in charge or not. The vote was unanimous.

Following the benediction, lunch was served by the W.A. and a social hour enjoyed.

TRENT RIVER

A meeting of the Ladies' Aid was called for Wednesday afternoon at the church, but owing to the road conditions there was a small attendance, business was left over for more favorable weather.

The many friends of Mrs. John Free will regret to hear of her serious illness and hope for her a good recovery.

Miss Eva McCormick, of Peterborough, is a visitor at home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Johnston, "Cedar Lodge."

The Young People's meeting was held Friday night with Miss Florence Shearer as convener.

President Roosevelt Celebrates 57th Birthday

Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, waves from a box at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, ABOVE, during the birthday ball held in celebration of the President's 57th birthday. Similar birthday balls were held in all parts of the United States, the proceeds of which will be used in the fight to stamp out infantile paralysis. The President himself, appearing hale and hearty, is pictured, to LEFT, as he broadcast his thanks to those who are aiding in the infantile paralysis campaign.

Foreigners Warned Off Lushan Mt.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 3—(AP).—Japanese warned foreign consuls today they planned an immediate offensive against Lushan Mountain and advised that the 65 foreigners there be evacuated before Feb. 10.

The foreigners, including 37 Britons, are at Kuling, Chinese summer resort on top of the mountain, which is 14 miles south of Kiukiang, Yangtse River below Hankow.

The Japanese offered to aid in the evacuation and warned that the foreigners who remain will do so at "their own risk since the Japanese cannot be responsible for damages or injuries." The Japanese spokesman estimated the foreigners at Kuling included 37 Britons, 12 American, nine Germans and seven of other nationalities.

Five Russians Slain In Border Clash

TOKYO, Feb. 3—(AP). — Domei (Japanese News Agency) reported to-day from Hsinking, capital of Manchoukuo, that a Manchoukuo garrison had killed five Soviet Russian soldiers and wounded three in a clash 60 miles north-east of Manchuli.

(Manchuli, on the north-west border of Manchoukuo, is that point at which the railroad across Siberia reaches Manchoukuo.)

Domei said officials had protested to the Soviet consulate at Harbin. The agency said authorities reported a force of 100 Russians crossed the frontier but that the Manchoukuo force suffered no casualties.

The foreign office here said it had fragmentary reports of a "minor incident." The war ministry disclaimed knowledge of any border clash.

WOMEN'S LINGERIE STOLEN.

WINDSOR.— A thief who steals only women's lingerie is plaguing residents of an apartment block here. Ten times during the past several weeks he has broken into the drying room of the apartment and stolen women's underclothes.

Finds Happiness Though Legless

LONDON, Feb. 3 — (CP). — A brilliant surgeon who had his own legs amputated and then wrote, for the benefit of the medical profession, a scientific analysis of his 15 years' sufferings, is dead—Dr. E. B. Waggett, 72, for many years consulting surgeon to the throat and ear department of Charing Cross Hospital.

Dr. Waggett described in the British Medical Journal four years ago, in one of the most remarkable documents ever published by a medical man, how he regained happiness and efficiency after having his legs amputated above the knees.

In minute scientific detail he recorded his reactions to the "intolerable pain" which had impelled him to take this bold decision, analyzing its effects on his mind as a psychologist would read the reactions of a subject. He called his document "Criteria of Intolerable Pain," and divided his "agony" into three degrees, one of which he compared to the torture rack.

Four Get 5 Years For Bank Holdup

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 3—(CP).—Four persons to-day were sentenced to terms of five years in Kingston penitentiary on charges of armed robbery and of conspiring to rob the Imperial Bank at Fergus when they appeared before Magistrate Watt in police court to-day. The sentences will run concurrently with each other and with short terms for stealing a car and having possession of revolvers.

The four are Stephen Ringwald, 20, R.R. 6, Guelph; Harold Harvey, 21, Guelph; Walter Wolski, 21, Guelph; and Harold Bard, 24, Guelph. They were arrested by Guelph police after a chase last December when the quartet robbed a Galt taxi driver of $3 and left him stranded on the Guelph-Hespeler highway.

Proud Texas Papa Names His Quadruplets Then Begins Wondering Which Is Which

GALVESTAN, Tex., Feb. 3 (AP) Proud papa W. E. Badgett, 35, a little stunned but happy about being the father of Texas' first quadruplet girls, named his daughters and wondered today who was who.

The babes, alike as peas in a pod, were named Joyce, Jeanette, Joan and Geraldine.

Joyce weighs three pounds 13 ounces; Jeanette three pounds 14 ounces; Joan three pounds 14 ounces, and Geraldine, four pounds 9½ ounces.

Papa Badgett, a construction foreman, admitted it would be troublesome to pick them up and weigh them every time he wanted to know which was which.

Doctors watched them closely and said apparently the four were in excellent condition now that they all have undergone blood transfusions. The 36-year-old mother, too, was reported doing well.

A Hacking, Racking Persistent Cough

The constant hacking, racking, persistent cough that sticks to you in spite of everything you do to get rid of it is the kind that is dangerous to neglect.

The longer the cough sticks, the more serious menace it becomes to your health.

But, there is a remedy to relieve coughs—coughs that won't let go. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is that remedy..

It has a healing and soothing action on the air passages, and acts as a disinfectant of the respiratory organs, destroying the germs that may produce serious complications.

BORN

POTTER.—At Private Patients' Pavilion, Toronto General Hospital, on Thursday, February 2, to Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Potter, a daughter.

DIED

COLLINS, Mrs. T. P.—At St. Joseph's Hospital, on Thursday, February 2, 1939, Mary Hoolihan, widow of Thomas Patrick Collins, in her 69th year. Funeral on Saturday morning at 8.45 o'clock from the late residence at 437 Stewart street, to St. Peter's Cathedral, where Solemn Requiem High Mass will be celebrated at 9 o'clock. Interment at St. Peter's Cemetery.

RIGBY, Mrs. Edward.—On Friday, February 3, 1939, at Nicholls Hospital, Mary Elizabeth Rutland, beloved wife of Edward Rigby, 414 Water street. The remains are resting at the Funeral Home of A. Comstock and Sons, 305 Water street. Funeral announcements later.

IN MEMORIAM

FIELD.—In loving memory of Mrs. W. R. Field, who passed away eight years ago today.

Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory fond and true,
Just a token of affection
And a heartache still for you.
More and more each day we miss you,
Though our thoughts are not revealed,
Little do they know the sorrow
That is within our hearts concealed.
—Ever remembered by Husband and Family.

IRWIN.—In loving memory of W. J. (Bill) Irwin, who died February 2, 1937.

The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near.
And only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
More each day we miss you, father,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within our hearts concealed.
—Ever lovingly remembered by Wife (Mrs. Adeline Irwin), Lorraine, Jack, Joyce, Reginald and Wilhemine.

CARDS OF THANKS

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

With a majority of 21 points, the Peterborough curlers defeated the Lindsay club in the annual competition for the "Lindsay-Peterboro" Cup.

At Peterboro the games were good, especially the Groves-Clegg affair finishing all square. The Williams-Hamley game was also listed as a well played game. The other two were just a little one-sided.

Up at Lindsay our club was represented by three of the younger skips and they did a job well when they finished up 2 points—"Chatter" Robertson, "Tankard" Thomas and "Dr." Green being the skips.

At the conclusion of the games here light refreshments were served in the club parlors.

The schedule will conclude to-night with a double header, 7 and 9 p.m.

And we are announcing another 'spiel to-morrow. Everything the same as usual, beginning at 1.45 p.m.

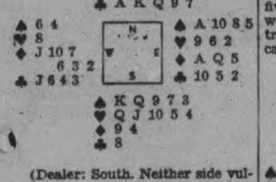
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

GOOD IDEAS OVERDONE

SHADING THE HIGH card strength required for an opening bid, if you happen to have very fine suit lengths, is a good idea if you don't carry it too far. Like all good ideas, this one is frequently overdone, resulting in unfortunate business doubles by your partner or in his raising you to games and slams which can not be made, just because he thinks you have the honor strength which your opening bid indicates.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

After the play of this deal was over, South explained that his opening bid of 1-Spade was due to the fact that he feared a game might be lost if the deal was passed out. The others pointed out to him that it was almost impossible to shuffle and deal the remaining thirty-nine cards so that nobody would have a compulsory opening bid. All of the minor suit honors were out, plus the spade A and heart A and K. The betting would be about 40 to 1 somebody would open it.

North answered South's 1-Spade with a force of 3-Clubs. South then bid 3-Hearts and, since the pair was using no artificial slam conventions, North very soundly leaped to 6-Hearts. West's lead of the diamond J set the contract two tricks.

Had South passed at the start, North would have bid 1-Club, South 1-Spade, North 2-Hearts, South 4-Hearts, North 5-Hearts (at least he said he would not have bid six) and South would have passed. Against a heart slam played in the North, East would of course take his two aces, but against only five-odd, any likely lead by him would probably result in an over-trick, with South's diamonds discarded on the clubs.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

With the heart 6 led against South's no trump game, how should East play in an effort to set the contract two tricks?

Offer Is Withdrawn

SMITHFIELD, Ont., Feb. 3 (CP).—E. A. Collins, living at Copper Cliff, heard that Smithfield, his native hamlet, needed a new school. He offered to give $15,000 for the purpose.

After much argument a site was chosen. North end objections that its children would have to walk too far were overcome and an approach was made to buy the property selected. But when the owners of the site heard of the school proposal, land values took a sudden jump. More argument.

Rather than prolong the feuding, Mr. Collins withdrew his offer.

New War Crisis Is Feared Over Colonies

by RUSSELL F. ANDERSON
Central Press Canadian Correspondent
Copyright—1939

LONDON, Feb. 3—The "colonial question" today is forcing the British

Malcolm MacDonald

The Nazi State in cold and no uncertain terms has made it clear that she wants returned to her the colonies that were taken away during the World War. Empire and the German Reich towards what is believed will be the greatest showdown in post-war history.

Great Britain, present possessor of the majority of the desired mandates, has flatly declared she will not hand over any of the territories.

Thus today both nations are plunging towards a showdown that may conceivably only find settlement in war.

Showdown Inevitable

International political observers do not expect the diplomatic clash until later in the year—but all admit it is inevitable unless either country changes policy.

Chancellor Hitler apparently intends to remain firm in his attitude that "the demand for colonies will ever and ever again be raised."

Against Hitler's declaration stands that of Malcolm MacDonald, English colonial and dominions secretary, who has epitomized the Empire's stand in a House of Commons' speech:

'I do not believe that there is today any section of opinion in this country which is disposed to hand over to any other country the care of any of the territories or peoples for whose government we are responsible either as a colonial or mandatory power."

Historical Background

What has taken place in history that gives Germany the "right" to demand the return of colonies—and Britain the "right" to say no.

By the Treaty of Versailles, ending the World War, Germanys colonies were wrested from her, the Allied leaders asserting that the pre-war Reich was unfit to govern territorial possessions.

The disposition of the German colonial empire was announced May 7, 1919, by the "big three"—Clemenceau, Wilson, and Lloyd George—and the Reich lost Togoland, the Cameroons, German East Africa, German Southwest Africa, and a group of island possessions.

The American war-time president was the lone dissenter to the act. It was Wilsons idea that:

"The German colonies should be declared the common property of the League and administered by small nations. The resources should be available to all members of the League . . . the world will be intolerable if only territorial arrangements ensues."

The other powers brushed aside the American president's suggestion, and proceeded to partition the colonies among themselves and to draw up "mandates" governing their administration. The United States stood aside and took no part in this action.

The German government protested, asserting that the colonial division was "in irreconcilable" to the "fourteen points." (The pledged basis of the Armistice) which had promised "free, open-minded and absolutely impartial adjustments of all colonial claims."

Immediately afterwards the German government began starting agitation that the colonies had been unlawfully confiscated. With the advent of Chancellor Hitler, and his propaganda-building leaders, the situation was sky-rocketed to its present world importance.

Factors Behind Agitation

As Hitler thunders for the return of the colonies, international political observers, believe he is motivated by two forces:

1: Prestige—It is inconceivable in the minds of German leaders that small nations, like Portugal, Belgium, and Holland, should have great colonial empires while Germany stands without overseas territory.

2: Economic Need—The Reich insists that they need sources of supply where they can buy goods with marks instead of having first to change their investments into foreign currencies.

This is now the issue over which Germany demands settlement.

Supervises Order

Major J. R. Adams is seen here as he arrived in Glendale, Calif., from New York to oversee building of an order of bombers for the British government. Squadron leader of the Royal Air Force, he had been in New York as an investigator of the Cavalier flying boat crash.

Check Profits For Next War

Discussing the duty of Parliament in a future war he thought it might be asked to delegate a part of its day-to-day work to a number of large committees containing representatives of the various political parties, the House to meet as a whole three or four times a year to discuss reports of these committees.

He suggested legislation should be adopted which would take the profit out of war. By this he meant no one should come out of a war richer than he went in.

"This could be achieved," he said, "by assessing the value of undertakings at the outbreak of war on the basis of the information available to the Revenue Department and by insisting that nobody should be better off at the end of the war than at the beginning. Hardships would arise in the case of businesses just about to expand but no man would have cause for complaint if he found himself at the end of the war as well off as he was at the beginning."

Small Car Maker Doomed By Tax

OTTAWA, Feb. 3—(CP).—Unless the three per cent excise tax is removed from automobile parts as well as from automobiles or some other reduction in costs is provided, at least two of the smaller automobile manufacturers likely will cease production in Canada, J. L. Stewart, general manager of the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce, said here yesterday.

Mr. Stewart was spokesman for a delegation representing the three big automobile manufacturers, General Motors, Ford and Chrysler, and several parts manufacturers, which conferred with Hector B. McKinnon, commissioner of tariff, regarding the position of the industry in respect to the new trade agreement with the United States.

While the agreement provided for Canada removing the three per cent excise tax from automobiles, the same provision had not been made regarding parts up to the present, although it was hoped that provision would be made by finance minister Dunning in his budget address, Mr. Stewart said.

Unless the smaller manufacturers were given some such reduction in costs, their position under the new trade treaty would be untenable and they would have little alternative to withdrawing from manufacture in Canada, he said.

300 Fight Flaming 90,000 Cords Of Pulp

BEAUPRE, Que., Feb. 3 (CP). — Nearly 300 fire-fighters continued today to battle a blaze in a 90-000-cord pulpwood pile in the yards of St. Anne Paper Company mill here.

The fire broke out yesterday near the middle of the big stack of wood reaching 150 feet high and standing almost 50 feet from the four-storey brick paper mill.

Fighting the flames that burned fiercely were firemen from Quebec City, 25 miles up the St. Lawrence River from this town, and nearby Ste. Anne de Beaupre, famed shrine village.
